At 8.30 o'clock this morning on the barracks parade grounds a muster parade of the 80th. Battalion was held at which every man received a copy of the New Testament and a devotional booklet from his own religious denomination. After the testaments had been presented, Mayor H. F. Ketcheson presented a prayer book obtained from the Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario by the Chaplain of the Battalion, Capt. Ketcheson, to every soldier belonging to the Church of England numbering in all 507 men. Following this presentation a neat packet containing an attractive booklet was presented to each of the remaining soldiers, other than Roman Catholics, the latter being looked after by their church and receiving tokens of good will to carry with them. The booklets for the soldiers, other than Anglicans and Roman Catholics were obtained from the Rev. T. Albert Moore by the Military Y.M.C.A.

Squeeze Play on Meat

(Family Herald & Weekly Star)

When the Government put Price Control into force it set a price ceiling on meat, but not on cattle. There were two reasons for this. First it would have been complicated to set prices for all classes and qualities of cattle, in all markets, under all conditions of day to day scarcity of surplus. Second, there was political danger in telling farmers outright that the price of their cattle was rigidly limited.

It was felt that the ceiling on meat would work back to cattle and automatically regulate their price within narrow limits. Retail butchers and packers would have to work on the narrowest possible profit margins in order to compete for the cattle coming on the market.

For a while it worked fairly well, although it has caused more trouble than most of the ceilings, but now the squeeze has got us so tight that something has burst.

The packers say they have been paying so much for cattle and getting so little for meat that this business meant loss instead of profit. They say they have had enough, that in future they will only pay for cattle those prices which will enable them to sell at a profit under the ceiling.

Farmers, naturally enough don't see it! They are skeptical about the "losses" packers have taken. They don't want to take lower prices for their cattle and they don't have to. So they hold back their cattle, — something they are perfectly justified in doing. No other industry is compelled to sell at a price it thinks unfair, although all industries are forbidden to sell above their ceiling. Many industries have switched from product to product and concentrated on manufacturing and selling the one where the ceiling gave them most profit.

Farmers cannot switch to any extent, so their only alternative is to refrain from selling.

If the packers can really show losses in their 1945 balance sheet, and if farmers really will not raise cattle for the prices the packers will pay, the whole meat problem is right in the lap of the Government.

Unless it adopts Socialism so wholeheartedly that it is ready to "collectivize" the farms and send mounted police to expropriate the cattle, it seems to have little alternative except to raise prices.

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

Creating Understanding With Russia

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

Winston Churchill calls for a faithful understanding with Russia through the United Nations to avoid war and urges the English-speaking world and the western democracies of Europe to move together in creating true fellowship with the Soviet Union.

Few will disagree with Churchill for, as he adds, "Only in this way can catastrophe be avoided." However, when we sit down to figure out ways and means of creating fellowship with Russia we encounter difficulties.

The first obstacle is that it takes two to make a friendship, and that it involves at least a modicum of agreement on things which matter. There are as many points of disagreement between the western Allies on the one hand and the Russian on the other as there are seeds in a pomegranate.

Ministers' Conference

The trend of the Big Four Conference of Foreign Ministers in Paris is a good indication. The conferees have been unable to agree on any major point of the European peace treaties, and as a result State Secretary Byrnes has proposed that the drafting of these pacts be shifted to a 21-nation conference in Paris.

The division of opinion has been between Russia and the Anglo-American pair, with France frequently trying to hold the balance between them. There has been a similar clash of viewpoints in the Security Council of U. N.

Most of the differences arise from two main sources: ideology, and the tremendous turnover in the European spheres of influence of the great powers.

Vacuum Created by Axis Disappearance

The dangers in the realignment of spheres of influence have been emphasized in this column before. A tremendous vacuum has been created in Europe by the disappearance of Germany and Italy as powers. That vacuum must be filled, and Russia is surging into it. Britain finds her position both on the continent and in the Mediterranean heavily challenged.

The great changes have been accompanied by vast secrecy. That naturally has created violent suspicions — and suspicions are breeders of trouble. Report has it in Paris that the United States and Britain have been considering the idea of insisting that Russia lift the lid of secrecy from eastern Europe so that the rest of the world can get a look. One wonders just what good that would do, for we know we should find that Moscow has consolidated the whole of that vast area, and the Balkans clear down as far as Greece and Turkey, into the Red sphere of influence.

That's a fait accompli.

Their Excellencies Will Visit Windsor And Hamilton

Ottawa, May 9 (CP) — The Governor General and Viscountess Alexander will visit Windsor, Ont., on Friday, June 28 and will be present at the triennial convention of the Canadian Women's Press Club to be held that evening, Government House announced Wednesday.

At Toronto on Saturday, June 29 they will attend the annual meeting of the Canadian Authors' Association at which His Excellency will present the Governor General's annual literary awards.

They will pay an official visit to Hamilton, Ont., July 1 and will leave that evening for a tour of the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.

Readers addressing letters to Dr. Brady will please include the word "Canada" on their return envelopes, as these letters have to be forwarded to Dr. Brady. And it is requested that readers use standard size envelopes that will hold a small booklet

NOW ABOUT THAT MURMUR

A mother says the doctor told her that her two-year-old grandson's heart has a "flutter"— the boy seems healthy enough but his parents are worried and they try to keep the active baby quiet.

Parents of a high school boy in his early 'teens are worried about his baseball playing, because a doctor said the boy has a "murmur."

These are typical of many queries. It may be that the doctor really said what these correspondents tell me he said. From my experience in practice, however, I doubt that the doctor left it at that.

If a doctor is reliable at all he will not fail to give his opinion as to the significance of the "flutter", "murmur" or other unusual sound he hears when he listens to the heart. It may be necessary to examine the patient not just once, but several times at intervals of days or weeks, to determine what if anything the murmur or flutter signifies.

It is not always easy to distinguish between "functional" and "organic" murmurs, says Mackenzie's "Diseases of the Heart." A "functional" murmur means a murmur produced by some other cause than valvular or other heart disease; and an "organic" murmur is one produced by valvular disease as a rule.

If it was not easy for the great Mackenzie to tell how to distinguish between these murmurs, perhaps I had better not try to do so.

If I had a heart murmur or flutter I wouldn't worry much about the mere sound of it. As long as my circulation seemed adequate for my requirements, I'd carry on. But if some half—some doctor examined me, say for life insurance or for military service, and informed I had a flutter or a murmur and let it go at that I'd probably kick him in the chin, if he seemed very feeble and weak. On the other hand, if he said: "I believe I hear a flutter or murmur here—you had better obtain your physician's advice about it" —I'd feel grateful.

It is fairly common to hear a murmur accompanying the first heart sound (contraction or systole) in young persons who have nothing more than anemia.

Mackenzie watched "numbers of healthy young people who had heart murmurs grow up into manhood and womanhood and lead healthy and vigorous lives, and never show the slightest sign of heart failure."

So you have a murmur? Well, if you can run up a couple flights of stairs, or run at moderate speed a half mile or even run around the block without getting more winded than a healthy individual would, who cares?

It's the efficiency of your heart and circulation, not the sounds it makes, that is important.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Tin is Not Poisonous

If tin from the can gets in the food when you are opening the can, will it cause stomach ulcers or other harm? (A. S.)

Answer—No. Tin is not poisonous. If you accidentally swallow a piece of tin, eat plenty of potato, banana, and all salad greens for the next two or three meals—do this if a child swallows any sharp object—it will form a coating of fibres around the object and facilitate its natural passage through the bowel. Do not take or give physic.

Riboflavin

Leading physician suffered from gradually increasing eye inflammation, could not stand the light. His eyes became ulcerated. Specialists gave him no relief. Finally a medical friend suggested riboblavin (vitamin B2). Two injections of this and in a week the physician was back at work with his eyes normal. Please comment on this. (J. J. H.)

Answer—Interesting and perhaps true.

Who Will Pay the Freight?

You may send me your literature on iodine. (L. J. A.)

Answer—Why, thank you, sir! But alas, there is the freight to pay. If you mean you want Instructions for Taking an Iodin Ration, please say so and inclose stamped self addressed envelope.

Youth Killed by Car At Murray Mine

Sudbury, May 9 (CP)—Struck by a car on the 1,500-foot level of Murray Mine, 22-year-old Frank Coutts of Sudbury was instantly killed at four a.m. today. A veteran of the Royal Canadian Navy, Coutts had been employed at a diamond drill helper.

He had only been working for three weeks. He came to Sudbury April 1 from his home at Unity, Sask.

He was drilling and was struck down by the passing ore car. He suffered severe head injuries.

HANDS TRAFFIC COP STEERING WHEEL

Salt Lake City, May 9 —(AP) —Traffic Policeman J. H. Simonsen saw an automobile veer from one side of the street to the other before screeching to a halt a foot from a parked car. "What's the trouble?" Simonsen asked as he approached. "I don't know, but here it is," replied the driver as she handed him the steering wheel.

COULDN'T FIND A TAILOR

Atlantic Sity, N.J., May 8 (AP)—The Amalgamated Clothing Workers' (C.I.O.) publicity man, Richard Rohman, still was a bit red-faced today because he had to call on a hotel valet to repair a torn suit. The jacket of his suit was ripped last night and though there are 1,250 delegates—most of them expert tailors—attending the union's convention none could be found to do a bit of sewing.

SERIOUS CRIMES INCREASE

Washington, May 8 (AP) — J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, yesterday disclosed serious crimes in the United States increased 21.9 per cent during the first three months of 1946 compared with the same period of 1945. Mr. Hoover told a reporter robberies jumped 46.7 per cent, murder 38.4 per cent, automobile thefts 33.3 and burglaries 26.8.

THE ROBIN'S CALL

I hear you, robin, I hear you,
Up in the apple tree,
Your chirp and cheery whistle
"Cheer-ee! Cheer-up! Cheer-ee!"
And I'll follow your call, dear robin,
Back o'er a winding way,
That leads to an old-time garden with purple lilacs gay.

And there again I'll listen
As you sing on the maple bough
I'll go down the lane to the old log barn,
Your nest I can see it now;
And then away you are calling
To the paths of the fragrant wood,
Where we plucked the flowers of springtime
And life seemed fair and good.

The road is long, dear robin,
But I'm following as you sing
The long road, the white road
That leads to a distant spring,
For the song that you are singing
Up in the apple tree,
Is the voice of childhood calling
Across the years to me.
—Helen B. Anderson.

The work on the new Anglican Church in Hillier is progressing favorably. The old church that had stood on this pleasant site, was destroyed by fire when about to celebrate its centennial.

The members of Hillier guild were pleasantly entertained at the Rectory, Wellington, on Wednesday. Mrs. Grant, the hostess, in her usual happy manner gave a hearty welcome to all.

Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Leavens are leaving Hillier to reside in the village of Wellington where Mr. Leavens has purchased a home.

The May meeting of Melville Ladies' Aid was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Root with an attendance of ten. Mrs. Douglas Palmer, a recent bride, was a welcome guest.

Mother's Day will be observed in Melville United Church on Sunday when Rev. Mr. Tiller will unveil the honor roll containing the names of those who served in the recent war.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Clapp, who have spent several years in Toronto, have returned to their home in Hillier. Their many friends are pleased to welcome them.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Everall and son Ronald, whose home was destroyed by fire recently, have found a temporary home in the school house in Gilead, this having been closed for school purposes since the section entered the Wellington Consolidated School area.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Stevenson and children, Kingston, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Young, Gilead.

Queen Elizabeth is "Admirable Model" Says Portrait Painter

London, May 9 —(Reuters)— James Gunn, whose portrait of Queen Elizabeth holds place of honor in the Royal Academy's exhibition here, said Tuesday the Queen was an "admirable model."

She went to his studio-home about a dozen times, sitting an hour and a quarter each time.

"It is very important in painting portraits to get people to talk," he said. "When people are silent they are not like themselves. The Queen was an easy conversationalist and talked most of the time."

SENTENCE COMMUTED

Wallington, N.J., May 8 (AP)—The parents of Pte. Joseph E. Hicswa, Jr., said yesterday they had received word his court martial death sentence for the slaying of two Japanese civilians in Japan had been commuted to 30 years' imprisonment. The 20-year-old soldier was convicted in the fatal stabbing of the two Japanese civilians in a park in the town of Nara Nov. 24.

Assault Charge Laid Against School Principal

Windsor, May 9 — (CP)—Melvin Lucas, principal of the General Brock school, and James Grier, have both been charged with assault, as the result of a row at the General Brock school.

The charges will be aired in Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan's Court, Friday.

The charge against Lucas was laid by Grier; the charges against Grier, father of a General Brock student, were laid by Lucas and by T. Roy Noble, business administrator for the Windsor Board of Education, acting on behalf of the board.

Lucas charges that Grier assaulted him, causing actual bodily harm, at the school, last Friday. The charge is laid under section 295 of the Criminal Code.

The charge against Grier by Mr. Noble is laid under section 141, chapter 257, revised statutes of Ontario. And it alleges that Grier did unlawfully and wilfully interrupt or disquiet the proceedings of a public school, namely, the General Brock school, by acting in a disorderly manner within a place where school was being kept, and did thereby interfere with the order of the exercise of the said school.

Simple Assault Charge

The charge against Lucas, laid by Grier, is a simple assault charge, laid under section 291 of the Criminal Code.

It was stated that Grier went to General Brock school to remonstrate because his son, a student at that school, had allegedly been roughly treated by the principal.

School authorities said the Grier son, Sam, 14, had caused some trouble in the classroom by banging a compass on his desk. When principal Lucas grabbed at him, the boy fell on the floor, it was stated.

That night Grier called the principal and complained about treatment of the youngster. The principal, it was stated, invited Grier to come to the school to talk it over but Grier said he'd be around all right to wrestle.

Next day Grier appeared in a class room where principal Lucas was teaching, entering without knocking, and proceeded to take off his coat, it was related, and to punch the principal.

Principal Lucas' lips were cut, requiring several stitches to close the cuts, and a denture was broken. The principal overpowered Grier and shoved him out of the class room, it was said, and principal Lucas had to overpower him a second time to get him into his office.

's Mothers Day

Where would you be - - If an understanding heart weren't always near to give you love and courage?

One of the most endearing characteristics of a mother is her great ability to see us through any emergency; to accept all our faults while patiently helping us to eliminate them; to love us deeply and sincerely without losing sight of wherein we have failings. What better pattern can we find for our dealings with our fellowmen the earth around—than that found in a mother's gentle faith? So too let us show our faith in the people of all nations, churches and color—tolerantly accepting their being "different" from ourselves, and keeping our faith in their desire to live in peace and security with us—together forming a "family" mothered by understanding.

MARRIAGE NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beaumont, R.R. No. 7, Belleville, announce the marriage of their only daughter, Bessie Julia, to Mr. Mackenzie Bonter, son of Mr. R. E. Bonter, Marmora, on May 1st., 1946.

Mrs. Harper McClintock and daughter, Gale, have returned to Kapuskasing after visiting the former's mother, Mrs. E. B. Clarke for the past two weeks.

The Eight-Aces Bridge Club consisting of Misses Charlotte McGee, Sybil Walker, Barbara Wilson, Marguerite Jones, Jean Redfern, Dorothy Evans and Alberta Vermilyea, was entertained by club member, Miss Ruth Doig at her home "Brookindale Villa", Smithfield. The club spent one of their most enjoyable evenings in bridge and sing-song, followed by delicious refreshments.

Miss Ruth Allan, Napanee, visited recently with friends in this city.

WEDDINGS

McGOWEN—CONWAY

The marriage of Pearl Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Conway, of Swan River, Man., to Norman Wesly, youngest son of Mrs. James McGowan and the late James McGowan, formerly of Stirling, Ont., was quietly solemnized on Tuesday, March 26, at the United Church parsonage, in Swan River, by the Rev. Hislop Dickson.

The groom has spent nearly two and a half years in Swan River.

The happy couple will shortly leave for eastern points in Ontario.

REID—McGOWAN

The marriage of Mrs. James McGowan, 139 Church Street, Belleville, formerly of Stirling, to Mr. John Reid, of Frankford, was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Albert Graham, Ivanhoe, on Wednesday, April 16, by the Rev. N. Wager, Stockdale Standard Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid took up residence in Frankford.

Women's Guild Of St. Andrew's Holds Tea, Sale

St. Andrew's Women's Guild held a very enjoyable and successful Spring tea and sale of Home cooking on Wednesday afternoon in the Sunday School rooms of the church. Receiving the guests were Mrs. Hornsby and Mrs. Mantle. The tea room, with its pillars festooned with branches of crepe paper flowers, gave one the impression of being in a country garden. The lace-covered tea table held a particularly lovely centrepiece, consisting of a low glass vase filled with spiraea and sweetpeas in varying shades of rose, surrounded by tiny bud vases filled with sweetpeas, and linked together with narrow ribbons of glass. Flanking the flowers were silver candelabra holding ivory tapers. Pouring were Mrs. W. Douglas, Mrs. D. Fleming, Mrs. James Hill and Mrs. Morley Ward. Serving and replenishing were members of the Women's Guild.

Children of Mary Hold Meeting

The May meeting of the Sodality of the Children of Mary was held on Monday evening in St. Michael's High School. The reading of the Sodality office and the singing of "Mother Beloved" opened the meeting, after which Reverend Sister Mary Lenore spoke in a most interesting way on the order of the Sisters of Charity of Providence.

The assembled members then voted to choose the Sodalist who would crown the statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary in the procession of the Lilies to take place on the World Sodality Day. Miss Mary McDougall, chairman of the Apostolic Committee, was chosen for this honor.

The third edition of the sodality bulletin, the Comet, was distributed by Miss Nellie Dorian—who, on behalf of the publicity Committee, thanked all who had made contributions to the bulletin. The meeting then adjourned to the Assembly Hall of the school, where hymns suitable for World Sodality Day were practised in preparation for the procession.

Films of Vacation Spots Presented By Dr. G. H. Stobie

The Women's Association and Men's Club of Bridge Street United Church enjoyed several reels of colored motion pictures depicting Banff, Lake Louise, Algonquin Park and the Seigniory Club at their regular meeting Wednesday night. The pictures were taken and shown by Dr. George H. Stobie.

The coloring of the pictures was beautiful and the "shots" showed a distinct mastery of the camera on the part of Dr. Stobie.

Several delightful selections were played by the Rhythm Band of the Ontario School for the Deaf under the direction of Alec Gordon and Miss Helen Cook favored with two vocal solos.

Chairman for the meeting was C. W. Burr.

A social hour followed with Mrs. P. C. McGuire, Mrs. Langlois and Mrs. W. H. Finkle in charge of arrangements.

Women's Activities

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.-W.A.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. H. Shetler and Mrs. Hicks on Thursday with 16 ladies present. Mrs. Frank Doxtator opened the meeting and took charge of the devotional exercises and business.

Mrs. Harvey Shetler, group leader, had charge of the program, the theme being "The Christian Home". The following took part: Mrs. A. Greatrix, Mrs. (Rev.) Lougheed, Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. W. D. Robertson and Mrs. Harry Sine. Mrs. Hicks contributed a sacred solo accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Harry Sine, who also gave a piano solo. Both of these numbers were much appreciated by those present. Mrs. S. MacDonald president took charge of a short meeting of the W.A. Short interesting readings were given by several ladies from clippings distributed by the president.

Mrs. Harry Murphy was appointed delegate to the coming convention. Mrs. Shetler and Mrs. Hicks assisted by Mrs. Harry Sine served refreshments.

Next W.M.S. meeting at Mrs. Damon Hinchey's and the next W.A. at Mrs. Harry Murphy's.

ROSLIN W.A.

Roslin— May meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held on Thursday evening at the home of Miss Wilson with eighteen ladies and four children present.

The President, Mrs. C. W. Slingerland presided. Several items of business were dealt with.

Highlights of the Annual held in Kingston recently were given by Mrs. F. C. Beazer. Plans were made to hold a quilting on the twenty-fourth of May. An article on the Anglican Advance Appeal was read by Miss R. Wright.

Mrs. Clare gave a reading, "We'll Leave it to the W.A.". A paper on the making of maple sugar was read by Miss H. Wilson. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

ST. JOHN'S JUNIOR AUX.

Stirling.—The May meeting of the Junior W.A. of St. John's Anglican Church was held in the Parish Hall on Monday at 4.15 p.m. Miss Lorna McConnell was at the piano.

The Superintendent, Mrs. Brazill, conducted the Devotional period beginning with the junior members'-prayer in unison followed by their form of service.

Miss Judy Johnstone, president, presided over the balance of the meeting.

Miss Shirley Ackers gave a talk on the rally held at Kingston especially for the members who did not attend.

The study period was under the leadership of Mrs. Brazill with the topic 'Our Five Rules or Aims', discussed.

Knitting and games were enjoyed by the girls.

HOLLOWAY STREET W.M.S.

The Holloway Street W.M.S. for May was held in the church parlor with Mrs. Reid presiding.

The devotional part of the meeting was in charge of Mesdames Denton's and Johns' group.

Mrs. Dobbs read the Scripture lesson. Mrs. Denton gave a splendid talk using "Springtime", as her topic.

A solo "The Stranger of Gallilee" was sung by Mrs. Bell and was very much appreciated. Mrs. Denton presided at the piano.

Mrs. McMurray reported splendid work done by the C.G.I.T. especially mentioning how very fine the sunrise service on Easter Sunday was, in which they took charge.

An invitation was sent in by Mrs. Slavin, president of the Mission Band, for the Auxiliary to attend the meeting of the Band on June 1. Special mention was made of Mrs. Slavin's fine work in this field of endeavor.

Mrs. Doxee, president of the Baby Band, gave a splendid report.

Mention was made by the president that since the travelling library is here, all should avail themselves of reading the books and get finished as quickly as possible, so that they could be passed on.

Mrs. Lough and Mrs. Hitchon received the offering.

The special subject for the meeting was "Temperance" and Mrs. Denton and Mrs. Johns were able to secure a film which was sponsored by the W.C.T.U.

Miss Olive Delaney very kindly presented the pictures, which depicted that alcohol used in industrial life, was a wonderful ally to man, but used as a beverage, brought only destruction to man's physical being as well as to his home life.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Miss Delaney.

Mrs. Reid closed the meeting with prayer and the group in charge served light refreshments.

ELDORADO W.M.S.

Eldorado.— The Eldorado and Union W.M.S. held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. G. Blackburn with a fair attendance. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Cecil Blackburn. Secretary's and treasurer's reports were given. Mrs. Albert Empey gave a talk on Stewardship. Mrs. Cecil Blackburn took charge of the Worship Service.

Mrs. Albert Empey took charge of the program. She gave many useful ideas on what one's duty toward stewardship means. Mrs. Cecil Robinson gave a splendid report of the Presbytery meeting, held in Trenton. Mrs. Albert Empey spoke on the work of Miss Vera Boyd, who spent 15 years in India.

The hostess and her assistants served refreshments.

PRESTO MUSIC CLUB

Child Returned To Father's Care By Judgment

Welland, May 9 — (CP)—Peter George Watson, 4½-year-old Crystal Beach youngster, whose custody has been hotly contested by his parents, James and Eva Watson, in court here, will go back to his father's care.

The decision was made with the condition that he is returned to the home of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril McDonagh of Lansing, Ont., it was decreed Wednesday in a judgment by County Judge H. E. Fuller.

The child, who was the central figure in a spectacular abduction case in Buffalo last summer, had resided with the McDonaghs from September, 1945, to March of this year, when he was taken by his mother while attending nursery school in Lansing, and brought back to Crystal Beach. He had not been returned, in spite of a court order to this effect issued by Mr. Justice Kelly of the Ontario Supreme Court.

The lad was abducted while with his mother in a Buffalo tavern last July by a woman who promised to buy him a cowboy suit. He was missing from July 3 to August 1, when he was found at Meridian, Miss., in the care of Mrs. Venda Florence Jones.

The father told the court that both he and his wife were inveterate drinkers, but his wife often disappeared for two or 3 days at a time leaving him with the children. They had moved from city to city five times in the last five years and at Niagara Falls, his wife left him, taking their three children, to go to live with another man.

Mrs. Watson denied the 'drunkard' charge made by her husband. She said he had lost one position after another due to drink and she left him because he gave her no money for the house or children.

Pilot is Killed, 16 Passengers Hurt On O Island

Tokyo, May 9 (AP)—The pilot was killed and 16 passengers injured—at least six seriously — when a United States Army transport plane crashed and exploded Sunday on O Island, 60 miles south of here in Sagama Bay.

The pilot was trapped but the remainder of the crew and the passengers were thrown clear or were able to crawl away.

The plane struck a 2,000-foot ridge on the island and more than 100 Japanese working nearby slashed their way through underbrush to reach the survivors.

350 Fatal Accidents On Roads of Britain In Month of March

London, May 9 —(Reuters)— During March 350 persons were killed and 10,684 were injured in road accidents in Britain, the Transport Ministry announced Wednesday.

The number of fatalities to children fell from 115 in March of last year to 74 but there was a higher proportion of fatal accidents among young children. Of the 66 child pedestrians killed, more than half were under five.

Huntingdon Township Sunday Schools Hold Enthusiastic Convention

By ARTHUR WILSON

West Huntingdon — The annual convention of the Huntingdon township Sunday Schools convened in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon on Wednesday.

Mr. Melville Donnan who has efficiently acted as president for the past two years gave excellent leadership in all sessions and presided over an unusually interesting and varied program under the general theme of "New Methods For an Old Message."

Devotional Period

An inspiring devotional period opened the convention and struck a high note in spiritual enthusiasm that continued all through the day.

Mrs. Gardener Welsh presided at the piano for the opening hymn and Rev. J. F. Everson offered prayer. Mr. Clifford Green read the scriptures.

Mrs. Will Shaw graciously welcomed the guests to St. Andrew's.

Rev. J. F. Everson gave the first address which was deeply provocative and illustrative and revealed the teaching value of the Flannelgraph.

Reports of the secretary treasurer were read and resolution and nominating committees were appointed and a hymn and offering added a diversion to the morning session.

Former Padre Heard

Rev. L. R. Mack former Padre and who is entering the pastorate of the Wesleyan Methodist Church and moving from Moira to Shawville, Quebec, this month brought an outstanding message on the theme "Making Prayer Real."

The morning session concluded with prayer by Mr. Melville Donnan.

The basement of St. Andrew's Church was the scene of happy fellowship in the noon hour when the ladies of the church provided a sumptuous banquet with the long tables, laid with white cloths and gay with spring flowers groaned under an abundance of choice food topped off by pies of every description and as many pieces as each could eat.

Full of Surprises

The afternoon session was full of surprises and helpful hints and material for successful Sunday School worship and teaching.

Mr. Arthur Wilson conducted the afternoon worship service with Alex McCurdy announcing the hymns, Ed Kemphing reading the lesson, Kenneth Stewart offering prayer and Mrs. W. J. Fitchett presiding at the piano.

The installation of the newly elected executive was conducted by Rev. J. F. Everson.

In the absence of Rev. W. J. Walker, Mrs. (Rev.) Eric Larsen of Madoc, gave a splendid address and using the Flannelgraph depicted Isaiah 53:6. Other vivid illustrations were produced on the screen of Paul's missionary journey and the Holy Land. Mrs. Larsen is a pleasing, effective speaker and thrilled her listeners as she revealed to them the unique possibilities of child training and teaching the scriptures by picture.

Illustrate on Blackboard

Following the demonstration given by Mrs. Larsen, Mrs. Will Shaw offered an appropriate address and Mrs. Gardener Welsh and Mrs. Milton Shaw sang a lovely duet with Mrs. W. J. Fitchett as accompanist and by means of a blackboard illustration all sang the choruses. This was followed with a clear, challenging address by Mrs. John Wallace who had several pictures, sand-table and art work to demonstrate further methods in presenting the lessons.

A highlight of the afternoon was the showing of a film on temperance work and the evil effects of alcohol. The film was prepared for the W.C.T.U. and shown by Rev. Lloyd Shorten of Foxboro.

Rev. R. L. Mack and Mrs. Mack sang a fine duet.

Mr. Philip Carr conducted a morning discussion on prayer and evoked many helpful thoughts from the floor of the convention.

Officers Elected

The closing address was given by Rev. Lloyd Shorten whose theme "I if I Be Lifted Up" was a fitting and challenging climax to a most successful convention.

The officers elected and installed for 1946 are, President, Mr. Clifford Green; 1st Vice President, Mrs. John Wallace; Secretary Treasurer, Mr. Ernest Holland; Children's Work, Mrs. Wesley Farrell; Boys' Work, Mr. Arthur Wilson; Girls' Work, Mrs. John McInroy; Young People's Department, Mr. Wesley Farrell; Adult, Mr. Kenneth Stewart; Leadership Training, Rev. J. F. Everson; Missionary, Mrs. William Shaw; Temperance, Mr. Nathan Reid; Home Religion, Mrs. Chester Sills.

An invitation to hold next convention at Moira United Church was accepted.

GOVT. DID NOT

ond reading of a bill to change the name of Canada's national holiday, Dominion Day, to "Canada Day."

In the Commons, Mr. Coldwell said he was "glad" citizenship certificates were to be issued to new Canadians because they would be of "great value" to foreign-born Canadians. They would offer a protection not heretofore available.

Alistair Stewart (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North) suggested Mr. Diefenbaker withdraw his amendment and replace it by one which would provide that all Canadians were entitled to civil, religious and political liberty, to free speech and association and equal treatment before the law.

Too Restrictive Claim.

As it now stood, the amendment was too restrictive as to the rights of Canadians. It would have the effect of limiting the guarantee of rights to persons receiving citizenship certificates.

Justice Minister St. Laurent said Mr. Diefenbaker's amendment would do "nothing more" for the rights of Canadian citizens than had been "imbedded in the constitution of the country ever since the Treaty of Paris, Magna Carta, the Petition of Rights, the Bill of Settlement, Habeas Corpus."

Turning to the Soviet spy inquiry. Mr. St. Laurent called attention of the House to a ruling by the Supreme Court of Canada in 1918 that a man could be legally detained through an order-in-council passed under the War Measures Act. In addition, an act of parliament passed in 1939 under the Officials Secrets Act provided that a person who violated the act and was "reasonably suspected" of having done so could be arrested without warrant.

Arthur Smith (PC-Calgary West) said that in the spy probe things had been disregarded which should not have been disregarded and the Progressive Conservative party was seeking to see that this did not happen again. It would have been better had the orders for detention of spy suspects not been signed.

T. L. Church (PC-Toronto Broadview) expressed approval of a bill of rights because it would give substance to the citizenship bill.

Crown Witnesses Quote Alleged Confessions

Toronto, May 9 (CP)—Testimony of an R.C.M.P. ballistics expert was expected to occupy most of today's hearing in the trial of four Toronto youths charged with murder in the hold-up slaying of Meyer Tobias in his North Toronto dress shop last Dec. 26.

The trial went into its fourth day today, with most of the preliminary details disposed of and the Crown starting to present evidence with which it hopes to link the four—William Mullen, 20, Howard Urquhart, 19, Edward Martin, 19, and Donald Warner, 17—with the slaying.

Before a crowded court room yesterday, witness Ian Malcolm swore that his friend, Edward Martin, told him: "I'm awfully sorry it happened—I didn't mean to do it."

Malcolm told of Martin coming to his (Malcolm's) home on the night of the slaying and handing over an automatic pistol, later found by two schoolboys on the roof of a garage. Earlier another automatic, said to have been used in the slaying, was put in evidence and medical testimony was introduced that bullets from two different guns had struck the victim.

Account of Slaying

A graphic account of the slaying was given to the court in the evidence of Malcolm, who described a conversation he had with Martin in these words: "He (Martin) said they all went into the store and asked for money, and the man came toward him and he shot him through the legs and into the floor. Then the man still came on, and he shot him again in the shoulder and then as he fell, Mullen fired the other shot."

Another witness, Valerie Russell, 18, stated that Howard Urquhart had taken her out on the night of the slaying and the following night. She said Urquhart told her that Martin and Mullen had shot a guy and that he (Urquhart) was driving the car.

"I thought he was kidding me," she replied, when questioned as to her reaction to this alleged statement of Urquhart.

Before the start of today's session less than half the 42 Crown witnesses had testified and it was expected that the case would not go to the jury before the end of next week.

Veterinary Says Cattle Barn In Filthy Condition

Whitby, Ont., May 9. (CP) — The stable on William Pugh's farm in Myrtle district "was in a disgraceful condition," Dr. A. Black, a Brooklin, Ont., veterinary said in police court yesterday. He was testifying against Pugh who is charged with cruelty to animals.

Decision was reserved for two weeks.

Inspector L. Johnson, of Oshawa, told of visiting Pugh's farm where 36 animals were kept in the barn. He said dirt on the floor was 26 inches deep.

"One calf had died three or four days previous and was still lying in the barn with only its back showing," he said. "One cow was lying sick in a stall with another cow and calf."

"I learned since then the cow has died and accused pulled it out into the yard with the help of a horse.

"Seventy-five per cent of the cattle had no hair on their legs or stomachs. The water bowls all had dirt in them."

Pugh told the court he operated the farm by himself and denied that there was 26 inches of dirt on the floor.

"Morgan then took over the conversation and said he would take care of Wally if there were any difficulties in fixing up the assay values."

McKenzie said that after he overheard the conversation and had seen the ore on his desk "I said to Ed it was pretty risky business to send ore and fix up an assay that way. He told me it was none of my business."

McKenzie claimed Morgan offered him $50,000 in cash and shares to "take a trip and forget the whole thing." When the offer was refused, he said, Morgan "threatened" him and "laid a trumped-up charge" against him.

Denies Suggestion

"I suggest that you told Morgan you wanted to be paid $50,000 or else you would go to the Securities Commission and spill the beans," interjected Max Aiken, counsel for Morgan.

"That is ridiculous," said McKenzie.

Neal M. Stirling, in charge of the Habitant mine, located nine miles west of Rouyn, denied there was any attempt to plant the Kega ore in his mine. He said he and Wallace Dempsey had bets on the relative merits of Kega and Habitant ores. He testified they had submitted the Kega samples and a sample of Habitant "float" to the assay office, clearly labelling their origin. He said he was surprised at statements in the mining press regarding high assays at the mine.

Gordon Barclay Speaks on Plan For Hospital Care

Stirling.— Members of the Young Peoples' Class of Carmel and the Young Marrieds' Group met Friday evening, May 3, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brooks for their regular gathering. The feature of the evening was a splendid talk by Mr. J. Gordon Barclay, administrator of the Belleville General Hospital, on the Plan for Hospital Care. Mr. Barclay, who was introduced by President Jack Armstrong, held the rapt attention of the group as he explained fully and clearly the advantages and privileges associated with the Plan for Hospital Care. After his address a number of pertinent questions were asked by the members which Mr. Barclay capably answered. The thanks of the group were expressed fittingly by Mr. Harry Brown. Members of the Executive of Mount Pleasant's Two-by-Two Club were guests.

The meeting concluded with games under the direction of Mrs. Jack Brown, musical selection by Sherwood Reid and refreshments.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church News

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was commemorated on Sunday, May 5th., at 11 a.m., in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. A record number of communicants partook of Holy Communion. The new members received were: Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Rodgers; Mr .and Mrs. George Sarles; Mr. Cecil Nelson; Mr. Wilson Sinclair; Mrs. Russell Woodbeck and Mr. and Mrs. Cameron MacIntosh. During the impressive service, Mr. Clayton Tummon sang "Throw Out the Life Line".

A full choir was present with Mrs. R. H. Williams at the console of the Organ.

An appropriate message was delivered by the Rev. W. H. V. Walker. Next Sunday morning the Sacrament of Baptism will be administered at a special Mother's Day Service. Also presentations of Cradle Roll Certificates and Diplomas.

In the Fiji islands, the human head is considered sacred, and it is an insult to reach above the head of another person.

J. McFarlane Heads Melrose Grain Club

The May meeting of the Melrose Junior Farmers was held at the Melrose Township Hall on Monday night. Jack McFarlane, president of the club, was in charge of the meeting.

John Forestell and Charlie Brennan, who were delegates to the Provincial Junior Farmers' annual meeting and conference at the O.A.C., Guelph, on April 25th and 26th, gave very interesting reports on this annual meeting.

H. Lynn Fair, agricultural representative, gave a talk on grain club work. At the conclusion of Mr. Fair's talk the Melrose Cartier Grain Club was formed with the following officers and members:

Club Leader—Jack McFarlane, Shannonville.

President — John Forestell, Shannonville.

Vice-President — Bill English, Shannonville.

Secretary — Earl Badgley, Shannonville.

Members — Harold McMechan, Shannonville; Earl Badgley, Shannonville; George Cole, Shannonville; Charlie Brennan, Lonsdale; Ted Forestell, Shannonville; Bill English, Shannonville; Chas. Bates, Shannonville; Geo. Blatherwick, Shannonville; Mac Lazier, Corbyville; Eugene Pascoe, Belleville R. R. 6; John Forestell, Shannonville; Ronald Bates, Shannonville.

The proposed Junior Farmer trip to Guelph on May 31st and June 1st and 2nd was discussed. The following boys were selected to make this trip — Jack McFarlane, Ken McMechan, Bill English, Earl Badgley, Geo. Blatherwick, Mac Lazier, Glen Tucker, Thornton Portt, Edward Forestell, Roy McLaren, Gerald Brennan, Eugene Pascoe, Geo. Cole and Ron Bates.

It was decided to hold a coaching class on judging livestock on the evening of May 20th. This coaching class will be held on the farm of Mr. Grant McLaren, Shannonville. Mr. Fair will be present to take charge of this coaching class.

Victory Seen For British Loan In U. S. Senate

Washington, May 9 (CP)—Supporters of the $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain, who today were driving toward passag of the bill in the United States Senate, were faced with possibility that the legislation may be laid aside while the Senate deals with labor control legislation.

Yesterday loan supporters won their first big test by voting down an amendment that was to have "sounded the death knell" of the financial agreement with Britain. It was a proposal by Senator Ernest McFarland (Dem.-Ariz.) that Britain be required to turn over title to Atlantic military bases now held by the United States under 99-year lease in payment on their First Great War debt and was defeated by a scant five-vote margin — 45 to 40.

The move to push labor legislation ahead of the hotly-debated loan as well as the expiring draft act was instigated by Senator James Eastland (Dem.-Miss.) who said he would attempt to have the bill laid aside so that the Senate could deal with a bill similar to the Case strike control bill already passed by the House, which now is on the Senate calendar.

Must Take Vote

However, Senator Eastland's motion will not reach the floor until a vote is taken on a motion today by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (Dem.-Colo.) to halt Senate discussion on the loan on the grounds that it is a revenue-raising bill and requires prior house action.

Senator Eastland said the strike has become so critical that even the shipment of "embalming fluid has been embargoed and we cannot bury the dead in this country." He said he would attempt to "put teeth" in the Case bill, which had been drastically amended by the Senate Labor Committee after the House passed it more than a month ago.

Senator McFarland's amendment yesterday would also have required Britain to open negotiations to open other Empire bases built by the United States to commercial uses and to sell agreed upon bases for a "fixed sum."

Russian People Dissatisfied Says "Analyzer"

London, May 9 —(AP)— The Moscow radio commentator "Analyzer" said yesterday the Russian people are dissatisfied "with certain things going on in the world" on the anniversary of VE-Day.

In an English-language broadcast commemorating the European victory of 1945, the commentator cited as unsatisfactory the handling of alleged war criminals, the Trieste boundary dispute and the occupation of Germany.

"Analyzer" in the broadcast recorded here, inquired why "figures in Canada and the United States speak out in defence of (Draja) Mihailovic, and why Americans and British do not take action to compel Franco to give up thousands of Hitlerite criminals . . . ."

Rustlers on Prowl Near Peterborough

Peterborough, May 9 —(CP)— Rustlers are on the prowl at nearby Lakefield, and police suspect they are working for black market operators.

Biggest haul so far was at the farm of Harry Reil, a mile east of Lakefield, when thieves made off with six head of cattle.

Police said they believed the rustlers take cattle to remote swampland, tie them to stakes, and later pick them up for delivery to black market slaughter houses.

Orval Redpath told police he saw a man tying a calf in a swamp near his home, and Police Chief Alfred Davis of near-by Young's Point said a cow was found tied in a swamp north of that village.

Roy Harding, 26, of Oshawa, today appeared in court on a charge of stealing a yearling Jersey calf from Jack Leeson of Douro. He was remanded without plea to May 10.

SCIENTISTS

Further, a single one of several chemical elements in a mixture can be traced everywhere it goes, even though never visible.

For example, if copper disappears while in a solution flowing through pipes, adding a bit of radioactive copper tells just where all the copper, whether radioactive or not, is going and where it is being lost.

The amount that can be detected is almost infinitesimal. A millionth part of a millionth of an ounce will make itself audible and reveal its location.

In the drug business poisons can be followed and vitamins can be traced, both in the making of medical remedies and in the way those remedies affect the bodies of animals and of humans.

One unsolved problem is the prospect of finding out how the green coloring of plants, the chemical compound known as chlorophyll, utilizes sunlight, carbon dioxide and water to form starch and sugar. Chemists never have been able to make synthetic chlorophyll.

For years they have dreamed that when they discover this synthesis, they may be able to make starches and sugars artificially, or else use their knowledge so that trees and plants will give higher yields of food. The radioactive elements from the atomic ovens will give the chemists new methods of finding out how to synthesize chlorophyll.

PICTON

Plan Spending $20,000 on Church And Parsonage

Picton, May 9 — A plan under which $20,000 would be raised for improvement of the United Church and parsonage here is being considered by the board. A canvass will be made with donations spread over a three-year period. Contemplated improvements include redecoration of the interior of the church, a new lighting system, enlarging of the basement and new carpets throughout the edifice.

Next week, canvassers from the Anglican Church begin their work in connection with the Anglican Advance Appeal. The local objective had been set at $5,100. John B. Arnaud is campaign treasurer.

Four teams have entered the Prince Edward County hardball league. They are Bloomfield, Wellington, Milford and Waupoos. Application has been made to the O.B.A. to enter the Intermediate playdowns and it is likely that an all-star team will represent Prince Edward County. With the exception of the opening game, all fixtures will be twilight affairs. The opening will be marked by a double header on the afternoon of May 24th., when Milford will visit Bloomfield and Waupoos will play at Wellington. C. R. Widdifield is president of the league with V. J. Butler as secretary-treasurer.

PICTON

Recreation Centre Proposed By Picton Council

Picton, May 9 — At a meeting of town council lasting four hours Monday night, the solicitor F. W. Ward, K.C., was instructed to prepare a by-law to estbalish a recreation centre in Picton. All members of council expressed approval of the proposal. Chairman of a committee named to investigate the plan, Councillor C. H. McGibbon gave estimated cost as $4,145, this including $2,400 for salary of recreational director, $500 for caretaker, $395 for new furnace, $350 for water, lights and fuel, $500 for alterations to the present building on Benson Park. Against this, the Rotary Club has donated $500, Home and School Club $100, Boy Scouts $50 and government grants would amount to $800. This leaves $2,445 for the town to assume. Other organizations promised their support and additional donations and revenue from other sources could be expected to lessen the town's share. For the present, there will be no building, the house of the park and the facilities at the local schools and elsewhere being utilized. Steps will be taken to engage a recreational director.

The hall was packed with spectators, including many women who were interested in seeing the recreational plan adopted.

Oppose Sub-Station

There was a warm debate considering the proposal of the Public Utilities Commission to move the hydro sub-station from the west end of the town to the centre, at the rear of the Utilities Office. A delegation, headed by H. G. Blakely, stated that high tension wires in the centre of the town would be hazardous, the move would be costly and there would be consequent trimming of trees. Councillor Moore decried the action of tree trimming in the past, speaking of those so engaged as tree butchers. Councillor Clealan Blakely urged that the trouble be remedied by installing larger transformers.

As a result of the discussion, council passed a motion "that this council does not approve of the erection of a hydro sub-station at the rear of the Public Utilities building and goes on record as being in favor of the sub-station being left in its present location, or at a location outside the business district; and that the council meet the Utilities Commission to discuss this matter.

13 Permits Issued

Building continues brisk in Picton and 13 permits were granted by town council Monday night. H. J. McFarland was granted permission to erect two more houses; John Head to erect a bungalow; VanDusen Bros., to make alterations to their store and front at a cost of $2,000; J. C. Cooper to erect a show room and to build a garage; Arthur Greene to erect a house; L. C. Ward to build a shed; H. L. VanCleaf to build a $700 addition to his home; Reid Bros. to rebuild a house; Herbert Snider to make an addition to his home; the United Church to build a glassed-in verandah on the parsonage; Harold Gibson to erect a garage; R. Alexander to rebuild a kitchen; E. C. Fralick to make alterations to his home.

There was a heated discussion when Councillor Robert Cockburn charged that the show rooms being built by A. E. Grindrod were contrary to the building bylaw. He charged that such buildings are affecting property values and urged that the town appoint a town planning committee. Clerk F. L. Ward stated that the by-law from which Cockburn quoted had been found ultra vires and a new one passed. Mr. Grindrod pointed out that he had secured a permit last year and since had been preparing for the work now beginning. Councillor Nesbitt McKibbon said he had received a complaint on the same matter and believed there should be restricted areas in the town.

Resignation Accepted

The resignation of Walter Pope as deputy fire chief was accepted with regret. He had been a member for 30 years. George Jones was named as successor with Sam Hollingsworth being named captain and Ben Hyderman added to the list of firemen. A vote of appreciation of the services of Mr. Pope was passed.

The village of Bloomfield sent a donation of $50 as an expression of thanks for assistance of the local fire brigade which helped control a fire there.

The firm of engineers preparing plans for sewerage reported that plans were not yet complete.

The Ontario Welfare Branch urged council have those on relief plant gardens to provide food. No action was taken on an application for recreational director received from Rodney Sexsmith, Napanee, as this position will be advertised later.

Two local constables were granted increases of $25 per month. Councillors Bruce Moore and C. Blakely are to investigate the Provincial police plan of policing for the town.

J. Ward Appointed

Subject to the approval of the Ontario Department of Highways, Jack H. Ward of Picton will be the new road superintendent of Prince Edward County. A special meeting of county council was called to discuss the appointment, and Mr. Ward was chosen from a number of applicants. He recently graduated from the University of Toronto in engineering and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ward of this town.

In 1939, Lt. Col J. Leavens was granted leave of absence from the position for military service. On his return, the offer to resume his work was refused on the grounds the salary was not sufficient. John B. Dunkley, who acted in the absence of Mr. Leavens, had left town to reside in California. The minimum salary of $3,000.

Motion Rejected For Postponement Fred Rose Trial

Montreal, May 8. (CP)—Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure rejected in Court of King's Bench today a defence motion for postponement until the Fall Assizes of the trial of Fred Rose on a charge of conspiring to communicate information to the Soviet Union.

The Labor-Progressive member of Parliament for Montreal Cartier is scheduled to appear for trial May 20.

Valmore Bienvenue, K.C., representing rose, asked for the delay yesterday after Mr. Justice Lazure had agreed to another defence motion asking separate trials on the conspiracy charge and on the charge that Rose unlawfully communicated information to Russia. The conspiracy case will be heard first.

In his submission, Mr. Bienvenue said the services of D. N. Pritt, K.C., M.P., prominent British lawyer, would be available to the defence if the trial could be set over until the Fall, that public opinion was wrought up inadvertently by the press thus prejudicing a fair trial and that the nature of the case presented legal and scientific problems necessitating time for preparation of the defence.

Mr. Justice Lazure said the principal reason submitted in support of a delay was the proposal by the defence to enlist the aid of Mr. Pritt and explained that the British lawyer would have no status in a Canadian court and would not be able to address the jury.

fficial Visit fD.D.G.M.Made o Tweed Lodge

Tweed — On Monday evening, istrict Deputy Grand Master Bro. H. O. Ferguson and Bro. Harry Jamieson of Havelock paid an official visit to Tweed I.O.O.F. No. 290. During the evening Tweed Degree team led by Captain Bro. S. A. McCarey exemplified the mysteries of the Initiating Degree to one candidate in a very capable manner. There was a large turnout of members and visitors from other lodges to greet the D.D.G.M. and Bro. Harry Coulter, Past D.D.G.M. of Thomasburg Lodge assisted the degree team in the Noble Grand's chair. A lunch was served after which Bro. Ferguson addressed the gathering. He reviewed the formation of Oddfellowship from a very small beginning down through the years to the present time, told how the Lodge received the name of (Oddfellows), which has always been adhered to. He spoke of the wonderful fellowship which exists everywhere and told of the great need for young men to join the Lodge, as so many of our fine young men gave their lives in the last war in the defence of our King and country.

A very touching prayer was read by Bro. Jamieson for a speedy recovery of Past District Deputy Grand Master Bro. H. Hough of Havelock, who has been a patient in the Civic Hospital, Peterboro, for the past month.

Bro. Wm. J. Woods, Noble Grand of Tweed Lodge acted as toast master.

FEAR TREES DAMAGED

Stratford, May 8 — (CP)—Fear that fairly severe damage may have been caused to fruit trees in this district by heavy Tuesday night frost was expressed by a number of farmers today.

It was hoped, however, that frost, three degrees below freezing point, may only partially damage fruit trees, brought into blossom by warm sunshine during daytime. As yet it is not believed that fruit will be a total loss such as that of last year, but if cold weather and freezing continues, it might well be repetition of last year.

MARMORA

Deloro Safety Committee Holds Monthly Meeting

Marmora— The May meeting of the Deloro Safety Committee held in the Electric Shop on Tuesday afternoon proved to be one of the most interesting in the annals of the movement. C. H. Buskard presided over a good attendance. Following adoption of minutes, G. Brooks gave the report of the Suggestions Committee which revealed that 37 suggestions were received during April. C. T. Nicholson for the Competitive Committee mentioned that awards had been given for 13 suggestions.

The Star was awarded to the General Division. Thirty-four suggestions were turned in by the Inspection Committee as mentioned in the report presented by its Chairman, W. M. Regan. Twenty of these were completed, eleven are in progress and three were considered unnecessary. N. A. Kilpatrick was named as floating member for the ensuing month. A. W. Drew for the Publicity Committee commented upon the contest which is being run by the committee to close on May 15. J. A. Rice gave the report of the Health and Investigation Committee and the chairman presented the monthly statement of the Benevolent Relief funds. M. J. Corrigan reported for the Plant bulletin and furnished an interesting report of the Industrial Accidents Prevention Association's annual convention held in Toronto on April 8 and 9. A discussion on some points of this report will take place at the next meeting. Messrs. F. Gray, G. Brooks and N. A. Kilpatrick who also attended the convention as fellow delegates also made brief remarks before the session adjourned.

Johnny Pesky of Red Sox Looms as Major Baseball's Top Shortstop This Season

Up to Now Hitting .429 Leading Both Leagues and Scoring 30 Runs

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

With baseball boasting possibly its greatest array of shortstops in major league history, Johnny Pesky stands out today as perhaps the finest of them all.

Boosters of Phil Rizzuto of New York Yankees, Lou Boudreau of Cleveland, Cecil Travis of Washington, Luke Appling of Chicago White Sox, Vern Stephens of St. Louis Browns, Marty Marion of St. Louis Cardinals, Pee Wee Reese of Brooklyn and Eddie Miller of Cincinnati might put up a strong argument for their favorites, but the figures indicate Pesky stands alone.

The five-foot-nine infielder — only a few years ago a clubhouse boy in his native Portland, Ore. — last Monday was stopped one hit short of tying the major league record of 12 consecutive hits and tied another standard yesterday when he tallied six times in a 14-10 slugfest for his Boston Red Sox over the White Sox.

Including the four hits he collected in yesterday's game, Pesky has 39 hits in 91 times at bat for a .429 average to lead both leagues. He also has scored the most runs — 30.

Set Club Record

With Ted Williams, Rudy York and Bobby Doerr joining Pesky in the Boston hit parade, the American League leaders slammed four Chicago pitchers for 17 safeties to set a club record of 13 consecutive victories, topping their 1939 skein by one.

The New York Yankees remained 3½ lengths behind the Red Sox when they triumphed over St. Louis Browns 5-1.

Detroit's Hal Newhouser and Cleveland's Bobby Feller, who with Chandler and Boston's Tex Hughson, are expected to fight it out for the league's pitching leadership, each hurled a masterful game with Newhouser blanking Washington Senators 1-0 and Feller whipping Philadelphia Athletics 5-2.

Brooks Are Second

Don Padgett's pinch-hit home run in the 10th inning gave Brooklyn an 8-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds and kept the Brooks a half-game behind the National League leading St. Louis Cardinals.

With Dave Koslo besting Pittsburgh's Fritz Ostermueller in an all-lefty pitching duel, the New York Giants advanced into a fifth-place tie with the Pirates by shading the Bucs 1-0.

With Phil Cavarretta, Lou Stringer and Ed Waitkus leading a 14-hit attack with three hits apiece, Chicago Cubs trampled Boston Braves 10-5 to move into third place in the National League.

St. Louis Cardinals protected their first-place lead with a 5-3 triumph over Philadelphia's Phils in a night contest.

Eight Good Bouts Presented At Hume Arena Before Largest Crowd on Hand This Season

Real Upset Occurs in Main Bout With George Polmanter Getting Nod Over "Jiber" Ellis of Trenton

Belleville boxing fans were treated to the best card of the current season at Hume Arena Wednesday night when eight real lively bouts were presented before the largest crowd this semester.

The upset of the night was in the main "go" when George Polmanter gave Cecil "Jiber" Ellis, the Trenton walloper, a five-round lesson in boxing. The 'wise' boys figured that Polmanter did not have a chance against the Trenton slugger but George turned in one of his best efforts to win a clean cut decision.

The two boys really mixed it up to provide a real crowd-pleaser. They set a terrific pace for the first four rounds and several times stood toe-to-toe and punched with everything they had.

The only knockdown came in the third round when Polmanter dropped Ellis for a "no" count. In spite of the hard punching, the local lad kept pretty close to Ellis and kept him from unleashing any of those long looping punches that Ellis specializes in. It was a good move for Polmanter and really paid off.

By the time the last round came up, both boys were pretty tired from the fast pace they had set. Nevertheless, they mixed it plenty, much to the pleasure of the fans.

Acerra Wins Quickly

The semi-final also made a great hit with the fans even tho' it didn't last very long. "Tony" Acerra, the local heavyweight lost no time in dropping "Duke" Subaro of Toronto.

The boys went at it right from the opening bell and the crowd immediately got up off their seats. For fully a minute, the two boys stood in the centre of the ring with both arms flailing and it was just a matter of who produced the lethal blow.

To end the skirmish, Acerra hit Subaro with a hard left and then put the finishing touches on with a terrific right to the heart which sent the Toronto boy sprawling to the canvas after only a minute and a half of the round.

Acerra has improved a lot since his last local appearance and the fans will be anxiously awaiting his next Belleville appearance.

The preliminaries were all good. The "Pride of Trenton" Bill Westfall, made short work of "Pat" Greco of Toronto, polishing him off after only thirty-eight seconds of the first round. This bout, too, started off as if it was going to be a real blood and thunder affair but after Westfall got a few hard lefts in, the Toronto fighter lost some of his pep.

Once again it was Westfall's left hand that did the trick. He bent Greco over with a hard right to the midriff and then came the powerhouse left hook to the side of the head which completed the "blackout" for the Toronto boy.

Belleville Boy K.O.'d.

"Soup" Whitney of Trenton came back strongly to knock out Harry Derushia of Belleville at 1.48 of the third round. The local boy held a slight edge in the first round but Whitney assumed command in the second round and held it until he dropped Derushia towards the end of the bout.

The boys fought tooth and nail and it seemed to be more a matter of "condition" than anything that won the bout. Whitney floored Derushia for an "eight" count just before the bell in the second round and Derushia was never the same after it.

It was a real fast bout with both boys trying hard. When Derushia was knocked down the final time, he tried to get up before the "out" count but couldn't make it.

In a real slugfest Fred Harding of Oshawa knocked out Bill Tyler of Trenton after 1.22 of the second round. The boys hit each other with everything they had during the first round and it looked as if Tyler might take the measure of the classy Oshawa youngster. Harding found the range, however, in the second stanza and his experience proved to be a little too much for Tyler.

Too Much Class.

Lorne Vieu of Trenton proved to have just a little too much class for Belleville's Don Thompson in another three-rounder when he knocked out the local boy after 45 second of the second round. The bout was Vieu all the way but Thompson was game and made a good fight of it.

Bruce Lidster of Oshawa outboxed Joe Wilson of Belleville all the way in their three-round affair. It looked for a time as if the visitor was going to win by a knockout but Wilson fought back hard but just couldn't seem to fathom the style of the clever Oshawan.

Curtain Raiser Thriller

The curtain-raiser between Harry Goulding of Oshawa and Ron Mansfield of Belleville was a real thriller. The boys really threw the leather at each other right from the start and the fans loved it. The Oshawa boy met Mansfield every time with a right jab to the mouth but Mansfield went right back for more.

Goulding earned a slight edge in the first round and kept increasing it as he went along to win a clean-cut decision.

There was not a dull spot on the whole card and it certainly was the best of the season. A few more cards like this one and the boxing game will be really popular in this district.

It was announced that the next bouts would be staged on Wednesday, May 22nd.

Announcer: Maurice Callaghan; Referee: Harry Robinson; Timekeeper: Johnny Lloyd; Judges: Bill Crawford, Jack Langman and Mark Storms.

And speaking of race horses, there is one question that British and American experts fail to agree upon. For years the question of "When is a thoroughbred a thoroughbred?" has cropped up with Uncle Sam and John Bull being in total disagreement.

The British still refuse to recognize "Fair Play" or his son the famous "Man 'o War" as thoroughbreds. These outstanding horses are a few of the great race horses, many from typical American blood lines, which are bared from British recognition, according to the Encyclopedia Brittanica.

On the other hand, the American Stud Book accepts all listings in the General Stud Book of England.

Although the British listings always have been universally accepted, Americans yearly threaten in reprisal to boycott certain British lines, or ignore the entire book. The international battle has been going on for years, and most likely relations will remain in the discussion stage for years.

To actually discover if a horse is a thoroughbred is very simple—if you have the time, patience and the facilities available. It's simply a matter of picking one of three-only three-horses for an ancestor.

You will have to delve back into the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, when proud Arabs rode across gleaming sands, before Rudolph Valentino, the daddy of all perfect lovers (and that goes for Gable, whether Garson has him or not) set flapper hearts agog with his Arabian Nights necking, and parked their caravans beneath a date tree by a natural cocktail bar that exuded pure fresh water.

It seems away back in 1689, one of the gayer blades of the Arabian Knights, owned a stallion that was the pride of the harems, the eunuchs and even drew admiring glances from the odd Sultan, when the Sultana wasn't raisin' hob. The horse, a beauty, was called "Byerly Turk" and apparently he was Man 'o War, Exterminater, Whirlaway, Count Reigh, and Zev rolled into one.

British sportsmen who at that time were doing a spot of racing with clod-hopping Clydes and cumbersome Shires, heard of the accomplishments of the Turk and imported him to England. In 1706 an Arabian beauty, called the Darley Arabian found his way through importation methods to the greenswards of Merry England, followed in 1724 by the "Godolphin Arabian."

According to the Encyclopedia Americana, "Every true thoroughbred traces its direct descent in the male line to one or other of these three 'founding fathers' of the breed, what collateral crosses to all three."

To these remarkable stallions, established at the head of the racing studs of England, were bred several Barb mares which had been imported from the Continent for the royal stables.

In 1730 Bulle Rock, a son of the Darley Arabian, was brought to Virginia, the first thoroughbred stallion known to have been imported here. Since that time many thousands of thoroughbreds have been imported. There is a total investment of more than $250,000,000 in thoroughbred breeding establishments in the United States, and since 1930 their production has averaged about 5,400 registered animals a year.

The thoroughbred—the term should be applied to the running race horse only — after more than 200 years of selective breeding, shows no sign of decadence, nor is there any suggestion of possible further improvement by new crossings.

As larger mares were used for breeding, race horses increased an average of one inch every 25 years from 1700 to 1850. The original Oriental stallions were less than 14 1-2 hands in height.

Fine horses have always commanded high prices. Back in Old Testament days, King Solomon paid the equivalent of $3,000 each for "thoroughbreds" he imported from Egypt. Approximately 3000 years later Senor Unzue of Argentina paid $265,000 for Tracery, an American thoroughbred which won many racing classics.

Allen Kelleher, 18 year old junior baseballer left this morning for Kingston where he has been offered a tryout by Manager Ben Lady of the Kingston Ponies... Word came through yesterday afternoon to send the big lefthander down east for training with the pro squad... Lovers of hockey will enjoy the fast action in "Gay Blades?" a full length picture appearing soon at the Capitol Theatre... The pix features Allan Lane, former triple-threat athlete, played pro ball with the Brooklyn Dodgers, later going into the pro-football game with the Cincinnati Reds. Then he received a screen test—and made good in Hollywood... With Lane in "Gay Blades" appears benny Novicki and Ossie Asmundsen, American Hockey League stars ... Don Baxter was elected prexy of the Bloomfield Baseball Association at a recent meeting.. The team, according to the meeting, will affiliate with the O.B.A.... Since Bloomfield has a population under 5000, it can enter a squad in Intermediate "B", according to a new ruling of the Ontario Baseball Association which states that all intermediate "B" teams will be confined to communities of 5,000 and under... Belleville Softball Association had an exec meeting last night... More about that later... Frankie Dyer, pitching sensation from Prince Edward, according to latest reports from the training camp of the Kingston Ponies, will be given a "real trial" by Manager Ben Lady... Dyer is still in the "green" stages, but the Ponies officials have been impressed with his showing... "He shows plenty of promise" Manager Lady said, "and the boy will be given a real trial down here."... The certificates of the Belleville Juvenile Hockey squad, have been returned from the O.M.H.A. and are now available to their owners at Ed Thomas' Tobacco Store... Call around and get 'em, kids...

Dot Hampire champfonship, or what you call it, no longer be on Watson head, when I get through." Amiable cuss, wot. In any event, he meets the "Whippah" here tomorrow night in what promises to be the wrestling joust of the season. The slow-motion Pole will tower above the agile Watson, but the Whippah shouldn't mind that. He was a pole-climber in his younger days. Fred Von Schacht, Milwaukee villain, will meet Jumping Joe Mazzatti in the semi go, while two ring veterans, Dean Detton, former title-holder and Leo Numa, will tangle in the prelim.

NAVAL CUSTOMS AND TRADITIONS No. 4
NIGHT ROUNDS: Although the great Nelson officially died at the battle of Trafalgar, many customs of today's Navy teach Jack Tar that Nelson's spirit lives on. "Night Rounds" are still being made with a huge brass candle lantern containing a single lonesome candle. For practical purposes, a powerful electric torch is also carried — but the Navy continues to cherish the glow of tradition which radiates from this 18th-Century lantern!

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

LESSON NO. 982
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

If you can stand it, let me tell you more about leads. At this particular moment, I would like to talk to you about singleton leads. And gosh, how I dread it!

Being polite, you will let me talk myself blue in the face about singleton leads. You will patiently listen to the rule. You will find out when rule says you may lead a singleton. And when not to.

But will you stick to the rule in the midst of a bridge game? Fat chance. Neither will I. We will close our eyes to restrictions. Too great is the urge to lead a singleton.

The lead rule is: Follow the order of choice in tops, longies, shorts; don't lead a suit bid by opponents; against a suit contract, don't lead away from an ace or a king.

A singleton is a short suit. Being a short, rule says it is the last in the order of choice of leads. So, when is a singleton led? Only when you have no top honor or long suit lead.

With 13 cards, your hand must have at least one long suit (four cards or more). How does rule hurdle long suits to approve the lead of a short? Look again at what the rule says.

Rule tells you not to lead a suit bid by opponents; not to lead away from an ace or a king against a suit bid. The longies may be stymied by don'ts. That is when a short is led.

South became the declarer in hearts after his partner put in a diamond bid that was not supported. You are sitting west with this hand:

♥ K 7 3
♦ 8 7 5 4 2
♣ K 8 4 2

The two red suits were bid. Do not lead either. Against a suit bid, don't lead away from your club king. The only suit unhampered by a don't is your singleton seven of spades. Lead it.

That is how rule decides when a singleton may be led. There are some who believe their judgment is better. I have seen them do worse.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, May 9 (AP)—"Any picture can make money." That was a comforting Hollywood axiom during the war, but Director William Seiter says it is on the way out.

"During the war there weren't enough theatre seats for the business," said the veteran director, who just finished "Lover Come Back." "But that situation is being relieved."

Seiter said present costs make it harder to get a quick profit out of pictures. "The average a picture, which cost $400,000 a few years ago, now runs to $1,000,000 and $3,000,000," he reported.

Does the post-war reaction mean studios will cut down expenses?

"Nope," said Bill. "It looks as though pictures will cost more and more." He recalled when the budget on his Laura LaPlante-Reginald Denny films was raised from $100,000 to $200,000. Even with massive sets and dozens of chorus girls he was unable to spend that much money.

Robert Montgomery, Clark Gable, Rex Harrison, David Niven and Doug Fairbanks, Jr., have a weekly stag party. Wonder how their gal friends like that....Local twosome: Jane Withers and Farley Granger, Bill Eythe and Helen Walker, Buff Cobb and Charles Russell.

Al in a day's work: Diction teacher Ruth Roberts, who rid Ingrid Bergman of her Swedish accent, is tutoring Loretta Young to speak with a Swedish accent for "Katie For Congress."

AT THE McCARTHY — Battling desperately for the girl he adores, and for the honor of his king, Cornel Wilde rips through Columbia Pictures' rousing Technicolor epic, "The Bandit of Sherwood Forest," starting Friday at the McCarthy Theatre.

TORONTO LEAFS IN FIFTH PLACE OF INT. LEAGUE

Montreal Royals Heading Loop by Downing Newark Bears Twice

By The Associated Press

First place in the International League, which has changed hands more times than a rumor, belonged to Montreal Royals today, and if they can hold it as long as five days they'll outlast any of the previous occupants this season.

The Royals climbed into the lead by trouncing Newark Bears 6-2 and 5-0 yesterday to oust Syracuse Chiefs, who bowed 11-3 to the tail-end Rochester Red Wings.

Pitchers Steve Nagy and Glen Moulder starred for the Royals. Nagy dished out four hits in the opener and Moulder scattered seven in the seven-inning handicap.

Montreal's victory was its fifth in a row and also its second straight twin triumph over the Bears.

The Chiefs, who at one time paced the circuit for four consecutive days, the longest any team has been in first place this season, were the victims of a 16-hit Rochester attack paced by Eddie Joost, veteran infielder who enjoyed a perfect day at bat with five safeties in as many trips to the plate.

In two other games, Toronto Maple Leafs stretched their winning streak to four by downing Jersey City Giants 7-3 and Buffalo Bisons hammered out a 12-5 victory over Baltimore Orioles.

Ellis (Cot) Deal and Ralph Williams set the Giants down on two hits as the Leafs collected nine off Warren Pickell and Al Sima. Vernon Benson, making his Toronto debut, clinched the game for the Leafs with a two-run homer in the third inning.

Buffalo hopped on five Baltimore pitchers for 10 hits that included four-masters by Chet Wieczorek, Vic Wertz and Johnny Radulovich. The Bisons rapped starter Ray Post for six runs in four innings. Joe Mellendick accounted for three Baltimore runs with a three-run circuit smash in the ninth inning.

Johnny Gilbert To Ride Boswell In Preakness

(By The Canadian Press)

After trying for 14 years to win the Preakness, scheduled for Saturday at Pimlico, Johnny Gilbert, 32-year-old jockey, was asked yesterday to ride Lord Boswell, fourth-running favorite in the recent Kentucky Derby. Leslie Combs, who manages Mrs. Elizabeth Graham's racing program, said he wanted someone to put pressure on the horse and, so, Gilbert gets a chance for the big earnings. The Preakness pot totals $141,620.

Gilbert's biggest win was in 1932 when he brought in Swivel for the $62,430 Pimlico Futurity and also booted Bold Irishman to the wire in front of Whirlaway in 1940.

I'LL WAIT FOR YOU

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

CHAPTER 21

When she returned, it seemed that all the lights had gone out of the room, that suddenly it was quite dark. Lowering the curtains she turned on the lamps, and the room took on a night-like intimacy. Edwina smoked constantly until dinner was announced.

They did not speak again of Alan or Norman. For escape, they spoke of the good Chippendale pieces in the dining room which Edwina admired. Carol said they had been brought from the city house. Then Edwina asked about nursing as a career and Carol, her mind seizing an outlet, spoke of her years in the hospital, the work, the pleasure and the labor and the long hours of it....while the clock ticked off the minutes slowly and Rosie, aware of the identity of the guest and eager not to miss a word of her conversation, shuffled back and forth between the dining room and the kitchen more frequently than was necessary.

Later Carol was to remember how long they were at dinner that evening and how slow their movements were—to make the time go faster so that the night would not be interminable. But in the living room again, time seemed to stop and there was nothing to say or do except to sit and wait. Nor was there anything in the past or future on which they could fasten their minds. The central thought dominated them both, thrusting out all other thoughts, leaving only Mr. Hartley's life swaying in a balance....

At ten o'clock Edwina stirred in the chair, her eyes searching Carol's face when she said, "Norman is getting the train for New York now...."

And all at once Norman filled Carol's mind; she could see him, a tall, loose-jointed, tweed-clad figure among lesser figures at the Newton station.... The train rounding the bend, stopping, the porter stepping off as Norman stepped on....Would he glance back? What was he thinking? Oh, what was he thinking?

Edwina's dark eyes narrowed. "Carol, if you could, would you go with him? Or, if you could, would you call him back?"

She knew then by the relaxing of the taut muscles in Carol's face and that brief look of radiance that came to her eyes....It was as if she had thrown a life-line or brought a light into a dark room....

Edwina said, "I know now and I didn't even suspect before. I wonder why I didn't. I can't imagine how it escaped me. You're as much in love with him as he is with you. I spoiled it when I told you I was going to marry him. An innocent little remark like that... But I explained that to you while I was explaining everything else...."

"I don't blame you for telling me you were going to marry Norman," Carol said when Edwina paused. "As you have just said, you were trying to make yourself believe that you were going to marry him. But I couldn't break with Alan. You can't make promises and break them, Edwina."

It was good to say at last simply and honestly, "I love Norman. Call him back or go with him? It wouldn't matter if I could be with him. But there are things other than love. Sometimes they hold you faster than love and you can't forsake them for love. And in the end love suffers most."

"You mean you'll marry Alan when this is over regardless of how it ends?" Edwina asked.

"Before it's over—if he wants it."

"Even if he goes to jail. You can't ..."

"You learn of the things you can do when you must do them. You can't build happiness on somebody else's unhappiness... Norman loves me...."

"The gold at the end of the rainbow...."

"But no one has ever reached it, Edwina. It's gold you dream about, a lovely illusion. And life is waiting and doing the things you must do... I wish father would telephone. The phone has never been quiet for so long. Suppose there are days of this uncertainty! You think that life hangs on big issues—war and peace and economics and politics. It doesn't. For me it's an old man's will to live...."

Edwina said, "Anything is possible if you love a man enough. You'll eat your pride and work and wait. But you don't love Alan, Carol. Eating your pride and working and waiting will be much harder for you if you marry him before he is sent to jail. If you loved him, it would be different. But not loving him, you're just a martyr, and martyrs went out of fashion a long time ago. It's a hollow loyalty." She lowered her eyes. "And yet you can do nothing else."

Eleven o'clock .... Twelve o'clock....There were no sounds along the quiet street, and in the house only the sound of the ticking of the clock. After tonight clocks would always seem ominous to Carol. She thought of her father, his nerves steady but his skill helpless. She thought too of Alan, waiting, thinking, smoking incessantly; and of Norman on a train moving northward and the taut strings of all their lives tonight....

Presently Edwina said, "I think I'll go home, Carol. Sam and Mary are sleeping in the house now and they'll think I've had another accident. Try to sleep, and call me when you know anything. No matter what time it is, call me."

Getting up, she smiled. "Often, when I've been very worried, I've visualized myself ten years later. It helps. And I always visualized myself in the loveliest places with the people I've cared for most—as if I were the heroine of a movie...."

Carol was curled up in the fireside chair, half of her mind asleep, when Dr. Tallant came home. Springing awake, she sat up and saw that he looked tired and old. It was twenty-five minutes to four, a minute to remember....

"Well, tell me."

And while her heart stopped, he drew up a footstool and took one of her hands.

"Poor child. It was agony, wasn't it?"

"I know you're terribly tired. I know you don't want to tell me, and that you'll try to postpone telling me. I've got to know and I hope I've prepared myself for the worst."

He smiled. "You know, Carol, Edwina Burke is perhaps the most incredible girl I've ever known. Mr. Hartley isn't going to die—not tonight, at least, and not for sometime. He's made of stern stuff and he pulled through this. Life is sweet to people who seem to have no reason to live. You realize that when you see them fight for it. It's been an altogether incredible night, with Mr. Fenton on one side and poor old Jake on the other. This Fenton chap is splendid."

She could say only, "Mr. Hartley isn't going to die...." and the words echoed over and over in her mind.

"And Mr. Hartley, glad to see another day, is not going to have Alan indicted. The debt will be paid and the slate will be wiped clean, I hope. Why is Edwina Burke an incredible person? Because, when she left you, she didn't go home. She went to Alan and about two hours ago she and Alan went to Mr. Hartley. That's why I didn't call you. A good deal was said and I couldn't slip away to telephone. All of us were in the room, Mr. Fenton, Mr. Hartley, Jake, Edwina and Alan. I was proud of Alan. I was proud of them all. The simple thing of telling the truth averted a catastrophe. I've seen touching scenes before but the sight of that old man and Alan....Edwina Burke can cry and so can Richard Fenton. We left Alan with Mr. Hartley and Jake. We felt that our job was done...."

The tears were rolling unchecked down Carol's cheeks. "Father, before Edwina left, she said something about looking ahead ten years and visualizing yourself as if you were the heroine of a movie. A way of escape—but Edwina is the heroine of today."

"She has great courage and great generosity. When I saw her and Alan come up the steps, I felt that she had driven him to come, that she had argued and pleaded, and that hers had been the better argument. We won't talk any more tonight, dear. There are some things I want to ask you about Edwina and Alan, and what Edwina told you today. But they'll wait until we've slept. The important thing is that the case is closed and we can sleep. Alan will probably come to see you tomorrow. There are only a few people who know about this and no one else will ever know. Your plans can still be carried out—your plans for your marriage. Now let's go up...."

Carol awoke with sunlight flooding the room, and slowly her thoughts came to order. The storm of yesterday was gone and this was a new day. And it was a day that would bring Alan, contrite and relieved, asking to be forgiven, holding her fast to her loyalty. She thought of him now not as some one stronger than she but as some one weaker than she, who would lean upon her judgment and foresight, who would turn to her as a child turns to its mother to ask, "What shall I do now?" Reconstruction was in her hands and it would be her job to mend the broken faith, to dispel the bitter taste, to make Alan believe in himself again....to be a wife. The promises men and women live by, the ideals they cannot desert.. ..

In New York this morning sunlight would flood Norman's apartment when he awoke. It would flood his office later. And there was no reminder of her in apartment or office or on the crowded streets. His telephone would ring and he would hear friendly voices again, voices giving invitations. The things that he and she never said to each other, the dear, ridiculous, delightful things that enrich and remain. It was like an unfinished song or a book closed forever at its climax. It left you with incompleteness, the ragged edge of your life always to be ragged and untied and dangling loosely. And in the thousand of faces that would come and go there would be only one....

Feeling the need of Edwina, Carol telephoned only to hear the old, soft voice of Mary saying, "Miss Burke went to New York this morning—early."

"To stay?" Carol asked. "Isn't she coming back?"

"No, Miss. She said she wouldn't be back."

So Edwina, her magnificent gesture behind her, had gone, too.

Carol dressed with the feeling of a nurse dressing for duty for a difficult case, though she wore a crisp cotton frock and brown and white pumps. There was efficiency in the way she brushed her hair and straightened her barely rumpled bed, so soundly had she slept. Presently Rocie's slow shuffling up the steps took her to the door.

"I didn't know you was up, Miss Carol." She had a letter in her hand and held it out to Carol. "The boy what brought it said to give it to you right away. Will you want your breakfast now?"

Alan's handwriting, a neat, legible hand....

"Yes. As soon as I read this. Has my father gone out?"

"He's reading his mornin' paper and waitin' for you to come down."

Closing the door, Carol went to the window, slit the envelope and drew out the letter.

Carol, dear,

With blank white paper before me and a pen in my hand, I don't know how to say what I must say, what is very clear in my own mind. It's five o'clock in the morning and I've just come in from walking most of the night. The world is different just before dawn and in spite of being tired and sleepy, one can think straight.

"I'm writing to you because I know if I see you that my emotions will be confused with my thoughts and that my emotions will overpower my thoughts. It's been that way since the first time I was conscious of you. And if I didn't know that what has gone before and what happened yesterday was clear to you, I'd risk it and come anyway.

Carol paused. Her eyes very misty.

Gas Caused Smothering Sensation; Got Dizzy Spells

"Often Couldn't Sleep, Felt Suffocating," Says This Woman. Nerves on Edge, Felt Headachy, Rundown. Tells of Remarkable Experience with Syntona Herbal Compound.

When the stomach becomes out of order and foods fail to digest properly, but ferment causing gas, sourness, excess acidity and a full, heavy sensation; when poor kidney action brings on night rising, backache or rheumatic pain: when bowels are constipated and you have headaches, dizzy spells and nerves are on edge, take a treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound and you, too, may find that this medicine may be just what you need to make you feel like yourself again.

Many people are telling daily of the good results they got by taking Syntona. For instance, here is the very remarkable experience of Mrs. Amy Cooper, 71 Oak Avenue, Hamilton, Ontario, as reported in a recent interview:

"Four years ago I was badly rundown and having constant trouble with indigestion, gas and bloating after my meals," said Mrs. Cooper. "Sometimes after supper the gas pressure was very bad and at night after lying down I couldn't get to sleep. I'd get a smothering, suffocating feeling and often had to jump out of bed to get my breath. My nerves would be all on edge and when morning came I felt fatigued and had no energy to do my work. I would often get very bad headaches and dizzy spells.

"At that time I had been desperately trying one thing after another, but nothing seemed of any use to me. Then I began taking Syntona and in a very short time I noticed an improvement. As I continued with this medicine it cleared up the gas and bloating and I could lie down at night and go to sleep without having those dreadful suffocating spells. The headaches, dizzy spells and tired feeling left me and I've been feeling fine ever since. A few weeks ago, however, I thought it was threatening to come back and right away I began taking Syntona. Now I find that it has given me the same good results, so this certainly is a medicine that I can depend on and that I do not hesitate to recommend to others."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

YOU know it if you have PILES! you'll know it QUICKLY when pile miseries are RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any rectal itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when so fine a remedy may be had at such a small cost. Money back if you are not entirely pleased.

NOTE—The sponsor of this notice is an old, reliable firm doing business in Canada for over 20 years. Hem-Roid must help your annoying and painful pile condition—must do it quickly, easily and pleasantly or your own test of this remarkable successful formula costs you nothing. Try it today.

LUCKY WHEAT

In the Middle Ages, brides carried or wore wheat ears, and the guests, hoping for prosperity, threw grains of wheat over the bride.

Advance Sale Is Phenomenal For the Series

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, May 9 (AP)—From the length of the line that has extended around the block from the Yankees' downtown ticket office for several days, New York fans evidentally expect the American League pennant to be decided this weekend at the stadium.

The advance sale for the three-game blow-off between the Yanks and those ball-pounding Red Sox from Boston has been little short of phenomenal, considering that the season still is in its infancy. It will surprise no one if the crowds tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday total 150,000.

The series is a natural if there ever was one. While it will not settle the American League championship, it could go a long way toward telling whether Manager Joe Cronin's high flyers really have the hitting, the fielding and the pitching needed to overcome the Yankees at last.

Meeting head-on for the first time since they powered their way out in front of the field and made it clear they were going to settle the thing between them, both clubs are certain to put forth the last ounce of effort and to use their top pitchers in hopes of dealing a stunning blow.

"BUDDY" AWAITS OWNER

Household pets continue to stray from their homes and just as certainly come afoul the long arm of the city dog catcher who stated today that he had a brown and white male springer spaniel in custody. The dog was picked up on John Street wearing a collar upon which the name "Buddy" appeared, but no dog tag was attached.

Confesses Theft Of Benito's Body

Rome, May 9 (AP)—Interior Minister Giuseppe Romita said today the theft of Benito Mussolini's body had been confessed by a man now in police custody and that the "remains apparently are hidden in Milan." He declined to divulge the identity of the arrested man.

EARLY EGYPTIAN DYE

A garment dyed with natural indigo, a vat color, was found in a tomb in Thebes, where it has lain since about 3,000 B.C.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

Toronto, May 9 — (CP)—The gold and industrial groups were lower on the stock exchange at mid-day and other groups were steady to slightly higher. Volume was comparatively light at 870,000 shares for the first three hours.

The liquor leaders, Hiram Walker and Distillers-Seagram, weakened 2 points. The utilities, foods and steels weakened moderately.

Soft spots in the gold group included Pickle Crow, Macassa, Marcus, Malartic Gold Fields, Orla and Preston.

Nickel and Smelters were stronger base metals.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, May 9. (AP)—Pivotal stocks continued to suffer from chilling drafts in today's market although, as in previous sessions, assorted special issues displayed healthy rising inclinations.

Dealings slowed after a fairly active opening and irregularly lower trend prevailed near the fourth hour.

Canadians were weaker on the big board at noon. Distillers Seagram led the group with minus signs being down 2 1-2 at 109 1-2. Others were Canadian Pacific, off 1-4 at 18 1-4, Dome Mines 3-8 at 23 5-8 and International Nickel, 3-8 at 38 1-8.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, May 9 (CP)—Cattle prices were steady at the week's decline in trade on the livestock market here up to mid-session today. Calves and hogs were steady. One car of western lambs sold off-car weight at $16. No sheep were offered.

Receipts reported by the Dominion marketing service were: Cattle 30, calves 70, hogs 100, lambs 190.

A few weighty steers were $11.60-$12.75, butcher steers $11.50-$12.50, a few good heifers $12, butcher cows $9-$10.50, fed yearlings $12-$13.

Calves were $15-$16 for choice with common to medium vealers $10-$14.50.

Hogs were, dressed, grade A $20, grade B1 $19.60, sows $16.75.

GOODWILL WOULD HELP

Moscow, May 9 (AP)—Difficulties blocking progress by the Foreign Ministers' Council could be overcome by goodwill, Tass said today in a Paris dispatch.

"The difficulties are connected with an obvious lack of desire on the part of the American and English delegations to understand that one should not try to enforce his will o nother participants in negotiations," the official Soviet News Agency asserted.

Seeks to Escape Second Trip To Electric Chair

St. Martinville, La., May 9 (AP)—Seventeen - year - old Willie Francis looked today to the Louisiana Supreme Court or the State Attorney General's Office for a possible rescue from a second trip to the electric chair.

Unless help is forthcoming from one or the other of those sources the young Negro, who escaped death last Friday because of a loose wire in the control box, will be strapped again into the repaired portable chair between noon and 3 p.m. today, C.D.T.

Betrand De Blanc, St. Martinville attorney who lost an attempt to obtain a habeas corpus writ yesterday from District Judge James D. Simon, said last night he would take his plea today to the Supreme Court in New Orleans.

In Baton Rouge Attorney General Fred S. Leblanc prepared a ruling on the legal aspects of the situation for Lieutenant Governor J. Emile Verret.

Governor James H. Davis, who is out of the state now, issued a six-day reprieve for Francis after the chair failed to function last week. Hundreds of pleas for clemency have come from all parts of the country.

De Blanc's petition for a habeas corpus writ contended that the boy was "electrocuted" last week as ordered in the governor's death warrant, and therefore cannot legally be subjected to the hazard.

Francis was sentenced to die for the murder of Andrew I. Thomas, St. Francisville druggist, who was slain in a robbery.

Mrs. M. Moffatt, 58 Rideau St., Kingston, writes: "I've never used a soap that gets clothes cleaner and whiter than EXTRA-SUDSY Super Suds. Yet I find Super Suds so safe. I use it for my colored things and it makes my clothes last longer. Super Suds is a grand soap."

Thank you, Mrs. Moffatt, for your swell letter. You see, Ladies, Super Suds is Concentrated. Super Suds actually gives you far more washing-power, which means sudsier, longer-lasting suds, for easier and quicker washdays. And Super Suds costs no more than ordinary washday soap.

Father and Son Burned and Two Others in Hospital

Family Lived in Apartment Above Service Station

Gobles, Ont., May 10 (CP) — Two are dead and two are in hospital at Woodstock following a fire here early today.

Dead are Robert Gordon and his son Joseph, 12.

In hospital are Mrs. Minnie Grace Gordon and daughter, Elizabeth, 15.

Another daughter, Marion, escaped uninjured.

The fire was in a service station and the family lived in a second floor apartment above the station.

Fire broke out late yesterday afternoon in the chimney but was believed to have been extinguished. Around 5 a.m. today fire broke out again and so quickly did it spread that all were unable to escape.

Floor Gave Way

Mr. Gordon was seen to reach as far as the upstair window when the floor gave way and he disappeared.

Mrs. Gordon suffered only bruises while Elizabeth suffered facial and arm burns. Marion, suffering shock, said in an interview later that a coat she was wearing protected her from burns.

"Dad woke Betty and me and told us the place was on fire," she said later at a neighbor's home. "Mother and Joe came in too and Dad told us we couldn't get downstairs because of the fire. He smashed the window and told us to jump. Neither Dad nor Joe would jump first.

Last One Out

"I was the last one out. Dad and Joe helped me on to the window-sill. Joe had hold of my coat. I heard mother shouting 'tell them to jump' and as I started to jump Dad and Joe dropped right away from me. I tried to grab Joe as I jumped. I guess the floor caved in."

The fire was first noticed by a passing truck driver who did not remain at the scene after arousing a next-door neighbor, John Weinber.

"There was a lot of black smoke and some flames when I was called," Weinber said. "I knew there was a ladder at the back of the house, but when I got there I found the ladder had been burned. By this time the house was a mass of flames.

"I saw Marion jump out of the upstairs window, also Mrs. Gordon and Elizabeth. Mrs. Gordon injured her knee in jumping."

Found in Ashes

"We saw Joe Gordon, the son, come to the window and we yelled to him to jump, but then he just disappeared."

Bodies of Mr. Gordon and his son were found in the ashes of the frame building.

Pete Hominsky of Gobles, who works in Woodstock, said he saw the fire when he was on his way to work. He, too, saw Joe Gordon come to the upstairs window and then disappear.

The only water available for use in fighting the fire was in a household well. The nearest fire fighting equipment was in Princeton, two miles away.

Neighbors said they believed a chimney fire yesterday may have continued to smoulder until early today when it broke out again.

3,500 Prisoners Used on Farm Jobs

Ottawa, May 10. (CP)—German prisoners of war are being made available to assist farmers in some parts of Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario, Arthur MacNamara, deputy minister of Labor, said today.

A total of about 3,500 prisoners is being used on farm jobs, including sugar beet production. The plan is a continuation of one in effect last year and the number of prisoners being used is slightly more than in 1945.

There was an earlier suggestion that the prisoners might be sent to England early this year but that plan has not so far been carried out. There is, however, no assurance of how long they will be available for farm work in Canada.

Weather Synopsis

Synopsis: Cold air which has been spreading south and east across the Canadian Prairies should reach Southwestern Ontario on Saturday morning. Precipitation is occurring ahead of the cold air in the states of Ohio, Southern Michigan, Indiana and Illinois and will spread into Ontario today and Saturday.

General Strike Halts Business In Middle East

London, May 10 — (CP) — A general strike of Arabs protesting British-American inquiry committee recommendations that Palestine be opened to 100,000 Jewish immigrants from Europe halted business activity in most important cities of the Middle East today.

Two bombs exploded in Jewish stores in Beirut last night, causing heavy damage and wounding four persons, but elsewhere there was tense quiet.

Police and troops took extraordinary precautions against any outbreak of violence and Prime Minister Ismail Sidky Pasha of Egypt, accompanied by an armed escort, toured the streets of Cairo, alert for any sign of trouble.

Most Cairo shops were closed and tramcars were not running. Military vehicles toured the streets and the city was placed out of bounds for British troops.

The work stoppage was almost 100 per cent effective in Alexandria, where large forces of police and soldiers, some of them patrolling the main thoroughfares in trucks, were on duty.

The strike was country-wide in Iraq.

In Palestine, where a few minor demonstrations were reported, the Arab higher committee made public the text of cables sent to Prime Minister Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia; Prime Minister Attlee and President Truman in which the committee said it would oppose the inquiry committee's recommendations "to the last man."

The higher committee also cabled the foreign ministers conference in Paris, demanding abolition of the British mandate in Palestine and Arab independence in Palestine.

Thousands Wait In Butter Line To Buy One Pound

Philadelphia, May 10. (AP)—A butter line ringed historic Reading terminal market for the second straight day today—and thousands stood four abreast waiting a chance to buy one pound, that's all, at the 56-cent ceiling price.

An estimated 15,000 men, women and children jammed five central city streets yesterday, but only 3,232 "lucky ones" went home to a dinner that would include the butter they bought. The others were turned away.

Starting today, sales will be limited to 1,500 pounds daily. There will be no butter sold on Sunday and Monday.

There were 12,500 pounds available yesterday—six tons of "yellow gold". Today, including a new shipment, about 16,000 pounds were on hand.

The line forms at the right.

SQUIRRELS EVEN FOOLED

Albuquerque, N.M., May 10—(AP)— If the lumber shortage is driving you nuts, consider the poor squirrels. Mill operator Al Newlander says timber is being cut, loaded and hauled from the woods so fast that the other day a squirrel showed up in his yard on a truckload of lumber — none the wiser for his trip.

CANADA MAY SEND BEEF TO BRITAIN FOR NEXT 3 YEARS

Will Not Return To United States Market Vacated in 1942 Due To Price Differentials

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, May 10 (CP) — The Commons learned yesterday that the government is considering the possibility of continuing to send beef to Britain for the next three or four years instead of returning to the United States market, vacated in 1942 when price differentials threatened to disturb the Canadian meat supply.

The information came from Agriculture Minister Gardiner, who said during consideration of his departmental estimates that he thought the government should give "full consideration" to the possibility of remaining in the British market for the time being.

The minister was replying to western members who asked that western producers be permitted to export beef cattle to the United States on the same basis on which dairy cattle went to that market.

Earlier, Labor Minister Mitchell announced approximately 1,500 Japanese in Canada who elected to be repatriated to Japan will leave the Dominion for the Orient late this month. One group of 680 will leave May 22 with the other 900 going about the month-end.

Mr. Mitchell said most of the returning Japanese now are in internment camps in British Columbia, Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario. Arangements have been completed for their movement to the coast.

Discussing the beef cattle situation, Mr. Gardiner said Canada now was the second largest supplier of meat to Britain, while for a long time she was third or fourth, and there was a question whether she should attempt to remain in that market.

"I am not speaking of a long-term policy," he said, "but merely for the next three or four years, during which time they (Britain) would be prepared to take all the beef we could supply.

Considering on One Basis

"If arrangements can be made under which we would get by sending beef to Britain returns as good as we could get by retaining our controls and keeping the present relationship with the United States, I believe most people would say, well, let us send it to Britain.

Superfortress Breaks World's Altitude Record With Load

Manila, May 10 (AP)— A United States 8th Airforce superfortress flew up to 39,360 feet with a load of more than 22,000 pounds of bombs over Guam May 7 to break the world's altitude record for land planes in the 10,000 kilogram (22,046 pounds) class, headquarters of United States Army Forces in the Pacific announced today.

The previous record was 23,759 feet set in 1938 by Karlheinz Kindermann, a German.

The B-29 was piloted by Capt. Arthur A. Pearson, Tucson, Ariz.

McNUTT A DIPLOMAT

Seattle, May 10 —(AP)— Paul V. McNutt, Philippines high commissioner, proved himself a diplomat as he stepped from his plane here after a flight from the Orient, via Adak in the Aleutians. "After Manila, this cool climate is wonderful," he exclaimed. Then he smiled and added quickly: "After Adak, this warm weather is wonderful."

Foreign Ministers, Stymied On Major Issues, Unable To Agree on Peace Parley Plans

Paris, May 10 (AP)— Russian insistence on full agreement among the Big Four before calling of a European peace conference was described in today's session of the Foreign Ministers as a "veto on permitting the nations which took part in the war to express their views" on the treaties, a British source said.

This source quoted Foreign Secretary Bevin as attacking the Soviet stand during the morning's two-hour council session.

A second meeting was scheduled for this afternoon in an effort to work out an agreement on the proposal of State Secretary Byrnes' proposal to convoke a 21-power peace conference for June 15.

Oppose Soviet View

A United States source said Mr. Byrnes also opposed the Soviet stand and said the four governments had a responsibility before the world to see that the treaties were written and to safeguard the rights of the countries which participated in the war to have a say in the treaties.

Mr. Byrnes suggested that the ministers set a definite date for the conference now and then continue working in Paris in small, informal sessions to try to narrow down the measure of disagreement between them, prior to the conference.

Although the conferees were expected to make a last-ditch effort today to compromise the divergent views of Russia and the United States on the convening of a general peace parley, most observers predicted that no such agreement would be effected and that the ministers would return to their homes early next week.

Delegates themselves admitted privately that there was only a flicker of hope for bridging the gap between Russia and the West on several fundamental issues.

That gap was widened yesterday, when State Secretary Byrnes of the United States and V. M. Molotov, Russia's Foreign Minister, argued for two hours—without agreement—on Mr. Byrnes' suggestion that a 21-power peace conference meet in Paris June 15.

Acting on Fresh Instructions

Mr. Molotov, who was reported to be acting on fresh instructions from Moscow, insisted that a 21-power peace conference should act only on treaties on which Russia, France, Britain and the United States had reached a prior accord.

To support his view, he offered two amendments, both of which were opposed by Mr. Byrnes.

The first of these accepted June 15 as the date or such a conference, provided the four ministers reached a prior agreement on treaties to be discussed.

The second suggested that the ministers adjourn now and meet again not later than June 5, when a 21-power conference would be called if an agreement could be reached on the treaties.

Mr. Byrnes countered with a suggestion that the 21-power conference should receive the

VICTOR ABDICATES AND HUMBERT MAY ASCEND THRONE

Italian Cabinet Summoned to Consider Abdication of King After 46 Years

By JOHN P. McKNIGHT

Rome, May 10. (AP)—The Italian Cabinet was summoned today to consider the abdication of King Victor Emmanuel as Crown Prince Humbert prepared to ascend the throne of Italy in the face of possible Leftist objections.

It appeared likely that Communist and Socialist ministers at a Cabinet session might challenge Humbert's right to succeed his father, now sailing toward Cairo and voluntary exile.

Pietro Nenni, Socialist and vice-president of the constituent assembly, and Palmro Togliatti, Communist and Minister of Justice, argued that only the constitutional convention to be elected in the June 2 plebiscite on the monarchy has the right to select a new king, although Togliatti said a "constitutional fiction" would permit Humbert to call himself King Humbert II.

Have No Effect

A Socialist party manifesto termed the abdication "a diversion to derange orderly preparation of the referendum" June 2. A Republican party leader, Randolfo Pacciardi, said in an interview that the abdication would have no effect on what he called the country's swing toward a republic.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi, to whom King Victor's 17-word abdication document was being forwarded from Naples, commented only that he was confident the monarchy would abide by the decisions of the plebiscite and the subsequent constitutional convention.

A minister of the Royal House said Humbert would issue a proclamation after today's cabinet session.

The 42-year-old Crown Prince, who also is lieutenant-general of the realm, returned to Rome from Naples, where his father formally renounced the throne yesterday after 46 years as Italy's monarch.

Goes to Egypt and Exile

The abdication document, written in the 76-year-old King's own steady hand, added Victor Emmanuel to the long list of unemployed European monarchs. He and his tall consort, Queen Elena, sailed toward voluntary exile in Egypt aboard the cruiser Duke of Abruzzi.

LUMBER SHORTAGE IS CRITICAL AT MANY POINTS

Survey Shows Lumber Totally Inadequate to Meet Demands

By The Canadian Press

Almost unnoticed in the furore over coal and meat shortages, a serious shortage of lumber has been creeping up on Canadian communities. A survey by The Canadian Press today showed that lumber is totally inadequate to meet the demand in many centres.

Reconstruction Minister Howe told parliament recently that special inducements have been offered sawmills in the West to ship some types of lumber to Ontario. It is in Ontario that the shortage is most acute. In the Maritimes mills soon will go into production and ample supplies are expected to take care of the demand in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

But at Ottawa stocks were said entirely insufficient and as housing schemes make progress the lumber shortage will be worse. Two-by-fours and sheeting are especially scarce.

In Toronto several lumber yards have closed down until the situation improves. A recent eight per cent increase in the wholesale price so far has had little effect in making more lumber available.

Right here it should be explained that lumber is dressed wood—planks, sheeting, two-by-fours and such. Timber is the raw material and production of logs has been as great as ever.

No Lumber in Toronto

"There just isn't any lumber in Toronto," said one dealer. "The situation is 100 per cent worse than at any time during the war. We get all kinds of excuses—export demands, weather, labor shortages, bad roads, all kinds of things—but no lumber. We expect the situation will improve, but just when is hard to say."

Most needed in Toronto is two-inch white pine or balsam.

Says Mild and Bitter Users Should Surrender Ration Points for Pints

London, May 10 —(Reuters)— British pub patrons should surrender ration points for their pints of mild and bitter, Rev. S. Maurice Watts yesterday told the spring assembly of the Congregational Union of England and Wales. Mr. Watts said the recent government cut of 20 per cent in light and dark bottled ale and of 25 per cent in draught bitter was not enough. He asked why 95,000 tons of sugar should be used for "off the ration" beer when production of biscuits had been cut 25 per cent.

Struck Riches in Golden North Acquires Yellowknife Air Express

Montreal, May 10 (CP)—A bit of the old northwest breezed through Montreal yesterday when Ernier Ayrhart, the 52-year-old prospector who struck it rich two years ago at Yellowknife after being discharged from the army and now employs his former major as secretary, came to town to take delivery of a Dakota Transport Aircraft, from Canadair, Ltd., named, appropriately enough, The Yellowknife Express.

In two years Ayrhart, who started out with pick and sifting pan 14 years ago to look for gold, has acquired interest in more than 30 mines, become Mayor of Campbellford, Ont., and set his old home town booming with new industries, mass construction and plans for an airport.

Ayrhart, who enlisted in the First Great War at the age of 16, was wounded three times and served with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment during the last war, said his future plans were for the development of Canada "so that we need no longer be affected by strikes or other tie-ups in the United States." He added "we have the industries and resources to be independent."

OPPOSE INDISCRIMINATE CUTTING OF YOUNG TREES

Port Hope, May 10 —(CP)— The Port Hope board of trade, viewing with alarm the manner in which trees of all sizes are being cut in Durham county, has declared war against indiscriminate cutting of young trees in wooded areas in the district which forms part of the Ganaraska watershed project.

CHARGE DOENITZ PROPOSED NAZIS OCCUPY SPAIN

Made to Hitler in '43 So U-Boat Warfare Could Be Stepped Up Through New Bases

By THOMAS A. REEDY

Nuernberg, May 10 (AP) — Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz was accused before the international military tribunal today on proposing to Adolf Hitler in 1943 that German troops occupy Spain so that U-boat warfare could be stepped up through newly-acquired bases.

Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, British prosecutor, said minutes of the Doenitz-Hitler conversations captured by the Allies showed the former German naval chieftain informed the Fuehrer the U-boat campaign was going badly and that the only strategic area left for operation was the Bay of Biscay.

"The best strategic solution lies in the occupation of Spain," Doenitz was quoted as telling Hitler.

Hitler's reply, the prosecutor said, was that such a step would have been possible in 1940 with Spain's co-operation but that the Reich no longer had the resources for such a venture.

"I don't think I proposed to the Fuehrer that we occupy Spain," Doenitz told the tribunal from the witness stand.

Sir David retorted that the originals of the captured minutes were in London and could be produced.

The British prosecutor sharply attacked the Admiral's contention that the German navy under his direction abided by the rules of warfare.

Sir David declared that Hitler proposed in February, 1945, the renunciation of the Geneva convention and that Doenitz advised him that "from a military standpoint there are no grounds for this step regarding the war at sea. This measure would bring no advantages. It would be better to take the necessary steps without losing face with the entire world."

Doenitz said that by "necessary steps" he meant only reduced rations for work units involved in sabotage.

The prosecution introduced admiralty records showing that U-boats sank 79 merchant ships without warning during the first year of the war and contended that each case was a violation of International law.

Doenitz commented tartly:

"These figures can't be checked."

"You gave no warning to the Athenia,' the prosecutor said, referring to the first liner sunk during the war with a heavy loss of British lives. Twelve Canadians lost their lives in the sinking.

"That was mistaken for an auxiliary cruiser and the commander was punished for it," Doenitz said.

Voices Opposition To Liquor Bill

Kirkland Lake, May 10. (CP) — Opposition to the Ontario governments new liquor bill was expressed here last night by W. J. Grummett, K.C., of Ansonville, C.C.F., House Leader in the provincial legislature.

Speaking at a public meeting the South Cochrane member stated that housing needs should come first in the province and that the liquor bill would waste away too much money needed elsewhere.

He said the Ontario government's new bill entitled "an act to provide for the control of the cutting of trees" ruled that no man could destroy trees on his own property. This, Mr. Grummett said, was a dictatorial act unsurpassed in the province and that persons who had accused the C.C.F. party of totalitarianism should study it.

Both Camps in Coal Strike Tense, Truman Said to Be in Militant Mood

Washington, May 10 —(AP)— The 40-day soft coal strike hit the United States relentlessly harder today, curtailing railroad passenger travel, ending all but priority freight shipments and bringing an order for rationing of illuminating gas.

John D. Small, civilian production administrator, called for government seizure of the idle mines before the country's economy is completely paralyzed, but he had no visible effect on the deadlocked negotiations between John L. Lewis and the operators. Both camps seemed as much at loggerheads as ever.

The White House likewise let Mr. Small's proposal pass in silence. However, President Truman was reported close to a "militant" mood and ready to act if the disputants fail to agree on a settlement formula he is drafting.

On Capitol Hill, legislators threatened to rip the whole field of labor legislation wide open in an angry new effort to curb major strikes. In both House of Representatives and Senate advocates of restrictive measures clamored for action on their proposals.

Southern 5 Miles Madoc-Millbridge Road To Be Built

$250,000 Will Be Spent On Work in Hastings East

R. Robson, M.P.P., Confers With Hon. G. Doucett

Result of representations made Thursday afternoon to Hon. George Doucett, by Mr. Roscoe Robson, M.P.P., for Hastings East, the highways minister has promised that a start on the construction of the Madoc-Millbridge road will be made this year.

The above announcement was made this morning by Mr. Robson following an hour's talk with the highways minister the previous afternoon.

According to Mr. Robson the provincial highways department has ear-marked $250,000 for new highway construction and paving in Hastings East this year. This will include approximately five miles of new construction north of Madoc on the Madoc-Millbridge road. The construction will be complete with gravel surface and culverts. It is expected that certain portions of the present road will be incorporated in the new construction.

The highways program mapped out for Hastings East this year also includes repaving of part of No. 2 Highway between Shannonville and Marysville, it was stated.

Although its cost is not included in the $250,000 ear-marked for construction and repaving in the riding, No. 37 Highway from Roslin to Tweed will be oil-surfaced.

Lives of 2 Irish Hunger Strikers Hang in Balance

Dublin, May 10 (CP)— Lives of two Irish hunger strikers, both former members of the illegal Irish Republican Army, hung in the balance today as demonstrations continued in an effort to obtain their release from prison.

Physicians said John McCaughey, former I.R.A. Adjutant General who went on a hunger strike 22 days ago and a thirst strike five days later, may not live through the day.

David Fleming, who has gone without food for 50 days also is reported near death and both prisoners are reported emaciated almost beyond recognition.

The Eire government has refused to release McCaughey, held at Maryborough prison near Cork and the Northern Ireland government has made no move to release Fleming, held in prison at Belfast. Both have demanded that they be treated as political prisoners.

Demonstrators who marched to the parliament buildings in Dublin yesterday were dispersed by police charging with riot sticks.

Inside the jail Oliver J. Flanagan, Monetary Reform member for Leix-Offaly, and Daniel Spring, Labor member for Kerry North, described Maryborough prison as "Ireland's Belsen", referring to the notorious German concentration camp.

Justice Minister Gerald Boland repudiated this charge. Replying to allegations McCaughey was ill-treated, Mr. Boland said the prisoner had a spring bed with air cushions and pillows.

In Dublin an Eire government statement last night said workers staged a one-day strike in protest against the government's refusal to release McCaughey, serving a life sentence for the kidnap and torture of an I.R.A. man suspected of being a government spy.

Almost nightly demonstrations have been held by Dubliners seeking release of McCaughey.

The government, however, denied reports that nearly 400 protesting workers attempted to attack President Sean T. O'Kelly yesterday in Phoenix Park.

Fleming, serving a 12-year sentence for the attempted murder of a police constable, has written a farewell letter to his mother and has made arrangements for his funeral.

Gen. Guy Simonds Witness at Trial Of Brig. Lister

By WILLIAM BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Amsterdam, May 10 (CP Cable) — Lt. Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont., testified today before a Canadian Army court martial trying Brig. J. F. A. Lister of Quebec City and Victoria, B.C., that at one time he considered the requisition of Amsterdam premises by Brig. Lister "a trifling offence."

Gen. Simonds, former Commanding Officer of the Canadian Army in The Netherlands, said he once told Brig. Lister, who is charged with misuse of the requisitioned property, that the most he proposed doing about the requisitioning incident was to append a memo to Brig. Lister's personal file.

Defence counsel Lt.-Col. C. H. Gage asked whether Gen. Simonds had told Brig. Lister that he had changed his mind on the subject because "I have to think of the repercussions to myself."

Gen. Simonds replied, "I could not answer that without reference to my notes."

Called as a prosecution witness, Gen. Simonds was in the witness box for an hour and 20 minutes. When he stepped down, the defence reserved the right to call witnesses in rebuttal. Col. Gage mentioned Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, Commander of the 1st Canadian Army in Europe, as the officer whose policy Gen. Simonds said he had adopted when he assumed command of the Canadian forces in The Netherlands.

Gen. Simonds testified that offences like those with which Brig. Lister is charged would be considered trivial if they were carried out by junior officers, but "it is my view that they do not conform with the high standards of integrity required of high administration staff officers of the Canadian Army."

Gen. Simonds described at length his own living arrangements at Apeldoorn, Holland, stating that three civilian cooks were retained to relieve army personnel for repatriation and that four laborers and four gardeners were employed on the grounds because of a warning that Prime Minister Mackenzie King probably was coming on a visit.

NAMED MANAGER DOMINION BANK AT QUEBEC CITY

Mr. Ira D. Simmons, son of Mrs. Wallace Simmons and the late Mr. Simmons, Foxboro, was recently appointed manager of the Dominion Bank, Quebec Branch, which opened in Quebec City on May 1. Mr. Simmons is a graduate of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School and in 1921, at the age of 16 entered the Dominion Bank here as a clerk. Soon showing his ability in the banking world, he was made teller at the age of 18 and becoming a manager at 30. He has been connected with a number of branches of the Dominion Bank since that time, and in 1937 opened the branch at Rouyn, Quebec. In 1942 he was attached to Head Office in Toronto and served for three years on the Inspection Board prior to his appointment to Quebec City.

SHORT POLICE COURT SESSION

Although 32 cases were listed for the morning's docket, Friday's police court was of short duration as in the absence of the investigating officer the only case which would have been heard was enlarged for one week. The case was a charge against a local young man who is alleged by police to have secured by false pretences a watch valued at approximately $30.

The young man will be remanded in custody until next week unless bail of $500 is forthcoming.

TO BE INDUCTED AS ANGLICAN RECTOR

The Rev. A. S. McConnell will be inducted as rector of St. George's Church, Trenton, this evening by the Rt. Rev. John Lyons, Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario. Clergy from the Anglican churches here and other parts of the Diocese will be present.

OPEN NEW WAREHOUSE AT BANCROFT, SATURDAY

Reeves of Hastings County and surrounding districts will be the special guests along with other district notables, of the Canada Packers Ltd., at Bancroft on Saturday, when the newly erected feed mill and large warehouse, built by the company will be officially opened.

Also in attendance at the function which will absorb the greater part of the afternoon and evening will be George S. White, M.P., Hastings - Peterborough, Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., Hastings East, and J. Fred Wilson, M.L.A., Hastings West.

R.C.A.F. PERSONNEL ABOARD LINER

Six Belleville and district R.C.A.F. personnel are scheduled to arrive back in Canada on May 13, aboard the troopship "Ile de France", it is announced through the Air Force headquarters at Ottawa.

One Belleville airman LAC. E. Bridle, 82 Octavia Street, is included among the 1,224 personnel while district men are LAC. G. H. Bawn, Enterprise; LAC. T. C. Mahoney, Bancroft; LAC. A. F. Peck, Brighton; Cpl. F. L. Stewart, Eldorado; LAC. F. R. Woods, Foxboro and Cpl. P. G. Hicks, Campbellford.

NEW O'BRIEN'S BRIDGE OPEN FOR TRAFFIC ABOUT JULY 1ST

It is expected that the new O'Brien's Bridge that spans the Moira River, eight miles north of the city, will be open for vehicular traffic on or about the 1st of July, it was learned here today.

The $128,000 structure is practically completed but much work remains to be done on the approaches to the bridge.

The new bridge replaces the former one that partially collapsed after a heavy truck had crashed into part of its supports some time ago.

NOT EXPECTED GIRL WILL NEED OPERATION

Three-year-old Doris Morrow, Bonarlaw, who a week ago swallowed a needle, is showing no outward ill-effects of the strange diet, and physicians said yesterday that her chances of getting rid of it are daily becoming better.

On Sunday the needle had moved from the stomach to the lower intestinal tract and recent X-rays reveal that the object is moving downward. The little girl, who is now at her home, is still under observation, and doctors hold out high hope that she will be relieved of the needle without experiencing an operation.

TRENTON TO HOLD RECEPTION FOR VETS AT AIR STATION

The town of Trenton will "take over" the Trenton Air Station on May 24 and will feature a monster reception to men and women of the town who served in the armed forces. "Among those present," will be Brigadier Howard Graham, DSO. and Bar.

A well-known Toronto orchestra has been secured for the evening dance scheduled to be held in the sports hangar of the station.

GRENVILLE COMPLETES WORK IN THIS AREA

The government lighthouse ship "Grenville" has completed her work of placing buoys and navigation lights in this area of the Bay of Quinte and has moved down the St. Lawrence River to Prescott. While here, the skipper of the "Grenville" shipped three new crew members.

In Two Accidents Within 24 Hours

To be involved in two highway traffic accidents of exactly the same nature within 24 hours has been the unfortunate role of Miss Iva Durocher, Alexander Street.

Wednesday night just after midnight Miss Durocher was passenger in a motor car which was involved in a sideswipe collision with another vehicle near the Ontario School for the Deaf, and Thursday night, almost to the minute 24 hours later, she was passenger in another vehicle involved in the same type of accident near Shannonville.

Miss Durocher suffered injury on Wednesday night and was admitted to hospital for emergency treatment, while last night she also required medical treatment.

Thursday night's accident occurred when a motor car driven west by Johnson Hillier, Front Street, Belleville, was in collision with an auto bound in the opposite direction and driven by Thomas Gin, Bridge Street East, Belleville. Gladys Maracle, an employee of Mr. Gin and a passenger in his auto, complained of an injured knee following the accident, according to Provincial Police who investigated.

Importance of Safety Measures Stressed at Meeting of I.A.P.A.

Picton, May 10 — The importance of safety measures was stressed by W. H. Cox, Assistant Chief Inspector, Industrial Accident Prevention Association, in an address at a meeting of the Belleville section of the Central Ontario district here Wednesday night. There were fifty foremen, superintendents and managers present at the dinner. Since the establishment of the Workmen's Compensation Board in January, 1915, until the end of last year, there have been 2,075,526 accidents in Ontario, involving payment of compensation benefits, said Mr. Cox. Of these accidents 11,881 were fatalities.

Mr. Cox stressed that every foreman and superintendent is his brother's keeper and should be responsible for seeing that there are necessary safeguards. He referred to workmen's compensation as a great boon to smaller firms. With the compensation cost of accidents distributed among large and small firms, a condition exists in which a serious accident will not put a small firm out of business, he said.

Boyce Wiltse, Wellington, director of the association, introduced the speaker who was thanked by A. H. Ross, Belleville, chairman Central Ontario district. J. H. Moffatt of the Gibbard Furniture Co., Napanee, referred to the danger of unprotected belts and advocated that women employees wear caps. He outlined measures used in that plant, especially in regards to using goggles when operating grinding machines.

Two reels of films relating to safety topics were shown by P. Jefferies, Field Inspector. One feature stressed was a rest period which reduced fatigue and consequent accidents.

Chairman L. B. Calnan, Picton, announced that D. J. Baxter, Bloomfield, had offered a trophy to be awarded to the Prince Edward County canning factory with the best accident prevention record. Representatives were present from all parts of Prince Edward County, Belleville, Deloro, Trenton and Batawa.

To Engage Five Teachers

Four teachers at Picton Collegiate and Vocational Institute are leaving the staff at the end of the present term. Not only are these vacancies to be filled but an additional teacher will be engaged as the curriculum is being enlarged by the addition of courses in agriculture, shop work and home economics. Teacher of this new course will be R. T. Hayes, BSA, a former member of the RCAF and for two years a prisoner-of-war. Teachers who are leaving are Miss Lorna Arscott, specialist in French and Latin, who will join the staff of the new Leaside Collegiate; Miss Mary O'Connor, commercial teacher, and Miss Dorothy Bannister, mathematics teacher, who expect to be married; Hubert Dancause, English and mathematics and physical instructor, who contemplates retirement from this profession.

Plans are now under way for a salvage drive here at the end of the month. Information given here indicates that there is still a keen demand for paper. The drive will be sponsored by the Rotary club with proceeds being used to assist the camp for Boy Scouts.

Presentation to Young Couple

Bloomfield hall was filled to capacity Wednesday night when friends gathered to honor Miss Hazel Denike and Milton Mainprize whose marriage takes place on Saturday. J. E. Baxter presided for a splendid musical program. Mrs. Ross Piper read an address and the gifts of the community, a cabinet of silver and a complete set of kitchenware, were presented on a decorated table. Miss Evelyn Smith, representing the Standard Church, of which the groom is a member, presented them with a combination end table and book rack. Donald Sanders, on behalf of the United Church young people, made the presentation of a pair of vases. Refreshments were served under the direction of the conveners, Mrs. Howard Bowerman and Mrs. Hubert Biddle. Miss Denike formerly resided in Belleville.

Shower Brides-To-Be

Honoring Miss Rosemary Helfferty, a bride-to-be of May 20, Miss Eva Pounder entertained at a cup and saucer shower at her home Wednesday night. Miss Eleanor Brown was co-hostess. Games and music preceded the serving of refreshments.

Honoring Miss Maude Minaker, a bride of Saturday, Mrs. Anson McLaughlin and Mrs. Fred Vancott entertained at a miscellaneous shower. The gifts of linen, crystal and china were arranged on a table decorated in pink and white.

Mark Birthdays

For the twelfth annual time, the birthdays of Mrs. C. F. Evans and Mrs. C. Peters of Toronto were jointly celebrated. A group of Toronto ladies motored to town to mark the event at the home of Mrs. Evans. Favors for bridge were won by Mrs. C. Peters and Mrs. B. Dunston of Toronto. While in town, Mrs. A. M. Palmatier entertained yesterday at luncheon at her home.

Tourist of Future Will do Most Of Travelling by Air

Toronto, May 10 — (CP)—Ontario Travel Minister Arthur Welch said yesterday after a 3,000-mile flight to northwestern Ontario and back that he's firmly convinced the tourist in the not too distant future will do most of his travelling by air.

Many of the places he visited on his check of reception centres at points of entry from the United States, already are conscious of the prospects and have selected landing field sites. "It is doubtful if it ever will be possible to build roads or railways into some of the areas we flew over, but there is nothing to stop a person from reaching them by air," he said. He had never realized the vast area's potentialities as a tourist paradise until he saw it from the air.

Accompanied by his deputy minister, Tom McCall, the minister also visited Sault Ste. Marie, Fort William, Port Arthur, Fort Frances, Kenora and Winnipeg during the three day tour.

Lively Mare None the Worse After Cross-the-Bay Swim

When William Vassau, Trent Road, one month ago bought a 12-year-old blood mare as a roadster, he little thought that he had an equine marathon swimmer as well.

But when his blood mare went for an hour-and-a-half swim in the Bay of Quinte one evening early this week, Mr. Vassau was willing to admit his horse apparently had a hankering for aquatic sports as well as for the open road. According to Mr. Vassau the spirited mare swam between six and seven miles, coming ashore on the opposite side of the bay to where it entered.

The "incident" happened when the mare was led to the bay for its nightly drink. While drinking the mare accidentally stepped over the halter shank and became frightened, breaking away from its owner and swimming out into the bay which is approximately one mile wide at that point.

First the mare swam directly out into the bay then turned west and circled for more than half an hour. Finally she turned east and swam toward the bay bridge about two miles away. Just as she was about to pass under the bridge the mare became frightened at passing cars and almost exhausted, floundered up the bank at Rossmore.

Mr. Vassau was on the shore to assist his mare out of the water and after giving the horse a brief rest, rode it home. The mare is none the worse for its experience, although the owner admits it "tamed" her somewhat.

Christ Church A.Y.P.A.

Relationship Between Parents And Their Children Theme of Discussion

Relations between parents and their bewildering 'teen-age offspring was the subject of discussion at the regular Wednesday meeting of the Christ Church Junior A.Y.P.A. This was one feature of an "Open Night" program, which also included a one-act play, and to which the members' parents and friends had been invited.

Two parents, Mrs. R. Gladwell and Mr. B. J. Theobald, and two 'teen-age members, Marjorie Ashton and Charles Staples formed the discussion panel, with Rev. E. Smith as chairman. The subject was handled with good humor and co-operative sympathy, and there was no lag in the heated controversy. After each topic was introduced, and discussed by the "experts," it was thrown open to general discussion which brought out further points.

Allowances

The first topic was that of allowances. Mr. Theobald thought that parents should allow their children spending-money, but that some effort must be made to earn the allowance. He suggested that the amount be graduated according to the age, and also proposed that young people should account for their allowances. Mrs. Gladwell and Marjorie disagreed with him on the latter point, because they felt that young people learned the value of money after having cause to regret spending of their allowance in a foolish manner. Mr. Staples thought that parents should encourage their children to work after school hours and on Saturdays, but agreed with Miss Ashton that there were exceptions to this. There was general agreement on the point of young people helping around the home to warrant the allowance.

Late Hours

"What hours should teen-agers keep?" Mrs. Gladwell thought that students should go out in the evenings only for A.Y.P.A. and on weekends, and then should be expected home at ten-thirty generally, or eleven o'clock at the latest. Of course, she pointed out, for a boy who has to escort a young lady home, some allowance would have to be made. The panel generally agreed on this, with Mr. Theobald emphasizing Mrs. Gladwell's points about late hours affecting the health and the studies of young people. There was agreement, too, on the idea of 'teen-agers telling their parents where they were going; it was also suggested that the older folks leave word where they can be contacted.

The Family Automobile

Mr. Theobald aroused applause with his approval of young people being allowed to use the family car. He emphasized the necessity of their knowing all about the valuable machine they were controlling, and agreed that young people made good drivers. Mr. Staples wasn't too sure that this applied to girls, which led to a short by-path discussion on women-drivers. Mr. Theobald also pointed out the value of young people being capable of handling an automobile in a crisis. The point of paying for the gas was brought up, and the feeling was that if the young person was working, some contribution should be expected, and if still at school, the 'teen-ager should help by taking care of the car.

Homework

The question of doing homework was side-tracked by the problem of how much study a collegiate student should be expected to do. Mrs. Gladwell said that this was for the teachers to decide, but it was pointed out that under the multiple-class system, there was no co-ordination of study assignment which led to a staggering amount of homework. It was felt that teachers asked for a certain length of time to be spent on a subject at home, without knowing how much the other teachers were asking the student to do. Mr. Theobald said that five hours was too much to ask a student to spend on homework, but an analysis of a typical day's assignments showed that this was expected. Mrs. Gladwell reiterated that the teachers and the Board of Education were best suited to study the problem, and the discussion was brought to a close. Mr. Smith thanked the panel, and was, in turn, thanked by the president.

Over one hundred persons were present, when the program opened with a short devotional period based on "The Family" led by President Ed Waterhouse. The reading of minutes by Secretary Harry Fry followed and there were a few announcements.

Play Presented

Mrs. Sparling was then called upon to introduce the play and the characters. Acknowledgment and thanks were made to Marjorie Ashton and Lorraine Gladwell for assistance, and to Ian Sparling for his work on the stage. The comedy "Brothers In Arms" by Merrill Dennisson, has a locale northwest of Tweed, and depicts hilarious struggles of tourists in the wilds. Dorothea Browne, "a romantic little fool," was played by Dorothy Strudwick, and her husband, Major J. Altrus Brown, an irate, impatient ex-officer was handled by Lloyd Gladwell. Ron Button and Gerald Bongard were in the roles of Syd and Charlie, two backwoodsmen. The cast is to be congratulated on a fine piece of acting, and for their close teamwork. Mrs. Sparling directed the play, for which she was warmly thanked.

Following the discussion, refreshments were served, and the program closed with prayers. The evening was planned by Amy Fry's group and the Fellowship and Work Committees.

Obituary

REV. ENOCH B. COOKE

(Port Perry)

Active in the ministry of the Methodist Church and the United Church for 47 years, Rev. Enoch B. Cooke died suddenly yesterday at his home in Port Perry following a heart attack. He had preached as usual at two services on Sunday at Scugog United Church, where he had served as minister for the last two years.

Although eligible for retirement about six years ago, Mr. Cooke continued as a preacher. He was minister of Thornhill United Church, Toronto Conference, for three years and before going to Scugog was assistant minister of St. James-Bond United Church, Toronto.

Born in Haliburton County, Mr. Cooke received his education at Lindsay Collegiate, Albert College, Belleville and Victoria College. He was ordained to the ministry of the Methodist Church in the Bay of Quinte Conference in 1899, and served pastorates in Cannington, Tweed, Newcastle, Newburgh, Dunsford, Little Britain and elsewhere. He was one-time chairman of Lindsay Presbytery and was a member of the Masonic Order.

Surviving are his widow, Louellen Cooke; a daughter, Eileen Cunningham, Toronto, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Hunt, Haliburton. Funeral service will be held Saturday morning in Port Perry United Church, with cremation Saturday afternoon in Toronto.

treaties after the four ministers had agreed "as far as possible." Otherwise, he said, disagreements among the ministers would block the rest of the world from going ahead with treaties.

Accused of Backtracking

Mr. Molotov then accused the Secretary of State of backtracking on an agreement of the Foreign Ministers last December in Moscow. At that time, he said, the ministers had decided that they would agree on treaties before submitting them to a general peace parley.

Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain made a compromise proposal that the first draft of treaties brought before the peace conference need not be agreed beforehand provided that the final drafts were agreed by the Big Four.

He asked that the other Ministers consider this proposition, which presumably would give the smaller powers a more influential voice in framing treaties.

Mr. Molotov objected to this, again citing the Moscow agreement.

Warner Admits Being at Murder In Statement

Toronto, May 10 (CP)— With the murder trial of four youths charged with slaying Meyer Tobias expected to occupy another full week, arrangements were made last night to let the jurymen off to see a moving picture. They will sit together in the theatre with sheriff's men guarding against attempts by anyone else to engage them in conversation.

The jury yesterday heard a statement allegedly given to police by the youngest of the accused, 17-year-old Donald Warner, after being excluded during lengthy argument as to its admissability. Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay finally ruled the statement admissable but warned the jury as to what was evidence and what was not.

The other prisoners are William Mullen, 20; Howard Urquhart, 19, and Edward Martin, 18.

The Warner statement was in question and answer form as reported by the police. While the jury was still out, Warner charged that one policeman had threatened to beat him up if he did not talk. "I told them I had been beat up before," he said.

Urquhart Dreve Car

The Warner statement as produced by Det. Sgt. Frank Wilson opened with the assertion that on the night of Dec. 28—the night Tobias was slain during an attempted hold-up in his dress shop in North Toronto—Warner had been "at a murder and attempted robbery." It said that Mullen, Martin and Urquhart had been with him "at the murder." It said Urquhart drove the car which had been stolen from a downtown parking lot.

Det. Sgt. Wilson testified that after telling of his part in the shooting Warner, youngest of the accused, broke down and cried in the police station.

Warner said on the stand that he was "pretty nervous" at the time and "I signed it." But he said the statement was true with three exceptions. An assertion attributed to Mullen tha he had shot Tobias and that he was dead was untrue. "I didn't use those words," Warner said. He also denied a statement that he and Mullen had gone to a theatre later that night, and a third statement that Urquhart had told him in a pool-room that "some one got trigger happy."

Barkley Predicts Senate Approval Of British Loan

Washington, May 10 — (AP)— Democratic leader Alben Barkley confidently predicted Senate approval of the $3,750,000,000 British loan today by a three to two margin.

With a vote on passage scheduled for 4 p.m. E.D.T. the Kentucky senator told reporters the ease with which the administration smashed down opposition amendments in a stormy session yesterday portends an even greater majority than he originally had expected.

Before the Senate for its first action today was a proposal by Senator Allen Ellender (Dem.-La.) to require that 90 per cent of the money to be advanced to Britain under the agreement be spent on American goods. As the agreement stands, there is no provision limiting the expenditures.

In a session lasting almost 12 hours yesterday, the Senate disposed of several amendments, striking down proposals by Senator Robert Taft (Rep.-Ohio) and William Langer (Rep.-N.D.).

Senator Taft sought to substitute a $1,250,000,000 gift, to be spent in this country, for the loan. It was rejected, 50 to 16. Senator Langer tried to authorize government loans to veterans on an interest-free basis for five years and then a 1.6 per cent rate. The Senate defeated that 56 to 12.

GIVEN SIX YEARS

Baltimore, May 10 —(AP)— Clarence Wheatley and Sylvester Johnson, who pleaded guilty in the $29,000 theft of jewelry and clothing from screen actress Dorothy Lamour, were sentenced yesterday to terms of six years each in penitentiary.

Harry Leader, Liberal Member For Portage, Dies

Portage La Prairie, Man., May 10 — (CP) — Harry Leader, who represented Portage La Prairie in the House of Commons for 15 years, first as a Progressive and later as a Liberal member, died at his home near here last night. He was 66.

His death, second of a member within a week, brought the number of vacancies in the Commons to three. W. R. McDonald, Liberal member for Pontiac, died May 2.

Present standing of the 245-seat House is Liberals 124; Progressive Conservatives 65; C.C.F. 28; Social Credit 13; others 12; vacant three.

First Elected in 1921

Mr. Leader, who won his first seat in parliament in 1921 by defeating Arthur Meighen, then Prime Minister of Canada, had been ill for some years. He attended the session last fall but was forced to withdraw before it ended and entered hospital in mid-January.

In four of the five contests he fought in Portage constituency he emerged victorious — he won in 1921-35-40-45 and lost in 1925 — but none brought him more acclaim than the first.

He had been in municipal politics from the time he was 26 but outside that sphere he was unknown politically. Few conceded him a chance of unseating the Conservative leader when he accepted the Progressive nomination before the '21 general election.

Elected on Remark

But a remark Mr. Meighen made in a campaign speech at Toronto gave the young candidate the fuel he needed. Mr. Meighen said the Progressives had avidly embraced a proposal to increase the indemnity from $2,400 tq $4,000 a year and of all members in the House the "farmers seemed more anxious to get their increase than any other section."

Spurred by that remark, Portage returned Mr. Leader by a majority of 177, a turnover of 3,800 votes. In the next general election, however, Mr. Meighen turned the tables and after his defeat Mr. Leader remained out of Federal politics for 10 years.

Wins Reputation

From 1935 on, however, he represented Portage in the House without interruption. Independent, aggressive and vigilant where the interests of agriculture were concerned, he won a reputation as a straight-from-the-shoulder speaker.

He was known internationally as a grain grower and livestock raiser. His cattle won prizes in fairs and exhibitions in both Canada and the United States and in 1930 he was president of the Canadian Aberdeen Angus Association.

A year ago he told his supporters he was retiring from politics to devote all his time to assisting in the fight against cancer but they persuaded him to remain.

Error Made in 1215 In Name of Great Charter is Corrected

London, May 10—(Reuters) — The error of medieval scribes 731 years ago was rectified in the House of Lords yesterday in a decision to delete the "H" from the word "charta."

Henceforth the document signed by King John as the first step toward parliamentary rights in England will be officially referred to as "Magna Carta."

The debate arose in the course of a discussion on the bill to authorize British museum trustees to lend one copy of the document to the United States to display in the library of Congress for a two-year-period.

Decision to alter the word in the bill followed an explanation by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Jowitt, that the earliest use of the word "charta" was in the 15th century, 200 years after the document came into existence. The men who forced King John's signature at the point of the sword at Runnymede referred to the document as "carta."

Canadian Labor Unions Edging Toward Deadlines in Demands For Higher Wages, Shorter Hours

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, May 10 (CP)—A group of major Canadian labor unions, with an eye cocked at the continuing strike of American soft coal miners, are edging toward deadlines in their demands for higher wages and shorter hours.

First deadline is that of May 15, set by the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.) for a walkout of 37,000 men in the British Columbia lumber industry. Coal shortages resulting from the United States mine stoppage have no effect on that situation but possibility is seen that it may affect other threatening labor disputes.

The United Rubber Workers (C.I.O.) have set May 27 as a strike date for about 10,000 workers in 10 Ontario rubber plants. Reports from various industrial centres indicate that if the coal strike is not settled by that date there may be an almost complete shutdown of Canadian industry and as a result strike action might be forestalled.

Lake Boats Tied Up

The same thing applies to lake shipping where the Canadian Seamen's Union (T.L.C.) has set a final date of June 7 for men to stop work on lake and coastal ships unless demands are met. Already a number of lake ships have tied up because of short coal supplies.

One of the largest unions involved in the concentrated wage-hours drive is the United Steelworkers (C.I.O.). Two of the three Canadian basic steel mills —The Steel Co. of Canada at Hamilton and Algoma Steel Corp. at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., face the possibility of shutdowns from coal shortages. The third plant—Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. at Sydney, N.S.—is in a more favorable position with a supply of Nova Scotia coal at its door.

In general the unions are demanding, with the exception of the seamen, a 40-hour week with increases in hourly rates which would leave them the same amount they now receive for a longer work week. The seamen seek reduction of an 84-hour week to 56 hours.

Woodworkers Ask Increase

The International Woodworkers ask an increase of 25 cents an hour and a 40-hour week. The union has turned down an offer of the employers' for a 44-hour week with an increase of 12 1-2 cents an hour. The Union's action in directly rejecting the offer complies with the technique adopted by a number of labor organizations in announcing they will by-pass the war labor boards, which administer the government's wage control legislation, and deal directly with employers.

Labor Minister Mitchell in a circular letter to labor unions and employer organizations this week renewed his declaration that prices could not be kept under control without a measure of wage stabilization.

"If workers feel they are justified in seeking a wage increase, steps should be taken to have the matter submitted to the appropriate war labor board on which organized labor is properly represented," the minister said.

"...strikes to support such applications are prohibited but this is a necessary safeguard to ensure the maintenance of the government's price-wage policy."

Want to Deal in Groups

In both rubber and steel the unions have been seeking, so far without success, to deal with employers in the industry as a group, rather than as individuals.

The steelworkers are seeking a minimum wage of $33.60 for a 40-hour week but in negotiations with the Steel Co. of Canada, C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the union, has expressed willingness to agree to a 44-hour week at $33.60 if the 40-hour week will be introduced within a year.

Wage demands are also pending from the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) and the International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (C.I.O.) The Auto Workers are asking a straight increase of $2 in both automobile and agricultural implement plants. The Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers ask a 29-cent increase for about 40,000 workers.

Junior Board of Trade News

Guests of the Boost Belleville Committee were Robert Pringle, chairman of the Industrial Commission and Harry Rollins, vice-chairman of the Industrial Commission.

Mr. Pringle gave a very interesting talk on the activities of the Industrial Commission. He pointed out the prospective industrial sites, railroad sidings, etc. on a map of Belleville.

Prospective factory sites in Belleville are few. However, there are several excellent sites on the outskirts of the city. These sites, while ideal in every other respect, have no water or sewage. According to law, water and sewage facilities may not be installed at the expense of the city in order to entice new industries.

The prime requisites governing an industry locating in Belleville or any other community are chiefly, market facilities, labor, transportation, raw materials, available buildings, power and fuel, water and sewage, related industries and living conditions for prospective employees. Unless we in Belleville can provide these vital necessities, we cannot expect new industries to locate here.

The aim of the Industrial Commission is to serve the industries already established in Belleville and to provide facts for new industries interested in this location. Towards this end, they have published a booklet stressing the advantages of Belleville as an ideal industrial location.

It was pointed out that, according to law, land cannot be granted by the city to an industry for their location. It must be sold at a fair price.

We of the Junior Board of Trade, in fact, every resident of Belleville can help the city by boosting it and also by boosting the much-needed sewage disposal plant.

Belleville is more prosperous now than ever before. Don't let us slide. Let us continue to be a prosperous community.

At present there are 54 industries in Belleville including three new industries which located here last year.

Harry Rollins summed up the ideas and views of the Industrial Commission and pointed out that if Belleville is progressive, there is no need for an Industrial Commission.

The meeting closed with a question and answer period.

Chairman for the "Boost Belleville" committee meeting was "Boiler" Lloyd.

Bremerton, Wash., May 10 — (AP) — A new cycloidal propeller that enables a ship to spin with her bow as a pivot today was termed "the most important mechanical development in recent years" by Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, district naval commandant. The propeller consists of twin rotors seven feet in diameter, each equipped with six vertical blades revolving on their own axis as the rotors revolve.

DENIED USING PRISONERS

Luneberg, Germany, May 10— (Reuters) — Brigadier L. M. Inglis, commander of a New Zealand brigade in the island of Crete, yesterday denied that the Germans used prisoners as screens for their attack in Crete, in 1941. He was giving evidence at Luneberg in defence of his ex-enemy, Col.-Gen. Kurt Student, Hitler's parachute general in the Crete invasion.

WANTED BY ALLIES

Among the large group of Nazis and Fascists in Spain, whose surrender has been asked by the Allies, is Leon Degrelle, leader of the outlawed Belgian Rexist party. The Spanish government was said to be unwilling to hand over Degrelle until they were sure his trial wouldn't proceed with the speed of that of Pierre Laval, French traitor who was executed.

Improvements

Clean-up in the year 1946 means to a good number of citizens something different from what it represented in other years. During the war much had to be allowed to lag in the way of improvement of property by use of paint and supplies and this situation has left work to be done which in the aggregate is more than could be performed in an ordinary year before the war. The Ottawa Journal points out that "the war left us a bit down at the heels and we shall not catch up this season. Houses need paint and paper and new roofs; garages and fences need painting—thousands of jobs of upkeep were postponed during the war, and their performance now depends upon a limited supply of expert labor. However we are making progress."

At this present time there are the inevitable signs in Belleville of what will be in the course of a short time the real beautification — excavations are being made for new homes that will before the year ends enrich the attractiveness of many streets. Many people do not yet appreciate how much building there has been in the past few years. A tour of exploration and discovery of the added beauty which has been created on many streets, especially side streets, where formerly were yawning and sprawling vacant lots, would prove interesting.

There have, of course, been many who have despite shortages not neglected to turn their hand to what they have been able to do by the exercise of a little energy and patience with the lawns, the shrubbery and flowers, the earliest of which are now adorning the dark earth and adding their colors to the growing green that is everywhere.

The city itself has set a good example as a corporation in clearing the streets very early, so that they are really a matter of pride to the citizens.

Expedition Ends Trail

Canada's Muskox expedition in Northern Canada for thousands of miles in the latter half of February, March, April and the first few days of May has concluded its trek over nine hundred miles than first contemplated. The trek took the party hundred miles within the Arctic Circle and back to the habitations of men in Southern Canada.

It has been an experience of great moment and there can be no doubt that important information as to weather and the nature of the terrain has been collected. It has been hinted that there may have to be some changes made in the map.

The mechanism used in the Muskox tour of the high north has been tested under actual conditions.

This body of men lived as no other men in the New World have been able to live, that is, under conditions of cold and travel, never before duplicated. The historical expeditions of the past such as that of the Franklin party lost so many years ago were not on the thorough and grand scale of this trek which was built up on accurate information which could not be had by the expeditions of old.

Muskox came back with experience.

The inquisitiveness of mankind and especially of daring youth has always attracted mankind to the efforts of Polar and other expeditions such as that of explorers in Africa. As long as there is any unknown and as long as there is something to be achieved such expeditions will intrigue the minds of youth and men.

Sees Need of U.S. of Europe

Former Prime Minister Winston Churchill has visioned the need of the formation of a United States of Europe, as a logical outcome of the United Nations for he sees no reason why under the guardianship of a world organization there should not arise such an organization, both of the East and the West of Europe "which will unify this continent in a manner never known since the Roman Empire."

Prosperity, justice and peace are the fruits it would bring, he told the Parliament of The Netherlands whom he was addressing on Thursday.

He looks on special alliances between nations not as weakening that structure but making it "indivisible and invincible" and cited the British 20-year treaty of friendship with Russia, which will be a guarantee for peace and spoke of the proposed treaty with France and the hope that the western democracies of Europe might draw together in close association.

He defined the reality of political democracy as measured on the basis of its provision for free constitutional decisions and free election, freedom of opinion, free opposition and free criticism of the government of the day and stated that where nationalism means lust of pride and power and domination by force it was an evil force and where it means love of country and readiness to die for it and the gradual building up across the centuries of a social entity dignified by nationhood it was the first of virtues.

Mr. Churchill spoke at London this week on "the supreme hope and prime endeavor" towards achieving lasting peace as reaching a "good and faithful understanding with Soviet Russia through the agency and organization of the United Nations," and called for the English-speaking world and western democracies to move together in creating a true fellowship with Russia. On that occasion too he spoke of the importance of a strong France as possibly leading the way.

The famous wartime leader has insistently spoken of the supreme importance of understanding among nations.

Such a federation of European nations has been envisioned before as a good much to be desired.

Too Few Markers

A writer protests the absence of signs identifying lakes or rivers to passengers in our railway trains and thinks that if these were erected it would add materially to the interest of railway travel.

What about highway travel? Highway signs do not always tell motorists about the bodies of water that are encountered in the course of travel or anything of interest that lies alongside or near the road. National historic sites are marked in this manner but little else.

On the other hand, the smallest brook crossing a road in the Adirondacks is identified in this way and the state of New York has hundreds of historic markers to our one. Interest is thus added to motoring in that state, as well as in many others which have adopted the same practice.

We do not need to mark every creek or every old house along our roads, but we can stand many more markers than we now possess not only for our own knowledge but for the information of the large numbers of tourists who travel our roads every year.

Europe's Scars

A publication of the Royal Institute of International Affairs presents a summary of war damage in western Europe which tends to minimize the physical devastation, or at least, place it considerably below all previous estimates.

With the exception of the salt water flooding of Walcheron Island — a name that will long hold grim significance for thousands of Canadians — the land itself suffered little but temporary damage, we are told.

Depletion of soil fertility and slaughter of livestock constituted serious factors, but the area of direct devastation was surprisingly restricted. Germany was the chief victim of railway wrecking.

The survey may give the comforting impression that much of the damage done by war to city, town and countryside is already being repaired, or is repairable.

But when one considers the damage done to the bodies and spirits of human beings, the destruction of buildings, fields, forests, railways, herds, loses all significance.

Much of this damage is irreparable. Men and women yet unborn will show these scars.

PRAYER

I do not ask the load made light
Nor shortened pathways long.
I only make my prayer at night:
The day shall find me strong.

I only ask the Lord for strength
The tasks I face to bear;
To go the miles required, full-length,
And triumph over care.

I would not at the pane recline
And watch the morning through.
I only pray that strength be mine
For all that I should do.

Whitehall Notebook

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, May 9 — (CP)—Members of Parliament returning from their Easter holidays without the expected word from Prime Minister Attlee about changes in the cabinet.

No major reshuffle has even been hinted but a few minor changes have been predicted, with more talk of members who deserve promotion than ministers who deserve demotion. Two under-secretaries in particular — Hector McNeil, member for Greenock who is understudy for Ernest Bevin, Foreign Secretary, and John Strachey, under-secretary for air and member for Dundee — have been mentioned as deserving of greater responsibilities because of their work in recent months.

Veteran observers of the parliamentary scene expressed surprise Mr. Attlee has carried on since last July with practically no changes in either major or minor government offices. Labor circles said that Mr. Bevin expected to be Chancellor of the Exchequer and Hugh Dalton, now Chancellor, to be foreign secretary.

Mr. Attlee is supposed to have decided on these appointments but changed his mind overnight, and since then both ministers, considered by their party to have been successful in office, have teased each other about surprises that came to them.

Labor Wealth: Richard Stokes, 47, Labor member for Ipswich, an aggressive and persistent questioner in Commons sessions, is one of a group of members whose Socialist activities have not been hampered by wealth.

Mr. Stokes is managing director of a £280,000 ($1,246,000) engineering firm and director of other machinery companies.

Eric Fletcher, 42, Labor, Islington east, is a solicitor who sits on the boards of 10 companies with an aggregate capital of £7,000,000. Another solicitor is R. W. G. Mackay, 42, Labor, Northwest Hull, managing director of a £226,000 industrial firm and director of several others.

Frank Bowles, 42, Labor, Nuneaton, has a five-figure income. He is solicitor to a large insurance company of which his grandfather was chairman.

POPULAR LEWIS

John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers chieftain, is applauded as he entered the meeting room for a session of the union's 250-man policy committee in Washington, D.C. The government handed the U.M.W. and the soft coal operators a proposal for ending the 37-day-old coal strike which the U.M.W. policy committee planned to debate. Terms were not disclosed.

Penalty of Failure Soon to Be Felt

(The Financial Post)

What does failure of the Dominion-provincial conference mean to us individual Canadians?

1. The provinces (in some cases municipalities) will again presumably levy personal and corporation income tax. On top of what the Dominion wants to extract from us, an additional levy will, for many Canadians, be almost certain.

2. If the Dominion decides to go ahead with its social security and economic stabilization plans regardless of the conference outcome, tax cuts will be less than had the conference reached agreement. If the social security program is shelved, tax cuts may be more than indicated.

3. The conference collapse kills hope for a thorough and early overhaul of our tax system and administration.

People in different provinces will again presumably pay different levies. In 1939 a married man without children on $3,000 paid $62 in P.E.I.; $30 in N.S. and N.B., around $30 in Quebec; $44 in Ontario, $77 in Manitoba, $71 in Saskatchewan, $65 in Alberta and $80 in B.C. It is now inevitable that we go back to the old system of the highest taxes where there is the least money to pay them.

An early clean-up of double taxation on corporation earnings is unlikely. Information from the West is that business taxes in various forms will increase. As reported elsewhere in this issue Saskatchewan has been drafting its plans, expecting the conference to fail. Measures for special provincial taxation on railways, banks, insurance companies, farm implement, mail order and other kind of business operating on a broad national scale are reported to be ready. Manitoba is reported to have similar tax plans in preparation. Similar developments are to be expected from others financially desperate.

Thorough-going cleanup of the present chaos on succession duties is pushed into the future. Ontario has been working out some reciprocal deals with other administrations to good effect, but a complete set of such "deals" is inevitably far away. Here is one example of the situation we are now back to: One Alberta widow inheriting $100,000 may pay total succession duty of $13,680. Another Alberta widow inheriting $100,00 may pay $19,718 because of the different situs of a portion of that estate.

What was the real argument at the conference? What are the fundamental reasons why it failed?

Underneath the 150,000 words spoken in the recent session, down behind the plans and counter-plans submitted, two fundamentally different political philosophies can be uncovered. Those differences are, for the most part, less apparent in what was said at the conference than in what was said in the month prior to it. The opposing factions at the session were merely reflecting a basic difference of opinion and point of view among Canadians themselves.

Simply as a label, let's call the first, the Ottawa view.

It holds that no matter in what province they live, Canadians should get about the same kind and quality of public and social service, and that financial arrangements should make that possible. So far as the individual is concerned, the argument is that in the taxes he pays, the educational, health, and other facilities offered him, there should be no difference whether he lives in one of the so-called "have" or "have-not" provinces. Here's the second part of the "Ottawa view."

To safeguard and perpetuate our present Canadian way of life, continued high level employment and a high degree of social security are necessary. It is the function of a central government to foster economic stability and to fight the causes of economic instability. It must, the argument continues, use taxation in a manner that will stimulate rather than restrict employment and enterprise. Government must use the tools which it alone can use to minimize the ups and downs of the business cycle; to help prevent depressions and control booms.

Here is something of what goes on in the minds of people on the other side.

Rough Practical Experience Ahead

They hold that the closer government is to the people, the more likely it is to be efficient; that too much centralization builds up an unwieldy, inefficient bureaucracy. Therefore they want to protect and strengthen local governments.

Maintaining the strength of the provincial governments, this view goes on; and resisting increases in the power of the Federal government is the citizen's best defense against Canada being sometime swept into totalitarian revolution. Socialists, it is pointed out, may, for instance, win elections in Saskatchewan, or Communists may sweep some other province. But what they can do is limited and so is the effect of their actions. Socialists or Communists in power at Ottawa would be a very different matter, especially if all major tax powers were in central government hands.

There, basically, is the argument behind the thoughts behind the words of the conference.

What happens now? A Dominion election is one rumor. Dominion cabinet changes as a result of inner quarrels on this matter is another.

One thing is certain: Another Dominion-provincial conference, another try to solve problems screaming for attention, cannot be far away. To that conference, the Dominion's men may come less adamant in their plan. To that conference the heads of the two provinces representing about five-eighths of the Canadian population may come with a lower price tag on their co-operation.

Certainly in coming months and years, the Canadian public is going to get some very practical and unpleasant experience of what failure to reach some new basis of Dominion-provincial collaboration means.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.

Readers addressing letters to Dr. Brady will please include the word "Canada" on their return envelopes, as these letters have to be forwarded to Dr. Brady. And it is requested that readers use standard size envelopes that will hold a small booklet.

HARPING ON THE D STRING

At risk of being accused of harping on the subject of exposure to sunshine and skyshine or diffuse daylight—I beg to give you one more verse in the ballad "Whadaya want with clothes and hats when you've skin enough to wear?"

First, please bear in mind that I advocate the least clothing you can get by with, and I have nothing to say about nudism. This is a health column. If any teaching or advice you find here leads you into a dispute with the Sewing Circle or the Constable, I'm sorry.

I appeal to all parents and guardians of young children to let the kids go with the least clothing whenever the kids want to. I maintain that if the child is not actually an idiot he or she knows better than you or I or any one else can know whether the child is dressed warmily enough or has on enough covers or is dry enough or well enough protected from wind, dampness or draft in any conceivable circumstance. If there is anything wrong with my reasoning about this I do wish some sane intelligent monitor would take me aside and explain in simple language the truths of life to me.

At the moment I advocate near-nudity for the children particularly because, I believe, it is the best remedy we have, both as preventive and cure, for enlarged tonsils and for adenoids—but at the same time it is fine medicine for many other ailments of children youths and adults.

Exposure of naked skin surface to sunshine direct or diffuse (skyshine, daylight in the shade, light on a gray or cloudy day) enables the body to manufacture sunshine vitamin D—ultraviolet rays in sunlight activate a wax-like substance in the skin called cholesterol or ergosterol, converting it into viosterol, which is vitamin D.

In the pamphlet Tonsils and Adenoids—for copy send stamped self addressed envelope, and ask for it in writing, not with a clipping, I recommend what I consider the next best prophylactic and remedy for enlarged tonsils and adenoids, a daily ration of vitamin D and vitamin B-complex to supplement the regular diet, especially through the late winter and early spring when most people, even the kids, get little or no daylight on their skin. But this alternative for exposure or nudity is at best only a poor substitute for nudity. We must remember that the manufacture of vitamin D by ultraviolet irradiation is only one of the effects of daylight or sunshine. There are probably many other beneficent effects of which we know little or nothing.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Low Shoes

Are low shoes harmful to a baby's feet? Is there a minimum age when children should be allowed to wear low shoes?

Answer—No. The less shoe the better for the baby's feet or for the feet of any one. Let the baby or child wear the lowest shoes that have soles thick enough to protect from punctures, cuts etc. Whenever it is possible to go barefoot or wear only soft moccasins, that's the ideal way. In parts of the south where the ground is polluted and infested with bookworm larvae, it is unwise to go barefoot.

Saccharin

Is it injurious to health to use saccharin tablets to sweeten coffee when sugar is not available? (K. S.)

Answer—No. Any one may take up to five grains of saccharin daily with impunity. A tablet containing 1-4-grain gives the sweetening effect of approximately a spoonful of sugar.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What country was called "the sick man of Europe?"

Before the First World War Turkey was often referred to as "the sick man of Europe," which alluded to the fact that the Ottoman Empire was gradually disintegrating and almost through as a European power.

The nickname was popularized by a remark made in 1853 by Nicholas I of Russia to the British ambassador at Petrograd. According to the British "Blue Book" of 1854, the Czar of All the Russias, said in a conversation with Sir George Hamilton Seymour: "We have on our hands a sick man, a very sick man, and it would be a pity to let him pass away without making the necessary arrangements." The Russian ruler, of course, had in mind the division of the spoils in the event the Ottoman Empire should fall to pieces or be broken up.

But this idea was not original with Czar Nicholas I. It had been customary for more than a century to compare the Turk with a sick man.

Sir Thomas Roe, who was British ambassador at Constantinople from 1621 to 1628, wrote that the Ottoman Empire had "the body of a sick old man, who tried to appear healthy, although his end was near."

In his "Persian Letters," published in 1721, Montesquieu referred to the Turkish empire "whose sick body was not supported by a mild and regular diet, but by a powerful treatment, which continually exhausted it."

"Your Majesty," wrote Voltaire to Catherine the Great, many years later, "may think me an impatient sick man, and that the Turks are even sicker."

The First World War stripped Turkey of most of her once great empire in Asia, Africa and Europe and left her a comparatively small republic, chiefly in Asia Minor.

The origin of the Turks, like that of most peoples, is enveloped in obscurity. Some authorities suppose the modern Turks to be descended from Scythians and roving Tartars who at one time possessed the vast regions of northern Asia and who, after overrunning much of Asia, conquered Turkestan from which they received the name Turks.

Modern Turks call themselves Osmanli, from a Turkish chieftain named Osman who established himself in Asia Minor in the 14th century. This was the beginning of the Turks as a separate nation. The Turks acquired a strong foothold in Europe before they captured Constantinople in 1453 and became a European power. In their language "Turk" signifies "rustic" or "clown" and consequently they never apply the term to themselves.

V-2 WARMUP FOR BIG SHOW

Taking off, amidst dust, smoke and flame, TOP, a V-2 rocket is seen in a preliminary test at the U. S. army ordnance proving grounds, White Sands, New Mexico. The photo was made approximately 100 yards from the rocket as it rose from the launching platform. In the test, the V-2 was permitted to travel but a short distance when its power was shut off by radio control from the ground and the fuel tanks exploded on impact. The BOTTOM photo shows the crater made by the exploding fuel tanks. In the big tests, the rocket will carry about five tons of alcohol and liquid oxygen fuel as a part of the total weight of approximately 14 tons. The war-head of the V-2, which can carry almost a ton of explosives, will instead carry scientific instruments. The first firing on May 10 will begin a series of 25 rocket firings for research and development purposes.

Split of Europe Into Rival Soviet-Western Spheres Close To an Accomplished Fact

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, May 10 (AP) — The long-feared split of Europe into rival Soviet-western spheres is close to an accomplished fact, diplomatic authorities said today, because of the failure of the foreign ministers' conference at Paris.

Taking a pessimistic view, these authorities look for impending developments to complete the cleavage between the areas of Russian dominance and those under the influence of the western powers, headed by Britain and the United States.

A final factor in the division, they believe, will be Britain's announcement in the next few days of support for State Secretary Byrnes' proposal for long-range control of Germany—a proposal sharply assailed in the Soviet press.

Bevin Cool to Idea

Foreign Minister Bevin reportedly was cool to the idea at first but upon study was said to have revised his opinion and given Mr. Byrnes private assurances that he favored its main principles. These assurances may be followed soon by some public statement along similar lines from the London government.

Mr. Byrnes advocated a 25-year treaty among Britain, the United States, Russia and France to keep Germany from making war again. Russia immediately objected to the proposal and has continued to do so.

Mr. Byrnes took the treaty proposal to Paris in the hope that if all other methods of establishing peace in Europe seemed failing he could at least win Big Four agreement on a formula for removing Germany from the arena of power politics. At worst, he believed that the treaty proposal would provide a test of the willingness of the powers to try to agree.

Diplomats Fear Most

Russia's brusque reaction to the proposal has served to make it, in the British and American view, a symbol of the long-feared split, foreshadowing Europe's division into competing spheres of influence.

This disharmony is something diplomats have always feared most. it is one of the fundamental conditions for building up the fears, hatred and ambitions which could lead to a new war. It is particularly a state of affairs which the United Nations was specifically designed to prevent.

Apart from its other effects, the threatened division may well exert a powerful influence in determining whether France or Germany is to be western Europe's predominant nation in the future.

The French have told American officials in the past that they are highly afraid of a Germany under Communist leadership. The British also claim to be trying to keep the battered Reich from falling completely under Russian influence, and the Russians accuse them of trying to build up the nucleus of a powerful new Germany in the British zone.

So long as the future of Germany remains undecided, in the opinion of diplomats here, the future of France also seems certain to remain in doubt and the emergence of any powerful state in western Europe will be indefinitely delayed.

LUMBER SHORTAGE

The winter's cut of timber now is being dried and will reach the mills eventually, for conversion into lumber. Plywood starting to move from the Pacific coast is mostly earmarked for veterans' housing and other priority projects. Some mahogany is coming from Central America.

But the demand is highest within history and the shortage has led to charges of black market operations. This traffic works through altered grades, rather than price regulation, and involves lumber for export, the export prices being higher than ceiling prices. But apparently the black market is not widespread.

How Black Market Works

The black market works in this fashion: A builder is billed for 24,000 feet of lumber, say; and receives 20,000 feet. Furthermore he's billed for grade No. 1 but he gets grade No. 2. If he complains he's told to send it back because the supplier has plenty of customers who won't complain.

At Woodstock Allan G. Willmot, vice-president of a wholesale lumber firm who was in the office of the Timber Controller for some time, explained the present is the worst season of the year. There is always a seasonal shortage until the winter's cut reaches the sawmills. But in normal times the mills would have a reserve stock to carry them over the hold-up season. Now the reserves have all been used up with wartime and post-war priority demands.

Demand Tremendous

The demand for lumber is "tremendous," Willmot said, far exceeding the supply. All types are sought.

At Owen Sound, with a heavy demand for housing, the shortage concerned hardwood flooring, siding, sash and door material. Kingston has "fair" supplies. North Bay dealers, in the middle of the biggest house-building boom in years, are "doing our best." At Hamilton lumber is simply not obtainable without a tough priority.

Brantford says the shortage is critical. Brockville dealers are unable to cope with the demand. The St. Thomas supply is very low. At Guelph the demand far exceeds the supply. Some lumber firms at Kitchener are virtually at a standstill. Peterborough lumber yards are managing to meet orders, however.

The lumber shortage is marked also at Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Regina and even Vancouver. At Winnipeg the only stuff available is of poor quality and dealers said they "never saw the country so starved for lumber." At Saskatoon supplies are poor and not enough to meet a strong demand. A committee of the Saskatoon council is making a survey in order to frame a system of preference for veterans.

At Vancouver the Lumber Controller, C. Hurst, said the situation was "pretty tough" and any lumber that is available is earmarked for veterans. There is no surplus of any type.

CANADA MAY SEND

"It is on that basis we are considering the matter at present."

Canada now was shipping to Britain between 400,000 and 500,000 beef cattle yearly against 193,000 sent to the United States before exports were halted in 1942 to keep meat supplies in Canada while pork products were being sent to Britian.

Dealing with dairy cattle, Mr. Gardiner cited figures showing exports to the United States had increased from 13,719 in 1941 to 47,304 in 1945. During that period cattle on farms had increased from 3,623,900 head to 3,998,200.

The current butter shortage was injected into the debate and Mr. Gardiner attributed it to increasing consumption and pointed out that production of butter now was higher than before the war. There had been declines in western butter output because of poor crop conditions.

He said Canada could not compete with Australia and New Zealand for the British butter market because those two Dominions could leave their dairy cattle on the land all year around while Canada had to stable her cattle during the winter.

The government policy therefore was to encourage production of cheese for export and produce only enough butter to meet domestic requirements which, however, had increased during the war.

Answers Opposition

Answering opposition arguments that the butter prices should be increased to bring it into line with cheese and other products, the minister said returns from milk used for butter and for cheese were similar if a value was set on the skim milk the farmer obtained in the separating of milk going to butter production.

Dealing with milk subsidies, Mr. Gardiner said the government still was considering the question of whether the summer subsidies should be increased. The switch from winter to the summer subsidy May 1 was seasonal and should not be termed a "reduction."

The minister disclosed he was planning to introduce an amendment to the Prairie Farm Assistance Act to permit any province which wishes to do so to withdraw.

He was relying to Rene Jutras (L—Provencher), who suggested Manitoba be exempted from the provisions of the act "because we have given up hope of ever getting anything from it." The act should be replaced, so far as Manitoba was concerned, with some sort of insurance scheme.

Mr. Gardiner said his amendment would enable Manitoba to set up its own scheme if it wished.

J. A. Ross (PC—Souris) another Manitoba member, said he believed some Manitoba farmers wished to remain in P.F.A.A.

Mr. Jutras also called for steps to make the sugar beet industry an integral part of agricultural production, with the sugar beet growers being given an opportunity to present their case before the House Committee on Agriculture.

Andrew Robinson (PC—Bruce) urged the government to take steps to make farming more attractive and thus halt the movement of people from the farms. Decentralization would lead to better returns for farm production.

POLICE ASSOCIATION GIVES $26,000 TO RED CROSS

Brantford, May 10 — (CP) — The Police Association of Ontario in executive session Wednesday, decided to donate $26,000 to the Canadian Red Cross from the Association's Spitfire fund conducted during the war. The money represents what was left after 2 Spitfire fighter planes had been sent into action through the efforts of the fund and its supporters.

London Letter

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, May 8 —(CP)— No one, not even Winston Churchill, could enter the big Admiralty buildings on Whitehall during the war without being stopped by J. H. Rivers, head porter, and asked to sign the register.

And Mr. Rivers recalls that Mr. Churchill, who was First Lord of the Admiralty and then Prime Minister during the war, never made the slightest fuss about signing it.

"Regulations, eh Rivers?" the famous voice would say through the famous cigar, or alternatively: "Half my life is spent in signing things."

Willing or unwilling, no one ever got by Mr. Rivers. He had the reputation of being no respecter of persons and once when a high cabinet official tried to dispense with the formality of signing Mr. Rivers stood squarely in his path until he signed.

Another time Lord Chatfield, formerly First Sea Lord, pausing by the porter's desk, remarked: "You know, Rivers, I never thought I'd have to sign a book to enter the Admiralty. It's quite a novelty."

Now at 65 Mr. Rivers has left his post behind the big glass doors on Whitehall, taking with him the Imperial Service Medal as a reward for 26 years' meritorious service with the Admiralty preceded by 23 years with the Royal Navy.

His retirement, however, lasted only a few days, for he promptly rejoined the Admiralty as a clerk in response to a government appeal to "old hands" to stay on in the service as long as their health would permit.

One of his favorite reminiscences is of a Canadian soldier calling at the Admiralty, one night just before D-Day, seeking the whereabouts of his brother who was chief petty officer aboard the Europa.

"That soldier never had to go farther than my desk. I knew the Europa was port guardship at Lowestoft and in less than 10 minutes I was through to them on the telephone. The officer came to the phone and the brothers had a long talk — the first they had had for three years. They were very grateful to me."

In 1907, as a petty officer aboard the battleship H.M.S. Berwick, he visited Canada, and, with hundreds of British seamen, staged a succession of three-day exhibitions in various Canadian cities.

"We had a wonderful time in the Dominion," Mr. Rivers said, "and everywhere the Canadian people received us like old friends. I was back there in the First Great War en route to Bermuda where we put in some gun practice away from the battle zones."

IMPOSE PRISON SENTENCES

Manila, May 9 —(AP)— Prison sentences ranging from 10 years to life were pronounced Tuesday against three Japanese soldiers who confessed to executing four American fliers. Maj. Mitsuji Tanka was sentenced to life, Sgt. Maj. Kuemon Ito to 20 years and Cpl. Iroshi Wakamaori to 10 years.

The Immigrants—by Jack Martin, O.S.A., C.P.E.

The Empire Builders

FROM THE MOORS OF SCOTLAND, the rocky coasts of Ireland, from English cities and farms they came, their hearts filled with wonder and a great hope. With them, fleeing from the hardships and oppressions of the Old World, came the sturdy countrymen of Europe.

Canada! and the very name was magic. Canada, land of opportunity . . . where a man's two strong hands could carve out security.

Up the mighty St. Lawrence to quaintly old-world Quebec—on through the rolling fields of Ontario—to the vast fertile miles of the Prairies—to the wooded slopes of the Rockies. And wherever they made their homes new strength was added to the bonds of blood kinship . . . new solidarity to the cause of Empire. Within a few short years they had become a part of the fabric of Canada, their unbounded faith in the country of their choice justified, their dreams merged into the one dream that was to become a reality. The reality of Canada Unlimited—the Canada of today.

And the bright light of freedom and prosperity which they saw, shines today for all of us with an even greater brilliance, beckoning us to the Canada of Tomorrow . . . the Canada that will be more surely and swiftly ours if we give expression to our continuing faith by our purchase and holding of Victory Bonds.

Mr. Fred Berry, Trenton, is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. W. C. Mikel is progressing favorably following an operation in the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday night.

Friends of little Miss Joan Kimmett, Chatham Street, will be sorry to learn that she is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital, following an appendectomy.

Miss Theda Moorcroft, nurse-in-training at Toronto, is spending part of her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Moorcroft, West Huntingdon.

Mrs. George Foster, Stratford, and Mrs. M. Perriman, Columbus, Ont., have returned home after visiting the former's son, Mr. M. Foster and Mrs. Foster, Catherine Street.

Mr. Seward Coon, Warham St., is progressing favorably after a major operation in Kingston General Hospital.

Mr. Glenn Whitehead, Stirling, returned home Thursday after being a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. A. E. Chaplin, of this city, was a guest this week of her sister, Mrs. Lyle Robinson, Picton.

WEDDINGS

STEADMAN—ASELSTINE

Christ Church was the scene of a pretty Spring wedding on May 6, at 3 p.m., when Helen Marguerite, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Aselstine, became the bride of Flt./Lieut. Lester Eugene Steadman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steadman, Bridgewater, N.S. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Grant Sparling, with Mrs. Grace Calvert presiding at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the lovely bride wore a street-length dress of aqua blue with matching veiled hat and a Colonial bouquet of Sunglow roses and blue sweetpeas. She was attended by Mrs. Mel. Foster, dressed in fuchsia crepe with matching hat and a Colonial bouquet of Rapture roses, and mauve and purple sweetpeas.

The groom was attended by Flt./Sgt. A. H. DeBellefeuille, of Ottawa, R.C.A.F. Ushers were Messrs. George E. Aselstine and Harold Clarke.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the bride's home, with the bride's mother receiving in a navy and white ensemble and a corsage of Peerless roses. The wedding table, covered with a lace cloth, was centred by the wedding cake, flanked by pink candles in silver candlesticks.

For the wedding trip to Toronto and New York, the bride chose a suit of pale green with a corsage of Lady Finch and Sweetheart roses. The groom who is attached to the permanent force of the R.C.A.F., is at present waiting to be posted.

Out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. George W. Britnell and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Oliphant, Mr. and Mrs. C. Quirt and son, Ian, all of Toronto.

Among numerous showers held in honor of the bride, prior to her marriage, was a dinner party at the Olde Tavern Bar-B-Q, when the staff of Wiseman's Dress Shop, of which she was a valued member, met to present her with a glass tea and coffee maker and other gifts. Following dinner and a show, the guests went to the bride's home, where a very pleasant evening was spent.

Wedding Dress Much "Married"

London.— An anonymous Montreal's gift of a wedding dress, which has been worn by Canadian service brides in Germany, Holland and the United Kingdom, will see use with members of the British Women's Land Army starting about the end of June, according to a decision made by CWAC at Canadian Military Headquarters.

The dress, which has been one of the most cherished possessions of the CWAC enabled the girls to be out of uniform for their wedding ceremony, and will serve its new unit in the same capacity.

Not only service women but occasionally the brides of Canadian service men, unable to afford 18 valuable coupons from their scanty allotment, have stood at the altar in the dress.

The wedding dress first made its appearance at National Defence Headquarters nearly two years ago. The donor, in a brief unsigned note, suggested that the dress might be of service to Canadian women on active service overseas, and she hoped that those to stand in it would be as happy in future years as she had been.

Within record time the gown was sent to England and put at the disposal of future brides serving overseas. Welcomed with glee the dress took on a top romantic air and became one of the leading subjects of conversation in barrack rooms and the mess halls.

Cupid has not permitted the dress to make an orderly invasion and only by exclusive use of airmail, at personal CWAC expense, has it been able to keep a perfect schedule. A channel crossing for each wedding has been the average travelling of the gown.

Wrapping, checking and mailing of the dress in officious orderly rooms has been one of the happier assignments for members of the CWAC, who all hope that they will some day meet the donor of the dress to express their thanks.

Two Brides-Elect Honored by Friends

The Filing department of the Income Tax Office held a joint miscellaneous shower on Thursday evening at the home of Miss Helen McLean, George Street, in honor of the Misses Lois Liddle and Ida Watson, brides-to-be of the near future. The guests of honor received many lovely gifts for which they expressed their sincere appreciation.

Later refreshments were served with Miss Marion Robson, president of the L.L.L., presiding at the tea-table.

FAMILY GATHERING WOULD BE SPLENDID MOTHER'S DAY GIFT

President Truman's Mother Wishes Safety and Happiness for Family — Plans Surprise for Harry

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

Grandview, Mo., May 10 (AP)— Mother's Day will be a quiet one for 93-year-old Mrs. Martha E. Truman, mother of the President, with flowers and candy and maybe a telephone call from her son, Harry, and gifts from her other two children.

"Oh, they give me too many things anyway," she exlaimed when asked in an interview what Mother's Day gifts she anticipated. "All I ask is that my three children are safe and happy. I guess I worry a little more about Harry than the others because he travels around so much."

Seated prim and alert on the sofa in the front room of the little five-room bungalow where she lives with her daughter, Mary Jane, Mrs. Truman said firmly that she felt better than she did a year ago.

Her eyes injured in the fall that broke her hip five years ago, prevent her from reading or sewing. Naturally active and ambitious, the President's mother finds her impared vision a great annoyance. The radio helps fill in her quiet days. She listens regularly to the newcasts and is well aware of what is going on in the world of international politics.

The spry little woman accepts calmly the attention she gets as mother of a nation's president. Her only comment is:

"They make too much fuss over me."

In comparison to last year's thrilling flight to Washington in the presidential plane, Mother's Day this year will be uneventful.

"We may go to Washington late this spring for Margaret's graduation," Miss Truman said, and when her mother answered that she didn't plan another such trip, her daughter laughed and chided her:

"Why, Mama, you said last year you wound't go, and then at the last minute you hopped on that plane right along with the rest of us."

Wary Traveller

"Well, I may go and I may not," her mother answered tartly. "I don't know if I'd fly again, though. It didn't bother me a bit, but those machines don't seem safe to me."

Having her three children together on Mother's Day would be the nicest possible gift, Mrs. Truman agreed. The President's brother, Vivian, lives a few blocks away from his mother's home here.

"But Harry just has so many things to do I don't expect to see much of him," his mother said. "He usually sends flowers and candy and he probably will again. And maybe he'll call me up, the way he does so much lately."

When the President drops in for his next visit, there's a special treat waiting for him in one corner of the tiny living room—a brand new spinet piano.

It was supposed to be a surprise, but Mrs. Truman admitted with a good-natured chuckle that she'd given away the secret in one of her telephone conservations to Washington.

"You know, Harry isn't the only one who plays the piano," his mother said proudly. "Mary Jane plays too. She's played for two weddings lately."

Her daughter smilingly consented to play, and her mother listened intently while she played "To a Wild Rose," by Edward McDowell. Nodding approval at the end of the piece, Mrs. Truman remarked that "she hasn't practised much the last few years, either."

HOLLOWAY STREET Y.P.U.

A fine evening of fellowship was enjoyed, this week, when Holloway Street Y.P.U. had as their guests the unions of Bridge Street and Tabernacle Churches.

Highlight of the evening was the showing of the slides of Oak Lake Executive Leadership school held annually for leaders in Y.P.U. work. These slides were beautiful, bringing back memories to those of the group who were campers last year and leaving a desire on the part of those who have not yet attended the camp, to do so this summer.

The script was read by Isobel Richardson and the singing of the lovely camp hymns and choruses was led by Rosslyn Robertson with Mrs. Don Williams at the piano.

The remainder of the program took the form of an amateur show, with Harry Denton very capably filling the role of master of ceremonies.

The attempts of his 'victim-contestants' to answer Harry's unusual questions were the cause of almost continuous laughter.

Those contributing numbers to the program, were Norma Arkles, with a vocal solo, "Thank God for a Garden". Ruth Benway gave a reading, "When Sister Entertains Her Beau". Jack Fenn played a cornet solo, "When You Come to the End of a Perfect Day". Margaret Hillis sang a vocal solo, "Life's Lovely Things". William Connor, played a piano solo, "Spanish Mandolin". These numbers were all splendid and well received.

Maude Burke, president of Holloway Street Y.P.U., welcomed the guests on behalf of the union and made several announcements of interest to all three groups.

The fellowship was concluded with refreshments following which Marion Weary, president of Bridge Street Y.P.U., expressed the thanks of the visiting unions for the enjoyable evening.

Women's Activities

HAZZARD'S W.M.S.

The President, Mrs. M. Howard, opened the May meeting of Hazzard's W.M.S.

The theme of the service was "A Christian Home" and Miss Alma Keene led in the worship service. The challenge to mothers and home-makers is great, for the boys and girls who receive a Christian training in their childhood rarely prove delinquent as they grow older.

Mrs. Max Burnside led in a discussion of the methods of teaching Christian principles in the home and it was felt that the example set by the parents counted for even more in child character building than any teaching they might receive, although this last is also very important and must not be neglected.

ST. PAUL'S W.A.

Stirling.—The ladies of St. Paul's W.A. met at the home of Mrs. R. A. Patterson on Tuesday afternoon with a splendid attendance.

Mrs. A. Armstrong, 1st Vice President, directed the devotional period of the meeting, due to the absence of the President, Mrs. Gordon Bailey.

The singing of the theme song opened the gathering followed by prayer by Mrs. Armstrong.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary along with other communications received during the past month. Eleven sick cards were reported sent during April. The visiting committee Mrs. C. Pitman and Mrs. A. E. Good made nineteen calls in the month of April. Mrs. Herb David and Mrs. G. H. Luery will act as a visiting committee for May.

A complete and very satisfactory financial report was presented by the Treasurer, Mrs. J. B. Thompson.

Mrs. W. Preston, convener of the Friendly Workers' Group of the W.A. gave a very interesting report on their work for the past couple of months. Several items were on display some of which were sold and orders taken for others.

A letter of thanks was read from Kate Aitkens, radio commentator over CFRB on the Tamblyn Hour, in connection with the contribution of food and money sent from Stirling United Church.

With regard to the 14th Annual convention of the W.A. and Ladies' Societies of Prince Edward County and Hastings to be held in Albury United Church, late in May, delegates were appointed as follows: Mrs. Arthur Scott, Mrs. R. A. Patterson and Mrs. Cecil Macklin.

Miss Delia Caldwell, convener of the program committee, presented a well arranged and enjoyable hour.

The hymn "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name" was dedicated to Mrs. W. S. Martin and the other shut-ins of the Green Nursing Home. This was managed by a phone connection to the nursing home over Mrs. Martin's phone and the house phone, the connection left open during the singing of the hymn which the ladies later advised the gathering they had heard perfectly.

Miss Delia Caldwell gave a very interesting article on the origin of hymn singing in the early centuries, many of which were composed in the quiet hours of the night.

The last hymn was read by Mrs. E. G. Bailey.

Mrs. A. E. Bradburn briefly sketched the life of Charles Wesley describing how the Hymn, "Jesu, Lover of My Soul", originated. The inspiration for this hymn came when the writer was sitting on an open window sill. A bird flew on his shoulder frightened by the pursuit of a hawk. He folded his coat around it until the hawk flew away.

Mrs. G. W. Jones was the leader of a choir skit with the following ladies comprising the choir: Mrs. A. E. Good; Mrs. A. E. Bradburn; Mrs. Geo. White; Mrs. E. G. Bailey, Mrs. F. Elgie, Mrs. J. Donohue, Mrs. R. A. Patterson and Mrs. Cecil Macklin. Mrs. Harold West accompanied at the piano. The scene supposedly took place in the Old Meeting House. Old Hymns were practised and the Anthem, "When the Roll is Called up Yonder". This performance provided a great deal of merriment, the actresses were very original especially the leader "Aunt Harriet".

Mrs. Herb David read the poem "High Flight", a war masterpiece written by John G. McGee, Jr.

Mrs. Harold West favored with a solo.

Dainty refreshments were served by the Committee at the close.

Mrs. Geo. Luery presented a vote of thanks to the hostess and the committee in charge.

YOUR ANNOUNCER

With the coming of television, announcers must be pleasing to the eye as well as to the ear. Television fans won't suffer any optical offence when this pretty lady comes into the living-room via television. MARSH HILL W.M.S.

The May meeting of the Marsh Hill W.M.S. was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clayton Marisette.

The President, Mrs. E. B. Finkle, presided over the opening worship service and business.

Mrs. Shorten gave a very interesting report of the Presbyterial which was held at Trenton.

Mrs. Bert Sarles gave a reading on Christian Stewardship.

Mrs. Lindenfield, leader of Group 2, had a paper on "The Christian Home", and was assisted by ten members. It was pointed out that parents should recognize anew the importance of the home and the right training of children.

It was decided to organize a Baby Band with Mrs. Leslie Finkle as leader.

WEST HUNTINGDON W.M.S.

The May meeting and pot-luck dinner of the United Church W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Hammond on Thursday, May 2, with a splendid attendance and opened with the theme "A Christian Home". The Scripture was read by Mrs. P. Carr. Mrs. Sandy McCurdy gave reading 'The Christian Home' followed by prayer by Mrs. G. Cooke and a reading by Mrs. J. S. Wilson followed by a duet by the Misses Marion and Phyllis Hammond. Mrs. Stewart gave a reading "If They Were Our Own".

Mrs. Peter McInroy gave a reading "The meaning of the Resurrection" and Mrs. F. Wilson gave the highlights of the Presbyterial.

Miss Sara Wilson, Mrs. F. Wilson, Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. G. Cooke answered as heralds for the Watch Tower. Business was discussed and dealt with.

Mrs. Cooke took charge of the W.A. work with Mrs. John Moorcroft giving a very interesting chapter of the Study Book and Mrs. C. Wright, a reading "Just For Today".

IVANHOE

75th Anniversary Celebrated By Mrs. Jos. Rollins

Ivanhoe.—A very enjoyable birthday party was tendered Mrs. Joseph Rollins, who on Saturday celebrated her 75th anniversary at the home of her son, Elmer and family. Besides her sons, Leopold and Bonter, the following neighbors were present: Mrs. Richard Reid, Mrs. Baldwin Reid, Mrs. Benjamin Lovibond, Mrs. C. A. Mitz and Mrs. Hulsey Rollins.

A sumptuous dinner, including a birthday cake with seventy-five candles was served at twelve noon, after which Mr. and Mrs. Bonter Rollins took the guest of honor accompanied by Mrs. Hulsey Rollins for a motor trip to Belleville.

Mrs. Rollins, who still enjoys good health for her age, was born at Downey's Rapids, but has lived all her lifetime at Holloway and Ivanhoe. She has two brothers, Henry Carter, of Holloway and Charles, of Ivanhoe, and one sister, Mrs. Robert McGregor, of Fort William.

The many friends of Mrs. Rollins at Ivanhoe extend their congratulations and wish for her many years of continued health and hapiness.

Canvassers Appointed

At the close of the services on Ivanhoe pastoral charge on Sunday the following persons were appointed canvassers for the Pension Campaign Fund, Salem, Messrs. Albert Twiddy, Mowatt Sine, J. B. Hagerman and Murney Johnston; Bethesda, Messrs. Neil Benny, Earl Holland, Burton Holland, John Wickes, Ernest Holland and George Allore; Beulah, Harry Lovibond, Elmer Rollins, Samuel Twiddy, Arthur Wood, Stanley Prest, and Arthur Hagerman.

Personal

Among those who attended the Sunday School convention in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church on Wednesday were Mesdames Joseph Rollins, Elmer Rollins, William Rollins, William French, Elmer Rollins, Samuel Kilpatrick, William Shaw, Milton Shaw, Hugh McMillan, Stanley Prest, George Wood, J. F. Everson, Mr. Ernest Holland, Rev. J. F. Everson and Mrs. Donald Fleming.

Mrs. William Rollins celebrated her eightieth birthday in the presence of a number of relatives and friends, on Wednesday.

The Quarterly Official Board of Ivanhoe pastoral charge held a meeting in White Lake United Church on Monday with several representatives from each of the three appointments of the circuit present.

The many friends of Mrs. Harold Holden will be sorry to learn that she is ill in Belleville General Hospital.

MUSEUM DISPLAY THEY TELL US

Museums are usually associated with musty mummies and rickety fossils where one never would think of going to view a lovely like Heiskell Kemmer. But, believe-it-or-not, Heiskell will be on display with five other beauties at the Museum of Science and Industry in New York as "Ideal American Girls." They were not selected on looks alone, but because they also have high scholastic ratings and aspire to compete with men in aviation, radio, science, the theatre and in commerce and industry in general.

SCOTT'S W.M.S.-W.A.

The regular monthly meeting of Scott's W.M.S. was held on May 8, at the home of Mrs. H. W. Rose. Fifty-three persons sat down to a bountiful dinner.

In the afternoon the W.M.S. held their meeting with President, Mrs. Ross Dafoe in the chair. Mrs. Dafoe is to arrange for an open meeting in the latter part of June.

Scripture readings were read by Mrs. J. A. Lott, Mrs. Craft Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. Martyn. The challenge comes to parents to make their homes Christian homes.

Mrs. A. Sine gave a synopsis of Chapter Four of Angola Now, showing how Christianity is working at the present time in Angola. Boys and girls are given a practical education. In the bush schools the teacher assists in building his own house and school. Then he grows what food he uses.

In the Means School girls are given home-making lessons and some nurse training. They are taught to work from the raw material to the finished product.

The Currie Institute is a school for boys, with a model farm, with pig pens, hen houses, barns, orchards, etc. Soy beans and peanuts are ground into milk for children. Farm implements are made in this school. Canadian seed has been taken and used on this model farm with good results.

Mrs. H. Dafoe had drawn a large map of Angola and traced the journey of Dr. and Mrs. Currie and party for 200 miles into the interior over the old slave trail; she told of the death of Mrs. Currie and of how Dr. Currie travelled another 100 miles looking for a place to establish his mission station. He finally chose Chissamba. The story of Currie and his struggle and uphill work, a work of love, is very interesting and full of romance and when we consider his struggle with impaired health and his final early death we remember those words, "Greater love hath no man than this; that a man lay down his life for others".

The W. A. appointed Mrs. A. Sine and Mrs. J. Craft as delegates to the W.A. Convention at Albury.

Floral Fashion Jewelry

By ALICE ALDEN

A DELICATELY wrought, finely jeweled flower-spray seems the logical complement to a dainty flower hat or a frothy bridal ensemble. To meet this summer situation, Trifari has done a handsome series of jewelry flower sprays, matching the pretty pins with earrings. One of the series is this lily-of-the-valley pin a floral spray fashioned of rodium-finished sterling and set with either white, ruby or emerald stones. The white stone-set piece would be ideal for a bride in its lacy loveliness.

Fashion Flashes

SUN-GAZING IS FUN when its done through glasses made with white or dark plastic frames set with turquoise or coral stones surrounded by tiny gilt nailheads. Rhinestones-studded frames for dress wear.

It's a fine season for jackets of flat fur. Something novel is a jacket of American processed lamb used exactly like cloth. Gray fur is used for the full easy sleeves and the top of blouse, while black fur is used for the back, the portion below the waist and the sloping side panels under the arm.

Very bold prints are in great demand for afternoon and evening frocks. A beautiful dinner dress, cut in slim lines with an attached scarf is of chalky white crepe printed with huge bunches of grapes in purple and big green vine leaves.

Make-up Must Change With the Seasons

The white-haired woman with the delicate complexion can get away with mauve powder

If some of the prettiest don't attain flattering results when plying make-up, it is not surprising. There are many details to be considered when making oneself a new face. Instead of selecting powder at random, using rouge and lipstick of what one fancies is the most alluring shade, girls must get down to brass tacks. Then the boulevards and the gay evening places will not see any more billboard countenances. You know the kind we mean. Patches of color. No blending. It won't do to be lithographic. Startling effects are old stuff.

The trick is to high light the good features, tone down those that aren't quite so good. It can be done. Make-up artists in Hollywood have turned many ugly ducklings into swans. The girl with a strong mirror, the seeing eye and the correct materials can do a lot in the way of making her portrait more vivid, more compelling. Synthetic aids are friends indeed. But when we get too free with them they become enemies. Properly applied, they glorify. Combined without due regard for the color of the complexion, or their own color harmony, they can make a woman look older, hard of countenance, all played out. You see it every day.

When the complexion is fair, the eyes blue and the hair dark a blend of ochre and rose powder will impart richness to the skin. The rouge then should be medium red—a dark geranium is good——and the lipstick a shade or two darker. This girl is the Irish type and, usually, her skin is of fine, delicate texture. Pale skins need a powder that carries a golden cast.

Tanning will begin pretty soon. That means powder of a darker shade for sun-worshippers. If it is only slightly lighter than the skin, it will look patchy. One must be careful. A make-up artist tells your reporter that few women really know the color of their complexions; they select make-up that makes an appeal without regard to suitability or becomingness.

The white-haired woman with blue eyes and delicate complexion is about the only type that can get away with mauve powder.

It does something to her skin. She adds a light film of rouge high on her cheeks, and over her eyelids. With lipstick of burgundy she is a pleasing picture.

Women with florid skins make a mistake when they use rachel powder in the hope that it will subdue the redness. Deep rose is better, with lipstick of orange red.

Lipstick for Lively Loveliness

Use a lipstick shade that brightens your face

By HELEN FOLLETT

CHERRY-RED lips of the home-grown variety are rare. What has happened to them? Or is it that women never had them? Children's lips are usually colorful. Well, who cares, as long as the lipstick flourishes?

Using it makes life less monotonous, and it has a stimulating effect upon the circulation. Even the prettiest girls aren't pleased with themselves before their complexions have their dressing of make-up.

Pretty Lips

A bit of rosy glow on the pretty puckers turns on the lighting system of the spirit. Pale lips, faint heart. The thirty girl believes that the lipstick lowers her birthday record to 25. Sometimes she's right.

Line up a dozen women with cleverly tinted mouth portals, and a dozen who scorn the use of artifice, and you'll see in half a glance which side wins. A little make-up and one is more vivid, more alive. One is marching along the good looks road to beauty.

For the lipstick the members of the human sorority are thankful. Smart guy it was who put the rosy pigment in pencil form. He should have a monument erected in his memory.

While the color of the complexion and eyes determines the correct shade for the lips, the color of the frock should be considered. Colors have friendships and antagonisms.

Cheek coloring seems to be doing a dim-out. When the smarties use it, they apply but the faintest film. Eye shadows are going strong when the merry evening is on. New shades of blues are appearing on cosmetic counters. Miss Red Head will find a soft sage green that will offer an enchanting contrast to her flaming thatch.

The white-haired lady will choose mauve, will dispense with rouge, will carry a lip veneer of soft dark red. Fun, huh? Every woman thinks so!

Advice to the Lovelorn

An Irresponsible Boy Married Overseas—Now He Won't Stand By His Action

A young man who served overseas for three years and married a 20-year-old English girl, after persuading her to change her religion and give up family and friends for him, is now breaking her heart, and the hearts of his own family, by carelessly tossing her aside because another girl has caught his fickle fancy.

When he returned from overseas he talked of nothing but the wonder girl he had married and who was soon to come to this country. She arrived; all his relatives were charmed with her and felt he was a very fortunate fellow indeed—and in no time at all he was making plans to run off with a young miss of 18.

Foiled in this idea, because his plans leaked out and both his own family and that of the 18-year-old girl went into action, he now refuses to speak to his wife or have anything to do with her, declaring she can either go to work here and take care of herself ,or return to her own country. He cannot divorce her, since his religion does not recognize divorce and she is faithful to the religion he persuaded her to embrace for him. So things are at an impasse.

Says the friend who wrote, asking what might be the solution of his problem:

"This man's wife is a wonderful worker and a good cook. They have an apartment ready to move into, but he will not move into it. She wanted to, but he wouldn't let her. He says he can't stand the sight of her. They are both living with his parents. We all advised against his marrying while overseas, but he wouldn't listen. He said he was old enough to know his own mind. Now he will not listen again, or give his marriage a chance. They have no children. What do you think should be done about this situation?"

I wonder what this young man thinks he means when he says he is "old enough to know his own mind"? For I would think it must be obvious, even to him, that this is exactly what he doesn't know. He was sure he wanted one girl; now he's just as sure he doesn't want her, but thinks he wants somebody else.

What he evidently means is that because he has reached a certain age, he intends to do as he pleases, which is a very different thing from knowing his own mind.

If this boy were as old as he thinks he is, he would not be trying to get out of the responsibilities he assumed of his own free will.. He would stop acting like a terribly spoiled child and behave like a man. He would cease thinking of himself alone and try to think about what it must mean to a young girl to be brought over here from another country, on his own promise to love and take care of her, only to find that the man she trusted and loved and believed in had no intention of making good on his promises.

Unfortunately, there is no way of making anyone grow up and become an adult in his thinking and his actions. That's something everyone has to do for himself. You can't talk another person into maturity. If a man of 23 or 24 or 25, or whatever, insists on acting like an irresponsible teen-ager, there is nothing anyone can do about it. All you can do, I'm afraid, is to let him alone and hope that in time he'll become ashamed of himself and want to "be his age."

Most people do want to be their age. For one thing, they find, oddly enough, that they're actually happier when they're living a normal adult lift, in common with all the other normal adults around them—which, of course, means carrying out their rightful obligations and and responsibilities—than they were when they were when they were trying to snatch at one passing fancy after another like a baby grabbing for one toy, then dropping it as soon as he sees something else and reaching for that.

So I think about the only thing this sad young wife can do right now is to sit tight and see if this emotional adolescent she had the misfortune to marry does not decide he'd like to grow up and have the rewarding fun of making a home for her and himself. He might really do that, you know!

Receiving-line at Wedding Reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I very much need your help in planning my daughter's wedding. The prospective groom and his family are very much above us in social position, and I am a widow. We would like to plan a small wedding, but have it as correct and charming as possible.

1. The bridegroom is to have a best man and two ushers. Would it be correct for my daughter, the bride, to have only a maid of honor and a junior bridesmaid? What then would be the order of the processional? In the recessional would it be correct for the maid of honor and the best man to walk together?

2. And about the reception. Who stands where at the reception? If the reception is from three to six o'clock, must those in the reception line, stand during those specified hours?

My daughter plans to have three hostesses for the reception. What are their duties? Is it correct for a member of the family to help serve the refreshments at the reception; and if so, should they take turns or serve for the three hours?

D. H.

1. Yes, it would be correct for your daughter, if she wishes, to have only a maid of honor and a junior bridesmaid as her attendants. The processional then would be: first, the two ushers, walking together; next, junior bridesmaid, alone; next, maid of honor, alone; last your daughter and whoever is to escort her up the aisle. And the recessional might be: first, bride and bridegroom; next, maid of honor and best man; next, junior bridesmaid, alone; and last, the two ushers, together.

2. There are several proper ways to receive guests at the wedding reception. Sometimes the actual receiving-line is made up of the bride and bridegroom and the bride's attendants: first the bridegroom, the bride at his right, the "honor" attendant at the bride's right, then her other attendant or attendants. If this is the plan, the bride and bridegroom and her attendants usually receive against the wall opposite the door through which the guests arrive; and you, the bride's mother, as hostess, stand just within the door of the room, greeting the guests as they arrive. And you may, if you wish, invite the bridegroom's mother and possibly his father, to stand with you.

The alternative, very often chosen, is the receiving-line arranged like this: first, you the bride's mother, greeting the guests first, as hostess; next to you, bridegroom's father and then his mother (this giving you an opportunity to present the bridegroom's parents to the guests); then the bridegroom and on his right, the bride, and then the maid of honor and junior bridesmaid. It is not necessary for the bridegroom's father to be in the receiving-line.

Generally only the beginning hour (in this case, three o'clock) is named; and the receiving-line is "in position" until all the guests have been received.

If, as I judge, your dining-room table is to be set for a tea-menu service, the deputy hostesses may be asked to preside over the service, taking turns for specified hours of the reception. Members of the family should not be assigned to this service, since they should be on hand to make necessary introductions and take care of other social obligations.

Higher Stipends, Better Pensions Urged for Clergy

Kingston, May 10 — (CP) — Higher stipends and better pensions are needed for clergy of the Church of England in Canada, Rt. Rev. John Lyons, Anglican Bishop of Ontario, last night said in his charge to the 80th Annual Synod of the Diocese of Ontario at conclusion of its three - day meeting.

Canon W. E. Kidd, former Protestant chaplain of Portsmouth penitentiary, Kingston, said in a report yesterday that penal reforms should be made "to satisfy the Christian conscience of Canada." Of Portsmouth penitentiary, he said it "had a splendid staff but was penalized by government regulations."

Rev. J. H. H. Coleman of Kingston, who presented the report of the committee on evangelism, said some concern was expressed in church circles about the aggressiveness of what he called "freak sects." The report singled out for special mention the activity of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Maj. the Rev. John Leng of the Students' Christian Movement at Queen's University discussed religious work being done among post-graduate students. Dean R. B. Waterman of Hamilton, organizing secretary of the Anglican Advance Appeal, said success of the appeal for $4,300,000 was indicated.

Russ General Surprises Yanks On Birthday Date

Nuernberg, May 10 —(Delayed) — (AP)— A Soviet general, member of the International Military Tribunal, flabbergasted American officials on a matter of dates.

It happened when legal staffs of the four Allied Powers participating in the war crimes trial assembled for an extra-special meal.

As the fruit cup course arrived, Justice Robert H. Jackson, Chief United States prosecutor, proposed a VE-Day toast.

"This day has an even greater significance to me," commented Maj.-Gen. I. T. Nikitchenko, Russian member of the tribunal, holding a glass of wine aloft:

"Let's drink instead to the birthday of the President of the United States, Mr. Harry Truman."

After the luncheon broke up, one American prosecutor turned to another and said:

"Hey, where's that almanac? I never knew this was Truman's birthday."

The book bore out General Nikitchenko. It was the President's 62nd birthday.

Diamond Drilling Continues to Show Interesting Values

SINCE the report of March 15th, 1946, covering the first 9 holes drilled on our property, diamond drilling has been carried on continuously and 19 additional holes have been drilled to date to explore the shear zone which extends northwesterly and southeasterly across the property. The best values were cut in Holes 9A, 16 and 18 from which the following assays were obtained:

HOLE 9A—Between 32' 6" and 33' 7" returned $8.77 across 13".

HOLE 16—Between 35' and 36' 4" returned $23.88 across 16".

HOLE 18—Between 52' and 54' returned $80.85 across 24".

Other values, lower than above, were cut in these holes as well as in holes 11, 12, 13 and 15. The other holes in this series were apparently outside the mineralized zone. All drilling to date was with a light X-ray drill and the holes were all drilled to comparatively shallow depths.

Equipment and Supplies

A heavy duty diamond drilling outfit completely equipped for extensive deep drilling has now been delivered to the property, together with gasoline and all necessary supplies for the summer's operations.

Resident Engineer

Mr. G. M. Webster, B.Sc., B. Eng. (M), has been retained as resident engineer under Lt.-Col. J. G. Tatham, our consultant. Mr. Webster should now be on the property and directing the development program.

Transportation

In association with other mining companies, planes have been acquired and will be operated under a co-operative plan, as a result of which transportation will be furnished to our company at cost plus a nominal service charge. It is estimated that there will be a saving of at least 50% in transportation cost as a result of this plan. Included in the co-operative purchase of planes is a Douglas C47, capable of carrying 21 passengers or two tons of freight, and a Norseman for inland use from Yellowknife.

Communication

A co-operative wireless telephone system is to be established so as to bring contact with the mines in the field closer to Head Offices, thereby enabling news of importance to reach shareholders and the public, in much shorter time.

Respectfully submitted,

J. E. AYRHART, President

VICTOR ABDICATES

Observers said the renunciation was an eleventh-hour effort to strengthen the House of Savoy, under which Italy was unified in 1861-70, for its test with the advocates of a republic at the plebiscite three weeks hence. Even the most optimistic monarchists give the monarchy only a 50-50 chance of surviving the plebiscite.

For weeks, monarchist circles said, advisers had told the King that by clinging to the throne after his irrevocable" retirement from public life in June, 1944, he was hurting the monarchy in the eyes of the voters. They told him, these sources said, that because of his long acquiescence in the policies of Benito Mussolini Italians blamed him for Fascism and its disastrous wars.

Finally, the third Savoy king of unified Italy in the study of the Royal villa in suburban Naples at 3 p.m. yesterday penned these words:

Favors Son Humbert

"I abdicate the Crown of Italy in favor of my son Humbert of Savoy, Prince of Piedmont."

A Naples notary, Commander Nicola Angrisani, attested the King's signature, and two army officers and Royal Aides, Gen. Paolo Puntoni and Lt.-Col. Brunoro Buzzaccaria, signed as witnesses. They were the only persons present to witness the end of the longest reign of any modern monarch. Victor Emmanuel became King in 1900.

Then the five-foot, three-inch monarch, known to Romans half-affectionately and half-derisively as "Pipetto" (Little Pipe), marched into the villa's salon to bid farewell to his weeping household and to Humbert. A few hours later he sailed into exile with his Queen whose eyesight has been reported affected as a result of the shock of learning of the death of her daughter, Princess Mafalda, in a German concentration camp.

Thus ended a reign begun in tragedy, glorified by the idolatry of the Italian people and concluded in humiliation. Victor ascended the throne following the assassination of his father, Humbert I in Milan.

FAILED TO DIE

Convinced that "the Lord is still with me," is Willie Francis, 17-year-old Negro who won a million-to-one chance of a reprieve from death when the electric chair failed to kill him, or even hurt him, at his scheduled execution on May 3rd. Sentenced to die for the murder of a St. Martinville druggist a year ago, Francis was strapped in the chair. The current was applied. The doomed man squirmed and jumped. But when the current was shut off, he was unharmed. "It tickled a little," he said. The state will try again to carry out the execution.

The DOW AWARD

PRESENTED TO

Simon P. LeBlanc

WHOSE HEROIC ACTION SAVED A CHILD'S LIFE

THE DOW AWARD

is a citation presented for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Victory Bond. Winners are selected by The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Montreal daily papers.

Mrs. Wilfred Chiasson left her home at St-Joseph-du-Moine, N.S., to get the milk. While she was away, her five-room cottage burst into flames.

A neighbour, Simon LeBlanc, was the first to see it. He rushed to get the mother and together they raced to the fire. It was out of control when they arrived . . . and roaring flames beat them back. LeBlanc, however, thinking only of the three trapped Chiasson children, made a desperate dash into the blazing cottage . . . then out again with 3-year-old Bernard safely in his arms. It was too late to reach the other two children . . . and in a very short time the Chiasson home was gone.

The courageous action of Simon LeBlanc merits great praise. We are proud to pay him tribute through the presentation of the Dow Award.

Sees Changchun Incident Prelude To Long Fight

(Tom Masterson, Associated Press correspondent who went to Changchun to report the Russian withdrawal and was trapped there 25 days, highlights some of his experiences in the following dispatch.)

By TOM MASTERSON

Changchun, May 10—(AP)—Historians likely will call the storming of this capital "the Changchun incident" — the event that set off China's modified internal strife into all-out civil war.

To this correspondent, who watched the crack Chinese Communist army blast aside outnumbered Chinese government forces to capture this city April 18 after a blazing four-day battle, "the Changchun incident" was not only history in the making but appeared to be a preview of a long, devastating fight for Manchuria.

I arrived April 13, intending to remain only long enough to watch the evacuation April 14 of the last of Russia's occupation troops and the beginning of an expected Communist attack.

Instead, my stay extended to 25 days, during 15 of which I was held a virtual prisoner along with four other correspondents by the Communists, who did not want us to see the cleaning up following the bloody, destructive fighting.

Sounds of Fighting

As we watched the Harbin-bound train carrying Maj.-Gen. Feodor Karloff, the Soviet occupation commander of Changchun, pull away from the station, sounds of fighting in the outskirts could be heard. A few hours later, we were trapped when the Communists launched a drive on the airport. They captured the field — our only avenue of escape — that night.

During the first two days of battle, the government gave us freedom of the city and permitted us to go to battle areas. A defeatist attitude among the officers as well as among the poorly-equipped soldiers was apparent, despite the fact that Changchun's physical defences were strong.

The government troops not only were heavily outnumbered, but were desperately short of ammunition. They tried to alleviate that condition but the attempt turned into demoralizing failure.

A lone plane flew low over the city April 16 through heavy Communist machine-gun fire and parachuted cannisters of ammunition into the city's centre, Tatung Circle. But five planes that followed dropped ammunition into the midst of the Communists.

He Didn't Say "Yes"

Paris, May 10 —(AP)— Senator Tom Connally (Dem.-Texas) asked Foreign Minister Molotov at a party at the United States embassy Wednesday night if he could say "yes" in any language.

Nikolai Pavlov, the Soviet interpreter, laughed so hard at the question he was unable to translate immediately. When he did, Mr. Molotov also burst into laughter.

But he didn't say "yes."

MUSKOX EXERCISE NEARS END OF LONG TREK

The Canadian Army's 3,000 mile Muskox exercise is rapidly nearing the end of its long trek. On Saturday, 4 May, the moving force, consisting of ten snowmobiles, rolled into Grande Prairie, Alberta, to a rousing welcome. The force spent the night there and on Sunday prepared to cover the remaining 300 miles by train to Edmonton, Alta. The decision to cover the remaining distance by train was reached on Saturday when it became apparent that extensive and permanent damage would result from proceeding further over the hot, dusty Alcan Highway. It was also seen that a longer run had no further lessons to teach. Pictured above is Col. J. T. Wilson, director of Operational Research at Ottawa and deputy director of Muskox exercise (on the left) as he greeted the commander of the moving force, Lt.-Col. P. D. Baird of Montreal, pictured on the right. The exercise set out from Churchill on 14 Feb. and the meeting took place 14 miles north of Grande Prairie. In the centre is pictured Col. Norman B. Edwards of Smithtown, Long Island, N.Y., senior U. S. observer with the expedition.—(Canadian Army Photo.)

MUSKOX ARRIVES AT EDMONTON

Pictured above is a shot on one of the main streets of Edmonton, Alta., showing two of the snowmobiles of Muskox exercise as the expedition completed its 3,100 mile trek over Canada's northland. A rousing welcome was given the members of the force as it moved through the streets of the capitol of Alberta. The exercise set out from Churchill on 15th Feb. and covered the distance according to schedule. The leader of the expedition, Lieut.-Col. P. D. Baird, was welcomed at Edmonton by Lieut.-Governor J. C. Bowen.—(Canadian Army Photo).

Dimaggio's Slump Tosses Heavy Burden on Hurlers

By JACK HAND

New York, May 10 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio's mysterious slump has tossed a heavy burden on the New York Yankee pitching staff as the club opens a three-game set with the boisterous Boston Red Sox, winners of their last 14 straight.

Jolting Joe has gone to the plate 10 times without a smell of a base hit since he singled off Thornton Lee in the first inning of Monday's game with Chicago. His batting average, now down to .247, appears to have affected his fielding for he dropped an easy fly ball yesterday and booted a ground single for another error.

"I don't know what's the matter," explained DiMaggio. "I can see the ball coming up there okay, even the other day when Bobby Feller was throwing that no hitter, but I can't seem to get back in stride."

Nobody expects the Yankee Clipper's hit famine to last much longer but, with Nick Etten hitting only .241, Tommy Henrich batting .250 and George Stirnweiss at a .202 level, it's rough on the New York pitchers.

Joe Cronin's sockers from the Hub have seven .300 hitters in the regular lineup. When Dave Ferris works, he can make it eight.

In stretching out a 4 1-2 game lead over the runner-up Yanks, the Bostons have moved to within five of the all-time American League record for consecutive victories. Their season batting average is a robust .299.

New York backs up its pitchers with spectacular fielding plays that save ball games but has been guilty of 29 errors, most in the circuit.

McCarthy has named the veteran Red Ruffing, who has made only one start this season after reporting late, to oppose Joe Dobson, a surprisingly four-time victor, in the series opener.

Large Field Goes to Post In $5,000 Trot

Arcadia, Calif., May 10 (AP)—One of the largest fields—26 horses—in harness race history tune up today for the richest stake ever offered trotters, the 50,000 Western Harness Grand Trot tomorrow at Santa Anita Park. Officials predicted a 25,000 crowd and a possible record $1,000,000 mutuel handle for the eight-race program.

If all entries go, the 1 1-4-mile classic will be started in two tiers of 13 horses and the mobile gate will not be used. Racing Secretary Edwin Keller said a snap barrier will be used unless late scratches reduce the field to 22 or less.

Axomite, Blue, Blue Boy and War Glory—three of the most highly regarded steppers in the big trot—drew front line positions which did nothing to hurt their chances. Thirteen horses were lumped in the wagering field and most received second row places.

Springer, the attending physician, said they appeared to be in as good condition as normal twins although he added that the mortality rate in Siamese twins was hight.

Sprinkler System Drenches Stage And Eight Actors

Morristown, N.J., May 10 (AP)—The opening scene Wednesday night of Somerset Maugham's play "The Circle" was a washout.

The on-stage automatic sprinkler system in the Jersey theatre was set off as the curtain rose. The eight members of the cast were drenched. The ceiling of the set fell to the stage, a $500 gown belonging to Florence Reed, recent star of Shakespeare's "A Winter's Tale," was ruined when water flooded the dressing rooms, and the audience of 1,200 walked in orderly fashion from the theatre.

After a 40-minute wait while police and firemen cleared the debris, the audience returned and the play went on as scheduled.

Jack Wasserman, producer, said the curtain caught on a valve of the sprinkler system.

Boston Red Sox Stretch Win Streak to Fourteen Games And Stand 7-3 Chance to Win Flag

Phenomenal Hitting Reason for Greatest Streak in History of Club

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

Off past records, Boston Red Sox stand a 7-3 chance of winning the American League pennant.

In defeating Chicago White Sox, 7-5, yesterday to stretch their winning streak to 14 games, the red hose joined 10 other junior circuit clubs which have won 14 or more consecutive games since the loop was organized in 1901. Seven have gone on to capture the flag.

The seven were the 1906 Chicago White Sox (19 straight); the 1931 Philadelphia Athletics (17) and the '13 Athletics (15); the 1926 New York Yankees (16) and the '41 Yankees (14) and the 1909 and '34 Detroit Tigers (14).

Of the three non-pennant winners, the 1912 Washington Senators, with 17 straight, finished second as did the 1906 Yankees with 15. The '16 St. Louis Browns won 14 in a row but wound up fifth.

Phenomenal hitting has been the reason for Boston's greatest winning streak in the history of the club. In the last three games, eight Bosox tossers have yielded 51 hits, an average of 17 a game, and still Boston won all three. The reason is summed up in the batting averages of the following Boston sockers — Pesky, .427; Williams, .424 and Dom DiMaggio .386. The club as a whole is hitting an even .300.

Two-run Homer Does It

A fourth - inning two - run homer by Bobby Doerr proved the margin of victory and enabled the Red Sox to increase their league lead to 4½ games over the second-place Yankees.

Nelson Potter, an old Yankee jinx who hasn't been beaten by the New Yorkers in two years, gained his fifth straight triumph over the McCarthymen when he pitched St. Louis Browns to a 6-1 victory.

Homers played an important part in New York Giants' 6-1 triumph over Pittsburgh Pirates. Johnny Mize banged his fifth round-tripper and rookie Jack Graham his first.

The Cubs were beaten 5-2 in 12 innings by Boston Braves, while Brooklyn missed a grand opportunity to move into a first place tie with the idle St. Louis Cardinals when they came out on the short end of an 8-7 score against Cincinnati Reds.

Continuing to rebound from their seven-game losing skein, Detroit Tigers made it five in succession when they edged Washington Senators 9-8 in another 12-inning affair.

Russ Derry, recently acquired from New York Yankees, laced out three doubles to lead Philadelphia Athletics to a 7-6 victory over Cleveland Indians.

Philadelphia Phillies joined the Cards in a day off.

Must Have Arena Before Franchise Will Be Granted

(By The Canadian Press)

In Los Angeles yesterday, president Mervyn (Red) Dutton of the National Hockey League tossed a bit of cold water on the film capital's early prospects for a berth in the major hockey circuit by stating a franchise could hardly be granted until a new arena is under way. Four groups out there are known to be anxious to operate in the NHL but Dutton pointed out the largest available rink seated only 5,000.

Dutton pointed out that the smallest arena in the N.H.L. is the Forum at Montreal where more than 10,000 persons can be seated. A large rink was necessary to meet the payroll of a major league club, he observed.

The Argentine Tennis Association yesterday professionalized Heraldo Weiss, the country's court ace, for collecting improper travelling expenses, it was announced at Buenos Aires.

The permit of lightweight Leo Methot of Montreal was suspended yesterday by the Maine Boxing Commission on the ground that he failed to keep a ring engagement and did not notify the promoter.

After being released at the finish of the 1945 season, Gerald (Gee) Walker is returning to the Cincinnati Reds as a coach, the National League club announced yesterday.

The public sale of $10 to $100 tickets for the Louis-Conn heavyweight championship fight June 19 opened yesterday at Madison Square Garden. A double line of buyers was in evidence all day.

Prince Richard, from Toledo, O., was an easy winner yesterday in the one-mile pace feature of Grand Circuit racing at Santa Anita Park to take the $2,500 purse.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

With prospects looming brightly insofar as a sponsor goes, the Belleville junior softball squad (Columbian Squires) last year's Ontario junior champions, are practicing faithfully these hazy nights. The kids have had a new lease of life and are now under the guiding light of Vern (Jumbo) Goyer. In the new set-up Vern will take over the coaching activities of the squad while Don Barrett will act in a managerial capacity.

The team has the majority of last year's stars available plus a lot of promising material and under the up-and-at-'em coaching of Goyer is rapidly rounding into shape. Practices will be held every Tuesday and Thursday night on the Collegiate campus and Coach Goyer urges every player of junior age to report for duty. Next practice, Tuesday night, 6 o'clock, the Campus.

The kids have submitted their entry to the Belleville Softball Association which was accepted at a special meeting of the executive of that body Wednesday night. Just what name they will flaunt on their sweaters this summer is not as yet known. The juniors will play all scheduled games with their big brothers in the League, and go on into the junior OASA playdowns at the end of the season.

There is a strong possibility ten softball squads will comprise the Belleville Softball Association this year, it was disclosed at a meeting of the loop executive Wednesday night. Stephens - Adamson; Mountain View; Sixardee, Belleville Juniors and Belleville Flashes are sure starters while the potential entries of Picton and Foxboro were given favorable consideration. These entries will be accepted if transportation arrangements can be ironed out. Point Anne has not as yet notified league officials of the intention of its squad, but that decision will likely come through in a day or so.

Trenton RCAF Main Station, which withdrew its entry a few days ago, will be asked to reconsider and it is hoped the team will make the third service squad in the league set-up.

President Al. Hitchon has called a meeting of the executive and all team representatives to be held in the City Hall here on Friday, May 17 at 7.30 sharp. It is expected that final business will be concluded at this conclave and the league readied for the opening gun on or about May 24th. The Picton and Foxboro entries will come up for discussion and their representatives have been notified to attend the meeting.

The Softballers will work hand-in-hand with the executive of the Belleville City Baseball League so that no clash of dates will occur in the schedules. There seems to be perfect harmony between the two associations and that augers well for summer sport here.

Messrs. Harry Rollins and Secretary Harry Knott, association delegates to the recent OASA convention told the meeting that the parent body were definitely firm on the ruling that pitchers must wear black trousers. Black, that is, and not dark blue or dark gray. The OASA even went as far as to demonstrate with new and old balls and light and dark trousers in order to bring home the argument that the dark jeans were necessary.

The Association here intends to adhere rigidly to the new ruling, and team managers are hearby warned that black trousers must be worn by pitchers in all games. A suggestion that one team be allowed to sign 18 players instead of the conventional 15 by July 15 met with the disapproval of the body.

Harry Rollins gave a comprehensive report of the association convention and pointed out the benefits to outside districts sending delegates to the annual convention. There is a strong possibility that the 1947 convention might be held in this city. But more about that later.

Ernie Simpson, softball maestro of Kingston is the 1946 president of the Kingston Amateur Softball Association, with the perennial Don Roe, formerly of this city seated in the vice prexy chair. Six teams will comprise the league, these being Kingston Heights, Canadian Corps, Department Veterans Affairs, Locos, Canadian Legion and Queens. It is the first time since the war that the loop boasted this many entries at the teeing-off stage. All games will be played at Victoria Park on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights.

DAVID AND GOLIATH

It will be "David and Goliath" night tonight at the Arena when the immense Polish grappler Wladyslaw Talun comes to grips with Whipper Billy Watson. While the Whipper is a big upstanding heavyweight scaling six feet and two hundred and twenty-eight pounds, his formidable adversary is big enough to almost make two of the Canadian boy. The Whip was able to catch the mighty man from Poland with at least one of his famous dropkicks in the Maple Leaf Gardens match last winter. But "he never do that again" says Talun. "I know now how to feex little Canadian jumping-jack, and I do it queek." The semi-final has Jumping Joe Massetti (not Benedetti who was here last week) in against huge Fred Von Schacht the Milwaukee Mangle-man. In the completing match Dean Detton will be introduced against Leo Numa the former Red Shadow who created such excitement around here two years ago.

ARMY BOOTS—CHEAP

Capetown (CP)—More than 250,000 pairs of old army boots, classified as suitable for remaking, are being released to social welfare organizations at 2s. 6d. (60 cents) a pair. It is likely that some of the boots will be sent overseas for distribution among countries which were overrun by Germany.

REDBUSH TEA

Capetown (CP)—"Rooibos" (Redbush) tea is developing into quite an industry in Cape Province, and as much as £6,000 ($27,000) has been paid for the rooibos crop of one farm at Wellington. With a taste similar to ordinary tea, rooibos grows wild, and is looked upon as one of the healthiest drinks in existence in South Africa.

KI-Y SOFTBALL LOOP SCHEDULES

The Ki-Y softball leagues will get underway for the season on May 13th. There are four teams entered in the juvenile section and seven teams in the midget league.

An earnest plea is sent out for volunteer umpires and for men to supervise the games. Anyone interested in helping this worthy cause are asked to call the Y.M.C.A.

The following are the league schedules:

STEPHENS TELLS FULL STORY OF MEXICAN LOOP

Says He Was Treated Fine but There Are No Clubhouses and Parks Are Poor

By JACK HAND

New York, May 9 (AP)—Vern Stephens yesterday told the full story of his Mexican baseball adventures, including a furtive 158-mile return dash to the border—a tale that should be set to rhumba music in a comic opera setting.

Mysterious phone calls, a check for $25,000, a lonely walk across the International Bridge and a happy reunion in the old Brownie homestead are things that don't enter the lives of every 25-year-old youngster from Long Beach, Calif.

It started in March when Stephens was holding out for a $17,500 contract from St. Louis and ignoring an original offer of $12,000.

"Alfonso Pasquel called me at home," Stephens related. "He said he wanted to see me at San Antonio. I decided to go.

"They offered me $17,000 and finally agreed to pay me $25,000 in bonus and salary for a year. I signed a contract with Jorge (Pasquel) in Mexico City after they put $5,000 in an American bank for me and $20,000 more in Mexico City."

Stephens was assigned to the Vera Cruz Blues and played two games but he wasn't happy about the surroundings.

"The Pasquels treated me fine," recalled Vern. "But they don't have any clubhouses and their parks are very poor. I just got to thinking about how many more years I had left in the big leagues and remembered that Commissioner Chandler had said all would be forgiven if I came back before the season opened."

Vern's last game in Mexico was on a Thursday and his next was scheduled for Saturday afternoon. On Friday afternoon, April 5, Vern Stephens, Sr., and scout Jack Fournier of the Browns drove across the border to Monterrey where Vern was living.

"Dad and Fournier met me," the shortstop said. "I didn't even wait to get my clothes but hopped in the car and away we went.

"When we got to the bridge at Nuevo Laredo, I got out and walked over. Sometimes they inspect cars and ask questions. They seldom bother pedestrians. . I called Jorge the next night and told him I was returning the $5,000 cheque he had given me."

That $5,000 cheque is still causing trouble. Bernardo Pasquel, still another of the brothers, sent Vern a wire the other day, demanding return of the $5,000. Stephens insists he sent the original cheque to Jorge Pasquel in care of El Banco De Descuenta at Mexico City "three weeks ago."

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, May 9—(CP)—The mighty Victoria Dominoes, Canadian senior basketball champions, are homeward bound after three convincing victories over the best in the east, Windsor Assumption College.

But a considerable number of coast hoop followers still feel the island outfit is not necessarily tops in the west.

The train of thought is based on a two-game exhibition series played earlier this season between Victoria and University of British Colu bmiahere Columbia here. Dominoes captured the first game at home 69-52, but the university boys came back on their home floor to score a 73-56 reverse to even the series.

Due to school commitments, U. B.C. were unable to compete for the right to move into Dominion competition. It's a toss up as to what the outcome might have been had the two teams met in a playoff series.

Another reason Vancouver fans are so high on the Collegians is their record in their first year of Pacific Northwest Conference play with secondary United States colleges. They cleaned up the league with not too great difficulty. In addition, playing against "A" conference colleges, Washington State and Oregon Webfoots, they broke even in exhibition tilts.

After the spectacular entry into U. S. competition, thoughts are turned to U.B.C. moving in among the best south of the border, and a couple of seasons from now they will probably be operating in the Senior Pacific Coast Conference.

They must play out one more season with the present circuit, under terms of a two-year contract.

Their prowess has evidently been recognized by one of the top college teams in the U. S., Ohio State, Big 10 winners and third place finishers in the National tourney.

Ohio has asked U.B.C. for a two-game exhibition series here next December. It would mark the first time a Big 10 team has played in Canada.

Getting back to Dominoes, it is understood they might be making some changes too. Although not admitted definitely, it is believed they intend to turn professional and play in the U. S. Pacific coast money loop. The move if effected would take from Canada's basketball scene one of its perennially outstanding teams.

Toronto, May 10—(CP)—Nothing bodes better for football's future than the spring spade work of men in the game who want a longer and stronger autumn harvest — and are willing to start digging early.

One of the major weaknesses of the Canadian game always was the short playing season; another, the general scarcity of player-producing junior clubs. In its post - war plan, football aims at surmounting both.

With so little time between summer heat and the snows, more clubs than ever have decided spring training that will cut down the time needed in the fall is the answer to a longer season.

"It gets you off to a flying start," explained Ted Morris, coach of the Dominion champion Toronto Argonauts, "Keeps the boys in shape, gets them working together and gives the coach an idea what material he'll have to work with."

Hamilton Tigers have a little different idea and will tack early training on the opening end of their regular season by starting August 1.

This spring marks the first try at early training by Winnipeg Blue Bombers, whose unhappy experience with Argos last fall may have helped the decision. Maurice (Winnipeg Free Press) Smith reports the Bomber management has other plans to give the former North Dakota State mentor an insight into the Canadian game. These include bringing Montreal's reorganized club to Winnipeg around Labor Day for an exhibition series that would give west "a first-hand opportunity to see a Ley Hayman-coached team."

Another indication of the interest in developing hardy perennials came in Teddy Morris' recent announcement of a "Junior Big Four" league to operate this fall between junior Argos and Hamilton teams, Toronto St. Michael's and Oshawa.

With the Big Four sponsoring the league and prospects of bigger gate receipts for football in general through a longer season, the way may be opened for something sorely lacking in pre - war junior circles: an annual east - west junior grid clash with none of the old bickering about, "Expenses, expenses, who's got the expense money?"

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE . . . . . .

LESSON NO. 984

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

My partner likes a singleton. He calls that lead a honey. But somehow when that deal is done, it seems to cost us money.

There is a time and place for a singleton lead. Rule tells you when. But even when rule tells you to lead a singleton, no strong recommendation goes with it.

Rule has listed short suit leads as last choice in the order of preference. And a singleton is a short suit. So, it is classed as one of the unfavorable leads; a bad lead.

Why is it not a good lead? Because more often than not, it does your side more harm than help. Think of it as a gambling lead. As such, you will not be so disappointed when it hurts.

The lead of a singleton should be chosen only when there is not a more desirable lead. Thus, it denies having an honor top to lead. Or a long suit from which a lead is acceptable.

Opponents are in a contract of five diamonds and it is your lead from this hand;

♠K 6 5 4
♥Q J 10 7 5

The lead rule is: Follow the order of choice in tops, longies, shorts; don't lead a suit bid by opponents; against a suit contract, don't lead away from an ace or a king.

If you have a good top honor lead, you should lead that before a longie or a short. Your correct lead here is the (top) heart queen.

Being human, you might take a sporting chance at leading your singleton club. It may even work to your advantage in this deal. But it is not the best lead from this hand as a rule.

Elva Tyme seems to have the best argument in favor of a singleton lead. She says: "It feels so good when it works."

It doesn't take much to convince some players.

Hollywood Column

Hollywood, May 10 (AP)—If they're not careful out here they're going to educate the actors.

Behind doors dramatically market "top secret", the Culver City studio is making the story of the atom bomb.

Agnes Moorehead told me of her studies for her role as Lise Meitner. "I didn't know what some of my speeches were all about—I couldn't tell a beaker from a bunsen burner," she said. "So I . . . . learned all about atomic energy."

Hume Cronyn was clutching a book called "Atomic Power For Military Purposes" which he said he had studied carefully. He is portraying Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer. "I've read everything that has been written about him," said Hume.

Tom Drake, who plays a young scientist, is another student. "I haven't felt so smart since the time I got a gold star in second grade," he remarked. With his studious horn-rimmed glasses, Robert Walker also seemed intelligent about the whole thing.

Gregory Peck, one of the hardest working gents in town, is going to have a couple of months off when he finishes "The Short Happy Life." So what is he going to do? Take another acting job.

After that he will probably return to play in the Life of Benedict Arnold. I asked if he would object to playing the American traitor. "Only if it's a bad script," he said.

Latest Hollywood saying: Be kind to your producer; tomorrow he may be the gateman and not let you in.

TORONTO LEAFS NEW CONTESTANT FOR FIRST PLACE

Move Into Fourth Place and Trail Pace-Setting Royals by Two Games

By The Associated Press

The battle for first place in the International League had a new contestant today—Toronto Maple Leafs, winners of their last five games.

Toronto moved into fourth place last night by defeating Newark Bears 6-2, and now trails the pace-setting Montreal Royals, who were idle, by only two games.

Bill McCahan scattered 10 Newark hits in notching his first triumph of the season while his mates effectively bunched 10 safeties off three Newark hurlers to hand the Bears their fifth consecutive loss.

In the only other contests of the day, Syracuse Chiefs climbed to within a half-game of the Royals by trouncing Buffalo Bisons, 11-2, and Rochester Red Wings drubbed Jersey City Giants 11-3.

Earl Harrist, who on April 30 set the Bisons down without a hit, gave up only six safeties in going the distance for the Chiefs. Syracuse took an early 2-0 lead and Charley Kress clinched the game for Syracuse in the fifth inning when he belted his fourth home run of the year and second with the bases loaded. Harrist fanned 11 batters in annexing his third victory of the campaign.

Rochester welcomed the return of fast ball pitcher Max Surkont from the parent St. Louis Cardinals with a 12-hit assault on Mary Grissom and Ken Jungels of Jersey City that included first sacker Chuck Barton's first circuit clout of the year. Surkont struck out seven and walked nine as the Red Wings tallied 11 runs for the second straight day.

FIGHT POSTPONED

Hollywood, May 10 — (AP) — Farmer Manuel Ortiz, world bantamweight champion, is suffering from miseries in his chest, and his title fight with Kenny Lindsay of Vancouver, Canadian kingpin, has been postponed from May 18 to May 25.

Ortiz' manager, Tommy Farmer, said the El Centro vegetable grower had been delayed in his training by a severe cold, and that the postponement had been approved by the Sportsmen's Club, promoter of the 15-round match. Ortiz meantime is taking it easy at his El Centro ranch.

PITCHERS STEAL SHOW IN GAME AT MAIN STATION

"Lefty" Whitman, and "Moose" Matthews, managerial maestros respectively of the Stewart-Warner Alemite and Trenton Main Station entries in the City Baseball league, tossed their respective squads into the testing pot on the station diamond last night and the result was pleasantly surprising to all concerned.

In weather that was more conducive to pigskin punting, the two teams battled through on even terms in a seven-inning exhibition joust and the tilt ended, as it should, in a one-all tie.

But despite the fact that the infield and outfielders shivered visibly and the green of the diamond threatened to silver with hoar frost, the lads came up with as neat an exhibition as one could wish for. If the sample of baseball accorded the R.C.A.F. spectators can be judged a criterion then the City Baseball League faithful are due for some pleasant surprises this summer.

It can truthfully be said that the brand served up in this preseason tilt was better than any playoff dish offered last year, and that in all respect to the teams that made baseball possible here in 1945.

Five Pitchers Work

The pitchers stole the limelight. Lefty Whitman, assigned himself as starting hurler for the Planters, and allowed two hits and struck out three in the three innings he worked. Ernie Smith followed and gave the Air Force sluggers but one safety while Titus, the chucking star of the game allowed one hit and struck out five in two innings.

"Paddy" Sheehan, hurling ace of the Air Force and a nifty righthander with a fine burst of speed and some effective curves, hogtied the planter batters letting them down with two hits for five innings. Wade, another starboard chucker worked the balance of the pastime, struck out three and was nicked for a couple of safeties. Sheehan whiffed seven and walked two.

Both Runs Unearned

Both runs of the pastime were unearned, due to errors with the Matthews minions committing three bobbles and the city lads five.

R.C.A.F. scored in the first inning when Ronsky let Elliot's throw to third go by him as Haffey came sliding into the bag. The ball trickled out in the field and the airman scored standing up. That was all for the Air Force. The Planters tied up the pastime in the fifth when Booth walked and went to second on an infield out. Latchford came through with a timely single and Booth scored when Strachan's hot grounder went through the service shortstop's legs. And that was all for the city team.

Both teams pulled off some neat defensive work in the infield featured by a sparkling double play when Holdershaw, R.C.A.F. first sacker, speared Whitman's red hot drive to double Rowbotham, who had doubled at second.

Latchford led the city hit parade with a brace of singles with Rowbotham's double and Titus' single making up the balance. Robinson and Gill connected safely for the service squad in the second innings but Whitman neatly nipped the former when he tried to pilfer second and retired the next two batters to end the rally.

Fails to Score

Bram White, service shortstop and first man up, smashed out a terrific triple, his second hit in the last of the seventh and it looked like curtains for the visitors. But they hadn't reckoned with Titus. The tall rangy righthander who had retired the side in the previous inning via the whiff route after two errors had put a brace of runners aboard, forced Wade to hit weakly to the infield and struck out the next two to end the rally and the game in a blaze of pitching glory.

The teams will play a return exhibition game at the Stewart-Warner Alemite field next Thursday night.

The score:

R.C.A.F. Trenton 100 000 0—1 4 3
Stewart-Warner 000 010 0—1 4 5

Sheehan, Wade, and Lee; Whitman, Smith, Titus and Elliott.

The teams—R.C.A.F., Trenton, Haffey, 2b; White, ss; Wade, cf; Lee c; Remigio 3b; Holdershaw, 1b; Robinson, lf; Gill, rf Sheehan, p; Matthews, rf; Garbisch, cf.

Stewart-Warner Alemite—Ronsky, 3b; Smoke 3b; Rowbotham, ss; Titus, lf, p; Whitman, p; Smith p; Elliott c; Booth 1b; Fitzpatrick 2b; Latchford rf; Strachan cf.

Umpires—Don Lee, plate; Jack Curtis, bases.

Summary—Earned runs, none; three-base hits: White; two-base hits: Rowbotham; bases on balls: off Whitman, 3; off Sheehan, 2; off Smith, 2; struck out: by Whitman, 3; by Sheehan, 7; by Wade, 3; by Smith, 1; by Titus, 5; double plays: Holdershaw to Haffey.

Major 'A' Bowlers Hold Banquet, Elect Officers

Keglers of the Belleville Major "A" Bowling Association topped off one of their most successful seasons in years Thursday night at the Hotel Quinte where they banqueted themselves, elected officers for the coming year, presented prizes, and over the festive board reminisced over the past year's activities and planned for a bigger and better season this year.

Cliff Argue was elected president for the new season, with Joe Legault being placed in the vice-prexy seat. W. Jackson is the secretary of the league while J. Kirkwood will act in a treasurer's capacity.

The banquet preceded the presentation of the trophy emblematic of the association championship to the Bell Cleaners team which not only won the loop title last year but also pulled out on top of the other teams in the doubles sweepstakes held in "Stub" Barrett's Bowling Academy after the social amenities.

Belle Cleaners won the league title by virtue of their highest aggregate seasonal score of 3,761. In the sweepstakes, they annexed the top prizes with a score of 5,473 over the second place team, Lawn Bowlers, which rolled a total of 5,407. In third place came the C.N.R. with 5,364 and Belleville Golf occupied the fourth position with 5,241.

High five strings in the sweepstakes was won by Jackson with 1,192 and in order came Lee 1,146, Anderson 1,142, Legault 1,131, Kiser 1,091, and McLaughlin 1,076. Don Lee copped the highest single score prize with a neat 368.

Winners of the seasonal prizes were Kiser with the high single of 358; Drumm with high three-string 871; Anderson with highest average 211, and the Belle Cleaners copped the highest team score of 3,761.

Members of the league expressed their appreciation to the generous gesture of "Stub" Barrett in donating the use, free of charge, of his alleys for the sweepstakes tournament.

LIVE OSCAR FOR HOLLYWOOD

Bound for Hollywood to co-star with Bing Crosby and Joan Fontaine in a movie, Oscar, a 500-pound elk, is put aboard a freight car at the west side terminal in New York. Owner Roland Lindeman says the elk is the only tame one in captivity. This, of course, excludes the Elks whose wives won't let them out on lodge night. Admiring the animal here are Therese la Conte, six, and Joe Albanese, three, who find that a bail of hay makes a nice grandstand.

I'LL WAIT FOR YOU

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

CHAPTER 22

Mountain Retreat

Carol passed a hand over her eyes. When the tear-mist cleared she read on:

If I try to explain myself, Carol, I'll get mixed up and feel sorry for myself and you'll be sorry for me. I don't want that. I've been wrong about life and people, thwarted, with kinks in my character. You've been wrong about me, thinking I was something I wasn't. But I've never been wrong about you. And all I ask of you now, all I hope for, is that you won't think too badly of me and that you won't be ashamed for having loved me for two years. The best of me went into loving you, but I fooled you. Mainly, I think, I fooled myself and cheated myself. I have Edwina and Mr. Hartley to thank for knowing that it should go without saying how ashamed I am and how grateful I am to them.

Until tonight I thought I was a person standing alone, fighting alone, fighting everything and everybody that had hurt me when I was young and poor, and Edwina made me the laughing stock of Newton. But tonight I realized that I'd been loved by Mr. Hartley, your father and you...and that the girl who made a laughing stock was a staunch friend with a better mind and a greater courage than mine.

And so the money I was going to use for our home will be given back to Mr. Hartley. He told me last night that he didn't want it back now; that the money itself was unimportant. But I'm going to pay it back. And he agreed to have his will changed, leaving his property and money to charity and old friends and neighbors instead of to me.

And where does that leave me, Carol? Free—free for the first time since I began this ghastly thing. Free—you've no idea how it feels not to be a thief any more. The feeling spoiled things between us more than you will ever know.

It leaves you free, too. I release you from your promise to marry me because I'm going away—where, I don't know yet but far away from Newton. I could stay—I'm not driven away—and go on with my work. But I don't think I could take the pats on the back from people who think I'm good political material or stand in a court of justice. I've always been very serious about the law.

And I release you from your promise because Edwina told me about Norman Alexander and so I can't do anything except accept defeat from you as graciously as possible and wish you all happiness. Oddly enough, I'm not very much hurt, perhaps because I've hurt myself so much and others, and it's so good to be free.

Have I said it all, I wonder? I'm tired all over and I can't think well. Give your father my thanks and my best wishes. He was a tower of strength tonight. Human life, even the life of a blind man past eighty, is precious to him. I've learned a lot tonight. I'll never hurt myself or any one else again and I know that people are not my enemies but my friends. And I can think about my mother now and not push the thought of her away from me.

God bless you, dear, lovely, Carol,

Alan.

The letter was still in her hand when her father knocked and came in. He came to her, took the letter from her and read it slowly. Then, folding it, he turned to her and his smile was an amused reproach.

"This throws a new light on the situation. You and young Alexander.... But come down to breakfast, dear. And this letter is Alan's vindication. How close we can be to people and not know them at all....a superficial closeness. I approve of his going away. Good for him. He'll throw off the shackles of shame and regret. He'll find himself again. But he's a good lad who has already found himself, don't you think?"

"Edwina has gone, too. I telephoned her house. She went to New York this morning." Turning to her father, Carol met his mild blue eyes directly. "My heart turned over when I read Alan's letter. I wanted to call him back and tell him I'd try to be what I meant to be to him before all this happened." She smiled. "I don't know whether I'm happy or sad."

"You're happy and enormously relieved. And you're going away, too. Away from this house and me and Newton. But not to young Alexander...What is his name?"

"Norman...."

He chuckled. "But not to Norman—not yet. No girl wants to get up out of a mud puddle and go to her lover. And no girl wants to go from a funeral to her lover. That wouldn't be wise, you see. You don't want to go from yesterday to Norman. Love can wait and it's better for the waiting. Your body and your heart and your mind are sick. Repair them and then go."

Postpone it....live down yesterday and leave weariness and sadness and pity for Alan....

"Your advice is always sound. I'll call Ann Kirkness in Baltimore. I believe she's getting her vacation around this time...."

"Good. She's just the person for you." He chuckled again. "Norman Alexander will keep, you know. He seemed pretty sturdy to me. But you've been holding out on me about him... When did it begin? Remember there's nothing any one likes more than a love story. But at the moment, if you don't mind, dear, your father would like his breakfast and I'm sure Rosie is fussing about the delay...."

"Just one thing more," Carol said.

Her ring from Alan.... Going to her dressing table, she picked it up and put it in the palm of his hand and closed his fingers over it.

"Alan forgot to mention this. Will you put it in a safe place and when and if he comes back, send it to him, or better still, take it to him?"

Ann Kirkness, Carol was informed in Baltimore, was in Boston visiting her family. Carol telephoned Boston and heard Ann's cheerful voice say that she planned to spend only a week of her vacation with her family, a week almost gone, and that for the remainder she was going to an inn in the Pennsylvania mountains where she would join Carol. It was inexpensive, the scenery lovely and she was certain Carol would love the place.

Another call at the inn assured her of a room, and clothes hastily pressed and packed, she was on the train that afternoon idly turning the pages of a magazine her father had put in her hand at the last minute. She stared dreamily at the countryside where an occasional frost-tipped leaf had turned to red or gold.

From her room in Tuscany Inn, Carol could see the mountains rise out of the morning mist and stand clear and majestic until the evening mist obscured them. Only late vacationists were at the inn, a large white graceful structure, which stood on the edge of a golf course, and Carol found them to be quiet, well-mannered people seeking rest and recreation, and totally unlike the typical summer tourists with a vocal questionnaire for each new guest.

Until Ann came, Carol was a girl alone. She ate alone at a small corner table and walked alone along the mountain paths in the early morning and before dark before returning to her cheerful room to sleep long and soundly while the crisp air sent the chintz curtains billowing. Neither the tennis courts nor the swimming pool nor the library tmepted her. When she awoke in the morning, she wanted to be out, wearing a sweater and skirt and sensible shoes, walking against the brisk wind. Autumn had come early to the mountains; the forest was vivid with color and the frost in the morning necessitated the lighting of a fire in the huge stone fireplace on the first floor lounge of the inn.

She was like one convalescing, she thought on the third morning as she walked. Her father had known that; it was as a patient that he had treated her when he sent her away. Last night she had wired him: "Patient much better. Walked five miles today...

Ann, small and dark and vivacious and wearing smart tweeds, burst in upon her one morning while she was still asleep and, flinging off her hat and gloves, awoke her with a hearty kiss.

"Darling, how I rushed to get here! I'm positively dead! Never take a vacation with your family if you expect to get any rest. Parties and dinners and Aunt Sophie's new baby and Uncle Joe's passion for table tennis. They've had no compassion for a nurse's aching feet! What have you been doing? Are there any attractive men in the place? I hope not. My summer romances always turn out to be winter bores and problems. How do you like the place? Do you wonder that when I sneak away I sneak away here?"

Carol smiled at the bright familiar face and the voice that seemed to spill over with enthusiasm.

"I've had a grand time here, Ann, waiting for you," Carol said. "Nobody bothers you. No identification tags anywhere. Just nice people minding their business, and no attractive men, no unattached men, that is...."

Ann laughed. "Good! I'll be true to Penny—Penny being a young doctor I've been fighting with for more than a year. We're always nagging each other but I'll probably marry the guy. Mrs. Penny! Isn't that awful? I'll never reconcile myself to that name. Tell you about it later. Isn't it marvelous that we're going to be together?"

Popular with patients and doctors and other nurses, Ann had carried none of the loneliness and neglect of her childhood into her adult life. When they were student nurses together, she had told Carol of her father's early death, her mother's menial job and of the succession of neighbors and relatives and inefficient servants who cared for her. For a year before she entered the hospital she had worked as a nursegirl with a wealthy family. Her mother had married again but the ease and comfort that her second marriage brought her had come too late for Ann to enjoy. Ann had made her own life and found the work she loved.

And Ann, always discreet, asked nothing about Alan or of the bare third finger of Carol's left hand. It was, in fact, Ann who did most of the talking the first day when they took a short walk before dinner.

"About Penny, John Penny... After a lot of tall, dark, handsome men, I'm going to marry one with red hair and with ears that stick out. Mother is horrified at what we plan to do. We could go to Boston and in time Penny could be a fashionable doctor with high fees with my stepfather's help. But is it worth it, we've asked ourselves. Is that really living? We don't think it is and so we're going down on the Florida coast and live by the sea all year and Penny will build up a practice there. Oh, I wish you could meet him, Carol. He looks so ferocious and he's really so sweet. I wonder why we fight so much but it's good clean fighting with a laugh and a kiss at the end of the bout...."

And Ann told her of the girls who had been in training with them, the girls who had married and the girls who had not, the one who had gone on to become a physician and was making a name for herself for cancer research, and the one who had been divorced twice.

"We were all graduated together," Carol said thoughtfully. "Girls in white. It was an oddly assorted group—rich girls running away from an inane social life to become useful, poor girls looking for a vocation, pretty and ugly and nondescript-looking girls...."

CHILD VICTIM BURIED

Winnipeg, May 10 —(CP)— Three-year-old Joan Smith, victim of what police say was a madman's crime, was buried here Thursday.

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Smith, was taken from her parents' home at Minaki, Ont., sometime Saturday night during their absence. Her nude body was found early Sunday, about 100 yards from the house, by a search party. Police reconstructing the crime said her head had been beaten against a rock until it was crushed.

Police have made no arrests as yet.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, May 10. (CP)—Index gains of nearly a point were boarded by the industrial and base metal stocks in the early session on the stock exchange and other groups were slightly weaker. Volume was comparatively small at 782,000 shares for the first three hours.

Sherritt was a feature as it climbed to $2.32 in heavy turnover up 27 cents from the last close.

In the golds the juniors were the most active and prices were higher for Lunward, God's Lake, Arjon and Aubelle. North Inca weakened to 65.

In the industrial section the strong groups were the food, liquor, paper and utility groups.

Says 1909 Job Offer Made to King Victor Still Holds Good

Syosset, N.Y., May 10—(AP) — There's a job waiting in sunny Florida for Italy's abdicated King Victor Emmanuel III — and for Queen Elena, too.

Lloyd C. Griscom, United States Ambassador in Rome under President Theodore Roosevelt, recalled in an interview today that in 1909 while lunching with the Royal couple in Italy he mentioned that he was going to retire from diplomatic service and publish newspapers.

The King, Mr. Griscom said, asked jokingly:

"If I ever lose my job, will you give me one on your newspaper?"

Mr. Griscom said he replied, "Certainly, you can be foreign editor."

At this point, the Queen asked, "What about me?"

"You can be women's editor," Mr. Griscom answered.

Mr. Griscom, who owns the Tallahassee Democrat, said the offer still goes.

Byrnes Accepts Russ Demands For Italian Reparations

Clashes With Molotov Over Way of Paying $100,000,000

Paris, May 11 (AP)— State Secretary Byrnes of the United States today accepted the Soviet Union's demand for $100,000,000 in reparations from Italy, but added conditions which led to a clash with Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia, an American source reported.

Almost the entire two-hour informal meeting of the four-power conference was devoted to the reparations issue as the ministers continued their review of disputed points in Italian peace treaty proposals in efforts to narrow the area of disagreement.

Mr. Byrnes, accepting the Russian reparations demand, was reported by the American source to have said these must be obtained only from:

1. Italian assets abroad.
2. Excess industrial equipment in former munitions factories.
3. Merthant shipping.
4. Naval vessels.

Mr. Molotov disputed the last point. He said naval vessels were legitimate booty of war and should be apportioned among the victorious powers as such, and not as reparations.

Mr. Byrnes retorted that booty could be claimed only by those who had captured it, and the Russians had captured no Italian naval vessels.

The positions of Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain and Foreign Minister Bidault of France could not be learned immediately.

Two surprise Russian concessions paved the way for a possible break in the week-long deadlock which had brought the conference to the brink of failure.

Russians Concessions

The Russian concessions were made by V. M. Molotov, Soviet foreign minister, who agreed to withdraw his opposition to:

1. A French proposal allowing Italy to retain, as sole trustee under the United Nations, her pre-Fascist colonies.

2. A United States proposal providing for the establishment of an inter-allied commission to investigate and prosecute war criminals within Italy for a limited time after signing of the Italian peace treaty.

Both issues were held open for additional discussion today, at a small, informal session in Mr. Molotov's office in Luxembourg palace.

French official quarters said they were encouraged by last night's meeting in which, they said, Molotov took the initiative in an attempt to settle the long-troublesome issue of Italy's African empire.

Seconded Motion.

James F. Byrnes, United States Secretary of State, seconded Mr. Molotov's motion on disposition of the Italian colonies, with the proviso that Libya and Eritrea be given their independence after 10 years.

British sources said Ernest Bevin, British foreign secretary, argued for immediate independence of Libya and Eritrea; and then asked that Britain be given trusteeship over Cyrenaica, former Italian colony within Libya.

These sources said that Bevin cited Britain's war-time promise to tribesmen of Cyrenaica that they would never again be placed under Italian rule, and that he told Mr. Molotov:

"Tobruk is to us what Stalingrad is to the Russians."

Mr. Molotov's concessions were generally interpreted as tantamount to a withdrawal of Russian demands for a dominant role in Tripolitania.

USE BATHROOM FOR OPERATING ROOM

Chatham, May 11 (CP)—Conversion of a bathroom into an isolation ward and emergency operating room helped to save the life of four-year-old Russell Bennett, who was recovering today from a successful operation on his throat. A rare throat operation was necessary but because he had measles the child could not be admitted to the general hospital. However, hospital officials tossed the rules aside and converted the the rules aside and converted the hospital for him.

TOOK ROOSEVELT CAR

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., May 11 — (AP)— James Johnson, 24-year-old chauffeur formerly employed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, yesterday was sentenced to six months in Dutchess county jail on his plea of guilty to grand larceny in taking Mrs. Roosevelt's car without permission. The car was involved last May in an accident in which four persons, friends of Johnson's, were killed. Johnson was driving at the time.

Plane Collision Kills 25 Airmen

Manson, Fla., May 11—(AP)—Two four-engined navy bombers crashed in flames in a remote and wooded sector eight miles north of here yesterday, carrying an estimated 25 to 30 airmen to their deaths.

The planes apparently were engaged in manoeuvres and accompanied by a pursuit ship when they collided and crashed said L. C. Cook, despatcher for the State Foreign Service at Munson.

Navy officers withheld comment other than saying that two ships had crashed and that an announcement would be made when next-of-kin of the victims had been notified.

Cook said a search party from the Naval Air Training Centre here went to the scene, and that he was informed by members of the party the death toll ran between 25 and 30.

The despatcher reported the two bombers, accompanied by the pursuit ship, roared overhead in a northerly direction this morning. The smaller craft was diving and wheeling about the bombers, apparently in practice, he said.

A few minutes later, Cook reported, he spotted a column of smoke and sent a ranger to investigate. Five miles to the north the ranger came upon the burning wreckage of the big ships, with the bodies of the victims inside, the despatcher said. The body of one airman, with his parachute unopened, was found near-by.

An earlier report said the fighter plane also had crashed but Navy officers reported only the bombers had gone down.

Munson is near the Alabama and northwest Florida line.

Political Parades Banned in Italy

Rome, May 11. (AP)—The Italian cabinet today banned all political parades until after the referendum June 2 on whether the monarchy shall be retained. Public assemblies were not prohibited.

A cabinet communique said the action was taken at yesterday's lengthy session, called to consider the abdication of King Victor Emmanuel III, because some ministers expressed fear of disturbances.

An estimated 10,000 monarchists demonstrated before the quirinale yesterday and afterward paraded through Rome, but their conduct was orderly throughout. Five parties supporting the republic scheduled a mass meeting today "to answer yesterday's provocations".

King Humberto II, whose succession to the throne was approved yesterday by the cabinet—which limited his powers and stipulated that he could rule only until the plebiscite—issued his first proclamation last night, reiterating his promise to abide by the decision of the electorate June 2.

BRIG. J. F. LISTER ACQUITTED BY COURT-MARTIAL

Four Charges Relating To Misuse of Property Requisitioned by Army Dismissed

By WILLIAM BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Amsterdam, May 11 (CP Cable)—Brig. J. F. A. Lister of Quebec and Victoria, B.C., today was acquitted of four charges relating to misuse of Netherlands property requisitioned by the Canadian Army. He was immediately released.

The decision of the court martial was reached after less than an hour's consideration.

Brig. Lister, former Chief-of-Staff of the Canadian Army in The Netherlands, faced four charges originally but one was abandoned in the course of the trial.

The charge dropped was that the 39-year-old soldier fraudulently misemployed public property by causing food and coal to be delivered to his residence at No. 58 Aranjenassaulaan in Amsterdam—the property he was accused of using improperly for private purposes after it was requisitioned for army use.

The other three charges were that Brig. Lister misused requisitioned premises; converted public property in the form of coal and food to his own use; and used for his own purposes the services of four Dutch civilians paid from public funds.

Pleaded Innocent

Brig. Lister had pleaded innocent to the charges when his trial opened last Tuesday.

Brig. Lister was relieved of his post last January and charged after investigation of Canadian Army affairs in The Netherlands by Lt.-Col. C. P. Montague, retired Chief-of-Staff at Canadian Army headquarters.

Lt.-Col. Bruce Macdonald of Windsor, Ont., chief prosecutor at the court martial, said in his closing address yesterday that all connected with the court would "rejoice at an acquittal."

"It is most distasteful to prosecute a soldier whose war record is so glowing and whose services to the country earned such high recognition," said Col. Macdonald. "....however, if the court feels Brig. Lister's later conduct did not measure up to his own earlier standards then a verdict of guilty....must be registered."

Criticised Arrangements

Lt.-Col. C. H. Gage, summing up for the defence, asked the court to disregard evidence given yesterday by Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, former Commander of Canadian land forces in The Netherlands who only recently left Canada to take a staff course in England.

In his testimony Gen. Simonds criticized Brig. Lister's living arrangements in Amsterdam.

Col. Gage asked:

"How can we fail to fear that a commander who groundlessly suspended two chiefs-of-staff in a fortnight—who merely discovered he stirred up a mare's nest—sees his own prestige as dependent on the outcome of this case as that of the character and career of the accused."

ALWAYS A FIRST TIME

Goderich, May 11 — (CP) — Norval Anderson was just about set to chalk up 200,000 miles of driving without an accident today but there's always a first time. The gasoline truck he was driving crashed into a car driven by Lorne Murch of Trenton, Ont., just as the latter was about to turn off the highway into a farm lane atop a hill.

LIGHTER MOMENT FOR BEVIN

Britain's foreign secretary, Ernest Bevin, takes time out from sessions of the Big Four conference, to dance with Lady Diana Duff Cooper, wife of the ambassador to France, at the embassy reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Bevin for delegates to the Big Four conference.

TWO-WEEK TRUCE IN COAL STRIKE EASES PRESSURE

John L. Lewis, Head of Mine Workers, Orders Miners Back to Pits Monday

Washington, May 11. (AP)—A two-week truce in the soft coal strike eased the crippling pressure of the United States economy today, and raised hopes that settlement of the lengthy labor dispute is in the offing.

President Truman put both the United Mine Workers (A.F.L.) and pit owners on notice that he wanted them to work out an agreement in the next four or five days on a new contract.

With this injunction, U.M.W.'s chief John L. Lewis and the bituminous coal operators buckled down to the first of a new series of negotiation conferences.

Government agencies responsible for conserving dwindling fuel supplies meanwhile restudied their numerous strike emergency measures in the light of the truce development, but indications were that most, if not all of them would be continued until the long-range coal outlook became more definite.

(In Montreal last night, Canada's coal controller, E. J. Brunning, said that if the striking miners return for only 12 days "very little, if any, coal would come to Canada.")

The truce in the 40-day walkout materialized quite unexpectedly on Mr. Lewis' initiative yesterday. Its effect is to send the miners back to work Monday until May 25. In that time it is estimated that they can produce 25,000,000 tons of coal, gauging by the pre-strike weekly output of approximately 13,000,000 tons.

Operators Agree

The operators agreed to the truce proposal somewhat dubiously, emphasizing that differences were far from settled in regard to Mr. Lewis' demand for a royalty-raised health and welfare fund for his miners. This is the demand that has proved the big stumbling block in contract negotiations to date.

First indication that the government did not intend to relax major emergency regulations came from the solid fuels administration which said distribution of the coal mined in the next two weeks will remain under its control.

The office of Defence Transportation, which has embargoed all railroad freight shipments but food, fuel and other essentials, said a decision on future rail movements will be made today.

John D. Small, Civilian Production Administrator, expressed the opinion that the government could not afford to revoke orders for brownouts and illuminating gas rationing until "this picture is a lot clearer."

Mr. Lewis' surprise truce offer came dramatically yesterday after the White House announced that President Truman had called the U.M.W. President and Charles O'Neill, chief spokesman for the operators, for a talk.

The operators accepted the proposal but after receiving government assurance, they said, that the retroactive pay increases demanded by Mr. Lewis for the two week period to work out a permanent contract in the next four or five days as the President requested.

JOHN McCAUGHEY, FORMER I.R.A. LEADER, DIES

In Prison at Time and Had Been on Hunger Strike for 23 Days

Dublin, May 11 —(CP)— John McCaughey, 32, tight-lipped former Irish Republican Army "adjutant general," died in his cell at Marysburgh prison near Cork, Eire, early today after a 22-day hunger strike which caused political agitation throughout Eire. He had gone without water for 17 days.

In Belfast, David Fleming, another imprisoned I.R.A. hunger striker, was reported in a "weak condition" as his fast entered its 51st day, but Dr. Fred McSorley, a Nationalist member of parliament, who visited Fleming yesterday, said Fleming showed surprising vitality and probably would live "for many, many days yet."

McCaughey, whose brother and four sisters were with him when he died, apparently kept silent to the end. He had refused to defend himself when a special Dublin military court sentenced him to death in 1941 for kidnapping and illegally assaulting another I.R.A. leader, Stephen Hayes.

Death Sentence Commuted.

The death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment following a country-wide appeal for clemency.

His case had become a national issue. In the last three weeks, numerous Dublin mass meetings demanded his release and that of Fleming. Thursday night mounted police broke up what they termed an "attempted attack" on Eire President Sean T. O'Kelly by 380 angry demonstrators.

Similar demonstrations were held in Belfast, Northern Ireland, on Fleming's behalf. Fleming has taken only vitamin tablets and orange juice "to prevent scurvy" in his lengthy fast.

Both the Eire and North Ireland governments announced they would not consider the release of the two men.

The McCaughey case began in 1941, when Hayes, accused by his I.R.A. comrades of turning informer appeared manacled, exhausted and terrified in Dublin and said he had been captured

Missoula, Mont., May 11 (AP)—When a Missoula resident stopped a building contractor to tell him nails were spilling from his truck, the contractor phoned police. Said the police: "Pick 'em up." The nail trail was a mile long.

COMPANION SHOT, DESPERATE BANDIT SOUGHT BY POLICE

Trapped in a Lane Preparing to Fight, Man Wounded in Chest And Run Over by Car

Montreal, May 11 (CP)— A tense week that opened with a marathon gun battle between two gunmen and members of the provincial and municipal police forces, approached its grim close today with one of the thugs lying between life and death in a hospital bed and his comrade-in-crime the object of a relentless police search.

Louis Arthur Levesque was shot through the chest by a city detective's bullet late yesterday afternoon after being trapped in a lane in the northeast section of the city. After an unsuccessful attempt to shoot his way to freedom and after a bullet from his .32 calibre gun had bounced off a policeman's bulletproof vest, the 23-year-old gunman raised his revolver to fire a third burst when he was run over by a police patrol car.

Jean Marcel Brunet, 27, who had managed to slip through the police net for the fourth time in less than a fortnight, was not expected to remain long at liberty, being alone and deprived of the automobile—identified as a stolen police patrol car—in which the pair had managed to elude the law for several days.

Spotted in Afternoon

The bandit car was spotted at 4 p.m. yesterday by Traffic Officer Emile Edmond of the Provincial Police. Off duty at the time, Edmond pushed his motorcycle out of the garage and sped off in pursuit. The fleeing men, meanwhile, were recognized by two members of a police car patrol and after a hectic chase the bandits' car was found abandoned on Jean Talon Street East.

FIRE OUT OF CONTROL

Silver City, N. M., May 11 — (AP)—Fanned by big winds, a forest fire is flaming out of control a fourth day in the wilderness area of Gila national forest in southwestern New Mexico. The forest service reports 1500 acres of blackened hills in the wake of the fire in Johnson Canyon near the Arizona-New Mexico border. Five miles away another fire covered 1000 acres before being brought under control yesterday.

CACHE OF BUTTER FOUND

Richford, Vt., May 11 (AP) — A cache of 2,500 pounds of butter smuggled in from Canada was found in a field by United States customs inspectors, who said yesterday the contraband had been cached while the smuggler went back to Canada for another load. A car in which part of the butter was found was confiscated by the inspectors.

ONLY WANTED HIDES

Great Falls, Mont., May 11 — (AP)—A rancher brought five live coyotes to the sheriff's office here—in crates—and demanded a bounty of $2 per hide. Sheriff's officers argued what to do. Finally they decided. "Bring back the hides," they told the rancher. "We pay for the hides only."

Redistribution Plan To Increase House Membership by 10

Quebec, Ontario, B.C., N.S., Would Gain by New Plan

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, May 11. (CP)—A resolution calling for a British North America Act amendment to permit an increase of 10 in the membership of the 245-seat House of Commons is expected to be submitted to parliament with the next few days.

The government, it was learned Friday night, has obtained party approval of a plan to have the B.N.A. act amended so the basis of representation in the Commons would be changed.

The plan, understood to have been submitted by the government to the Liberal Party caucus Wednesday, would increase Quebec's representation by seven, British Columbia's by two, Ontario's and Nova Scotia's by one each. Saskatchewan, which would lose four seats if the redistribution was carried out as previously, would lose only one under the new plan.

Since Confederation Quebec has had 65 members and the other provinces have been allotted membership in the House in proportion to their population as compared with Quebec.

This system of allotment did not apply to Prince Edward Island or to the Yukon. Under terms of the constitution, the island cannot have less members in the Commons than it has in the Senate, which is four. The Yukon gets one regardless of its population.

Two Sections Keep Same Number

It is proposed that these two sections keep their present representation and that 250 seats be divided among the rest of the Dominion. The total population of Canada, less that of the island, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories, would be divided by 250. The quotient thus obtained would be divided into the population of each province and the result would be the number of members it would be entitled to elect.

This, it is believed, would give the provinces the following representation, with present representation in brackets:—

Nova Scotia 13 (12); Prince Edward Island 4 (4); New Brunswick 10 (10); Quebec 72 (65); Ontario 83 (82); Manitoba 17 (17); Saskatchewan 20 (21); Alberta 17 (17); British Columbia 18 (16); and Yukon 1 (1) — total 255 (245).

Redistribution has to be made following each census and was due to have been carried out in 1943 on the basis of the 1941 census but was postponed because of the war. The Speech from the Throne this session gave notice that redistribution would be proceeded with.

Should parliament agree to the amendment in the B.N.A. Act a joint resolution will be sent to Westminster asking the British House to amend the act. In such case it is probable a redistribution committee will be established to reallot the constituencies in the various provinces. Actual work of deciding on the boundaries would be left until next session.

Woman Fan at Spy Trials Provides Main Interest in Dull Proceedings

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, May 11 (CP)— For sheer, sustained, this-is-better-than-books interest in Canada's espionage trials we give you Mrs. Heim.

Mrs. Heim has, for us, developed into one of the few characters in the surprisingly drab spectacle of the trials themselves.

While others stay away by the thousands, she attends the manifold sessions almost religiously. She shows up day after day, her short, stoutish shape garbed in attire that is surprising at times.

Sometimes she wears purple velvet, sometimes something brighter. The other day she wore a tan coat with tartan-type fixings which looked quite smart and quite young.

Mrs. Heim is a Swiss woman who married a professor of languages who migrated with her to Canada and taught first at a university out West and later at St. Patrick's College here. During the war he went to the defence department and he's still there.

Mr. Heim can't see the spy trials, Mrs. Heim says. He doesn't see why she is so interested.

But, she confided to us the other day—we have a chat with her nearly every trial day—"I wouldn't miss this for anything ...it's better than any book."

Hardly a session passes, even the short ones devoted to legal formalities, without her sating that interest. She sits far forward on her seat, her legs crossed at the ankles, drinking in the developments.

It took her a while to get all the accused clear in her mind.

She would lean forward to us and whisper "which one is that?" And we would identify him. Then Mrs. Heim would pucker her lips and her eyes would grow large with her knowledge and she would sit back, thinking it over.

By now she is somewhat of an authority on them. But her sympathies fluctuate.

Once she was all for prosecution but the other day she told us she felt sorry for two of them standing around the court room waiting for the start of another session.

"I don't think they wanted to do anything wrong," she said.

Then she fell to talking about the little niece she had kept for a year and had grown deeply attached to and we told her about our two kids.

Our friendship, founded on espionage, is broadening with the weeks of trial.

Will Make Effort To Refute Evidence Of Police Officers

Toronto, May 11 (CP)—A determined defence effort to refute police testimony that Howard Urquhart, 19, one of four youths being tried for murder in connection with the slaying of Meyer Tobias last Dec. 28, gave a voluntary statement after his arrest, was expected today as the trial resumed.

Defence counsel were expected to place Urquhart in the witness box to deny that the statement was voluntarily made and that coersion, in the form of third-degree threats was used to obtain it.

Talk of intimidation and alleged use by police of a threat "to use a rubber hose" highlighted yesterday's hearing. Police officers vigorously denied the allegation and reiterated previous statements that the statement was given voluntarily.

Today's session of the Assize court marked the first time in many years that a Saturday sitting has been held. Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay was expected to give a ruling on the admissibility or inadmissibility o fthe contentious statement.

In addition to police testimony, yesterday's sitting was taken up with a tedious description of ballistics and results of expert study of the bullets taken from the body of the murdered dress shop proprietor.

The jury was told by Mr. Justice Mackay that arrangements would be made for the entire group to have a period of relaxation and they would be permitted to attend a movie and also to attend church services on Sunday—but they would be accompanied by sheriff's officers and would be required to remain cut off from public discussion of the trial.

During yesterday's hearing Urquhart, wearing a blue suit and a blue tie, listened intently, twisting his lips nervously, as his counsel, A. O'Mara, cross examined police witnesses on the circumstances under which the statement was made. The other three accused—William Mullen, 20, Edward Martin, 18, and Donald Warner, 17, sat quietly in the box, never speaking to each other.

Removal of Excise Tax On Soft Drinks Will Be Considered Says Ilsley

Timmins, May 11 — (CP) — Word received today from Federal Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley indicated that removal of war excise tax on soft drinks and other carbonated beverages will be considered when the budget comes under study, Mayor J. Emile Brunette said today.

Mayor Brunette wrote the finance minister last week requesting that tax on soft drinks and other carbonated beverages be removed in the interests of the people and distributors.

TWO STUDENTS KILLED

Chicago, May 11 —(AP)— Two 17-year-old students were killed last night and another student injured seriously in a basement explosion following experiments in a home chemistry laboratory in suburban Maywood.

The dead are Albert Klassen and Robert Adams, in whose basement laboratory the blast occurred.

Injured was Kenneth Colb[illegible], of Melrose Park.

Baird Praises Exercise Muskox In Civic Reception at Edmonton

Edmonton, May 11 (CP) — Canada can make a definite contribution to North American and British Empire defence by maintaining a force in peacetime which can operate in the Arctic and mountainous terrain, Lt.-Col. P. D. Baird, Montreal, commander of Exercise Muskox, said last night in an address at a civic reception tendered the men of Muskox.

Col. Baird who brought his force of 45 men and 10 snowmobiles through a 3,100 mile trek from Churchill, Man., to Fort Nelson, B.C., and then to Edmonton where the 81-day adventure in Canada's extreme weather conditions was brought to a close, reaffirmed earlier statements that the exercise "had no sinister military implications."

Its purpose, he said, was to test out the mobility of machinery and men in the north country, to test air co-operation with forces in the field and "other smaller scientific and intelligence subjects."

"With all the co-operation the army had, all the resources at its command, "Muskox wasn't such a wonderful achievement, it was comparatively simple."

There are many opportunities in the north, he said, for minerals, global air transport and even agriculture. The horizons are wide in the north, and there you meet one of the finest races in the world, the Eskimo.

The Eskimo can teach the white man a good deal and much of facts on clothing and living on the Muskox expedition were based on what had been learned from the Eskimo.

"It remains for public demand to develop the north country for the sake of those people who need hospitals and schools in greater proportion that in settled parts of the country.

"Development of the north calls for the co-operation of many agencies including the Alberta government, the armed services and government and private scientific bodies. If Exercise Muskox has stirred them up, then it has been a success."

FAIR BD. NAMES WOMEN DIRECTORS

The Belleville Agricultural Society met Thursday evening, at Shire Hall, with the president, Mr. E. Sandercock, in the chair. The treasurer, Mr. Ben Bleecker, reported on the financial standing of the Society, which is in a satisfactory condition. The sum of $200 was voted to Mr. Fair, agricultural representative, for junior work in connection with the fair. The following lady directors were appointed for the year 1946: Mrs. Harry Rollins; Mrs. E. Sandercock; Mrs. Florence Stork; Mrs. Jas. Garbutt; Mrs. H. L. Fair; Mrs. C. J. Symons; Mrs. E. S. Denyes; Mrs. Bert Docter; Mrs. S. P. Hagerman; Mrs. Morton Weese; Mrs. J. Watson and Mrs. Ben Bleecker.

The secretary was instructed to contact qualified judges for the various classes, as suggested by the Board.

Mr. A. R. Holland of Madoc, will be asked to display his apiary, which was admired by many last year.

It was decided to have the opening of the Fair on Tuesday afternoon, the second day of the Fair, and Mayor Follwell was requested to invite the new Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, for the occasion.

Locally Grown Asparagus Offered On Local Market

Locally grown asparagus was offered on the Belleville farmer's market for the first time this season on Saturday with several farmers offering this table delicacy at 20 cents per half pound bunch. Rhubarb and onions were also offered at 10 cents or three bunches for a quarter.

On the inside market eggs held steady at 40 cents for firsts, while the offering of fowl was fairly large with from 40 to 45 cents the pound being the general price asked. One lady offered dressed rabbit at 40 cents the pound.

Transplanting stock was freely offered with strawberries bringing $1.50 per hundred and cabbage and tomatoes and lettuce 25 cents the small flat. All manner of potted plants and flowers were offered at prices ranging from 25 to 35 cents each.

One of the largest offerings of young pigs this season was seen with prices generally quoted being $10 each. One or two farmers quoted $8 each, while others offering larger sized shoats wanted $15 each.

One vendor offered a load of mixed slabwood at $8 per cord.

Col. Willys-O'Connor Purchases Cruiser From Lt.-Col. Wills

Col. H. Willys-O'Connor, Ottawa, former permanent aide-de-camp to Governors-General of Canada for the past 26 years, has been in the city for the past few days concluding negotiations for the purchase of the handsome cabin cruiser "Doris III" owned by Lieut.-Col. P. H. Wills.

Col. Willys-O'Connor will make the trip to his Ottawa home in his newly acquired craft and left this morning for that city via the Bay of Quinte, Lake Ontario, the St. Lawrence River and the Rideau Canal.

During World War I he was the original adjutant of the 2nd Battalion, 1st Brigade, 1st Canadian Division, C.E.F. and later was assigned to the staff of General Sir Arthur Currie, commander-in-chief of the Canadian Corps as aide-de-camp.

Harry C. Hatch Laid to Rest At Deseronto

In a grassy knoll-side of a Deseronto cemetery, overlooking one of his life-time loves, the Bay of Quinte, Harry C. Hatch, millionaire distiller and horseman, who died in Toronto this week following a sudden heart seizure, was laid to his final rest on Friday afternoon.

The funeral proper was held privately in the chapel of the Miles Funeral Home, Toronto, on Thursday evening.

Canon C. A. S. Radcliffe, rector of St. Mark's Anglican Church, Deseronto, officiated at the simple yet impressive committal rites before 150 relatives, personal friends, and national and international business associates of the late Mr. Hatch.

The casket, covered with a blanket of flowers arrived at the Canadian National Railways station here at 1.15 in the afternoon, and was taken to Deseronto by hearse for the committal service held at three o'clock.

Many Accompany Body

The late Harry C. Hatch was accompanied on his last journey to the bay-side town of his boyhood, by upwards of fifty business executives of the distilleries corporation of which he was the head, and other industrial firms with which he was associated. They arrived here by private railway coach and were driven to the graveside by automobiles held in readiness here for the purpose.

Escorted by a Provincial Police cruiser car in charge of Traffic Officer Sam Irvine, the funeral motorcade of some twenty-five automobiles, left the railway station and proceeded along Bleecker Avenue to Highway No. 2, to Deseronto.

Many Boyhood Friends

At the graveside, mingling with business representatives from the far-flung sections of the continent and bound together in a common bond of sorrow, were many boyhood friends of the late millionaire from Deseronto, the home of his early youth, and the Bay of Quinte district.

Many of these people knew the late Mr. Hatch, years ago when he and his late father operated the Oriental Hotel in Deseronto. From Belleville, Corbyville, where he was well-known, and Prince Edward County, came the early life associates and friends of the lad who first saw the light of day at Roblin's Mills, in Ameliasburg Township.

Among them was ninety-year old James Healy, proprietor of the Royal Hotel, Picton, and his son, Mr. Fred Healy, who was born practically next door to the late Mr. Hatch and who attended the little red schoolhouse in Roblin's Mills with him. Mr. James Healy, himself a noted horseman, was a former business associate of the late Mr. Hatch's father in hotel ventures many years ago.

Members of Immediate family

Besides members of the immediate family which included Messrs Carr Hatch, Clifford Hatch and Douglas Hatch, sons of the late distillery head, Mr. and Mrs. John Doyle, (Mildred Hatch, a daughter) of Baltimore, Maryland, and Mr. Herbert F. Hatch, president of the Gooderham and Worts Corporation, Toronto, a brother, business associates from far-flung sections of Canada and the United States were in attendance.

From New York City came Mr. Rawles, who flew here by private plane and Messrs. Francis Hunter and Charles Burnes. From Miami, Florida, came Mr. C. A. O'Neil, while Mr. J. Coon travelled from Chicago to pay final tribute.

Business Associates

Present from Montreal were Senator Beauregard, W. Archambault; Leo Vezina, John McLean, General Manager, Seagrams Distilleries, Maxwell Henderson, of Seagrams, S. Robinson and John Stormont, a life-long friend of the late Mr. Hatch. Also in attendance was Mr. Earl Thomas, president, T. G. Bright Company Ltd., Niagara Falls and Mr. Boyd Jones, vice president of that company.

From Toronto came Robert Diven, general-manager, Canadian Wirebound Company; Directors of Hiram Walker, Gooderham Worts, L. M. McCarthy, G. Chisholm and J. Lash; O. D. Johnson, vice president, Gooderham Worts; H. R. Alley, vice president Gooderham Worts; J. Crump, plant superintendent; E. H. Booth, Ontario Sales Manager Gooderham Worts; A. C. McFee and Miss Irene McLaughlin; while from Walkerville, Ont., were Messrs. H. Walton, E. Ford and T. H. Gibbons, vice presidents Hiram Walker, Gooderham Worts; W. Simpson, General Manager; H. E. Harmon, Comptroller; C. Healy, advertising manager; J. E. Finneran, U.C. Sales Manager; N. E. Tarble, U.C. Sales Manager, Barclay's; R. Corbit, Assistant U. S. Sales Manager Barclay's; W. B. Clark, credit manager all companies; A. H. Stuart, secretary, Hiram Walker, Gooderham Worts.

Others included A. Armstrong, vice president Hiram Walker Grain Corporation, Walkerville; W. W. Comber, private secretary to the late Mr. Hatch; C. McDougall; E. Clarke, Canada Malting Company. E. Gurney, Gurney Foundries Ltd.; Warren Gillett, Baltimore, Maryland. Norman McLeod, Ottawa, Wilfred Laporte, Corbyville, and a number of other officials.

Mothers, Fathers, Daughters, Sons Attend Banquet

The gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. was crowded to capacity for the annual Mother and Daughter, Father and Son banquet. The banquet opened with the singing of "O Canada" and a community sing led by J. Ed. Shortt.

An instrumental quartet composed of Bruce Sills, Ernie Baragar, Jack Hull and Charlie Thorn rendered several delightful selections followed by a vocal solo by Barbara Jean Houston. Jack Fenn then favored with an instrumental solo.

The toast to the mothers was proposed by Eileen Cameron and was responded to by Mrs. Harry Rollins, after which Ronald Elmy favored with a vocal solo.

Gladys Beatty performed a very difficult acrobatic dance and the Y.M.C.A. Boys Choir, under the direction of J. Ed Shortt sang some beautiful choral arrangements.

The toast to the Dads was proposed by Tom Buchanan and was responded to by the Rev. J. W. Houston. This was followed by an accordion solo by Bruce Sills.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Mother's Hymn and God Save the King.

Chairman for the evening was W. H. Finkle and the pianist, S. Alec Gordon.

The Y.M.C.A. boys choir was made up of Robert Alexander, John Ashley, Robert Burke, Ross Burtt, Ronald Day, Jack Doig, Wayne Fox, Alan Houston, Jack Lafferty, Wallace Lavergne, Douglas Parsons, Ernest Poirier, William Post, Robert Royle, Ross St. John, Jack Dee, Robert Houston, Ralph Nelson, Douglas Sóule, John Houston, Donald Hubbs and James McLaughlin.

The supper was prepared by the Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. and was served by the junior girls.

Public Asked To Co-operate In Parallel Parking

With the view of leaving as wide a space as possible for moving traffic, local police officers are asking the co-operation of the Belleville and district motoring public in observance of local parking by-laws, especially along the west side of Front Street where parallel parking is in vogue.

Motorists in particular are being asked to keep their vehicles as close as possible to the curb when parking parallel with police stating that although warnings only thus far have been given, if illegal parking continues charges will undoubtedly be laid in the future.

Miss Pearl M. Beach, Belleville General Hospital reported to police that some time between eight o'clock and ten-thirty Friday evening her 1941 Plymouth coach was stolen from its parking place on Pinnacle Street. Police officers in all neighboring centres were notified of the theft.

Local police are on the lookout for W. H. Wilson, who is wanted by Deseronto police on fraud charges. The wanted man claims to be a contractor and is thought to be travelling with his wife.

Housing Firm Will Be Asked To Make Survey

Representatives of Housing Enterprise, builders of low rental homes to alleviate conditions where living accommodation is at premium, will be invited to make a survey of local conditions, it was decided at the regular monthly meeting of the local industrial commission held at the public utilities office Friday evening.

Discussion regarding Housing Enterprise resulted following receipt of a communication by Chairman of Industry Lorne McDougall from head office of Smith Transport, which firm is desirous of transferring approximately 15 drivers to this city if suitable living accommodation can be acquired. Commission members were unanimous in the feeling that Housing Enterprise should be invited to visit the city to view the local situation.

Vacant Land Mapped

Result of a request from the commission members at their last meeting, City Comptroller Harold Bateman and Assistant City Engineer Clifford Matthews have drawn up maps showing all vacant land in the city which could be used for industrial sites. The above two men attended last night's meeting and presented the maps to the commission.

Members were of the opinion that a county or Thurlow township official should be appointed as member of the industrial commission, thus making it more convenient for the commission to set before potential industrialists, available sites in Thurlow township to the east of the city. Members believed there were many industrial sites in Thurlow township between the city and Point Anne.

Commission members present at the meeting included Chairman Robt. A. Pringle; Lorne McDougall, Mayor Frank Follwell, and O. H. Scott, utilities manager, together with Mr. Bateman and Mr. Matthews.

Welsh Miners Opposed to Sons And Daughters Entering Mines

By STUART UNDERHILL,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Merthyrtydfil, Wales, May 11—(CP)—A crusade is afoot in Britain calling for young men of spirit to go down into the earth and wrest free the coal the country needs for its factories and export trade.

Government spokesmen visit schools in the mining districts of South Wales to urge youths to join the coal brigade, stressing the benefits they hope will accrue under nationalization. But in many cases they face an almost insuperable psychological barrier, raised by the families of the boys they hope to enlist.

Here in grimy Merthyrtydfil, ringed by mountains of barren rubbish, the argument rages on street corner and in council chamber.

"I am a miner," says youthful Idris Williams, Communist member of the Merthyr town council, "and conditions have been bad, but the best conditions are before us.

Looking to New Era

"We are looking forward to a new era. We will get it under the labor government by nationalization."

Some coal miners like their work and are prepared to see their sons follow them. But the majority say they want other jobs and are opposed to their sons entering the mines. With some it may be just talk, but here is what 47-year-old Dai Palmer says:—

"My son go into the mines? Definitely not! It's a dead end. They can't make conditions underground attractive. It's impossible."

His wife, Hannah, who gets up at four o'clock every morning to start her husband off to work, nodded emphatically.

"No boy of mine will be a miner, no disrespect to them," she said, "and my girls won't marry a miner.

Life Very Hard

"The life's too hard. Work, work, work and a woman never knows when there'll be a knock at the door to say something has happened."

Dai has worked in the mines since he was 14, first as a collier's boy, then as a coalcutter, now as a repairer. Between he has known long periods of unemployment due to strikes and depressions, including a six-year interval in the '30s when they lived on the dole.

He now earns £5 4s 6d ($24) a week, and pays 7s 9d, a week for their tiny-roomed cottage, one of a long row of grey brick overshadowed by the inevitable dump where the long-tailed sheep browse on sparse grass.

His relaxations are an occasional cheap seat at the "pictures" with his missus, a shilling seat at the football match, a pint of bitter on Saturday night. A factory job is his ambition, perhaps realizable, for new secondary industries are being established in Merthyr where 5,000 of the 60,000 population at present unemployed. But who will take his place in the mines?

Disease on Decrease

The years of unemployment and hard toil, the congealed coal dust that presses on his chest when he coughs, rankle in Dai's mind and always will. The incidence of silicosis and pneumoconiosis, always heavy but on the decrease since methods of spraying coal dust in the mines have been instituted on a wide scale, is an effective deterrent.

Women revolting against the dreary life, with its constant fight against grime and poverty, hearing their men's coughs grow worse and having them brought home maimed and broken, influence their sons, whose reaction to promises of improved condition is: "We'll have to be shown."

A 21-year-old taxi driver, asked why he preferred driving to working in the mines, said: "Oh well, driving's always been my natural work, is all." Then, whipping his ancient car past a string of black-faced miners straggling down a hill from their work, he said: "I'd rather be dead than work like that!"

Police Will Make Safety Check On Cars Beginning May 15th

To assist in the reduction of highway traffic accidents which have increased sharply since the end of gasoline rationing last year Belleville police will co-operate in the police traffic safety check, it was announced by Police Chief R. W. Probert today.

Beginning May 15th., police officers throughout Canada and the United States will check brakes, lights, tires, windshield wipers and horns of all cars involved in traffic accidents or in traffic violations, it was stated by Chief Probert. The program is being conducted under the sponsorship of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

"This program is timely," Chief Probert said. "It will be launched just when we can expect the highways to be crowded with greater numbers of cars than at any time since before the war. Many of these cars will be dangerously old and unless they are given scrupulous mechanical care they will be likely to cause accidents."

Full co-operation of the car driving public was invited by Chief Probert who urged every driver in the city to have his car checked voluntarily. Drivers who already know that they are driving defective cars were urged, for their sake, and the safety of others, not to take a chance in driving until repairs have been made.

The police chief also emphasized that during the campaign, motorists will be urged to improve their driving and pledge themselves to take every possible precaution at all times. "Safe drivers and safe cars combine to prevent accidents and save lives," he said. "And I am confident that in this city motorists will rally to the ICAP three-point call to "Check Your Driving — Check Your Car —Check Accidents."

MARMORA

J. F. Bateman New President Of Fair Board

Marmora — The Board of Directors and officers of the resuscitated Marmora Agricultural Society was elected at a well attended and enthusiastic meeting of members of the society held in the council chamber on Thursday evening under presidency of T J. Bateman. The directors are T. J. Bateman, H. W. Sabine, Allan McComb, William Doyle, John McAvoy, Vincent Lynch, R. E. Neal, John Finnegan, Irwin McCoy, Gordon Moffatt, Harry Neal, Arthur Sheridan, F. S. Johnston, Charles Lashwa, Ray Bonter, Gordon Jones.

Executive Named

The directors in turn elected the following executive: President, T. J. Bateman; 1st Vice President, Irwin McCoy; 2nd. Vice President, William Doyle; Secretary Treasurer, Vincent Lynch.

It was decided to hold the fair on the first available date after September and also to hold a street dance in the middle of July if possible. For this dance the following were appointed as a committee: W. D. Lavender, W. R. Hamilton, R. E. Neal, John McAvoy, H. W. Sabine, William Doyle, Hubert Andrews, with the president and secretary treasurer.

A cheering feature of the meeting was the report that since the last meeting about a week ago, the membership had risen from 73 to 103 and further growth of membership is highly probable. Also it was decided that membership tickets would admit the holder and wife and car to the grounds free on fair day in addition to granting the privilege to make entries.

MRS. JANE E. FRALECK

Mrs. Jane Elizabeth Fraleck, widow of Judge E. B. Fraleck, died early this Saturday morning at her home, 113 Moira Street West, after an illness of two months' duration.

The late Mrs. Fraleck was born in Stirling and was a daughter of the late Agnes and William Judd. The early years of her life were passed in Stirling and for the past seventy years she made her home in this city. In the regard of many friends Mrs. Fraleck held a high place and to them her death has brought much regret. She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Fraleck was the last of her family and is survived by one daughter, Miss Helen A. Fraleck, and one son, Mr. Cecil Fraleck, both at home. Her husband died in May, 1930.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, until early this evening, then at her late residence; the notice of private funeral is made in this edition.

JOANNE ARTHEA LANCASTER
(Guelph — Belleville)

Joanne Arthea Lancaster, age three years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Lancaster, R.R. 3, Guelph, and formerly of Belleville, died suddenly in the General Hospital at Guelph on Friday, May 10th.

Resting at the Martin Funeral Home, Church Street; the announcement of private funeral service is made in this edition.

MRS.
ADA ELIZABETH FULLER
(Shannonville)

After an illness of three months' duration Mrs. Ada Elizabeth Fuller, wife of Enoch Fuller, Shannonville, died in the General Hospital in Kingston on Friday evening, May 10th.

Born in Tyendinaga township the late Mrs. Fuller was in her 64th. year and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abram Brant. All her life was passed in the district where she was born. She was a member of the Church of England and a parishioner of Christ Church on the Mohawk Reserve.

Surviving her are her husband and one sister, Mrs. Bertha Hart, Toronto.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, until Sunday morning, then at her late residence in Shannonville; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Black Market Operating In Lumber Trade

Toronto, May 11 — (CP)—One of the greatest black markets in the history of Canada and the United States is operating in the lumber trade, T. H. Hancock of the T. H. Hancock Lumber Company charged Friday. He said that through lumber shortage several Toronto yards had closed temporarily or were contemplating such action.

"The situation is so bad we're going to build a sawmill in Toronto at once and bring raw logs here to keep our business going," Hancock said.

Other prominent Toronto lumber dealers estimated 80 per cent of all Ontario lumber is going to the black market. A proprietor of one of Toronto's largest mills said that "the Timber Control Board knows the facts, but as in the United States, is helpless to control it."

"It would take an army of police to do so effectively. They just throw up their hands. As it is now, they're selling the lumber at the sawmills at the same price we're selling it retail under price controls. On account of controls and lack of enforcement, lumber has been driven out of its proper channels into the hands of unscrupulous people who pay any price and charge any price."

One dealer said that in normal time Ontario requires 1,000,000,000 feet of lumber yearly but that the province never produced enough for its own consumption.

"Ontario produced 600,000,000 feet," he said. "The mills are allowed an export quota of 200,000,000 to 250,000,000 feet. That leaves only 400,000,000 feet to supply a normal 1,000,000,000 feet demand. With the building boom the demand is for more than that."

No Subsidies to Producers of Berries for Jam

Ottawa, May 11 — (CP)—The Agricultural Food Board announced it no longer would pay per pound subsidies to producers of berries used for jam making and canning. The Board said subsidies which have been paid to producers of strawberries, raspberries, loganberries, boysenberries, gooseberries and currants when used for jam making and raspberries for canning purposes will not be paid for the 1946 crop. Instead, the Board said, the Prices Board will increase ceiling prices on jam and canned raspberries.

VISCOUNTESS ACCEPTS POST

Ottawa, May 11 —(CP)— Viscountess Alexander, wife of the Governor-General, has accepted the position of Lady President of the Nursing Divisions of the St. John's Ambulance Brigade for Canada, it was announced here Friday.

Churchill Favors Partial Federation As a Beginning

By ROMNEY WHEELER

Amsterdam, May 11 — (AP) — Winston Churchill, expressing hope that the future may eventually see a United States of Europe, said Friday he would favor a partial federation of democracies as a beginning.

Britain's wartime prime minister told a press conference, "I have in mind one combination of all Europe."

"If you can't have all at the first beginning, you may have to add to the organism as you go along," he added.

Mr. Churchill, puffing a cigar, talked for 20 minutes to Dutch editors at the Royal Palace in Amsterdam, where he is the guest of Queen Wilhelmina.

He expressed "grave anxiety" over the future of beaten Germany, and with a faint smile, he added: "I am not in position to propose a policy — but I would have had a policy."

To questions put by Dutch journalism, Mr. Churchill said he had long held the opinion that Prussia was the most dangerous part of Germany, and commented:

"I would have begun by separating Prussia from the rest of Germany. I would immediately have introduced a milder regime in the rest of Germany and kept strict vigilance on Prussia, which is the most malignant part of the former Reich."

There were 80,000,000 Germans in the Reich "and we must live with them."

He said rearmament must be prevented.

"Those industries which make modern war possible must be subject to ceaseless vigilance," he said. "I would wish to see the Germans earning their own living as quickly as possible. We should be foolish to handle our affairs so as to prevent them from earning a living and then take the bread out of our own mouths to feed them."

He recalled that the most anxious period of the war was at the peak of German U-boat successes in 1941 and 1942, but said he never believed the Germans would be able to invade England.

Claims President Offers Proposal To Settle Strike

Detroit, May 11 — (AP)—The Detroit News said Friday in a copyrighted story from its Washington bureau that President Truman has proposed a coal strike settlement on the basis of an 18½-cent hourly wage increase and an operator-financed "health and welfare fund."

The health and welfare fund would be financed by the operators on a percentage-of-payrolls basis, the newspaper said it learned, and would be managed by a board of trustees consisting of representatives of labor, management and the public.

House of Savoy

The history of the House of Savoy in Italy, whose King Victor Emmanuel has abdicated in favor of his son Humbert, Prince of Piedmont, is one of the most difficult and involved on account of Savoy's position as "gatekeeper of the Alps." The founders of the family were the Counts of Maurienne, who took their rise from the Burgundian lands which bordered on Italy. Savoy's importance was due to its location and to the persistence with which the Counts of Maurienne endeavored to increase their sway and influence. By 1190 they had extended their power by the possession of the wide dominions on the borders of Italy and Burgundy and in the next several centuries they continued to extend control in both Burgundy and Italy.

There was a vast accession of authority and power by Peter of Savoy in the years 1263-1268 who became known as "the little Charlemagne." Fancigny was obtained later and at the opening of the fifteenth century the Genevois was purchased by Amadeus who was created by Kin Siegmund first Duke of Savoy in 1417. In his days Savoy reached the peak of its power and its territories covered a vast stretch of Western Central Europe. Decline set in after this with the loss of Vidomnite to Geneva and Savoy was conquered by France in 1536-44 but was restored by King Francis in 1545. Later a number of alliances were made with France. In 1598 France invaded Savoy. Later records show that Savoy was ceded to France in 1792.

The direct male line of the House of Savoy died out with King Charles Felix and the existing Salic law prohibiting the succession of a woman, the crown fell to Prince Charles Albert of the House of Savoy-Carignan. The latter branch of the house had taken its name from a small town in the province of Turin, having been founded by Thomas Francis, the first of the House of Savoy-Carignan. King Charles Albert abdicated in 1849 and was succeeded by his son, Victor Emmanuel. By 1861 Garibaldi had driven foreign invaders out of Italy which became united. In July 1871 Rome became the capital.

The abdication of King Victor Emmanuel had been reported as imminent for some days. He had been living in retirement since 1944, his son, Humbert, Duke of Piedmont, being Lieutenant-General of the realm. There had been a feeling against King Victor Emmanuel over the regime of Mussolini.

For early in June a plebiscite had been planned to record the wishes of the people in the continuance of the monarchy. Reports are that the kingship may not have more than a fifty-fifty chance of success in the voting. Whether Humbert will assume the kingship remains to be one of the developments of post-war Italy.

Holland's Gratitude to Britain

Holland has recently celebrated her liberation anniversary. Recent manifestations of gratitude by the Dutch people have set the seal to Britain's aid to Holland during the past year. Help for Holland began before liberation with the dropping of several thousand tons of foodstuffs and medical supplies from the air and immediately after liberation mobile kitchens and special teams of doctors and welfare workers were rushed in to combat starvation and disease. About five thousand undernourished Dutch children were brought to Britain for some months for proper care.

British aid has taken many forms, from the supply of Mulberry caissons for the repair of the Walcheren dykes to a gift of two thousand racing pigeons, many of them war veterans, from which to build up Dutch racing stock. At Walcheren the British army contributed men and materials to the task of closing the gap before the heavy seas of winter made work impossible, and it was due in part to their efforts that the dykes were sealed well ahead of schedule. The equipment included bulldozers, Diesel locomotives and track huts, steel cable transport, sandbags, rubber boots and other clothing. The Royal Navy contributed over twenty-five small craft to bring clay and stone from Belgium to close the gaps, and helped with the restoration of the port of Amsterdam. Now British firms have joined the new Dutch contractors' combine to work on the large scale reconstruction of Rotterdam Harbor.

Britain has shipped sixty-three ton buses for the use of Dutch miners. Over fifty thousand bicycles have been sent to the devastated areas and one hundred thousand British spades are in use by Dutch farmers.

Symbolic of the friendship between Holland and Britain is the fact that the river at Arnhem is to be spanned by part of the old temporary Waterloo Bridge, which till recently carried traffic across the Thames in London.

Not the least valuable aid has been the return to the Dutch of goods looted by the Germans, many of them still bearing price tickets showing they had been made in Amsterdam and Rotterdam.

Five thousand baby garments, five hundred pairs of gloves and many toilet preparations were among one consignment. A heavy plate mill, removed to Germany in 1943, is to be returned. The entire structure of the building, machinery and other installations including a brick floor were stolen and the whole factory will be returned as soon as it can be packed and transported. Spontaneous individual efforts to send aid to Britain's Dutch allies resulted in the formation of the Help Holland Council under a distinguished committee, to send such supplies as are not dealt with through government channels, and the funds collected have reached £246,000 in twelve months. Nearly two and a half million articles have been shipped to Holland including blankets and clothing and other greatly needed supplies such as motor ambulances, motor and pedal cycles, stoves, carpenters and gardeners tools, household requisities and hospital equipment. Other work of this council, which has been given nation-wide support from local committees of Women's Institutes, Rotary Clubs, etc., has included the stocking of public libraries in eleven cities with large sections of English books. Sets of the latest medical publications have been sent hospital libraries in order to bring up-to-date knowledge of recent advances in medicine, and schools whose libraries were looted or destroyed have been supplied with textbooks. Books have also been sent in large numbers to universities and medical equipment such as X-ray apparatus to hospitals. The Help Holland Council has contributed largely to the expenses of two medical teams sent out by the Society of Friends and are also to help in a scheme for Dutch postgraduates to spend a year in United Kingdom universities. They are now arranging that the cultural ties established between the two nations shall be maintained.

Expect a Round-Trip

Army research workers believe that many of us will live to see the day when rockets are able to go to the moon and back. Prospective passengers will be particularly glad to hear about the round-trip feature, says the New Yorker Magazine.

Newspaper Facts

Character building begins in youth and such a start has been made by carrier boys who in one city alone bought more than $40,000 worth of war bonds — purchased real estate — set up savings accounts — and in many instances, bought all their own clothing.

During the war over 35,000 officers and men of the Merchant Navy lost their lives in the task of bringing to this country, and taking to our Russian Allies, the food and sinews of war that alone could keep the cause of freedom alive; and in the other sea service, nearly 50,000 officers and men of the Royal Navies were killed in their defence, or in keeping the seas open for them, says the London Times.

Washington Spotlight

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, May 10 — (CP) — Strike of the soft coal miners created what President Truman has called a "national disaster" and it is a safe bet that not one person in thousands knew what the miners struck for.

All they knew was that John L. Lewis, the bushy-browed leader of the United Mine Workers was the bogey man who had thrown the country out of kilter.

The mine operators themselves, and probably the rank and file of miners, were in the dark as to details of the demands on which the strike was based.

For two weeks, the huge, scowling Lewis has played with the operators' representatives and figuratively thumbed his nose at President Truman and the administration.

He had a lot of general demands but said he would not give any details until the operators agreed to the principles involved in his main requests.

These were contributions by the operators to a miners' health and welfare fund for which he was asking last year 10 cents royalty on every ton of coal mined; improved working and safety conditions in the mines; unionization of mine foremen and a shorter work week with higher pay.

When the operators agreed to the principle of these demands and disclosed the statistics to show how much the traffic would bear, Mr. Lewis said he would present his demands in detail.

Meanwhile the powerful and grim labor leader drives daily from his old, scarred mansion in nearby Alexandria to the palatial U.M.W. offices in Washington, drops in at the negotiating meetings an hour late when it suits him, sits silently waiting for the operators to break and reads the most bitter newspaper assaults on him that he has endured so far in his stormy career.

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

Federated Europe Ideal Revived By Churchill

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Winston Churchill's dramatic proposal of a "United States of Europe, both of the east and west," again sets in motion idealistic gears which almost meshed in 1929 after generations of study.

Britain's famous war-time Prime Minister offers this startling plan at a moment of grave crisis in the relations between Russia and the western Allies. It's only a couple of days ago that he made another appeal for a faithful understanding with Russia through the United Nations—for "only in this way can catastrophe be avoided."

It is noteworthy that this isn't the first time Mr. Churchill has turned to such unity for strength. On that black June 17, 1940, when France in her agony appealed to Germany for peace, his government offered to conclude a "solemn act of union" with France. This projected the actual merging of the British and French empires so that they should "no longer be two but one Franco-British union."

One wishes that Mr. Churchill might give us the benefit of a further analysis of his present project, especially of that expression "both of the east and west." It is obvious that Russia, by bringing virtually all of eastern Europe and the Balkans within its sphere of influence, already has created an eastern United States. It remains but to build a western coalition and then try to coordinate the two.

Pan-Europa Idea

The idea of a European political federation—a United States of Europe (a Pan-Europa)—was under discussion numerous times during the 19th century. Exponents of the project were largely inspired by the success of the United States of America. The European proposal was fascinating to some but just the raving of long-haired idealists to others, and when it failed of official recognition anywhere it temporarily passed out of the public eye.

However, the ideal was too powerful to die such a death. Shortly after the First Great War the project of creating a Pan-Europa was revived. Great leaders of thought like the French statesman Aristide Briand—numerous times premier of his country—rallied to the cause.

In 1929 Mr. Briand announced he was going to campaign for a United States of Europe as a whole and that he would work through the League of Nations, of which he was a strong supporter. His idea was to form an economic union first and then develop it politically.

That year Mr. Briand expounded his ideas to the delegates of European nations to the League in Geneva, and he received the backing of Germany's man of peace—Dr. Gustav Stresemann. He conceived of a United States of Europe which would occupy 1,932,000 square miles and have a population of 2500,00,000. The project received favorable notice at the outset. The League of Nations appointed a commission which studied the project and adopted some recommendations.

Ultimately, of course, the matter petered out. But the seed was still there as we now see in Mr. Churchill's sensational suggestion.

Trees Not Hurt By Slight Frost

Toronto, May 11 —(CP)— The fruit branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture today said it expected no damage to fruit trees or crops by slight frost reported Friday night in Toronto and in some parts of Southern Ontario.

George Wilson, head of the fruit branch, said no reports of damage from last night's frost had come in, but earlier in the week the department received isolated reports of minor damage to apple trees in Forest Hill, Strathroy and St. Thomas.

"I don't see any damage to any crop in the province of Ontario yet," said Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, "In fact, it looks like a bumper year all round.

"There may have been a little damage at certain points to early blossoms, but I don't think it would affect more than one bloom in 50 on the early apple trees, and that is insignificant. Spring crops and hay have been held up a little on account of the cool weather but normally we don't count on pasturage until May 24, and there has been no damage yet to the crops or pasturage. Everything looks good, and with a little warm weather soon, things should be quite normal."

NO DAMAGE REPORTRED

Winnipeg, May 11 — (CP)—A cold Polar air mass swept the prairiers Thursday, bringing with it touches of frost, snow and rain, as black moisture-laden clouds moved eastward from Alberta and Saskatchewan into Manitoba. Prince Albert, Sask., residents woke to find the ground covered with an inch of snow. Overnight frosts killed flowers and fruit blossoms in some districts, but no damage was reported to recently seeded grain crops.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

WHAT TO DO FOR HEADACHE

Aspirin is the least dangerous—I cannot say safest—pain-killer of which I know, for headaches or neuralgia (nerveache) if a pain-killer must be taken.

Never having had any headache to speak of, I suppose I am not qualified to judge the merits of such a sufferer's demand for a pain-killer. In fact I have taken only two or three doses of aspirin and then for other than headache. If I recollect I tried a dose of two (not more than ten grains, I assure you) of aspirin when I had bursitis, and again if I recollect it gave little or no relief—me for a shot of morphine that size of pain—and don't infer that I'm a morphine addict—my physician gave me two or three shots of morphine then, and a shot or two, I believe, when I had appendicitis, and that's the extent of my opium eating, but God bless the man who discovered how to extract the morphine from it.

My advice to any one who contemplates taking aspirin in any dose is this: Don't take it unless you can lie or sit at rest for at least an hour afterward. Aspirin is the least dangerous pain-killer for such ache or pain, but it is nevertheless dangerous to monkey with. This is my opinion—but I must admit it is apparently not shared by many good doctors who prescribe or administer aspirin as freely as though it were so much chalk or sodium bicarbonate.

This paragraph quoted from Bastedo's Materia Medica, Pharmacology and Therspeutics, a standard authoritative textbook, gives a fair idea of the ill effects of aspirin:

"Aspirin has the disadvantage that, even in small doses, it produces nausea and heartburn in certain people, particularly those with highly acid gastric conditions. From idiosyncrasy, there are many reports of feelings of weakness, collapse, angioneurotic swellings" (giant hives) "of face and throat, skin rashes, major urticaria" (hives) "and rarely death."

Those "feelings of weakness," I believe, are signs of depression of the heart—but I'm just Doctor Brady, and as I said above, many good doctors do not regard aspirin as I do.

When I say aspirin I mean any of the numerous brands or makes on the market. Chemically aspirin is acetylsalicylic acid and its medical properties are similar to other salicylic acid salts, such as sodium salicylate, salicylic acid, oil of wintergreen, methyl salicylate, oil of birch, salol.

QUESTION & ANSWERS

Lady Digs Up Orthopedist

Daughter, backed by high class orthopedist of her college, believes it better to sleep with door and windows closed all night to prevent colds. (F. B. M.)

Answer—If he is in a good state of repair perhaps the museum would like to take the orthopedist off your daughter's hands. My advice to any one is, sleep with bedroom open or closed, as you find comfortable, but for heaven's sake don't drag in the remains of any 18th century orthopedists. If your daughter really wants to know, let her send me twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope, for booklet "Call it Cri". If she wishes, she may inclose an extra stamped envelope addressed to the orthopedist and I'll send him a copy with the compliments of your daughter and Ol' Doc Brady. The orthopedist may learn something from it too.

Coughing and Swimming

Is it advisable for middle aged adults who have had chronic bronchitis for years and have spells of hard coughing at intervals, to go bathing in lake or ocean?

Answer—I'd go in swimming whenever I wanted to if I had chronic bronchitis and hard coughing spells.

Oh, Well, You May Be Right

I wonder about the superiority complex that urges Dr. Brady to try to educate or bulldoze his readers into calling cri kree. What's the use? (W.W.T.)

Answer—That's what I often ask myself—what's the use? But I don't care what you call it as long as you realize it is probably communicable.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is a berserker rage?

In Norse mythology "Berserk" was the nickname of the grandson of the eight-handed "Starkadder."

Berserk always went into battle without armor and was famed for the reckless fury with which he fought.

"Ber-serk" in old Scandinavian probably meant "bare-shirt," that is, one clothed only in his shirt and not protected by armor or heavier clothing.

To be berserk was equivalent to "in one's shirt sleeves."

Among those slain by Berserk was King Swafurlam, by whose daughter he had twelve sons equal to himself in bravery.

These sons of Berserk were called "berserkers," a term that thus became synonymous with "fury" and "reckless courage."

Later "berserker" was applied to a caste of heathen warriors who were supposed to be able to assume the form of bears and wolves. Dressed in furs these berserkers would fall into a frenzied rage, foam at the mouth and growl like wild beasts.

From this latter myth we get "berserker rage."

Some etmologists derive "berserk" from "bera-sark," meaning "bear-shirt" or "armor of bearskin" and insist that "baresark" is the correct form of the word, but H. W. Fowler, in Modern English Usage, says "baresark" for "berserker" is a corrupt modern form owing its existence to a probably false etymology."

Tribulations Of Canadian Farmer Aired in House

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, May 11 — (CP)—Trials and tribulations of the Canadian farmer were aired in the Commons yesterday as discussion continued on agriculture estimates.

The House heard calls for increased salaries for Canada's agricultural scientists to compensate them for valuable work and retain them in the Dominion's service.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C. (PC — Nanaimo) said the members of the Dominion Experimental Farm Service received remuneration which was "hardly equivalent to their ability."

A. M. Nicholson (CCF — Mackenzie) said the compensation provided for agriculture department employees was not comparable with salaries paid in other fields of employment.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner replied that departmental salaries, including those of scientists, recently had been increased.

Gen. Pearkes and J. R. Ross (PC — Souris) suggested farming be made more attractive for Canadian youth and noted that only a small proportion of ex-servicemen were settling on the land.

Mr. Gardiner said this was because many of the youths who left the farms during the war now were taking advantage of their first opportunity to obtain higher education. In the 10 depression-ridden years before the war they had had to remain on the farms and forego schooling.

John Charlton (PC — Brant) urged the government to increase the returns from milk and hogs to prevent the heavy export of Canadian dairy cattle to the United States, where prices were so high farmers could not resist making sales.

John Blackmore (SC — Lethbridge) called for a change in the policy of fixing beef prices, describing it as "undependable manipulation," and urged that wheat prices be made stable.

The House passed four items in the estimates before rising for the night.

and imprisoned for two months by I.R.A. comrades. They tortured him, he said, in an attempt to force a confession of "informing," then marched him blindfolded 12 miles to Dublin where a Drumhead court sentenced him to be shot.

He testified at McCaughey's trial that the "adjutant general" who had been prosecutor at his "court martial", and when arrested, McCaughey was found to be carrying keys unlocking Hayes' leg irons.

McCaughey engaged no counsel, entered no plea and made no statement at his trial. A year after McCaughey's conviction, Hayes received a five-year sentence for leading an "illegal" armed force.

The cause of the two hunger strikers was reported to be threatening to widen the gulf of ill-feeling between Eire and Northern Ireland.

The differences between the two sections were said to have been heightened by the fact that McCaughey, an Ulster citizen, was imprisoned in Eire, and Fleming, an Eire resident, in Belfast.

Fleming was arrested in 1942 and convicted of treason and felony and sentenced to 12 years. He stated that anything he did was as a soldier of the Republican army and refused to recognize the court.

IRKSOME PROBLEM OF DIVORCE CROPS UP IN COMMONS

Members Agree Solution Should be Found of Having Parliament Handle Cases

Ottawa, May 11 — (CP)—The irksome problem of divorce cropped up in the Commons yesterday on second reading of three divorce bills from Quebec, the only province without its own divorce court, and a half-dozen members agreed a solution should be found to the problem of having parliament handle the cases.

Two cabinet ministers, Works Minister Fournier and Fisheries Minister Bridges, took the opposite view, contending that as divorce was within the federal jurisdiction and Quebec did not want a divorce court parliament should continue to pass the bills.

Before the House settled down to business, Prime Minister MacKenzie King announced that during his absence overseas Finance Minister Ilsley would be acting Prime Minister, with Justice Minister St. Laurent as acting External Affairs Minister and Veterans Minister Mackenzie as House Leader and president of the Privy Council.

In the Commons, a third cabinet minister — Mr. Mackenzie — entered the divorce discussion and agreed the present situation was "unsatisfactory." He suggested the House Rules Committee reconsider the question of divorce proceedings and make a recommendation.

Opposed to Divorce.

Mr. Fournier, expressing himself as opposed to divorce while respecting those who believed in it, said that if parliament declared itself against the present procedure there would be no authority to whom Quebecers who wanted divorce could apply because the province itself would not establish a court.

He agreed there might be "something in favor" of the suggestion that a special court be set up to handle Quebec cases.

Mr. Bridges said there was no way of getting around the problem because "there is no way you can impose on the people of Quebec something they do not want." Marriage and divorce both were within the jurisdiction of parliament.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, suggested a federal divorce court be established in Quebec province for the use of the minority there which believed in divorce. Their wishes should be respected in the province of Quebec "in every particular."

Gleanson Belzile (L-Rimounski) noted that the task of passing divorce bills had been placed with parliament in the British North America Act, although Quebec had opposed the action.

J. H. Matthews (CCF-Kootenay East), Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC-MacLeod), E. G. McCullagh (CCF-Assiniboia) and Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East) all were opposed to the present procedure.

COMPANION SHOT,

An alarm being given, the district was swarming in a matter of minutes with all available police personnel. Capt.-Det. Georges Allain and Sgt.-Det. Gerry Lawton joined midway in the chase and closed in on the fleeing Levesque in a lane.

Prepared to Shoot Way Out

As the bandit prepared to shoot his way out, Capt. Allain drove head-on towards the fugitive, ordering Lawton to fire through the open window. Lawton let go with a full clip at the gunman, wounding him in the chest, and as he advanced on his prostrate target, Levesque fired. The bullet scraped by the detective's steel vest and grazed his neck as it forced its way out at his shoulder.

Then when Levesque attempted to fire again, Det. Eugene Bolduc ran over him with his patrol car, fracturing the right knee.

Administered the last rites of his church, Levesque underwent an operation for the bullet wound near his heart. Hospital authorities said early today the operation left him in "very serious" condition.

Among the articles found on Levesque was a lady's pin-on watch, identified by a jeweller as part of the $2,000 loot taken in a smash-grab robbery April 29 in which two thieves engaged in a gun fight with an off duty police officer.

Capt. Allain last night launched an appeal to Brunet to surrender peacefully to him personally to avoid further gunfire and possible injury to innocent bystanders who might be caught in the crossfire in the event of a showdown.

Jury Acquits Charles Kennedy On Murder Charge

Windsor, May 11 (CP)— After deliberating four hours, a Supreme Court jury last night acquitted Charles Kennedy, 37, of a charge of murder in connection with the shot-gun slaying of Russell Gammon, 50, who was killed Dec. 31.

Mr. Justice Walter Schroeder told the jury "I do not agree with your verdict."

Gammon was shot in the home of Mrs. Viola Buhler, where he was a weekend visitor. Kennedy was a boarder at the place.

His Lordship said in his address before the jury retired that "there were only three people in the house that night. Gammon was lying on the floor and Mrs. Buhler said she was going through the window, and that no gun was in the room." The door to Gammon's room was broken.

His Lordship asked: "Was that door forced open by some one who wished to divert suspicion by placing the gun under Gammon?"

Defence counsel Bernard Furlong, who relied on his address to the jury and did not call accused to the stand, said that "something is wrong with this case—I don't know what—but it just doesn't add up."

Boyhood Chums Become Involved

Toronto, May 11 —(CP)— Police Friday said Chief Constable R. Hoath of Thessalon, Ont., and Detective Bernard Simmonds of Toronto last night arrested a Toronto war veteran on a warrant sworn out by the soldier's boyhood chum in Thessalon.

Thessalon is 60 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Police told this story:

A British war bride went to Thessalon with her soldier husband and became involved with her husband's best friend who lived next door. The husband, convalescing from war wounds, left his wife in Thessalon and brought his two children to Toronto to live with his mother. Then he allegedly wrote a letter in which he threatened to kill his boyhood chum.

Chief Hoath drove more than 500 miles to arrest the soldier. He took him back to Thessalon today.

PART OF TRAIN DERAILED

Renfrew, May 10 (CP) — The locomotive, tender and two baggage cars of the Canadian Pacific Railway Trans-Continental train was derailed here early today at the Lochiel crossing. Reason for the derailment was not known immediately. None of the train crew or passengers were injured.

The locomotive toppled on its side, pulling the tender and baggage cars with it. The train crew leaped clear or grabbed handholds before the crash.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Carl O. Lundberg announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Inez Mae, to Horace Robert Lloyd, son of Mrs. William Lloyd and the late Mr. Lloyd. The marriage will take place in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on June 8th., at 2 p.m.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kilpatrick wish to announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Donaline Winifred, to Ronald Ernest, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Hebden, of London, Ontario, the wedding to take place in Christ Church on June 8th at 2.30

Mr. James Annis, Victoria Avenue, has returned home from the Belleville General Hospital.

The many friends of Miss Joan Kay will be pleased to learn she is progressing satisfactorily after a recent operation.

On Friday evening a number of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vesterfelt, Shannonville, for a dinner in honor of Mrs. J. P. Vesterfelt, who had arrived that morning from Leeds, England. She had been met at the station in the early morning by many relatives and friends. The dinner table was beautifully decorated and the toast to the bride was given by Mr. Sidney Fitzgerald. The evening was spent in dancing.

Mrs. D. Trotter and daughter, Elsie, 16 Turnbull Street, motored to Toronto, Saturday, May 4, to attend the wedding of Miss Dorothy Croff and Mr. Ernest Osborne. They were accompanied by Mr. Claude Westlake of Frankford, and Mrs. A. Gibson of Murney Street.

WEDDINGS

O'NEILL—GODIN

A wedding of local interest took place in Pembroke on April 24, of Marie Jeanne, daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Godin, and Clare, son of Mr. and Mrs. George O'Neill, of Deloro.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother, wore a street-length dress of white crepe fashioned with cap sleeves, bordered with nailheads. The slit yoke was also trimmed with nailheads. She wore long white gloves and a turquoise sequined calot and carried an arm bouquet of Bettertime roses. She was attended by her sister, Aline in a sky-blue crepe dress and blue bonnet-style hat and brown accessories. She wore a shoulder knot of yellow roses.

William Townson of Toronto, was best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the Copeland Hotel and a reception later at the bride's home on D'Arcy Street. Mrs. Godin received wearing a black and white check ensemble with a shoulder knot of red roses, while Mrs. O'Neill, the groom's mother, wore a dress of hunter's green with gold sequins and a shoulder knot of pink roses.

Following the reception the couple left on a wedding trip to Toronto, the bride travelling in a gold tone suit with black accessories. Upon their return they will take up residence in Sudbury.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. George O'Neill and Edna, of Deloro, Mr. William Townson and Miss C. Sylvester, Toronto; Miss Louise Leblanc and Mr. Rod Butler, Ottawa.

The gifts were beautiful and numerous showing the high esteem in which the young couple were held.

The groom is known in local sporting circles as a hockey and ball player and served nearly five years in the Canadian army at home and overseas and acted as sergeant instructor at Petawawa Military Camp for two and a half years and a number of his comrades at arms were present at the wedding ceremony.

Music Must Be Studied Same as a Foreign Language To Get Its Full Meaning

Dr. Arnold Walter, Toronto Conservatory of Music, Speaker at Women's Canadian Club

"Music is not a form of entertainment; it must be studied just as a foreign language to get from it its full meaning," so stated Dr. Arnold Walter, Vice-Principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, in addressing the Women's Canadian Club Friday evening. To understand a composition, one must know how the composer has combined the elements of music, rhythm, harmony and melody. Dr. Walter, a native of Czechoslavakia, had studied in Vienna, Prague and Berlin, and finds that far too few people really know how to listen to music. Simple songs, such as folk songs, need no explanation; it is the "heavier" type of music which must be studied.

Original Meaning Lost

The speaker pointed out how wrong labels on compositions can mislead the listener. As an example he mentioned the famous "Moonlight Sonata." When Beethoven wrote it, he had no thought in mind of moonlight, love, and its connections; he wrote it simply as a sonata. Through the "vicious association" of the present title, the original meaning of the piece has been lost. Music should make sense without having a label attached which will call to the mind a picture, such as "The March of the Dwarfs."

To listen correctly to a symphony, stated Dr. Walter, one should hear it as a whole, and not pick out a pleasing melody here or a stirring rhythm there. It is hard work to listen and get the continuity of the composition, but until one learns to do this, he will not really understand music.

Divided in Three Castes

Speaking of the relationship between popular and serious music, the speaker pointed out that in medieval times people were divided into three castes; the peasants, with their folk songs; the priests, with their ecclesiastical songs, and the soldiers and nobles, with their aristocratic music centring around the king and the court. When the peasants began moving to the cities, the old folk songs died out. As these common people could not sing the sacred songs of the priests or the aristocratic songs of the court, an artificial form of music was created for them. This is what is called popular music.

To help in understanding music one should have a knowledge of the historical background of the composition in question. Music is used today from many different periods of history and the flavor of the time is incorporated in it. "There is a common denominator to all music ever written," said Dr. Walter. "And that lies in the rhythm, harmony, melody and form. Present day jam sessions are only a direct reversion to the primitive age of the drums."

Use Many Illustrations

Using many illustrations, the speaker showed how different composers used the elements in music to gain their effects. Whereas Beethoven and Mozart used harmony only as a background to the theme, Wagner concentrated wholly on the harmony. Only in Hollywood is the composer inspired to write a piece of music by the sight of a beautiful girl. The average composer starts with a bit of tune, adds chords and variations and finally works out the finished composition. The most fascinating part of the lecture occurred when Dr. Walter sat down at the piano and composed two tunes, one of his own choosing and the other developed around a few notes whistled by one of the listeners. Dr. Walter took these whistled notes, played them over once in exactly the same key as that in which they were given, and then presented the finished composition, without noticeably puzzling over it.

In closing Dr. Walter stated that the magic of music lies in its elements; the powerful rhythm, the unforgettable melody, the wonderful harmony. The meaning of music lies in the way the elements are combined.

WOOLER

Wooler W. I. Holds 45th Anniversary Meeting This Week

Wooler.— Forty-five years of Women's Institute activity was marked on Wednesday afternoon when the May meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. J. Way. Over forty ladies attended the meeting, including Mrs. J. Locke, of Seymour East, who is president of the East Northumberland District. Others from a distance were Mrs. John Thompson, of Campbellford, Mrs. J. Black, Warkworth, former district secretary and Mrs. Oscar Laver, of Norham, also Mrs. R. A. Delve, of Orono.

Mrs. L. Whitney, the president presided.

Mrs. S. L. Terrill gave the auditors' report. This showed a balance of $6.36.

Mrs. Orvis, convener of the Nominating Committee, presented the list of officers and Mrs. J. Locke conducted the election.

Officers

President, Mrs. L. Whitney

1st Vice President, Mrs. P. Gooding.

2nd Vice President, Mrs. S. Vanhorn.

Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. J. J. Way.

District Director, Mrs. R. Redcliffe.

Branch Directors, Mrs. Geo. Anderson, Mrs. L. Leavitt, Mrs. K. Austin.

Auditors, Mrs. S. L. Terrill, Mrs. Ervon Scott.

A short address was given by the President, Mrs. Whitney, outlining the progress of the Institute from the time of its organization in 1901 until the present. Four were present who attended the organization meeting, two of whom, Mrs. Ada Boneham and Mrs. W. A. McColl, rode their bicycles a distance of six miles to attend. Several former presidents and secretaries were present and spoke briefly, others sent their greetings by letter.

Mrs. J. Locke was guest speaker and gave an address on "Making the Most out of Life".

Mrs. James Black gave a short address and extended greetings from the Percy Branch.

On behalf of the Wooler Branch, Mrs. S. L. Terrill read an address and presented Mrs. Way with a Life membership certificate and pin in recognition of twenty years service as Branch secretary without missing one meeting during that length of time.

Mrs. Clifford Dunn arranged a short program consisting of a vocal solo by Mrs. Lloyd Dorland and readings by Mrs. Ada Boneham and Mrs. Oscar Laver.

All repaired to the lawn where pictures were taken which will be put in the Tweedsmuir Village History Book.

Refreshments brought this happy afternoon to a close.

Women's Activities

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville Women Teachers' Association was held at the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday.

The report of the nominating committee was read by Mrs. Anderson and approved as read, with the following officers for the coming year:

President — Miss Lillian Hart

1st Vice-President—Miss Margaret Hillis.

2nd Vice-President — Miss Beatrice Wallbridge

Secretary—Miss Doreen Goodfellow

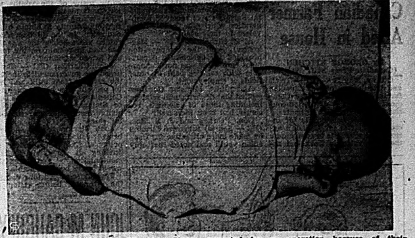
Treasurer—Miss Minnie Moorcroft.

The program, in charge of the staff of Queen Mary School, consisted of a contest on spring flowers and folk dancing directed by Miss Isobel Morton of the staff of the B.C.I.V.S. The dances, one Danish, one English and one American, proved a source of great enjoyment both to those taking part and to those looking on.

BETHANY W. M. S.

The May meeting of Bethany W.M.S. was held at Cannifton parsonage with a large number present. In the absence of the president Mrs. F. Easton presided. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. W. Doxtator. Mrs. Easton led in prayer. A reading on "Bella Bella Hospital" was given by Mrs. F. Walker. Mrs. W. Casey gave a reading "Gate Posts". A solo 'Give All the Sunshine You Can' sung by Miss Bessie Walker and was much enjoyed by everyone. A reading "God is the Law" was given by Mrs. G. Kerr. Mrs. Trumpour served delicious refreshments.

SIAMESE TWINS



Siamese twin girls, born to Mrs. Mary Hurse, 26, of Deep River, Wash., are shown in the hospital where they were born. The attending physician did not believe the twins could be successfully separated by an operation because of their extensive juncture at hip and abdomen, and their apparent unified circulation system. They weighed a total of nine pounds and four ounces.

The treasurer, Mrs. Dillnutt reported 46.50 pledge money paid up until the end of June; thank offering $105.25; collection $12.86.

Mrs. Feather, Dorcas Secretary, read a letter from Mrs. Paul, wife of Archdeacon Paul, head of the Indian Missions in Saskatchewan, expressing such grateful appreciation of every article of clothing sent to them for distribution.

Mrs. H. Smith reported the last of the Red Cross sewing meetings as being on March 20th—when 10 members were present to complete sewing on hand.

Mrs. Gibson gave the report of the annual W. A. meeting held in Kingston, April 9th, at St. James' Parish Hall. The guest speakers, Miss Jessie Carson, teacher-missionary from China, and Mrs. P. Carrington of Quebec City, were the highlights of the session and both keenly interested and appreciative of W. A. work in all its phases.

Mrs. Dillnutt gave a very explicit account of the voting of funds of the Thank Offering of $1,598.78 at the annual meeting. $550 for Bishop Lyons' Fund, and the balance divided evenly between the United Thank Offering for the Dominion Annual and the Accepted Appeals. The total collection taken at the afternoon and evening sessions was divided between Miss Hazle's "Sunday School by Caravan" and the Bishop's Messengers.

Mrs. Saunders, one of the Jr. W. A. leaders, who attended the Jr. W. A. Rally in Kingston at St. George's Cathedral, during Easter week, gave a glowing account of the work being done by both the Juniors and Girls branches. There were members present from as far east as Prescott and west to Trenton.

Mrs. Feather had the complete yearly outfit for a 12 year old boy on display, for the members to see before sending it out to the Elkhorn School in Manitoba.

The meeting adjourned and tea served with Mrs. Tilley and Mrs. Skelcher as hostesses.

Graceful Dinner Dress

By ALICE ALDEN

THERE'S NO denying the charm and appeal of the simply handled dinner dress fashioned on sheath-like, long, fluid lines with trimming and extraneous detail subdued to let the silhouette shine. Hattie Carnegie, who is adept at this type of frock, makes delightful model of pink crepe and embroiders it all over with tiny beads in a small, triple-line motif. The low neckline and cap sleeves are finished with the beading.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Mothers of Teen-Age Girls: Do You Always Play Fair With Them?

Why is it, I wonder, that so many mothers seem to forget how they felt about things when they were teen-agers?

Did they, when they were girls, think it perfectly fair if their mothers read the letters they got? Refused them permission to have normal good times with boys of their own age? Acted as though they couldn't trust them to behave properly? I don't believe they liked these things any more than their own daughters like the same treatment from them today. Yet apparently they learned nothing, from their early experiences, about how to treat young people, but repeat with their own children the very same mistakes their parents made with them. Or perhaps, on the other hand, they feel that their parents gave them too much freedom in their youth, and are determined to be more strict with their youngsters.

Which of these do you suppose the mother of the teen-ager who writes the following letter is doing—repeating the mistakes of her own parents, or adopting tactics opposite to those her parents used toward her?

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I am a girl of 15, and I don't think I am being treated fairly by my parents.

"My mother, who is still young, doesn't approve of my talking to boys. My father agrees with her. But I don't see any reason for a girl not being allowed to talk to boys, that is, as long as she knows how to act. I often tell my mother this, and she never says anything. But when I am truthful enough to tell her I was talking with a certain boy, or any of them, she seems very angry, and tells me that I have time enough to talk with boys. From what I gather, she doesn't seem to have much faith in me.

"I'm interested in my school studies, and I hardly ever go to visit any of my friends after dark. When I do go, I always have to take my 7-year-old brother with me.

"I have no intention of doing anything wrong, and I'd like to know what you'd advise me to do. I'll be watching for your reply in your column, as my mother reads all my mail.

"C. O."

Now it's a very sad state of affairs indeed, in any home, when a teen-ager feels that her own mother doesn't have much faith in her. If a 15-year-old girl can't be trusted to visit any of her friends in the evening, it seems to me her mother has been at fault in the way she has brought up her daughter. And conversely, if a mother has given her daughter the right standards and ideals, she certainly ought to have faith enough in her own training to let her girl have normal freedom of action.

A 15-year-old girl has the right to be trusted. She has the right to expect that no one but herself will read her mail. She has the right to attend parties, school social affairs and other events, and to enjoy the companionship of both girls and boys of her own age. It is perfectly ridiculous that the girl who writes this letter should be forced to take her little brother along with her when she goes to see her friends, presumably to act as a spy on her conduct and report to the mother if he sees anything amiss. Does this mother want to put herself in the very unfavorable light of appearing to have raised a daughter so poorly that she is afraid to let her go out alone?

It is, of course, a very common complaint of young people that their elders do not understand them and are too strict with them. But this is one case, it seems to me, in which there is plenty of ground for the complaint. The parents here should be willing to talk the whole matter over with this girl, and work out together with her a reasonable social schedule,—one in which she is permitted the normal amount of fun with her friends that is customary in a modern Canadian community. And she, of course, on her side, should be sure to keep her requests within reason, and should be fair enough never to take advantage in any way of the freedom given her.

Presbyterians Make Remarriage of Divorced Persons More Difficult

London, May 10. (CP Cable)—The remarriage of divorced persons will be made more difficult in the Presbyterian Church of England as a result of a resolution passed today by the General Assembly.

The resolution was:

"That the Assembly respects the views of those who believe the marriage vows of divorced persons to be contrary to Bible teaching and instructs its ministers who do not adhere to this view to conduct such marriages only when satisfied:

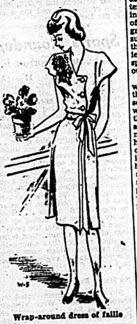
"1. That the person seeking marriage is morally innocent in the divorce;

"2. That the divorced person has expressed penitence and has been admitted or readmitted to the Christian Church."

Rev. B. M. Pratt of Southport, England, said it was the first time in nearly 300 years that the Presbyterian Church of England had made a ruling on divorce.

The resolution carried by a large majority.

Good Daytime Dress



Wrap-around dress of faille

By VERA WINSTON

HERE IS ONE of those, easy, casual, yet somehow smart dresses that can sit in at any but the important daytime occasion. Of rayon faille in a beautiful color that is somewhere between orange and melon, it achieves a wrap-around appearance. It closes with three buttons to the waist, and the separate belt ties directly below with a pert bow. The double knife-pleats on the skirt give the skirt that clever wrap-around appearance.

BEAUTY

Women! Stop Abusing Your Feet!

Probably the most abused structures of the feminine body are the little trotters that carry one hither and yon. Many women take their foot ills for granted, fancy that nothing can be done about them, and so never seek professional help. It is silly; it is outrageous. No woman can be happy, at ease or comfortable if her toes are twinging. She does right well if she is able to preserve a sweet disposition.

Corns, calluses and ingrowing nails can be cured, also they can be prevented. Prevention is found in correctly selected shoes and good posture. It is a sad fact that many women don't know how to walk. They get there, and that's all that can be said. If they wear spiked heels they click-clack on their way; the body is thrown out of balance. High heels cause the feet to slant downward at an angle of 30 degrees or more.

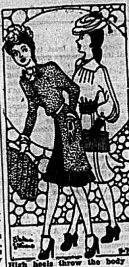
This angular position causes strain on the metatarsal bones, crowding them even lower. Toes are forced into a huddle, carry most of the body weight—an unfair business.

When walking, keep the head balanced, chest lifted, abdominal muscles in mild contraction. Let the arms swing easily to preserve balance.

With the first warm days of summer one is likely to become foot-conscious, even though one has no special trouble. Perspiration deposits on the soles of the feet contain chemicals that prove irritating. Hence the need of the daily bath with plenty of friction, a sprinkling of foot powder in the shoes to absorb moisture.

Beauty shops that give body massage have special treatments for painful feet. The bosses of these establishments claim that you can't do much for a woman's face if her feet burn like sin and she longs for a pair of crutches.

Ice-cold moist towels are applied to the feet, a procedure that may be a bit startling if the cash customer is not expecting anything of the sort. Then there is brisk friction with talcum from toes to knees, after which a heavy cream is used with soothing movement that make the poor, downtrodden hoofs come to life again.



High heels throw the body out of balance

Massage treats tense nerves and strained muscles, brings a wonderful sense of release. A five-minute friction at home, with mineral oil, will do away with the tired, burning feeling. Thumb each little toe briskly; rub up and down on the top of the foot and treat the soles. Include the calves of the legs, too. When the feet are out of form, legs also become weary.

We'd like to get in a last lick about high heels, but we know it won't do a bit of good. At least one can reserve them for dress occasions. They were never intended for street wear.

GOOD MANNERS

Casual Meetings Can be Heart-Warming

There is something very endearing and inspiring about the thoughtful things some of our friends and acquaintances say to us when we meet them, no matter how casual or brief the meeting. They have the happy gift of remembering to say those gracious little things that make such a big difference. Meeting them is always a pleasant experience. Kind thoughts seem to spring from their spirits, giving our spirits a lift.

These are the kind of people who don't spend all the time of the meeting talking about themselves and their affairs. They always remember to inquire about the well-being of our family, to ask affectionately about some member of the family who is or has been ill, to make special inquiry about a relative or friend in the service. Or they warm our hearts by amiably mentioning some milestone in the life of some member of the family, a promotion, a graduation, a speech well made, any event that calls for congratulations.

It isn't that these people say flattering things . . . it is that they remember to say sincere things.

If we're gracious people too, or are trying to acquire the habit of graciousness, these passersby inspire us, or should inspire us, to remember to make thoughtful inquiries, to make thoughtful comments.

Study these people, these kind people who have the social knack of spontaneously establishing a warm-hearted atmosphere to a meeting, no matter how brief. After meeting them we go on our way refreshed, stimulated. They are as welcome as the flowers in May!

About Her Accessories, Corsage, and Thank-You Note

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am being married informally and am planning to wear a powder-blue suit. I have brown hair and fair complexion. Please suggest accessories. Also should I have a bouquet as well as a corsage; and if so, who provides these?

2. Should thank-you notes be sent for shower gifts when there is only time for a hasty thank-you at the shower? If so, please suggest the wording for these notes.

Bride-to-be.

1. With your suit you might wear accessories of a darker shade of blue, or of white or a becoming shade of pink. With a suit the bride wears a corsage, which is sent to her by the bridegroom.

2. Yes, the mannerly bride-to-be writes a note of thanks to each shower guest. In your notes, thank first for the guest's thoughtfulness in bringing the gift; then, mentioning the gift by name, write enthusiastically about it, commenting especially on certain features of the gift.

Age For Flower Girl and Ring-Bearer

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister is being married soon, and she says she would like to have my daughter (8 years old) as a flower girl, and a nephew (10 years old) as ring bearer. Don't you think she should have younger children as these attendants?

W. M.

Your 8-year-old daughter, if she isn't very tall for her age, may properly be flower girl. But the ring bearer is usually a little boy of 4 or 5 years old.

The Experts Say

By HELEN BANNERMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, May 10 —(CP)— We have all heard that bread is "the staff of life," and to many Canadians who eat more meat and potatoes than bread the phrase sounds majestic, but a bit unreal. But to hosts of Europeans it still is literally the staff of life and it is up to all of us to see they get it until their own crops can be harvested next fall.

The government announced some time ago the objective of reducing Canada's consumption of wheat by 10 per cent so that exports could be proportionally increased. The Food Information Committee has this to say on the subject of bread economies—great wheat savers:

Day-old bread is easier to slice and members of the family are less likely to eat more of it than they need.

"Share the loaf" — a good plan for small families and persons living alone. Co-operative bread buying can be a bread economy when small loaves are not obtainable.

Get a few extra slices from each loaf by cutting bread thinner. If you take a second slice make it a half slice. Never remove the crusts; always eat them. Bring the loaf to the table and slice as needed. Put the loaf on the table at the last minute and return it to the bread box as soon as the meal is over to minimize drying out.

Dry and use the crumbs from the bread board. It's surprising how they mount up. Make toast as needed. Watch the toast and don't let it burn.

Make open-faced sandwiches instead of the double or triple decker variety. Replace the main-dish sandwich with a large bowl of heart soup or salad and a small bread accompaniment. Eliminate the toast garnish commonly served with many foods, unless it uses up stale bread which would be wasted otherwise.

We often serve bread unnecessarily. When meat, potatoes, vegetables and dessert are served, the only members of the family likely to need bread too are the hollow-legged 'teen agers.

Cut out all unnecessary eating between meals. Let the fruit bowl replace the cookie jar. Make a "cup of tea" just a cup of tea.

The great secrets of good salad making to keep them simple, crisp and fresh, with a good contrast of color and texture of ingredients and, lastly, an appetizing salad dressing.

The Agriculture Department Consumer Section suggests this basic Cooked Salad Dressing: 1½ cups of milk, two teaspoons of salt, three tablespoons of flour, four tablespoons of sugar, two tablespoons of mustard, two eggs, 1¼ cups of vinegar, few grains of cayenne.

Heat the milk in a double boiler. Mix dry ingredients and pour hot milk over. Return to double boiler. Cook, stirring constantly, for five minutes. Pour over well beaten eggs, return to double boiler and stirr until thickened. Add vinegar slowly (if vinegar is heated it lessens the cooking time.) Continue stirring until thick and smooth.

City Slicker Cotton

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THIS GOOD looking two-piece cotton frock is made of fabric handloomed in Guatemala, and famous for its unusual colors, as well as its tailoring talents.

The results here is a dress which should delight especially the girls who must work throughout the hot season in cities. . . for it is town-minded in effect, for all its cotton comfort.

Bias bands edge the bottom of coat top and sleeves, besides accenting a wide yoke which runs over the shoulders in a trig effect.

Fashion Flashes

Comfortable slumber is assisted by the right night attire. Cool, comfy and pretty is a pajama suit in sheer white cotton crepe patterned in an all-over forget-me-not and rosebud print. White eyelet is used around the neckline and yoke and to edge the patch pockets of the jacket.

Lovely lingerie remains a major gift favorite. Pale blue satin makes a charming slip trimmed with embroidered flowers, tiny blue blossoms with deeper blue centres. Neckline and hem are scalloped in deep blue to match flowers.

Almost every woman, it seems to us, likes the bonnet hat of fine Milan straw made with lifted, rippled brim in front and trimmed with several wired loops of taffeta ribbon.

Whipper Watson Awarded Bout Over Ambling Pole in Third Fall Of Best Bout Seen This Year

Over 2,000 of the Faithful Watch Talun Hurl Watson and Referee From Ring

A near-berserk rage that had upwards of two thousand of the wrestling faithful shrieking and howling for his blood in the third fall of the main bout at the Hume Arena last night, might have cost Wladyslaw Talun, the Man who walks like a derrick, the British Empire wrestling crown.

He had pinned the Apollo-like torso of the agile Whipper Billy Watson to the mat after twenty-minutes of milling in the first fall, and had fallen victim to the terrific body slams of the Whipper, who heaved 310 pounds of Polish slow-motion dynamite about the ring to cop the nod in the second, and near the approach of the time-limit in the third, lost his temper and nearly his head at his inability to pin the fast-moving champion, and heaved Watson out of the ring. Disgusted with Referee Ernie Powers attempts to hold him to a neutral corner, he picked up the 250-pound arbiter, murmured something in Polish that sounded like "More Power to you" and chucked the luckless official over the ropes on top of the prone form of Watson.

Powers Didn't Hesitate

Powers didn't hesitate. He slowly clambered to his feet, and raised the Watsonian mitt in token of victory. That started the fireworks. The Polish visage, moustachious at a 45 degree angle, snarled its disgust. "Vody" got down on his hands and knees, and in true Mohammedan style beat his fists on the floor. These hamlike appendages failing to make any impression he leaned over and conked his noggin on the mat as though he had heard the muezzins call to prayer.

The crowd milled about the ring. Irate faminine fans shrieked their disgust. They couldn't do that to our Whipper. The male of the species was slightly better. They hemmed in the Pole until that gentleman started for the dressing room on the dog-trot, along a path that cleared magically before him, then followed him breathing imprecations and dire acts of vengeance.

Bout of Speed, Agility

It was clearly a bout of speed and agility against cumbersome brute strength. The Pole punished the champion severely on occasions resorting to ruffling the Watsonian hair and flinging him nonchalantly about the ring. The clever footwork of the Whipper plus some solid punches to the midriff and the jaw had the Pole dizzy on occasions and both broke even in giving each other the old heav-ho out of the ring to the cold cruel cement.

The referee as far as the Pole was concerned was just one of the decorations. He calmly brushed him aside on occasions like a fisherman knocks a mosquito off a bald head, and charged for the Whipper. That young gentleman used his flying tackles and kicking feet to splendid advantage periodically, that had "Vody" so high in the air he could have been used as a mooring mast for a blimp.

Had Him Missing

Vody resorted to punches on several occasions but the Whip had him missing by the proverbial mile with his neat footwork. Then the Pole would lift a leg, the size of a young cedar tree and attempt to dropkick the youngster.

He mauled the champ severely in the first fall and won it with a body spread. The Whippah came back strongly in the second and after absorbing some punishment let loose with his entire bag of tricks and whirled Vody high overhead, sent him to the canvas with the sound of several tons of coal hitting the deck of a ship and promptly fell on him for the fall.

The Pole's ring methods resemble those of Frederick Von Schacht to a marked degree. Both tower over six-feet five, and their villainous tactics would cause a sensation here if they were matched. It would be the bout of the season, and no doubt would attract the biggest crowd yet.

Von Schacht Wins

In the semi-final Von Schacht, master of ring villiany pinned Jumping Joe Mattazzi a speedy artist after eighteen minutes of ring grilling. Von Schacht used every trick in his handbag of arch-villainy and had the crowd yelling for his blood.

Dean Detton and Leo Numa went the limit in the 30-minute preliminary with the Numa in the villain's role. It was a good bout and a tasty forerunners of the things that came later. Cliff Fox refered the first two bouts. Previous to the Talun-Watson bout, Von Schacht formally challenged the winner.

What's Doing in Sport

By The Canadian Press

A third major-league club climbed into the legal ring against Jorge Pasquel's Mexican circuit last night when president Horace Stoneham of New York Giants announced court action at New York, the Giants having lost nine players. The Yankees and Dodgers have applied for permanent injunctions against the Pasquel group.

In their first game of a tour of England, the India cricketers drew with Oxford University yesterday in a two-day match although the collegians scored 256 in the first innings.

Driven by 85-year-old George (Pop) Loomis of Minneapolis, Optimus scored a two - length victory in the 1 1/16-mile trot feature of the Grand Circuit racing at Santa Anita Park yesterday. It was the second win in two starts for Loomis at this meeting.

France started in yesterday to make a runaway of the European Davis Cup competition with Great Britain at Paris with two straight-set singles victories. Pierre Pelizza defeated Don Maphail while Yvon Petra was victorious over Derek Barton.

China scored two victories over Denmark yesterday in first-round European Davis Cup play at Copenhagen. At Stockholm, Sweden took a 2-0 margin over Holland in another regional contest. One of the defeated Hollanders was Dr. Hans Van Swol who recently declined to play a competitor from Eire in an English tournament.

Leading 3-0 When Newark Scores Four for Winning Margin

(By The Associated Press)

Les Burge, Montreal first baseman and International League home run king in 1942, is showing signs of his old form after spending three seasons in the service and his efforts are helping the Royals show their heels to the rest of the circuit.

Burge scored his fifth homer of the season yesterday as the Royals defeated Baltimore Orioles 5-1 to stretch their winning streak to six straight triumphs and their first-place margin over the idle Syracuse Chiefs to a full game.

Righthander Ray Hathaway went the route for Montreal, allowing the Orioles only five hits. Baltimore scored its single run in the eighth inning while Montreal counted twice in the fifth on Burge's four-master, once in the 6th and twice in the eighth.

Burge, who whacked 28 round trippers in 1942, has clouted five of the Royals' last six circuit smashes and he is only two behind Al Clark of Newark and teammate George Shuba who led the circuit with seven boundary belts apiece.

In the two remaining contests, the Newark Bears snapped Toronto's five-game winning streak and ended their own five - game losing skein by nosing out the Leafs, 4-3. The Jersey City Giants trounced the last-place Rochester Red Wings, 9-3.

Newark entered the seventh inning trailing, 3-0, but the Bears pushed four runs across in that lucky seventh frame on three singles, a long fly and three Toronto errors to gain the victory.

Jersey City pummeled four Rochester pitchers for 11 hits, scoring all of their runs in three innings, three in the fourth, two in the fifth and four in the ninth.

Royals' Shortstop Signs Contract With Mexican Loop

Montreal, May 11 — (CP) — Montreal's baseball mystery of the week: Where was Stan Breard when he should have been in uniform with the International League Royals?

The Gazette said in a sport page story today that the hustling young shortstop, a native of suburban Verdun and a highly-finished product of Montreal's sandlots, was signing a contract with the outlaw Mexican League, that the signed agreement had been airmailed southward and that Breard will leave for Mexico tonight.

His salary, said the Montreal morning newspaper, "is reported to be $8,000 and he was given a bonus for signing."

The French-Canadian player, who could not be reached last night for comment, was fined $50 by manager Clay Hopper for being A.W.L. since Tuesday.

He donned a uniform and took part in pre-game practice, but when the Baltimore contest got underway, he was replaced by Alex Campanis at short. He then disappeared from the Royals' dugout after the fourth inning.

The Gazette story said that two agents for the Mexican League arrived in Montreal a week ago and made offers to Breard and an unidentified player on the Jersey City Club. It said Breard reportedly told them to get the contract and return this week.

The paper added that Breard met the men on Tuesday — the first day he failed to show up at the stadium — and signed the contract which was immediately airmailed to Mexico.

Mrs. Breard told The Canadian Press last night she did not know if her husband had signed up for the Mexican League, but she believed it was "only a rumor."

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

ALL SET

There are at least two softball team managers going about the city today with broad smiles of satisfaction gleaming on their ruddy countenances. And well they might, for didn't they receive official word yesterday that two city organizations would go all out and sponsor their entries in the Belleville Softball Association this year?

One is Frankie Sedore, the Point Anne 'Derocher', whose Belleville Flashes squad looms up as a dangerous contender on paper for the district title, and the members of which are all returned veterans of the last war. Today officials of the Belleville Branch 201 Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, announced that they would take the Flashes under their wing for the coming season.

Frankie attended a regular meeting of the A and N Thursday night and after stating his case received the unanimous support of the old and young sweats for his cause. "The boys will get out there and play harder than ever, now that they know they have an organization behind them" grinned the irrepressible Sedore this morning. "And brother, they're going to be outfitted from shoehorns to hair-curlers if necessary. We're going to dress 'em in full uniform, none of your sloppy pants and horse-blanket jerseys, but shirts, bloomers (whoops), socks, caps and spikes. Not forgetting the black jeans for the hurling staff."

The Flashes will wear, if obtainable, red, white and blue colors with the Army and Navy Veteran crests inserted, it is suggested, between the words "A and N Flashes." There will be new equipment all around, and the young old sweats should be the diamond Beau Brummels of the league.

The other softball team executive is Vern 'Jumbo' Goyer who is managing the Belleville junior squad, last year's Ontario champions. Sam Goodman, proprietor of Goodman's Store for Men, Front Street, will be the financial light behind the kids he announced today and now the biggest part of 'Jumbo's' worries are over.

Mr. Goodman stated through a representative that he will give the juniors free hand to operate the team. And the kids will work on a co-operative basis with their own members being appointed to administrative and training work. Jumbo Goyer of course will be the head coach while Don Barrett will manage the lads and they will also have their own secretary and treasurer.

The juniors will be dolled up in white slacks and either white on blue or blue on white jerseys. Their equipment, like that of the Flashes will be brand new and they too will be outfitted from stem to gudgeon. Their insignia will be "Goodman's Store for Men."

Mr. Goodman, it was reported today, stated that he will be behind the juniors all the way, both this year and next year regardless how they finish.

And so to Mr. Goodman and the officials and members of the Army and Navy Veterans Branch here goes columnar orchids. Both have made a generous gesture and are contributing an effort towards the support of clean wholesome recreation that heretofore had been sadly lacking in this city. In the past there has been too much talk, squawk and no action. No one appeared to be interested in the financial support of athletic squads in the city, yet many howled when no sport was available.

AN EYE-OPENER

That peek into baseball things to come offered to a goodly crowd of spectators, mostly air force blue, at the Trenton Air Station the other gloaming, has left a pleasant taste in the mouths of baseball fans who saw the game, and likewise those of the managers and teams of the RCAF and Stewart Warner Alemite.

As a pre-season hors d'ouvre, the tidbit was a tasty morsel. Both "Moose" Matthews airmen and "Lefty" Whitman's planters proved to be well-balanced squads and gave evidence of some good coaching and training. The rival managers worked their players and despite Autumn weather the lads came up with a neat exhibition.

The "Moose" gang are a bunch of huskies, and if beef is any indication of hitting power the fliers are due to give opposing pitchers some anxious moments come summer. The "Moose" himself doesn't exactly rattle when he walks and the "oldtimer" can still sock the apple with the well-known gusto. He has a neat receiver in this lad called Lee, who handled the slants of pitchers Sheehan and Wade in fine style. The husky backstop is one of the sluggers of the squad and the pill travels when he connects.

"Paddy" Sheehan, a product of Brooklyn, N'Yawk, and a great admirer of Lipp Derichers "Bums" the Dodgers, gave promise of being one of the ace hurlers of the loop. He has a neat change of pace, a sharp breaking curve and his fast one really smokes. He recently returned from overseas and is a cousin of the N'Yawk sportswriter who is alleged to be in "dutch" over the Mexican situation. Paddy is a likable cuss and should be popular in the loop this summer.

Holdersmith, flyers first sacker, has played baseball before. He turned in a fine fielding effort and his neat spear of Whitman's bid for a first base line double, and his quick throw to second to nip a runner for a double play was one of the highlights of the pastime.

And Lefty Whitman trotted out an aggregation that was a vast improvement of the 1945 edition of the planters. "Lefty" himself, who totes a tobacco cud in the port cheek, the size of a mushball, hurled the first three innings and definitely proved that he has been around. The team displayed a fine pre-season form and although they committed five bobbles, the general play and teamwork was very good.

In Jack Elliott, Whitman has a fine catcher. The ex-sailor who dishes out vegetable vitamins in his spare time, is a behind-the-plate jack-in-the-box. He has plenty of patter, a deadly peg to second and his general receiving of three pitchers marked him as a player of more than passing ability.

Ernie Smith, was in good form and the tall righthander pitched two innings with good effect. Titus, elongated starboard flinger caught the eye of the fans. He has the natural build of a pitcher, an "all-out" wind-up and a fast ball that fairly sizzles. He stood the air force batters on their ears for two innings allowing only one hit. He pitched himself out of a tight spot when he retired the side after the first batter had tripled to left centre. Titus will be heard from before the season is over.

Gordy Booth fielded his initial sack in fine style while Dicky Fitzpatrick handled the keystone bag with a neat effort. There wasn't much chance to judge the outfielders for the ball never got past the inner gardens only on one or two occasions.

The squads play a return exhibition tilt at the Alemite field next Thursday night, and city fans shouldn't miss seeing this forerunner of what's in store for them this summer. It's likely the other squads will scout these teams, so a goodly attendance will probably be on hand. The game starts at 6 o'clock and will likely be a seven innings affair.

Wladyslaw Talun, the Pestiferous Pole poked a ponderous punch through a pine board at the Hume Arena last night after he had been tabbed the loser of the main wrestling event in which he tossed Whipper Watson and Referee Ernie Powers out of the ring. The Polish Pedestal was really peeved and he vented his wrath on doors and walls alike after the bout. He screamed blue murder at Powers and the Whipper, and beat hamlike fists on the sides of the dressing room until his wrath subsided. He poked out a stiffened finger and a door fell off its hinges. He inserted a finger nail behind a board and it clattered to the floor. He wiggled his moustachios in his ire and Phil Lawson's hat sailed through the air from the gust of wind. What a show Frederick Von Schacht and the Pole would stage. Both are rugged villains that show no mercy—and the bout would be a sensation providing the Arena was still intact after the first fall. Let's have 'em at it—but soon.

BYRON NELSON TO PLAY BURTON

Houston, Texas, May 10 (AP) —Byron Nelson, National P.G.A. champion, said today he had accepted Dick Burton's challenge to a 36-hole match for the unofficial world's golf championship.

Burton, British champ, had wanted to meet the kingpin of pro golf in the United States for the last two years, in a match in England, but the American was unable to make the trip and Burton agreed to play on this side of the Atlantic. Burton cabled that he was leaving for the United States on May 16, giving a full week of practice in this country.

The first 18 holes of the struggle will be played on May 29 at a course yet to be selected and the second match during the first round of the Goodall round-robin at Winged Foot, N.Y., on May 30.

Nelson wired his acceptance to Elmer Ward, sponsor of the Goodall tournament, and suggested a neutral course for the first 18 holes. "I think Winged Foot is a real championship layout but I do think that we should play two courses," Nelson said.

Nelson also commented that he thought this should be an annual affair between the P.G.A. champion of the U.S. and the winner of the British open.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

Lexington, Ky., May 11 — (AP) —In a friendly spirit, Baseball Commissioner Chandler sounded off about the weakness of college baseball in speaking to the college sports publicists here the other day. And in an equally friendly spirit, the public relations men slapped him down . . . the drumbeaters, showing unusually lively interest in the "dead" game, pointed out that so many kids had turned out for baseball squads this spring that in many schools, Michigan State, Western Michigan and Virginia to name just a few, it had been necessary to organize "B" teams . . . Even junior colleges are taking up the game and they claim the percentage of schools supporting teams is much greater than among the high schools, which now enjoy the protection of organized baseball . . .

No Home Runs

Sid Workman, incarcerated announcer for the West Virginia prison Red Sox, who play all their games at "home" in a sandlot league, watched the Red Sox go into the 12th inning of a recent game against a strong rival . . . Seeing all the fans sitting tight, Sid remarked: "Right now I wouldn't go home if the warden gave me a pardon."

Naturally

Tom R. Underwood, Lexington Herald editor and secretary of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners, likes to tell about the time he dreamed he had gone to heaven . . . As he approached the gates, he was surprised to find they were exactly like the entrance to the Keeneland track . . . That looked pretty good to a guy from the blue grass, and to make it perfect, just as he entered, St. Peter remarked: "Hi, Tom. Got anything good in the fifth?"

Blue Grass Blues

Leo McNamara has received nearly 800 entries for the Lexington trotting races next September which wind up the Grand Circuit season . . . Did you know Cincinnati has the only big league ball park where the seats right down in front aren't the most expensive. Redlanders figure those about 17 rows back, out of the sun, are worth a little more . . .

NOT GOOD ENOUGH

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By FRED KERNER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, May 11 — (CP) — British soccer circles are becoming more and more encouraged at the boom their national game is experiencing in Canada today. News of a Toronto entry in the United States Professional League; invitation of Canadian teams to play in Mexico; revival of a strong movement in Western Canada — all this, in the eyes of British sport promoters, means that Canada is ready to come into an Empire league.

Their idea is a loop comprising British, Scottish, Welsh, Canadian, Australian, New Zealand, South African and Indian teams. Travel will be by air and the circuit winners would probably play off with the winners of the proposed International League for the world's title.

The international setup is also a British scheme with teams from European and South American countries as the entries.

How would Canadian soccer teams stack up against the best in the Empire? That is a question which has been asked every time mention is made of international play involving the Dominion. It probably will be fairly well answered by the showing of Toronto Green Backs in the U. S. loop this season.

However, it is the opinion of British experts that with a few international contests under their belt, Canadian soccerists will show well in competition against the pick of the crop elsewhere.

Too, interest in the game has increased greatly since so many Canadian service personnel took to following it while stationed in Great Britain. With increased spectator interest and the possibility of crowds that can exceed hockey attendance up to tenfold, post-war soccer in Canada is heading for success, financial and otherwise, in a big way.

"Credit where credit . . ."

To Ottawa tennis officials goes the year's biggest banquet! Engaged in the task of guiding the racquet sport through the first of the post-war season, they have shown that they are a capable group of sportsmen.

In a city that always has developed top-notch junior players, the Ottawa & District Lawn Tennis Association has instituted a system of "tennis scholarships" to provide free membership at city clubs to not more than 30 students each year. That added to the money the association gives each year to send juniors to tournaments, assures Canada a lasting crop of young tennis stars for years to come.

The Kibitzers

The slang of today may become the language of tomorrow. The fad of the present may become the fashion of the future. The sneer of now may become the compliment of the hereafter. Consider a singleton.

In earlier days, a singleton lead was called a sneak. Because of this nickname, inexperienced players jeered at such a lead. But it is a legitimate and privileged act of any good player.

It is not my intention to give you the impression that the lead of a singleton is a good one. All I am saying is that there are times to use it and there is nothing dishonorable in doing so.

When a suit contains only one card, we call it a singleton. You need not ask me which card to lead from a singleton. This is one item over which you will not get me into an argument. Even with an expert.

The aim of a singleton lead is to get a trick in that suit by trumping. The leader hopes to do this fast; before declarer suspects the danger; before the leader's trumps are forced out.

It is almost like trying to sneak a trick in a hurry. This may be the reason a singleton lead was called a sneak lead; or a sneak.

An opponent has bid hearts and diamonds. His partner assisted the diamonds. They have arrived at a contract of five diamonds. It is your opening lead from this hand:

♠ K 6 4 3 2
♥ 8 7 5 4 2

You would not care to lead hearts; a suit they have bid. It is unwise to lead away from your king of spades against a suit bid. So, you lead your singleton club.

Your partner may take that first club trick and return a club. You will trump with your small diamond. These two tricks and your ace of trump will defeat the contract. You snaked a trick fast.

You may also take note when your lead is a sneak, if it works you can gloat; if it don't, you will reek.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, May 11 — (AP) — This seems to be the season for comment on western pictures. Now Zachary Scott slips in his tuppence:

"The trouble with western pictures is that they are too concerned with the lawlessness of the old west. They glamorize the Sam Basses and the Jesse Jameses, whereas it was men like my grandfather who made the west what it is today."

Zact's grandfather was Robert Benjamin Masterson, law-abiding Texas rancher who accumulated vast cattle holdings. The actor hopes soem day to film his forebear's life.

After a career as a movie menace, Scott is finally appearing in a western, "Stallion Road." Until now producers didn't think he was the western type. After all, he was only born in Austin, Texas, and spent much time on the Masterson ranch. Even so, he is playing a dude.

"I only ride a horse once, and then I nearly fall out of the saddle," he reported.

A solution to the search for an international language is offered by Slim Gaillard, eccentric Vine Street musician famous for his "Flat Foot Floogie" and "Cement Mixer." A speaker of eight languages, he calls the new tongue "Vout O'Reeney" language.

"Vout O'Reeney," he propounded, "is vooty-rooty. What's more it's got putti-putti."

Slim turned up his mixed stringsies and explained he concocted the language in the army in the South Pacific. It is a combination of the languages he learned at Cass College and elsewhere. Now he's adding Japanese to his repertoire.

(Glossary — vout O'Reeney: perfect; vooty-rooty: balanced; putti-putti: rhythm; mixed stringsy: guitar.

Boston Red Sox Appear To Have Thwarted Long-Time Jinx Held by N. Y. Yankees

Hubmen Extend Win Streak to Fifteen With Four More Needed to Tie Record

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Joe Cronin and his Boston Red Sox appeared at last today to have cast off the New York Yankee yoke that has thwarted them of a pennant at least four times in the last decade.

After blowing every pennant-hinging series with the Yankees since 1937, the revengeful Red Sox handed their jinx team a 5-4 defeat yesterday before a week-day record crowd of 64,183 at Yankee Stadium.

The victory not only stretched Boston's winning streak to 15 games—four short of the American League standard—but extended the American League leaders' margin over the Yanks to 5 1-2 games.

The Red Sox are not yet entirely free of the Yankee jinx by any means as the New York nine still has two more cracks at the Sox string over the weekend, but the Hubmen have proved that they no longer roll over and play dead when they come face to face with the Bronx Bombers.

Ironically enough Cronin yesterday entrusted curve-baller Joe Dobson, the same hurler whose 1942 defeat by the Yanks prevented Boston from winning 16 straight games, to keep the Red Sox victory skein alive. He was opposed by veteran Red Ruffing, who nipped their string in '37.

Tables Reversed

This time the tables were reversed although neither hurler was around at the finish. Ruffing was tagged for three runs in the second inning on four successive singles after two were out, the most damaging of which was George Metkovich's two-run double.

A home run by Joe DiMaggio with the bases loaded in the fifth frame put the Yankees ahead 4-3 and sent Dobson to the showers, but the Sox bounced back in the seventh with two runs to win when Rudy York drove in Bobby Doerr with a triple to left-centre and tallied on a single by Dom DiMaggio, younger brother of Joe. Earl Johnson, who relieved Dobson in the fifth and pitched one-hit ball the rest of the way, was the winning pitcher. Joe Page, Ruffing's successor, was the loser.

In the majors' only other games Brooklyn shaded Boston Braves 4-2 in an arc-light contest to move within a half game of the National League leading St. Louis Cardinals, and the Philadelphia Athletics and Washington staged a 15-inning 5-5 tie in another after-dark fray. All other teams were rained out or not scheduled.

Eddie Joost Leading Hitter In Int. League

New York, May 11 — (AP) — Eddie Joost, former National League infielder now playing with Rochester Red Wings, went on a hitting spree during the last week to boost his average 123 points and earn the International League's individual batting leadership.

Joost belted out 16 hits including two homers, three triples and three doubles in 28 trips to the plate to hike his mark of .303 of a week ago to a gaudy .426.

Elmer (Red) Durrett of Montreal, last week's leader with .488, dropped to second, 14 points behind Joost, with .412. Other players with 40 or more times at bat among the first five are Al Clark, Newark, .397; Kermit Wahl, Syracuse, .362 and Ed Robinson, Baltimore, .357.

Clark and George Shuba of Montreal pace the circuit in home runs with seven each. Joost and Bob Thomson of Jersey City lead in triples with three apiece and Clyde Vollmer of Rochester is tops in doubles with five.

Joe Mellendick of Baltimore has driven in the most runs, 24, while Durrett and Jackie Robinson, Montreal's Negro infielder, have tallied the highest number of markers, 22. Mary Rackley of Montreal has stolen the most bases, 13.

Big Joe Coleman of Toronto, undefeated in three starts that include two shutouts, leads the hurlers. Jim Prendergast and Ken Polivka of Syracuse and Pete Appleton of Buffalo and Johnny Moore of Newark are tied for second with a two won and none lost record.

ASSAULT AGAINST FIELD IN RUNNING OF THE PREAKNESS

Winner of Kentucky Derby Will Go With Ten Others for Rich Purse

By SID FEDER

Baltimore, May 11 —(AP)— It was Assault against the field at Pimlico in the Preakness today, and the betting was just about even that the colt with the deformed foot would commit the same "murder" he did a week ago in the Kentucky Derby when he ran as if the police were after him.

There were 10 other three-year-olds going to the post with the Texas Terror to run for the black-eyed Susans over the old hilltop track that was paved with more gold than any strip has ever been paved for one horse-race before — $140,620, with more than $100,000 to the winner.

That is, there were 10 others provided promised showers didn't make it come up mud and cause a couple of outsiders to scratch. And of the entire 11, Assault was the high-powered choice to take the same double trick his daddy, Bold Venture, did, just 10 years ago — win both the Derby and Preakness.

If you wanted to put up any kind of an argument at all for the big end of the pot, you might conceivably make it assault against Arcaro. Heady Eddie this time is riding Hampden. The horse who wound up third, and still coming, in the Derby, and while Assault ambled away from the Delaware Dandy the only two times they've tangled this spring, no one is denying that Heady Eddie practically wrote the book about race-riding, and Hampden will benefit from the jockey-switch.

Except for Hampden and Mrs. Elizabeth Graham's Lord Boswell and Knockdown, the rest of the field is strictly along to work up an appetite. There's Al Ernst's Alamond, a Cleveland campaigner; the Philadelphia hopefuls, Mrs. Walter Jeffords' locally-liked Natchez and Mr. and Mrs. John Bromley's Lovemenow, who will be scratched if it's gooey going; Robert Bruce Livie's Marine Victory; Robert S. McLaughlin's Wee Admiral from Oshawa, Ont.; Bombard Stable's Billy Bumps from Detroit, and New Orleans' oil man William Helis' Tidy Bid.

I'LL WAIT FOR YOU

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

CHAPTER 22

The wind cooled her cheeks and the earth felt solid and friendly beneath her. And Newton and unhappiness seemed very far away.... The change of scene the good air and Ann's unfailing good humor had swept her mind clean of everything—except Norman. Had not her father said, "A girl doesn't want to get up out of a mud puddle and go to her lover?" But she was clean again and young and new and only miles separated them....

The next evening rain pecked against the windows and, as they had done often a few years ago, they curled up in chairs in Ann's large room with a box of candy between them and talked the hours away.

"I'm not going to marry Alan, Ann," Carol said. She smiled. "Are you disappointed that you won't be my maid of honor?" Her fingers locked together tightly. "If it doesn't sound too idiotic, I think I'm going to marry some one else. I'm not sure...."

Ann's smile held a great deal of suppressed amusement. "You have the cat-ate-the-canary look. Enlighten me, darling, while I put on a pound."

She could speak of Norman at last. Her voice tense with excitement, she spoke longer than she realized, not seeing Ann's amused and interested little face nor her frequent reaching for another piece of candy. Of Alan she said merely, "We found we had made a mistake. He doesn't hate me or blame me. I couldn't be happy if he did. It was Alan who broke our engagement."

Ann asked, "But what are you waiting for? Norman Alexander—how perfectly elegant! But why wait? I'd run to the next train and I'd be sitting on his doorstep when he came home tomorrow night. I'd be the bride who went to claim the groom. He's probably mserable and some other girl will get him on the rebound. It's happened. Don't walk, darling. Run to the next train."

"You don't understand. I kept my love held down so long. It had to breathe and live. In a way, I had to fall in love with him all over again, with everything that has made me unhappy out of the way, finished and gone. I believe it's been the same with him. Now it can be new and wonderful. Don't you see, Ann?"

Carol looked radiant then, the light mixing in her hair, her cheeks glowing. She looked as if she had just heard the best news possible or as if she'd just been kissed.

"Ann, loving is best when you can dream a little about it and when you can live with it day and night alone as I have here. Before, it was like a disease I was trying to run away from and fight off. I don't know where Norman is or where he lives. But I know him. I know him a great deal better than I ever knew Alan...."

She could not sleep that night though it was a night for sleeping with the rain beating against the windows. A feeling of expectancy, of waiting, kept her awake. Once she got up, turned on the lamp, went to the window and looked through the beads of rain to the mountains. Ann was right. Why was she waiting? Her hands shook as she saw herself getting a train, arriving in New York tomorrow and running her finger down a telephone directory until she found his name. Call him or go to him? Would they meet in his apartment or his office? And what to wear—as if that mattered to either of them. Her mouth curved. The pursuing female...And she could see his face, shock dissolving the familiar frown above the dark eyes, his puzzled smile... and it would be only a minute before he would touch her.

Beyond the moment, she could not see, but she could dream. It would not be planned and orderly as it had been with Alan. It would be gay and exciting, as Norman was gay and exciting, and they would laugh a great deal while they tried to make sense. But they would not wait. She knew that they would not and could not wait, and also that nothing would induce her father to come to New York. A telegram to him and she and Norman would be married quietly somewhere—it did not matter where....Though all their moments together had been hurried and incomplete, the picture of them together was as clearly defined as the objects in this room.

She need not look ahead too far. The years were better lived than dreamed about when you had no doubts or fears. There were rules for marriage, but you learned as you gave and received, and as years together bound you by invisible, unbreakable cords strong as living tissues.

She slept at last fitfully and awoke to the continuing peck of rain. Her excitement had not lessened as she dressed in a black wool suit with a frilly white silk blouse and packed the beloved sweaters and skirts and sensible shoes along with the few afternoon dresses she had brought, and the new green dinner dress she had not worn.

Knowing that Ann was enjoying the absence of an alarm clock, she did not disturb her but went directly down the broad curving stairs to the desk and picked up a time-table.

"Are you leaving us, Miss Tallant?" The young clerk asked regretfully.

"I'm afraid so," and added, "but not because of the rain."

No, not because of the rain, my pleasant young friend, but because Edwina Burke happened to use her car brakes at the wrong moment on a certain day in May.

Walking to the entrance, as she had done each morning since she came for a glimpse of the encircling mountains, she thought of Edwina with a twinge of pity which she knew Edwina would keenly resent. But it was like the end of a long reign, the end of a dynasty, Edwina's leaving Newton to become one obscure girl among millions of obscure girls in New York. Carol thought: It isn't fair that I should have so much and she so little. She'll work and be small and obscure with her chin high and her heart breaking. I'd hate to see that flamelike quality of hers burned out. It's rare and precious.

Pausing beside a lamp in the lobby, she read the time-table; there was a train at ten-fifty. Ten-fifty! There was so little time! Hurrying upstairs, she knocked on Ann's door and went in. Ann blinked and yawned.

"Ann, I'm leaving at ten-fifty," Carol said. Ann, still in bed, was wide awake at once. "You were right," Carol went on very earnestly. "What am I waiting for now? I'm going to New York to Norman. I'm going to be the girl who is sitting on his doorstep tonight, the waiting bride-to-be.."

"And I thought I was going to have such a quiet week. Now I'm all mixed up in a whirlwind romance. Okay, darling. I'll get dressed and we'll have breakfast together and I'll put you on that train. In the meantime go downstairs and warm your toes by the fire in the lounge while I dress and think up what to give you for a wedding present. But it's just an exchange sort of thing, I warn you. You'll soon be buying me one—for Mrs. Penny. What a name! Go away! Don't stand there looking so beautiful and happy when I've just opened my eyes and I know I look awful! I'm jealous...."

Smiling, Carol left her, and the portly matron she met on the stairs smiled back, no doubt thinking that Carol's early morning cheer was meant for her.

The lounge was a very large room furnished with beautiful though not uncomfortable antiques. A soft thick green rug covered the floor and a large log fire roared in the stone fireplace.

With the timetable still in her hand, Carol went in, her steps quickened by the excitement within her, and so large was the room that she had advanced some distance across the deep rug before she stopped suddenly...the timetable fluttered from her hand....

Norman stood beside the fireplace. With a heavy brown shoe, he was shifting a fresh log into the blazing ones. Dressed in brown tweeds, a soft brown sweater beneath his coat, he seemed not to have hurried in out of the rain but to have been here, as she had been for days, taking long walks on mountain paths, his mind free and happy.

His calmness, his obvious enjoyment of simply watching a fire burn, she loved. He had known that she would come down to this room and he was not pacing the floor or looking at his watch or telephoning her room. He had been certain, too. There were no doubts or fears for him. Norman had come to her. Also he had come for her....

Ann came down then looking like a schoolgirl in a pink sweater and blue skirt but she came no closer than to the threshold of the lounge and there she stood quietly, not knowing whether to laugh or cry. They looked so absurd—Norman (she was certain it was he) unconscious of Carol's presence and Carol standing so still.

Turning away, Ann walked into the lobby and bought a newspaper, hoping that no one else would come down and seek the fire in the lounge. If some one did, she would hurry over and make conversation or pretend to turn her ankle or faint—or anything.

Carol asked, her voice soft and warm, "Were you waiting for me?" and she thought: Not in his office interrupting his work, not on his doorstep like a refugee but here in this lovely room, a room I'll always remember and want to come back to....

Norman turned from the blazing logs, his eyes taking in all of her. He didn't say anything at once, then said, "I've come for you—from Newton—and I almost got arrested until I told the cop why I was in such a hurry. A romantic cop. He let me go...."

His smile was almost shy but happy, incredibly happy. There was ardor in it, too, and appreciation and humility; all the things he had felt and thought during the long drive in the rain were in his smile before he came to her and took her in his arms.

WATCH FOR RELICS

Toronto (CP)—The Royal Ontario Museum announces that now is the time for the farmer to watch for Indian relics in his fields. Fall plowing often stirs up arrowheads, beads, gouges and bones, which become noticeable in the spring after the rains wash off the mud and the fields are still bare.

ALL IS READY FOR OPENING OF RACE SEASON

King's Plate Will be Run Two Weeks From Today at Woodbine Park

By HARRY ECCLES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, May 11 (CP) —The racing strip at Woodbine Park is fast, the sun is shining most of the time, and everything is ready for the Canadian racing season which opens a week from today, and the King's Plate will be run May 25.

Today starts the last week of preparations for the trainers, jockeys and humble stable swipes who have worked diligently with their four-footed charges for many months.

Opening of the Ontario Jockey Club's spring meeting for many years was synonymous with the running of the King's Plate, the oldest continuously-run race on the North American continent. But for two years now the Plate has been run on the closing day of the meeting, the opening day being featured by a King's Plate Trial. Until the Trial was inaugurated King's Plate contenders were making their first start as three-year-olds over the mile and one-eighth course.

So it's the Plate Trial that takes the spotlight a week from today, when the sun shines and the crowds gather and high-ranking dignitaries and leaders of society take their box seats, with the women's fashion show strongly contending for attention.

Plate Two Weeks From Today

Two weeks from today, the bugles blow for the 87th running of the King's Plate, oldest fixture run continuously on this continent, for a prize of 50 guineas, the gift of his Majesty the King, with $10,000 added by the Ontario Jockey Club—estimated value $16,,000. For Canadian bred three-year-olds, weights 119 lbs., fillies allowed five pounds.

The condition book says: "Death of nominator does not render void."

The clause has a poignant significance this year, for it's only three days since Harry C. Hatch died. Hatch's double-blue racing silks were carried by five King's Plate winners in the last nine years—including Uttermost last year and Acara in 1944.

And Mr. Hatch had been ready to watch his grand colt Bluesweep start with a stablemate, Palermo, in this year's running for the Guineas. Bluesweep remains one of the top choices.

There were 110 nominations for the Plate Nov. 15, 1944, and 26 left in after the final forfeit May 1. There's still a $100 starting fee and for how many horses this will be paid two weeks hence isn't certain.

Some of the starters are known, of course. There's the winter-book favorite, Parkwood Stable's Kingarvie. There's Hatch's Bluesweep and Palermo, Halton Stables' Noddy's Number, Norman Heise's Willlegivit. A dozen others are being trained in every expectation of starting and winning. But that's horse racing.

AMATEUR LEADING HOUSTON TOURNEY

Houston, Tex., May 11—(AP)—Byron Nelson and Ben Hogan, the ex-Texans picked to battle it out for first money in Houston's $10,000 golf tournament of champions, were doing just that today but not by leading the field. Amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., who can't take any of the cash awards, held that honor going into the third round.

Stranahan shot a three-under-par 68 yesterday to surge two strokes in front with his 137 for 36 holes. Nelson had a 69 and Hogan slipped to a 72 to tie for 2nd place with 139.

Nelson could even smile benevolently on Stranahan. Frank is his protege.

Lloyd Mangrum of Los Angeles, who had shot into a tie for the first round lead with Hogan, faltered with a 73 yesterday and fell down to a tie for fourth place at 140 with Fred Haas, Jr. of New Orleans.

Stranahan said his round was the "best I ever shot in my life." He didn't miss a green except the ninth as he ripped par 35-36—71 on the Ynttiayard River Oakes course, bagging four birdies.

Hogan blamed a misbehaving putter for going over par but Nelson had a fine round except for getting into a bunker on No. 11 and three-putting No. 14.

Harry Todd of Dallas, E. J. Harrison of Little Rock, Herman Keiser of Akron, O., Sam Schneider of Houston and Jimmie Demaret of Houston each had 142.

H.M.C.S. "UGANDA" ROUNDS THE HORN

FIRST CANADIAN WARSHIP SAILS AROUND CAPE HORN: Another interesting episode was added to the history of the Royal Canadian Navy when the cruiser, H.M.C.S. "Uganda," became the first Canadian warship to sail around Cape Horn. So that it might be said literally that "Uganda" had "sailed" around The Horn, the ship's company rigged three sails, one forward, one amidships, and one aft. Any help the 72,500-horsepower engines of the ship gave was merely incidental.

During the passage, "Uganda" paused for her picture, taken from the ship's whaler. The sky was overcast but the weather was unusually mild and calm for this notorious stretch of water.

MORE TROUT FOR SUDBURY

Sudbury, May 11 —(CP)—Sudbury district lakes and streams are to receive considerably more speckled trout fingerlings this year than last. This encouraging news for fishermen was announced in Sudbury Friday by A. W. McLeod, of Toronto, superintendent of fish culture for the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries.

Mr. McLeod was in Sudbury Friday morning en route to Manitoulin Island where he will inspect the fish hatcheries at Little Current and Sandfield. He revealed that 350,000 trout fingerlings were released in Sudbury district waters last year and that this number will be increased considerably this year.

Bad Paris Copies Fashion in Berlin

Berlin (CP)—Fashion, never a vital thing in Germany's capital, is closed to utter extinction today than ever and the few well-dressed women here are doing what they've always done: Follow Paris, blindly and badly.

A few German designers are making clothes, with bad ersatz material or super-expensive black market cloth. But they are clothes that can be seen in last year's Paris collections or old copies of American fashion magazines.

Shop windows show the long suit jackets beloved of the Paris couture, with the tight-fitting waist line. Dresses use material generously. Skirts are short. Detail work is coarse and the fine workmanship of France lacking.

Paris' occupation joke—those huge over-decorated hats—really impressed the German conquerors, for their women are still wearing them though France dropped them like hot cakes the minute she was liberated.

Still in evidence too are the hair-fashions which are as dated as the hats. Fraternizing frauléins and window-shopping fraus on Berlin's Fifth Avenue, the Kurfurstondamn, affect those high pompadours and elaborate coils of hair that disappeared before V-E Day. Others—brunettes—still copy the two-year-old Paris vogue of a single bleached forelock.

For The Wealthy

But these are things that the well-dressed and moneyed German woman is able to wear. What the average German woman in moderate circumstances wears on the street must be seen to be believed.

Slacks and ski pants are much in evidence even now that warm weather has come to Germany. More women wear bandannas than hats—and the bandannas are worn much as one would put on a bathing cap. Coats are plain, dingy black (Germany had a dye shortage) and badly cut. Dresses are straight cut, ill-fitted and utterly without style.

Few women have gloves, and their shoes are usually of leather, but so old, so run-over that it is painful to watch them walk. A few women have silk stockings, but they are thick, of disagreeable colors and usually with many darns in them.

It is impossible to compare German fashion or German women with the French or the Americans, for both of the latter have a feeling for clothes. Germans apparently do not. Whether from necessity or taste they run to drab colors and shapeless clothes.

Sloppy Hotel Guests Disgust Chambermaid

Eugene, Ore. (CP)— Little Mrs. Emma Talbot, retiring after 47 years as a chambermaid, says hotel guests have degenerated amazingly during the last half-century.

They shine shoes on towels and carry off half the hotel equipment, complained the 77-year-old woman, "and every year they are getting dirtier."

So the four foot 4 1-2 inch tall woman, who figures she's made 300,000 beds, decided never to make another bed for profit.

But "Little Emma," as hotel residents call her, wasn't ready to quit working at only 77. She's opening a clothing alteration shop. Cleaner work.

PISTOL BARRELS FOUND

Dunnville, May 10 (CP) — Searching a vacant barn on a farm outside this Haldimand County town last night, provincial police prodded a haypile and uncovered several wooden boxes containing automatic pistol barrels, machine-gun clips and several bayonets. Police said a truck had been seen near the barn two days ago.

Lunan Elects Speedy Trial On Spy Charges

Fifth of Twelve Charged To Make Same Application

Ottawa, May 13. (CP)—Gordon Lunan, 30, alleged "head" of a cell of Russian agents, today elected speedy trial before a County Court judge on espionage charges.

Tentatively, his date of trial was set for May 31. He was the fifth to elect speedy trial, among 12 persons charged here with spy activities.

In Ontario Supreme Court, Chief Justice J. C. McRuer listened to argument by defence counsel for change of venue or adjournment of the hearing of Edward W. Mazerall.

Mazerall was the first to appear among a group of alleged agents in a Russian network who were to be arraigned this morning.

A 30-year-old native of Fredericton, Mazerall faces two charges of breaking the Official Secrets Act and one of conspiring to break that act.

Adverse Publicity

R. A. Hughes, defence counsel, said the "widespread adverse" publicity and its effect on the people of the County of Carleton supported his appeal for a change of venue. Where the accused was a former government employee, consideration should be given to the fact that so many of those people were civil servants who might be prejudiced.

Mr. Hughes said he will make the same application in the case of Sqdn. Ldrs. F. W. Poland and M. S. Nightingale.

The Chief Justice then considered a lengthy affidavit from Mr. Hughes. Newspaper clippings were attached to it.

Reports Given Charged

When he finished, Mr. Hughes told of efforts to get information about conferences of the Commonwealth and Empire Radio and Civil Aviation organization.

Mr. Hughes said the Crown alleged that Mazerall had given Lunan, for the Russian Embassy, two reports on Radar range and distance indicators. The evidence was that he had done this July 24, 1945, one day before the Commonwealth organization is believed to have made the reports available, among others, to Russian observers in London. There had been Russian observers at all three conferences of the organization.

J. R. Cartwright, Crown Counsel, argued that the date of the documents were of little importance here. The great weight lay in the charge of conspiracy, not so much to get the two reports but in the manner of getting them.

Had Plenty of Time

The defence had had plenty of time—Mazarell was committed April 9—to get information about the conferences. It had not sought this until late last week.

Chief Justice McRuer pointed out to Mr. Hughes that accomplishment of a wrongful act was not necessary in conspiracy. An agreement to do something wrong was enough.

Mr. Hughes said he might be able to show that the two reports were made available to the Russian Embassy here.

Chief Justice McRuer rejected the application for adjournment to enable the secretary of the conference to be heard. He said there was a witness available in Ottawa who attended the July, 1945, conferences, and further that the defence should have shown interest in this point before last week.

Ruling on the appeal for a change of venue, Chief Justice McRuer refused it because he felt the accused would get an impartial trial in Carleton County.

Liner Letitia Sails With Canadians' Wives and Children

Liverpool, England, May 13—(CP Cable)— The liner Letitia sailed today for Canada with 674 Canadian servicemen's wives and 235 children. The liner Aquitania is due to sail Tuesday from Southampton with 888 wives and 172 children of Canadian servicemen.

Weather Synopsis

Synopsis: Cold air has spread southeastward from the Mackenzie river basin over the Prairie Provinces. Snow is occurring in the Nipigon district in advance of this cooler air and showers in Wisconsin. This weather will spread eastward giving showers through most of Ontario on Tuesday followed by lowering temperatures. Fair weather prevails today through eastern Canada. No frost is expected for southern Ontario tonight.

Price Ceilings Removed on Wide Variety of Goods

Ottawa, May 13 (CP)—Remocal of price ceilings on a wide variety of goods ranging from medicine to cream cheese and including such things as phonograph records, memorial plaques and carbon paper, was announced Saturday by the Prices Board.

The removal of ceilings, effective immediately, followed a Board practice adopted Feb. 1 when Finance Minister Ilsley announced the removal of a first group of ceilings as part of the Price Board's decontrol plan. Since then periodic removals have been made on a wide list of articles.

Goods affected by Saturday's orders are:

Dentrifices; all medicinal preparations, pharmacopeial or otherwise, including pharmaceutical, biological, veterinary and glandular products, vitamin preparations and the following household remedies when packaged or bottled for retail sale: Castor oil, cod liver oil, glycerine, boracic acid, borax, epsom salts, sweet nitre, petrolatum jelly, aromatic cascara, hydrogen peroxide and tincture of iodone.

Botanicals, such as barks, flowers, roots, beans, berries, balsams, bulbs, fruits, insect grains, herbs, leaves, fruit and stem seeds. when used in the manufacture of medical or cosmetic preparations; derivatives of these botanicals.

Atlantic salmon, Chinese style foods as follows: canned and frozen mung bean sprouts, soy bean cheese in artificial casings, canned and frozen chopped suey and mixed vegetables, canned and frozen chopped suey dinners, canned and frozen chow mein; specialty cheeses, but not including Cheddar cheese, processed cheese, cream cheese (as defined under the Dairy Industrial Act) and cottage cheese; frozen fruits packed for reprocessing;

Sequins, sequin ornaments and sequin motifs; phonograph records; memorial plaques and tablets, burial vaults, cremation urns; surgical sutures, stem and footed glassware; carbon paper of all kinds and carbon dope; holders for hand type rubber stamps or steel stamps;

Clamshell and poultry grit; crayons other than the type ordinarily sold for use in schools; fir brick, including silica and magnesite fire brick and fire clay, molding sands, and silica sands of all kind; pole line hardware; the following needle trade services when performed on a custom or commission basis: embroidery, hemstitching and pleating.

Tension Grips Belfast as City Awaits Funeral of John McCaughey

Belfast, May 13 — (CP)—Tension gripped this capital of northern Ireland today as the city awaited the funeral of John McCaughey, former Adjutant General of the outlawed Irish Republican Army who died in Dublin Saturday after a 22-day hunger strike staged in a futile attempt to win release from prison.

McCaughey had gone without water 17 days.

Another I.R.A. member, David Fleming, entered the 53rd day of a similar strike. Both McCaughey and Fleming were reported to have staged the strikes to obtain better treatment of political prisoners, not only in Ireland but in the entire United Kingdom.

Friends claim Fleming has gone without water nearly six weeks.

McCaughey's body was borne into Belfast last night by relatives after a 100-mile procession from Dublin — uneventful despite a tense moment when Ulster police removed the Eire tricolor from the coffin.

Irish flags flew at half staff today throughout Belfast, where McCaughey is to be buried in the Republican plot at Milltown cemetery.

Heavy police reinforcements patrolled the route by which the procession entered Belfast last night. The police were alert for any outbreak of trouble, particularly along Falls Road in the centre of the city, where 3,000 demonstrators gathered to demand the release of Ireland's political prisoners.

Thousands lined the route from Dublin to Belfast to watch the procession pass. As it crossed the border into Northern Ireland the procession was met by a brass band.

As the procession approached Belfast, Harry Diamond, socially Republican member of the Northern Ireland parliament, urged the crowd to confine its expressions to a "silent tribute to this latest martyr, hero and patriot who laid down his noble life for Ireland."

Mr. Diamond added that "in the event of (the) death" of Fleming, another IRA member, "there must be no reprisal."

"It is a moral fight . . ." said Mr. Diamond.

McCaughey was sentenced to death in 1941 for the kidnapping and torture of an I.R.A. leader suspected of having turned informer.

Fleming, now reported in a "weak" condition, was jailed in 1942 for the attempted murder of a Northern Ireland constable.

COAL-PINCHED UNITED STATES BREATHES EASIER

Bulk of the 400,000 Miners Head Back To Pits For Two-Week Truce

Washington, May 13. (AP)—The coal-pinched United States breathed somewhat easier today as the bulk of John L. Lewis' 400,000 striking miners —except for holdouts in Pennsylvania — headed back to their pits under a two-week truce.

This was the over-all picture:

1. Restrictions on freight, express and parcel post shipments came off at midnight, hours before the first full crews descended into the mines to end the 42-day shutdown.

2. Other conservation measures —including tight controls over all coal to be produced during the truce—remained in effect.

3. The government prodded miners and operators alike to reach a swift agreement on a new contract, but both sides said privately there was little hope of meeting the Wednesday deadline fixed by President Truman.

4. Congress showed no inclination to back down from its determination to seek a legislative barrier to future crises arising from labor disputes. The Senate turned its full attention to writing a strike-control bill.

30,000 Remain Out.

The attitude of some 30,000 Pennsylvania miners introduced a jarring note into the back-to-work appeal of Mr. Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers. They voted to abide by their traditional "no contract, no work" policy.

Mr. Lewis asked his men to return to their jobs for the next 12 work days as a "contribution . . . .to our nation's economy."

The solid fuels administration assumed control of the entire output of the truce period, originally estimated at from 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 tons.

The agency gave top priority to railroads, utilities, laundries, hospitals, food processing plants, dairies, bakeries and refrigeration plants. They will get daily needs plus a 20-day reserve.

In the next preferential class will be industrial users, who will receive actual daily requirements and nothing more. Domestic consumers in distress or hardship will form a third group with preferred claims.

The office of defence transportation lifted that restriction but retained the 25-percent cut in railroad passenger service. Plans to make it a 50-percent reduction by Wednesday were abandoned.

The coal contract negotiations still were deadlocked on Mr. Lewis' claim for $3,000,000 in back holiday pay. But some persons close to the conferees said that once Mr. Lewis agrees to make his other demands specific this issue will be quickly resolved.

MAGISTRATE RETIRES

Peterboro, May 13 — (CP) — Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., after 32 years on the bench in Peterboro city and county retired today and is succeeded by W. Russell Philp who has been practising law here for eight years.

Magistrate Langley heard his last case on Saturday and before the court adjourned tribute was paid him by Crown Attorney V. L. McElderry, K.C., and Chief Constable John Thompson.

WAR BRIDE WHO LOVED ENGLAND TOO MUCH

Mrs. June Marisco, 22-year-old bride of a U. S. soldier, poses with her mother, Mrs. S. Askew, after she had returned to her Cheshire home from London where she was to have sailed from with 20 other war brides bound for reunion in America with their husbands. It was the trip to London by train, travelling through the lovely lands of Warwickshire and thoughts of the Cheshire village where she had grown up, her parents and her own little room, that proved too much for the bride. She just couldn't leave her beloved England — even for a husband in Elyria, Ohio. She is sorry for her husband, Nick Marisco, whom she married last August. In Elyria, Marisco said he was starting divorce proceedings at once.

Rocket Battle Between Toronto Boy Gangs Fatal to Bystander

Toronto, May 13. (CP)—Nineteen-year-old Walter Zanuck struck on the head last night by a portion of skyrocket during a firecracker and skyrocket battle between two gangs of youths, died this afternoon. A bystander, he was taken to hospital after a rocket stick plummeted from the sky and imbedded itself in his head.

Police said they learned Zanuck and two companions were talking near a cafe in the Clinton-College streets districts of West Toronto when several rockets fell.

Police, who rounded up a number of boys in the area for questioning, said ten rockets were fired last night from street car tracks and milk bottles in the area. Operators of Toronto Transportation Commission Street cars reported seeing the gang warfare going on for the last week. The rival groups set off rockets and hurled giant firecrackers at each other. Some fell under the trams and exploded with loud reports which startled passengers. T.T.C. officials said one giant firecracker was tossed into a street car, causing considerable confusion.

M. M. Mulholland, deputy chief constable, issued a warning that boys hurling firecrackers into street cars or setting off large rockets in places dangerous to public safety will be prosecuted. "If we have to take drastic action to protect our citizens, we will." He added rockets are extremely dangerous when being set off.

Victor Grieco, a companion of Zanuck, removed the rocket stick from Zanuck's head and carried the injured man to an auto and had him removed to hospital where an emergency brain operation was performed.

BRITISH CABINET ADMITS COLLAPSE INDIAN PARLEY

Deals Severe Blow to Those Hoping for Self-Control for India

Simla, India, May 13. (AP)—The British Cabinet Mission, admitting failure of an eight-day conference with Moslem and Hindu leaders of Independence for India, made it plain today it still has hopes of solving the problem.

The conference ended in complete breakdown yesterday, dealing a severe blow to the hopes of those who had expected a quick transition from British control to Indian self-government.

Two communiques—one jointly by the Cabinet Mission, the Moslem League and the Congress Party; the other by the Cabinet Mission alone—gave no reason for collapse of the negotiations.

It seemed apparent, however, that the conference had foundered on demands of the Moslem League for an independent Moslem State (Pakiiston). These demands have been bitterly opposed by the Congress party, which favors an India unified at least insofar as Foreign Affairs, defence and communications are concerned.

The communique by the mission said the conference had not "led to any agreed plan between the leaders of the Congress and the Moslem League."

Mission Not Ended

It added, however, that the breakdown "does not in any way bring to an end the mission with which we were charged by his Majesty's Government and the British people."

CROWN INSISTS JAPS' SURRENDER UNCONDITIONAL

Defence Claims Japanese Do Not Have to Obey Every Allied Command

Tokyo, May 13 — (AP)—Argument that Japan did not surrender unconditionally and does not have to obey every Allied command was presented today to the Far East military tribunal by the chief defence counsel for Japan's major war criminals.

Ichiro Kyose's challenge that the court lacks authority to try the 28 defendants on 55 counts was taken under advisement as the tribunal adjourned until Tuesday morning.

The Allies' chief prosecutor, Joseph B. Keenan, termed Kiyose's argument the "height of absurdity" and offered documentary evidence that Japan's surrender was "utterly without condition."

Kiyose said that in giving the tribunal jurisdiction over crimes against peace and crimes against humanity "Gen. MacArthur is exercising authority he does not possess and the Japanese people are not bound to obey that order."

Japan's top statesmen, Kiyose said, agreed to surrender in the belief they would not be prosecuted as war criminals.

The lawyer declared that in the surrender last September Japan recognized that she would obey orders and directives of the Allied powers but only those in accordance with the Potsdam declaration.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Richmond, Va., May 13 —(AP) —Clarence Wiggins, 17, Negro, Sunday was charged with murder in the death of Travis H. Epes, 70-year-old paper company president. Saturday another Negro, 18-year-old Andrew Woodson Seay signed a written statement after his arrest admitting the slaying.

GIRAL MARSHALS MUCH EVIDENCE AGAINST SPAIN

Will Attempt to Prove Before United Nations Franco a Threat To World Peace

New York, May 13 —(AP)—Prime Minister Jose Giral of the Spanish Republican government-in-exile planned to lay before the United Nations today a voluminous report, including 21 documents, in an attempt to prove that the Franco regime was a threat to world peace.

Associates of Mr. Giral, who arrived yesterday from Paris to press for action against the government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, said he would submit his 350-page report immediately and would also seek to appear personally before the subcommittee investigating the Spanish question.

U. N. officials said, however, it was unlikely the five-man committee would hear Mr. Giral at today's meeting since members had not yet received a request from the Spanish leader to be heard.

Spanish Republican circles said Mr. Giral probably would tell the sub-committee that failure of the security council to act against the Franco regime might result in another civil war in Spain.

To Meet Daily.

The sub-committee, expected to meet almost daily from now until May 31, when it must submit its report to the security council, also will get reports this week from the United States and Mexico on the Spanish situation.

Meanwhile, a U. N. spokesman said the council probably would be called into session Thursday to take up two other matters.

One of these is a resolution circulated Friday night by Edward R. Stettinius, United States delegate, proposing that the council delay action on requests for U. N. membership pending study of qualifications and procedure by a sub-committee.

The other matter would be a report of the council's committee of experts on rules and procedure which is ready to submit another group of rules for approval.

Members of the council continued to watch closely the situation in Iran, where press dispatches indicated a civil war was threatened. Any disturbance there might have an important effect on the Iranian case, scheduled to come up again May 20.

Loan to Britain To Bring Canada Prosperity

Quebec, May 13 —(CP)—Justice Minister St. Laurent told a press conference here last night that the Canadian loan of $1,250,000,000 to Great Britain, along with $4,150,000,000 from the United States, would assure the prosperity of Canada. Mr. St. Laurent will be guest speaker tonight at the annual dinner of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, meeting here this week.

Strange Polio-like Disease Strikes Several Victims in Texas Centres

San Antonio, Tex., May 13 (AP) —Drastic precautionary measures both here and at Corpus Christi, 175 miles to the south, were taken today by public officials in a battle to halt the spread of a strange, polio-like sickness that already has claimed four victims.

Fifteen cases already have been reported in this military personnel-swollen city and four persons have died. At Corpus Christi, four cases have been reported and one victim is in a critical condition.

In Nueces County, of which Corpus Christi is a part, city and county health boards closed all schools, churches, theatres, night clubs, parks, playgrounds and swimming pools for two weeks and prohibited public gatherings of more than five persons.

In San Antonio, an earlier city order closing schools in half the city was extended yesterday to include all schools, public and parochial, and university and college classes were ordered curtailed.

Dr. Edwin Sulkin and Dr. L. Wisseman of the Southwestern Medical College Bacteriology Department of Dallas arrived here yesterday and began testing cultures taken from victims.

Dr. Sulkin said he is going on the assumption that the epidemic might be both poliomyletic and encephalitic in nature. He explained that poiliomyelitis, of which infantile paralysis is one form, attacks the spine, while encephalitis, known as sleeping sickness, attacks the brain.

Dr. George W. Edgerson of the Corpus Christi Health Board described the malady as resembling polio and yellow fever. He said it had been so quickly fatal at San Antonio that it had been impossible definitely to establish its symptoms.

Both cities planned widespread use of D.D.T. to kill disease-bearing insects.

Highways entering Nueces County were being patrolled and no person under 21 will be permitted to enter unless he is prepared to isolate himself at his home during the two-week period.

Those under 21 without residence in the county will not be permitted entrance. Added deputies were hired to assure complete and literal enforcement.

Dr. Edgerton said the disease might have been brought in by returning servicemen, themselves not afflicted but serving as carriers.

58 Nazi Operators At Mauthausen Doomed to Hang

Three Others Get Life; Every Official 'Responsible'

Dachau, Germany, May 13 —(AP)—A general military court today sentenced 58 operators of the notorious Mauthausen extermination camp to hang. Three others were given life terms.

The 61 defendants were sentenced after the United States court found them guilty of murdering thousands of victims imprisoned by the Nazis in persecution campaigns.

August Eigruber, gauleiter of the upper Danube region and dictator of much of upper Austria during the Nazi regime, took his sentence without emotion.

Other defendants paled. Some had to be helped from the courtroom by guards.

Completing the 38-day trial, the court said it had found an "irrefutable record of death by shootings, gassings, hangings and regulated starvation" which made every official "culpably and criminally responsible."

Abitibi Power, Paper Company Starts Life Anew

By ALEX PRINGLE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, May 13 —(CP)— The $120,000,000 Abitibi Power and Paper Company, Limited, is back under corporate management again after a 14-year convalescence under a $50,000-a-year disciplinarian — receiver and manager G. T. Clarkston — thus ending the longest receivership in Canadian history.

Future plans for the sprawling paper-making empire under its newly-won independence have not yet crystalized but directors say they are hopeful they will be able to make some announcement in a month or so.

The final act of the receivership drama was played out in the courts, where the company's affairs were the subject of litigation for many years, even being carried to the privy council. A few days ago final court approval was placed on the plan of reorganization advanced by the Hughes Commission, appointed by the present Ontario government.

Abitibi starts life anew with a working capital of possibly $20,000,000 or more and no pressing liabilities apart from a $53,093,700 five per cent bond issue, due in 1964.

The new capital setup, in addition to the bond issue, consists of 50,000 shares of preferred stock of $20 par value carrying a dividend rate of $2.50 a share cumulative from Jan. 1, 1945, and redeemable at the option of the company at $37.50 a share; 1,395,272 shares of preferred stock of $20 par value, carrying a dividend of $1.50 a share, cumulative from Jan. 1, 1947, and redeemable at the option of the company at $25 a share; and 1,241,694 common shares without nominal or par value.

Second of Two Gunmen Wanted By Police Held

Montreal, May 13 (CP)—Montreal police turned their activities to new fields today following the capture Saturday night of 27-year-old Jean Marcel Brunet, second of two gunmen who terrorized the city and district for a week and eluded capture a number of times after shooting it out with police. Brunet's companion in crime, Louis Arthur Levesque, 23, was felled by a police bullet Friday.

Police still had their hands full, however, as the city's fourth bombing in two weeks occurred Saturday night when a four-foot-square hole was blown in the roof of the Canada Malting Company garage on west end St. Ambroise Street as National Breweries bombings continued.

The Malting Company supplies National Breweries, where a partial strike has been in effect since March 28 over wage increases and shorter working hours. No injuries were suffered in any of the bombings which damaged company trucks and a railway terminal.

Sgt. Detective Joseph Bedard, who brought Brunet's career in crime to a close, took no chances as the two gunmen had shown no hesitation in shooting their way to freedom.

Recognizes Gunman

Bedard, recognizing Brunet in a crowd at the north-end intersection of St. Lawrence Boulevard and Mount Royal Avenue, moved up behind the gunman with drawn revolver.

"Raise your hands slowly, Ti-Mine," he said. "Don't make a false move or one of us will stay here and it won't be me. I have a gun on you."

Brunet, known as "Ti-Mine" to the underworld, hesitated and then raised his hands. Bedard slipped on the handcuffs, called a taxi and brought his prisoner in.

Meanwhile, Levesque fought for his life in hospital under police guard.

Dropped by a bullet in the chest from the gun of Detective Jerry Lawton, Levesque fought on and fired at Lawton, whose bullet-proof vest protected him. As he attempted to fire again at the detective, another policeman ran over his leg with an automobile.

The hunt for the two men had been on since April 29 when a jewelry store was robbed of $2,000. After that, police closed in on their quarry a number of times only to have the pair elude them.

Ile de France Lazily at Anchor 10 Mis. off Halifax

Halifax, May 13 (CP) — The 43,450-ton liner Ile de France swung lazily at anchor 10 miles off Halifax Harbor today, unable to enter port with 7,586 passengers until a dense fog lifted.

Scheduled to dock here early this morning, the big vessel arrived off the mouth of the harbor on time and had not taken aboard the pilot but visibility was too poor to proceed further. No definite time for docking was given, as any movement would have to await a change in weather conditions.

Aboard the Ile de France were 315 wives and children of Canadian servicemen and more than 7,000 navy, army and air force personnel.

EIGHT FAMILIES SUBSCRIBE $300 TO ANGLICAN APPEAL

The Anglican Advance Appeal campaign in the Parish of Shannonville got away to a good start when on Sunday afternoon at St. Jude's Church, Kingsford, the congregation of some eight families pledged and subscribed well over $300. There was no canvass and each family was present to donate their own voluntary gifts. The service was taken by the rector, Rev. C. P. Heaven. The congregation lustily sang the Doxology.

The offering was one hundred percent.

LARGE JACK RABBITS SEEN IN P. E. COUNTY

Jack rabbits, the size of full grown dogs (not St. Bernards) have again made their appearance in the fields of farms near Wellington, Prince Edward County.

On Sunday, a trio of the jacks were seen leaping and running in a field of new grain. The bunnies are living literally on the fat of the land, and are causing some damage to newly sprouted grain.

Travelling with the speed of greased lightning the big bunnies thwarted all efforts of a pair of hunters. A few shots were fired at the daylight marauders, but according to one of the hunters "the jacks were travelling three jumps ahead of the bullets and were pulling away from them."

TWO UNITED CHURCH MINISTERS AWARDED DIVINITY DEGREE

In the list of degrees awarded by Queen's University are the names of two United Church ministers of the Bay of Quinte conference who will receive the Bachelor of Divinity degree (B.D.) at the Spring convocation, May 18th.

They are Rev. Kenneth J. Crawford B.A., minister of the Enterprise charge, Belleville Presbytery and Frank J. Whitely B.A., of Peterborough Presbytery, Dryden, Ont., who will be ordained at the forthcoming annual conference at Napanee, being the only ones ordained in two years.

JOHN SHANNON RETIRES AFTER THIRTY YEARS IN GROCERY BUSINESS

After thirty years in the grocery trade in Belleville, John A. Shannon has sold his business at 335 Front Street to Mrs. C. F. Moore of Verdun, Que.

As a young man, Mr. Shannon went to western Canada and homesteaded in Saskatchewan near the Dakota border for several years, returning to his native city in 1908.

John, as he is known to all, is a highly respected citizen and, while still active, he feels that after spending so many years and often times long hours, he will now retire to his home on Ashley Street and enjoy a well earned rest.

MARMORA

Wind Blows Hat Off, Headgear Confiscated By Two in Car

Marmora — Mr. William Goodchild of Deloro, local hockey enthusiast, had an experience in Belleville on Thursday afternoon which he will not soon forget. Bill had gone to the city with his wife on a shopping expedition and with his arms full of parcels was returning to his car which was parked in the market square. An ill wind lifted his headgear and bore it over another parked car onto the road.

Simultaneously two youths were passing in a coupe and the driver stopping the car, confiscated the hat and drove off, leaving Bill bareheaded and bewildered for the moment. As it bore evidence of being a genuine theft, Bill felt there was nothing he could do about it, so hatless he walked a block up Belleville's Front Street to purchase another hat.

Fugitive Simians Frighten Tipplers From Tavern

New York, May 13. (AP) — Monkeys, monkeys and more monkeys— some 100 fugitives from a pet shop—made a jungle playground out of lower Manhattan for several hours.

Scampering simians climbed into open windows, frightening office workers, dashed over roof-tops and squealed in delight as they barged into stores.

In a firehouse the monkeys had a field day—swinging from apparatus, sliding down poles, and generally tormenting frustrated fireman, unaccustomed to chasing such wild life.

Midday tipplers in a tavern received unexpected stimulation — and some apprehension—when the jibbering animals entered, sampled some beer, and then turned to more potent libatons. Teh patrons left with checks unpaid.

Other monkeys swung nimbly from ledge to ledge high on the Hudson Manhattan Railroad terminal building. One little monkey plunged 12 stories from another building and was killed.

The animals had just arrived at Henry Treffich's pet store from their jungle habitat when they made their escape.

A cage in the fifth-floor monkey house was left open briefly. The animals scurried out, opening the doors of other cages to allow their companions to greet the new world en masse.

Within a few moments they were out the windows, swarming over Fulton, Church, Greenwich and Vesey Streets.

More than 3,000 dazed spectators watched the antics as police, firemen and agents of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, armed with nets, formed a posse to track down the invaders.

Ten squirming monkeys were captured in the firehouse, 30 in historic St. Paul's Chapel cemetery, a grocer trapped 40 in his store, and two were nabbed in a laundry bag in the tavern.

The others continued their frolicking through the streets and buildings before their ultimate capture.

Five Accidents Over Weekend

No less than five minor accidents occurred in the city over the weekend as motorists were involved in a series of fender clashes in which there were fortunately no personal injuries.

Edward J. McQuaid, R.R.1, Belleville, was turning onto Campbell Street from Front Street when another motorist forced him to swerve and he struck a parked auto belonging to Mr. J. Bothwell. The motorist who forced Mr. McQuaid to swerve, turned around at the A. and P. gangway and left the scene of the accident.

Miss Jean Fairman, 325 Charles Street, was driving south on Front Street when in turning left onto Bridge Street her car was in collision with another proceeding north and driven by Lawrence Watson, 174 Mary Street.

Mr. Jack Wagar, 369 Charles Street was driving toward the city on the Bay Bridge Road when near the railway track his car was in collision with another driven by Harold Davison of Kingston, while on Pinnacle St., Mrs. Irene Ketcheson, Foxboro, backed her car from the curb and struck another being driven by Jack Grotto.

Monday morning James M. Clarke, R.R. 7, Belleville, was proceeding west along Moira St. West following a truck owned by the Diamond Construction Company, Gordon Street. Clarke stated he thought the truck was stopping at a gas station on the left side of the street and went to pass on the right when the driver swung his vehicle to make a right hand turn onto Gordon St. Damage of approximately $65.00 resulted, it was stated by police.

CONDUCTOR KILLED

Mt. Union, Pa., May 10 —(AP)—Two locomotives plowed into the rear of a freight train a half mile east of here early today, killing a conductor and tying up traffic on four Pennsylvania railroad tracks.

The victim was C. F. Blazier, conductor on the freight.

The crash occurred after the 110-car freight halted on an eastbound track just outside this west central Pennsylvania community.

Allan McCrimmon Disappears From Home on Sunday

Point Traverse —(Special)— Provincial police heading a large posse of bloodhound-equipped farmers and neighbors, today flung a cordon around the swampy marshland near the farm of Allan McCrimmon, 35, prominent Milford farmer, who has been missing from his home since 9.30 Sunday morning.

Tracks leading to the swamp from the McCrimmon home have given police belief that McCrimmon wandered from his house to the marsh and disappeared. An all-day search of the neighboring district on Sunday revealed no trace of the missing man.

McCrimmon was last seen entering his home shortly before nine o'clock Sunday and is believed to have laid down in the living room. His wife and four children were away at the time.

He was not at home when they returned and his failure to put in an appearance late in the day, caused the family to turn in an alarm.

Provincial Police took charge of operations and a large crowd of neighbors and residents of South Marysburg township joined in the hunt for the missing man. Later tracks were found leading from the house to the marshy swamp located at the rear of the McCrimmon farm.

Today an organized search got under way and a large crowd of residents are combing the countryside, aided by bloodhounds.

McCrimmon is said to have been in a melancholy frame of mind during the past few days. Schools of the immediate district were closed this morning, and school children and teachers are aiding in the search.

Garn Dobbs Will Devote His Time To Burner Sales

Mr. Garn. E. Dobbs, erstwhile head of the Garn. E. Dobbs, Plumbing, Heating and Sheet Metal Company here, who recently disposed of his business to Mr. Warren Jones, of this city, will not retire from active life but will devote his time to the sale and installation of oil burners, he announced today.

With 31 years plumbing and heating experience behind him, Mr. Dobbs is well equipped for his vocation. For it was in 1915 that he established the business, one of the oldest of its kind in the city, that will in the future be known as the "Dobbs Plumbing and Heating Ltd."

Mr. Dobbs first became linked with the plumbing and heating business in 1905 when he became associated with the firm of the late William McGie with whom he remained for seven years. He then joined the staff of the Fred Armstrong Company Ltd., Toronto, and remained with it for four years.

Returning to Belleville he established his own business in 1915, later joining the army. He went overseas and served for 4 years, seeing active service with the 21st Battalion C.E.F.

Mr. Dobbs is a native son of Belleville, one of the family of the late Edward and Mrs. Dobbs. He has always taken an active interest in music and has been a member of the Belleville Municipal Band for the past 31 years. He is also an associate member of the Belleville Ex-Kilties Association.

C. T. Stevenson Given Cane By Staff Inspectors

Mr. C. T. Stevenson, senior Fruit and Vegetable Inspector for Eastern Ontario, who is being retired from active duty on Wednesday May 15, was presented with a handsome cane by members of a staff conference of district inspectors, in the Chateau Laurier last week.

The staff inspectors, representative for districts in all parts of the Dominion made the presentation through Mr. Karl Konger, of the head office staff, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Federal Department of Agriculture.

Last week, Mr. Stevenson was presented with handsome gifts following a testimonial dinner proffered him by inspectors of Ontario and members of his staff. He will retire to his home in Wellington at the completion of 23 years service with the Federal Government.

POLICE BLOTTER

Whether or not the break-ins were made by the same parties, persons responsible for breaking and entering both Reid's Dairy and Grills' Dairy over the weekend seemed to be strong for fountain pens. Two pens were taken from both offices, while in the former case a few dollars in cash was also reported missing. Entrance was gained through a side window while the party left by the rear door.

Residents in the South John Street district took exception on Sunday to the noise of a potential home owner who was taking advantage of his day away from work to do a bit of carpentry work on the house which he has under construction. Police warned the carpenter to desist.

Theft from a back-yard clothes line was reported by a Coleman Street resident who complained a pair of trousers were missing from his line. A local department store complained that shoplifting had been noticed and asked for police investigation.

The usual number of inebriates were apprehended over the weekend, while several motorists were checked for running through 'stop' streets without bringing their cars to a full stop.

Obituary

WILLIAM HARVEY HART

William Harvey Hart died suddenly at his home, 67 Burton Street, on Saturday afternoon. He was working about his place for some time and on returning to the house he was seized with a heart attack and died immediately. He was known to have a heart condition. His death occurred just three months to the day after the sudden death of his brother, Fred Hart.

The late Mr. Hart, who was in his 72nd. year, was born at Rossmore, Prince Edward County, and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Montrose Hart. For some years he lived in the township where he was born and for the past forty-six years he resided in this city where he was well known as a painter and decorator.

William Hart was much interested in band music and was an excellent player on the clarinet. For fifty years he was associated with Belleville bands and was a life member of the Belleville Municipal Band. At the age of seventeen years he was a member of the bugle band in connection with the Argyll Light Infantry. He was a member of Holloway Street United Church and fraternally he was a member of Eureka Lodge No. 283 A.F. & A.M.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Mary Ann Richardson; one daughter, Mrs. Frank Rayfield, Belleville. A son Ernest died in 1925.

Resting at the Pinkston Funeral Home, Church Street, at Victoria Avenue; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

IRA EDMOND HILL

Ira Edmond Hill, formerly of Purdy Street, Belleville, died in the Queen Alexander Sanitarium, London, Ontario, on Saturday evening, May 11th. His illness was of three years' duration.

The late Mr. Hill was thirty-six years of age and was a son of Mrs. Florence Hill and the late Frederick Hill. His mother now resides in Peterboro. For about twenty-five years he lived in this city and was at one time employed at the Corbin Lock plant. He was a member of the United Church.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Marion Foster; his mother; two sons, Kenneth, ten years of age, and Archie, age five years; two sisters, Mrs. Ross Melbourne, Peterboro, and Mrs. Walter Wightman, Belleville; two brothers, Ervin of Peterboro, and Archie of Belleville.

Resting at the Martin Funeral Home, Church Street; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

The funeral of Joanne Arthea Lancaster, age three years, who died in Guelph on Friday last, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Lancaster, formerly of Belleville, took place from the Martin Funeral Home, Church Street, on Sunday afternoon. The service in the chapel and at Foxboro Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. C. V. Freeman, pastor of the Alliance Tabernacle.

The bearers were Ray Worrell, Mossman Lancaster, Morris Dent and Lawrence Dent.

King Equals Political Record of Younger Pitt

Ottawa, May 13. (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King left on the first leg of his trip to London, Sunday—the day on which he equalled the political record of the younger William Pitt.

Like the famous British prime minister, Mr. King had today served his country as government leader for 18 years, 11 months and three days.

Pitt served from December 23, 1783 until March 17, 1801 and from May 15, 1804, to January 23, 1806. Mr. King served from December 29, 1921, to June 28, 1926 from September 25, 1926, to August 7, 1930, and from October 23, 1935 to the present.

Mr. King on June 7 will have equalled the longest term of service of any Empire prime minister —that of Sir John A. Macdonald, who served from July 1, 1867, to November 6, 1873, and from October 17, 1878, to June 6, 1891.

ITALIAN KING-DESIGNATE AND ROYAL HEIRS

A new family portrait, taken in the palace gardens at Rome, shows King-designate Humbert II of Savoy and Princess Jose of Belgium with their four children. Prince Victor Emmanuel, Princess Maria Pia, little Princess Mary Beatrice and Princess Mary Gabriella. Taking over the reins of government on the abdication of his father, King Victor Emmanuel, the king-designate declared that he will abide by the decision of the people in a June 2 referendum to determine the future of the monarchy.

School Girl Dies of Injuries After Running into Side of Truck

Running into the side of a passing truck as she was about to cross the road in front of Salem school house in Ameliasburgh township, eight-year-old Marilyn Wannamaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Wannamaker, R.R.1 Consecon, suffered fatal injuries this morning and died while being taken to Belleville hospital.

The truck which struck the young girl was driven by Ross Snider of Mountain View, who was on his way to Mountain View cheese factory as he was running his morning milk route.

With a number of other school children the young girl was standing on the south side of the road across from the school house near a pile of sawdust which was burning. Just as the truck passed the school teacher, Mrs. Earl Walt, rang the nine o'clock bell and the girl started across the road and ran into the side of the truck.

Driver of the truck stated he was driving only approximately 10 miles per hour and thought that all the children had seen his approaching truck.

An inquest has been ordered by Crown Attorney Gordon Walmsley.

Violent Deaths During Weekend Total Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Seven violent deaths took place in Eastern Canada during the weekend and one man is missing after a canoe overturned. Four of the deaths were in traffic accidents, one was a drowning, a Montreal man was asphyxiated and another died from a bullet wound he suffered in demonstrating how he would commit suicide.

Two highway deaths were in Ontario and two in Nova Scotia. Oscar Fosso, 24, Finland, Ont., lumberman, was killed and two others injured Saturday night when a truck went out of control on the highway near Emo, Ont. Mrs. Margaret Sowton, 40, of Toronto, died when the car in which she was riding collided with a radial car just north of Toronto.

Walking along the highway near Lunenburg, N.S., Mrs. Augusta Hiltz was struck and killed by a car. At Shelburne, N.S., Joseph Gribb died in a traffic accident. The drowning was at Halifax, where Herman Harper, shipyard worker, died in the water of Ship Harbor.

In the other water accident, William Gallagher, 26, returned from overseas only two weeks ago, disappeared when his canoe overturned.

The other two deaths were at Montreal, Jean Guindon who was shot while demonstrating jokingly to companions how he would commit suicide, died in hospital.

Canadian Legion Holds Meeting

The regular Executive Committee of the above branch of the Canadian Legion was held on Thursday evening in the club rooms when various matters of interest to the board and the community were discussed.

The most important issue before the meeting was the current housing situation. This "branch's resolution to the city council requesting that all building permits other than residences and dwellings be temporarily stayed", and the city council's reply of May 8, 1946 stating in part "that it would not be possible to comply with their recommendation under present conditions without greatly hampering industrial development and creating a very serious unemployment condition."

Sent to Convention

In view of the fact that the housing situation generally is to be a predominant subject at the forthcoming Dominion Convention of the Canadian Legion B.E.S.I. It was decided that the local branch would furnish the convention with the results of their effort on the housing question together with a copy of its resolution to the city council and the city council's reply.

Another item of vital interest was the Model Shows which are to appear in Belleville from May 13 to 18th, 1946. Arrangements were also completed for the appearance of Ellis McClintock and his band on Thursday May 23, which is well known as one of Canada's outstanding dance bands.

Comb Sask. District For Escaped Convict

Prince Albert, Sask., May 13—(CP)—Prison guards, city police and R.C.M.P. today combed the Prince Albert district for James Clarke, 23-year-old convict who escaped Sunday from the Saskatchewan penitentiary here.

He was serving a five-year term for manslaughter, a sentence he received in 1943 after his conviction in connection with the knife-slaying of Tpr. E. A. Clifford, 19, of Hamilton, Ont.

The original charge was murder, but an assize court jury reduced it to manslaughter.

Clifford was killed at Dundurn, Sask., military camp, where Clarke was a soldier. He was stabbed during an altercation over remarks he was alleged to have made concerning a school teacher to whom Clarke had been paying attention."

Clarke had been working in the piggery, which is outside the penitentiary enclosure, and a check-up disclosed he had disappeared from the job around 3:30 p.m.

CROWN INSISTS

He read from paragraph six:—"There must be eliminated for all time the authority and influence of those who have deceived and misled the people of Japan into embarking on world conquest . . ."

As Mr. Keenan spoke of the "pillage, murder and plunder" which he said the 28 defendants had caused, he was interrupted by Chief Justice Sir William Webb, who asked:

"Do you think those rhetorical phrases are fitting at this time?" Mr. Keenan replied that he had no desire to let the defence's contentions go unchallenged.

Kiyose took a different view of the Potsdam declaration.

Under its terms, he said, the Allies could prosecute all war criminals guilty of violating accepted laws and customs of war. But he argued no provision was made for charges included in the present indictment which hold the defendants responsible for inciting war and for mistreatment of Allied peoples.

Mr. Justice Webb delivered a second admonition to Mr. Keenan when the prosecutor asked permission to read excerpts from a 1942 radio address by President Roosevelt, which he said showed an early Allied intent to bring to justice Axis leaders and henchmen for inciting war.

The statement added that the Mission and the Viceroy, Lord Wavell, would go to Delhi tomorrow and would issue a statement in a few days on "the next steps to be taken."

The joint communique by the Mission and the two Indian factions said "No use would be served by further discussions and that therefore the conference should be brought to a conclusion."

Failed to Save Parley

Even a face-to-face talk between M. A. Jinnah, Moslem League president, and Jawaharlal Nehru, president-elect of the Congress Party, failed to save the conference.

The negotiators had come to Simla from New Delhi to escape the spring heat, and had been meeting in a ladge of Lord Wavell, on a high hill overlooking the city.

Nehru was the last of the Congress delegation to leave the lodge last night. He paused long enough to tell newspapermen that "the negotiations go on forever, but this particular conference is ended."

Coal Mining 'Wasting Industry' Because New Collieries Not Built

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Cardiff, Wales, May 13 —(CP) —Coal mining in Britain is a "wasting industry" despite vast deposits still untouched, but it can be revived with proper methods of reorganization, says Arthur Horner, president of the South Wales area of the National Union of Mineworkers.

"It's a wasting industry because no new colliers have been sunk in Britain for 13 years," the former mine worker said in an interview in the South Wales area headquarters.

"This suspension between the past and the future, when nationalization takes effect, is a bit of a devil. The owners can't be expected to do any development work when they don't know what's what.

"Thanks to the nationalization bill we expect to spend £120,000,000 ($534,000,000) on development in five years. We're going to have to modernize and produce at the same time. It can be done by taking a group of pits, closing some for reorganization, and using the production workers from those in others."

There is no shortage of coal in South Wales. Statistics indicate there are 500,000,000 tons at workable depths — enough for at least 100 years.

Shortage of Labor.

"But there is a shortage of labor," says Mr. Horner. "We should employ 150,000, men but have 107,000. Forty thousand men were lost from the pits in 1940 alone when the fall of France wiped out the French market.

"Under present conditions no miner sends his son to the pits if he has elsewhere to send him. For one thing, there's the fear of silicosis — 5,113 cases last year.

"But the men are politically conscious and if they are shown that it is to their advance in the long run to work in the pits, they will come forward."

Mr. Horner enters the British coal picture in two days — his recent appointment as chief advisory officer of the production council, charged with stimulating coal output, and as member of the Mineworkers' Union which is demanding that the government endorse a "miner's charter" to guarantee vast improvements in the industry.

No Commitments.

Fuel Minister Shinwell has made no specific commitments on the various demands of the charter, which include modernization; a system of training and promotion; guarantees that victims of industrial disease will not suffer financial loss; guarantees that mine wages will not fall behind wage rates in other industries; two weeks' summer holidays with pay; a guaranteed wage for each man; new safety laws to meet changed conditions underground; guarantees that no living conditions are planned around new pits, objective being to get villages away from the mines; compulsory medical examinations, with guarantees that those found unfit for mine work be paid while being trained for other jobs; pensions after 55; a five-day week with six days pay for day workers as well as for afternoon and night shifts.

Aussie City Plans $90,000,000 Subway

By JACK HOLDSWORTH
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Sydney, Australia, May 13 (CP) —Second largest white city in the empire and the largest in Austria, Sydney is to have an electric underground railway system which will rival those operating in other empire cities.

The underground system will be linked up with existing rail track to provide all the metropolitan area with a comprehensive and fast service. About 20 miles of new track will be constructed at a cost of more than $90,000,000. There will also be 19 underground stations.

Experts estimate that the new track will provide a rail service for the 500,000 Sydneysiders living in the eastern, southeastern and southern suburbs, who now are dependent on bus and tram transport.

They point out that it will do much to relieve the serious congestion on surface transport, particularly in areas near the city where the density of population is greater than that in central New York.

Construction of the system will begin before the end of this year, and is expected to be complete in seven years. It will be undertaken by the railway department, a state government concern, which already has plans laid for the survey work and land resumption required.

One section of the new service will provide train travel to sports grounds, beaches and a racecourse, which will relieve surface transport during carnivals at those places.

Twice Shipwrecked In 77 Years at Sea

Shoreham-by-the-Sea, England, May 13 (CP) — Harry Reeves, twice shipwrecked during 77 years at sea, died in this Sussex town at 92. He was first wrecked in the Humber after a voyage from New Zealand. His second adventure was off Yarmouth Roads.

On his last birthday he walked quarter of a mile to record his vote in the county council elections. He was a member of the Shoreham lifeboat crew and belonged to the Ancient Order of Forresters for 70 years.

POLICE CAREER TOPS FOR GALS SAYS LADY COP

It's Hard Work But Satisfying Says New York's Mary Sullivan Retiring After 35 Years' Service

By ADELAIDE KERR

New York, May 13 (AP) —The blond sat in the Hell's Kitchen police station on a bitter Winter day in 1911, wrapped in sealskins and silence. Days of grilling had failed to shake her stony calm or extract a word of evidence concerning a dope smuggler's murder. The inspector, exasperated, strode out to the matron's desk.

"I wish you'd talk to that dame and see if you can't get something out of her," he said to Mary Agnes Sullivan, named for a nun, born a Sullivan, widow of a Sullivan and former travelling saleswoman, who became a police matron so that she could live in New York with her small daughter.

Mary Sullivan walked into the room, sat down beside the blond, talked to her woman to woman and gradually pulled from her the evidence that convicted the slayer. Thus—in a day when there were no New York police women—was born the career of America's best known policewoman, who retired in mid-April, after 35 years' service as Director of the New York Policewoman's Bureau of 195 lady cops.

"And may there be many more policewomen—not only in New York, but all over the world," says 64-year-old Mollie Sullivan, who springs from a family of policemen and holds three honor medals for distinguished detective service. It's a fine career for a woman. Of course it's no job for anybody who's simply seeking ecitement, because you have to work hard and always be on your toes. But you have the satisfaction of knowing you're adjusting homes and helping mend lives.

Good Detectives.

"A number of our policewomen are assigned to the missing persons or juvenile aid bureaus, the pickpocket, shoplifting or narcotic squads. Women make fine detectives because of their intuition, their understanding of human nature and their patience. They try to prevent crime as well as control it."

At the time she resigned her saleswoman job to become a policewomen, her old boss said in horror, "That's no job for a lady." Since then Mary Sullivan has been in many a spot that was no place for a lady.

She had herself committed to jail on a false charge in order to scrape acquaintance with a suspected murderer and collect the circumstantial evidence on which she was later convicted. She lived for weeks with a ganster's opium-smoking moll to collect information on the murder of Herman Rosenthal, shot down in front of a New York hotel. She moved into the suite of a killer's wife to learn her peculiarities of speech—and later mimicked her on the telephone so well that she learned the killer's hideout and thus brought about his arrest.

The most hair-raising of her experiences were the evenings she spent in a Harlem dive to collect evidence on a white slaver. Wearing mulatta make-up, decked in dime store jewelry and accompanied by a Negro "boy friend," she gave the signal that filled the house with detectives. So perfect was her makeup that, when she entered the station house later with the prisoners, the captain failed to recognize her and said, after one look at her gaudy array, "Stand over there, lady, and keep quiet."

After a life like that you might expect Mrs. Sullivan, now a grandmother, to stay "retired." Instead she is going back to work. This time on the radio, where she expects to appear in a crime series.

Queensland to Probe Paralysis Treatment

Brisbane, Australia, May 13 — (CP) — The Queensland government has ordered an investigation into the Sister Kenny treatment of infantile paralysis.

Sister Kenny, an Australian nurse, asked for the investigation on her return to Brisbane after five years in America.

Her treatment has not been accorded full medical recognition in either Australia or America. She formed the Kenny Institute in America and interested the late President Roosevelt, a paralysis victim, in her methods.

FIRST OVERHAUL IN YEARS

Edinburgh (CP)—Forth Bridge is having its first overhaul for 25 years. There will be short night breaks in rail traffic till the end of 1947.

New Zealand Raises Volunteer Brigade

Auckland, N.Z., May 13 (CP) — New Zealand veterans of the Second Great War have shown little eagerness to rejoin the army to become part of the occupation force for Japan. New Zealand's share of the British occupation force is a brigade group, including supporting arms, and an air force fighter squadron.

Both formations are already in Japan, but the brigade group is composed of men drafted from the famous 2nd. Division, which fought with the 8th. Army from El Alamein through the African and Italian campaigns to Trieste. They are due to be brought home for discharge in July and a voluntary force is being raised in New Zealand to replace them.

The relief force now is in training but is still not up to strength. It had been hoped to send only single men, but as insufficient have volunteered, married men now are being sent to camp.

Only a small proportion of the volunteers have previously served overseas. Most of them are young men, from 18 to 21, who were too young to serve during the war.

The chief shortage is in officers, and unless further volunteers come forward it may be necessary to retain in Japan some of the permanent force officers serving with the brigade group which is already there.

GASOLINE AND THE BIBLE

Bloemfontaine (CP) — When a resident in the Winburg district of the Orange Free State who applied for a permit to purchase five gallons of gasoline was informed that the gasoline control was lifted, he appeared very surprised. He told his informant that as he had no wireless and received no newspapers he was unaware of the lifting of the control. He said the only book he read was the Bible.

TRENTON

Car is Stolen, Soon Returned

Trenton — On Saturday last Percy Carr of Brighton reported the theft of his car, which he left parked on Murphy Street. The car was seen proceeding north on Front Street and later some electrical equipment which was in the rear seat and valued at $80 was found in a ditch near the C.N.R. subway.

About midnight Saturday thieves returned the car to the same spot from which it was stolen.

College Changes Hands.

Trenton Business College, formerly operated by Mrs. Ted Orrell, has been taken over by Miss V. T. Jones of Toronto. Miss Jones is particularly capable in business college teaching procedure, having been principal of Gregg Business College, Toronto, far two years, and also teaching classes for six years. While no radical changes are planned for the present, the new principal will gradually introduce the latest and most up-to-date innovations in business education.

Constable Donald Cooper of the C.P.R. and Constable George Crawford of the Trenton police force recently attended an executive meeting of the Police Association of Ontario, held at the Kirby House Hotel, Brantford, as delegates of the Quinte District Police Association.

Postal Rule Stops Letters to Uncle

Cardiff, Wales, May 13 (CP) — Margaret Griffiths, 22, is a subpostmistress at Nantybwch, Monmouthshire, but cannot write her uncle, Health Minister Aneurin Bevan.

At a conference of sub-postmasters she supported a resolution asking elimination of a rule forbidding sub-postmasters to write members of parliament.

Royal "Shadow" Wins Production

London, May 13 (CP) — The Royal Family has lost one of its most faithful "shadows." John Herbert Giles has been promoted chief inspector with the Metropolitan Police.

For years Inspector Giles, a discreetly self-effacing man, fair-haired and moustached, has been a "personal police attendant" responsible for the safety of Royal persons on public occasions. One of his last jobs was to accompany the King and Queen to Khaki University of Canada at Leavesden, Hertfordshire.

During his association with royalty, said Inspector Giles, he "never had a moment's trouble," never had to intervene physically between his charges and their admirers, never made an arrest. At 63 with more than two decades police work under his belt, he looks back with pride on four separate spells as a Royal shadow—in 1931-32 when the Duke of Windsor (then Prince of Wales) on his South African tour; in 1934-35 with the King and Queen (as Duke and Duchess of York); in 1936 with the Duke and Duchess of Kent in Germany, Austria and other parts of Europe, and from 1937 until now on general duty with the Royal Family.

"The Queen," he said, "is a woman in a million—in many millions." The Princesses, although they are growing up, are still "charming children."

WOMAN IS KILLED

Fort Erie, May 13 (CP) —Mrs. Edward McHugh, Hamilton, was killed Saturday when an automobile, driven by her husband, plunged through a guard rail on the Lake Shore road and over a 12-foot embankment.

Her husband is in hospital suffering from lacerations and shock. Police are investigating.

Brokers' Licences Cancelled

Toronto, May 11 — (CP) — C. P. McTague, chairman on the Ontario Securities Commission, yesterday announced cancellation of the registrations of two Toronto brokerage houses, A. E. DePalma and Company and K. V. Gamble and Company, and of the registration of J. K. Gamble of Toronto as a salesman. In the cases of the two brokerage houses, the Commission has applied for and received receivership orders.

Britain's Health Improved

Britain with all her restrictions in time of war is improved in health according to Sir Wilson Jameson, chief medical officer in the British Ministry of Health. This is seen especially in the vital statistics which show that the country has reached the lowest neo-natal or first month death rate and the lowest mother mortality and the lowest still-born rate in its history. The death rate for one-year-olds has been lowered to 46 per thousand.

These conditions he explains as due to the extra food given the expectant mothers and children during the war period.

Canada came in for praise for what she has done in the work of sending food to Britain and on the excellence of the scientific work carried on in the Dominion.

The Canadian Red Cross is also praised for its service and the donation of a hospital which Sir Wilson called "a wonderful gift," in an interview at Montreal.

Sir Wilson also pointed to the high health record held by Canada saying "when we see what you have done in these things we ask ourselves why we cannot do the same and then we put on a fresh spurt."

The noted Briton remarked that he favored as much official "coming and going" between Canada and Britain for theh good of both countries as possible.

So Britain's achievements during the war were accordingly not only in the leadership she gave the United Nations, the sacrifices her people made in so many ways, but also in the improvement of the health of her people as they struggled through the conflict against Fascism and Nazism.

Netherlands and Britain

Holland is studying the British cadet system and this year sent a committee of her army officers, members of parliament, educationists and trade unions officials to make a tour of British army cadet units. The purpose is to form a Netherlands cadet force along similar lines. The British army has been taken as the model for the new Dutch army. The people of the Netherlands are also discussing the remodelling of Dutch education on British public school lines.

Democratic Britain, which has stood for liberty and democracy for many centuries has exerted a powerful influence upon the world. Everyone knows what she did in the last war by the leadership she gave the world of free men. Her influence cannot but be felt to the farthest part of the earth. From the earliest days when she began to play a role among the nations, she attracted the attention of the world and has since held that place of prominence. Magna Carta is the great guarantee of British liberty. The people of the United States also look upon that charter as a great charter of freedom as do freemen everywhere throughout the world.

It is interesting to note this friendship of the Dutch people for Britain. They are neighbors across the Channel. Holland has herself given the world an example of heroism in many a period of great trial and tribulation. Every schoolboy can remember the old story of Little Peter who saved Holland by plugging his hand into a hole in the dyke which gave rise to the poem which contains the lines:

> "As long as the dykes of Holland
> Divide the land from the sea."

Holland has fought against tyranny and she has fought the ocean, in both efforts she has been victor.

This cross-Channel admiration is mutual. Britain gave freely of her military strength and her goods to aid the Dutch. And the British have been delighted with the many charming ways in which the Dutch have shown their gratitude for their help, such as the bouquet of flowers sent to H. M. Queen Elizabeth. A gift of many thousand tulips is now attracting crowds in the London parks. A recent letter in The Times speaks of the grateful remarks heard on all sides. On April 29th the first anniversary of the dropping of food by the R.A.F. was marked by a bouquet of flowers and a message from the Chief of the Air Staff, Air Marshal Lord Tedder, dropped from a Lancaster over Holland. A message from Queen Wilhelmina said: "I thank you most sincerely for your message and for the lovely English flowers dropped by the same planes which a year ago brought so-much-needed food supplies and I greatly appreciate your good wishes for me and my people, who will never forget that the R.A.F. stood by them in the hour of greatest need. The friendship between you and us, born in the dark days of war, will be an enduring one."

Britain's great wartime leader Winston Churchill the other day chose to make before The Netherlands parliament his speech in which he advocated the formation of a United States of Europe. Any step that will extend the bounds of freedom wider yet will please the people of heroic Holland. Mr. Churchill could have selected no more appropriate body to hear his address than the parliament of The Netherlands.

This Merry May

Though atmospheric conditions in the merry month of May are not what are usual because the cool spell is decidedly unusual, nevertheless many motorists enjoyed the weekend in the countryside while hundreds of citizens were out walking on Sunday despite the chill in the air.

May is the month of flowers as Milton calls it in his "Ode on May Morning:"

> "Now the bright morning star, day's harbinger,
> Comes dancing from the east and leads with her
> The flowery May, who from her green lap > throws,
> The yellow cowslip and the pale primrose.
> Hail bounteous May, that dost inspire,
> Mirth, and youth, and warm desire."

Market on Saturday carried marks of spring not only with the rhubarb but with deep colors of the marsh marigold.

This season is late and has been withholding much in the way of mild weather but it has been blessed with rain.

Commercial Weatherman

The weatherman, thanks to a lot of experience during the war, is about to branch out and provide us with a great deal more than our main topic of conversation. He is going into business—big business.

War-developed techniques will enable a bakery to know how much bread to produce on a given day; a steam generating plant to know how much of its reserve power to make use of; an electric utility to know how much power will be needed, and so on. The bakery will save money by knowing in advance whether it will be the kind of day housewives will go to the stores in large or small numbers, the electric utility will know about how early the lights will be turned on.

Much of the basic information which business and industry can find profitably used is, of course, already available from the official government weather forecasters but the government men do not have the time or facilities for analyzing the information to fit the needs of the individual concerns. That is where the commercial weather forecaster will come in.

Gallant Men in Train Crews

In handing out well-deserved bouquets for war services some of the forgotten men are train crews of the C.N.R. and C.P.R., who day in and day out for years handled thousands of tons of high explosives without a disaster. These railway men delivered the munitions of war when and where they were needed and were constantly in the "danger zone." So a salute to a gallant group of soldiers whose services did much in helping to win the war.

MEMORY

"Ah," said memory one day:
"Never try to run away.
Seek it land or sky or sea,
There is no escape from me.

"Wheresoever you may go
I shall follow, high or low.
As you choose to walk or ride,
I shall journey at your side.

"From the moment that you wake
I am one you can't forsake.
And, it may be when you sleep,
In your dreaming I may creep.

"I'm your memory, and so
All through life with you I go.
Even though you wish to flee:
There is no escape from me."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

MAY 13th., 1926

Mrs. Ward, of Toronto, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Allan Ketcheson, Albert Street.

Miss Katherine Gallagher, nurse-in-training at the Kingston General Hospital, spent the weekend with relatives here.

Mrs. S. J. Wedden, Miss Norma Wedden and Miss Ethel Turner were in Kingston yesterday attending graduation exercises. Miss B. Barlow, Miss L. Wedden and Miss M. Francis of this city were among the graduates.

The Night Hawks were hosts at a very enjoyable dance in the Moose Auditorium last evening. Excellent music was furnished by the Bon Ton Orchestra.

Shareholders of the Bennett Mining Company will visit the property on May 22nd. They will travel by special train.

Miss Martha Hamilton has returned home after spending six months with her sister in Vancouver.

30 YEARS AGO

MAY 13th., 1916

A beaver was captured recently in a farm yard in Rawdon township by driving it into a sack. The place where it was captured is fully two miles from the nearest stream.

On the farm of W. A. Asselstine at Asselstine's Hill, southeast of Marlbank, a mare gave birth to a three-legged colt, one front leg being missing. The colt is in good health, can run about the field and handle itself almost as well as a four-legged colt.

Allan Meagher and Hugh Ferguson, of the Belleville High School, have obtained positions in the local offices of the G.T.R. This makes three of this year's graduating commercial class who have obtained positions during the past six months, the other one being Seaward Modeland, who is now in the service of the Standard Bank here.

40 YEARS AGO

MAY 13th., 1906

Mr. Paul Taugher, of the G.T.R. offices at Portland, Me., is home on a visit.

The Rev. Fred H. Howard, S.T.L., of Cordova, has accepted an invitation to become pastor of the Rednersville Circuit of the Methodist Church for the year 1906.

Mr. Thomas Cox, who has been a member of the Belleville Fire Brigade No. 2 Company for thirty-five years, has severed his connection with the brigade and will leave here to reside in Hamilton. Recently at the fire hall a handsome cane accompanied by an address was presented to Mr. Cox. Ald. Cooper, chairman of the fire committee, Chief Campbell and Assistant Chief Cummins were present.

50 YEARS AGO

MAY 13th., 1896

The members of the Y.M.C.A. Road Club will have a run tomorrow evening.

Mr. Fred Ford is erecting a two-storey brick house on Sinclair Street.

Mr. W. S. Conger spent yesterday in Brockville.

Mr. D. O. Roblin went to Brockville today.

Mr. W. Jeffers Diamond is attending a meeting of the Ground Council of the Royal Arcanum at Niagara Falls.

Mr. John Stokes, Returning Officer for East Hastings, is in the city on official business.

Lieut.-Col. W. N. Ponton, Lt. Hulme and Color-Sergt. Marsh went to Peterborough today to make final arrangements for the visit of the 15th. Regiment to that city on May 24th.

Capital Closeups

Ottawa, May 11 —(CP)— A retired navy officer of flag rank hung his pruning shears and left his Ottawa rose garden long enough the other day to give this column what he said was the true now-it-can-be-told story of the plans of the British fleet in the dark days of 1941.

He had read an article in a popular weekly magazine (Saturday Evening Post) in which the author indicated that at one time Gaspe harbor was prepared to receive a British fleet evacuation from Britain when that country was invaded.

The retired officer didn't want his name used but he did want all the facts given. He said that Canadian naval planners at that time were trying to get a money vote for the expensive project of providing a U-boat net at the entrance to Gaspe harbor. To reenforce their argument they spoke of the possibility of the use of that good anchorage by the British fleet if it was forced to retire from European waters.

"To add weight to our argument we wired the Admiralty and asked them if they wouldn't like the Gaspe anchorage in case they had to withdraw," he recounted. "Their reply was that the British fleet would never withdraw but intended to stay and fight it out even though every ship was sunk."

The net was finally voted, however, and served its purpose when U-boat wolf packs attacked in force in the St. Lawrence estuary.

Entente Cordaile: A move to popularize French in parliamentary circles has won an all-party following and a mixed non-partisan group dines together each Wednesday and speaks only in the French language.

Prime movers in the French dinner idea were David Fulton and Don Fleming of the Progressive Conservative party, Louis Beaudoin and Jean Lesage of the Liberals and George Castleden and Mrs. Gladys Strum of the C.C.F. party.

"Anybody slow in picking up the language, just points," Mr. Beaudoin explained with a grin.

One-Time Numbers Racket King Is Abducted

Chicago, May 13 (AP)—Police have admitted they are perplexed as to motife for the reported adduction of Edward P. Jones, 48, wealthy Negro, alleged one-time numbers racket king of Chicago.

Police hief Ray rane said ne first believed, after Jones' wife, Lydia, reported her husband had been kidnapped on the couth side Saturday night, that Jones was being held for ransom.

But since no ransom note has been received, Chief Crane said, "it seems likely the kidnappers had another object, but I haven't been able to learn what it is."

Police said Mrs. Jones told this story:

Mr. Jones, part owner of a variety store, was being driven home with his wife and the store's cashier. Jones' chauffeur stopped in front of the cashier's home to let her out.

A black and maroon sedan drew up and two white, masked gunmen slugged Jones and forced him into their car. Two other men were waiting in the abductors' car. As they drove off, Jones' chauffeur followed, summonding a police squad car.

Police said the squad car gave up the chase after it was splattered by bullets from the abductors' car and a police officer slightly wounded by shattered glass.

Police quoted Mrs. Jones as saying she knew of no reason anyone should want to harm her husband, that he received no threats and "had no enemies that I know of."

SOUTH AFRICANS SEEK LABORERS FOR GOLD MINES

Transportation and Accommodation Said Only Barrier to Large-Scale Immigration

Capetown, May 13 (CP) — Spurred by possibilities of the gold strike at Odendaalsrust in the Orange Free States, Minister of the Interior C. F. Clarkson has announced that the Union of South Africa will welcome large-scale immigration from Europe to provide whatever labor may be needed by the new mines.

Mr. Clarkson said there was no quota for immigration in South Africa and existing legislation allows as many immigrants as the country can absorb. It was not legislation but transport and accommodation that were lacking.

"The department of the interior is well aware of the necessity to bring in as many suitable immigrants as possible," said Mr. Clarkson. "Suitability is not judged on nationality or religion but simply on the applicant's ability to fit in with the Union's economic plan and become a useful citizen."

The government still required that prospective immigrants have assurance of employment of a financial guarantee.

Prime Minister Smuts has outlined the government's peacetime defence policy as including a permanent force of approximately 10,000 men, backed by a citizen army of young men similar to a force maintained before the war. Twenty thousand men have already enrolled in the citizen army.

A naval defence force will be developed on a large scale with specially trained coastal garrisons. The South African air force will be maintained largely on a permanent basis and will include 15 squadrons of bombers and fighters.

Special emphasis will be laid on training and the army will be equipped with the most modern equipment.

The premier said the question of South Africa's contribution to the United Nations international army had not yet been discussed.

The Union's growing coal exports are to be regulated by the new South African Coal Co-ordinating Committee which will deal with allocations in co-operation with coal committees in Washington and London. Brig. J. D. White, former deputy general manager of the South African Railways, has been appointed the Union's representative with the London committee.

The Union is committed to supply about 360,000 tons of coal monthly for bunkering ships in West Africa and a number of Atlantic and Mediterranean bases, for Allied armies in Italy and for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration in Greece.

A new company has been formed with legal sanction to attempt to recover treasure from the East Indiaman Grosvenor, which sank 150 miles off Durban in 1782 and is believed to hold a cargo of diamonds and spices. The company believes the ship contains a treasure more valuable than the million-pound haul recovered from another ship, the Egypt, 20 years ago.

Nepal Honors Wavell For Indian Service

New Delhi, May 13 (CP) — Commanding General Sir Bahadur Shumshere Jung Bahadur Rana recently pinned the Order of the Star of Nepal on the breast of Lord Wavell at a ceremonial parade here. He said he had been commanded by the King of Nepal to present the Order to Lord Wavell and confer on him the rank of honorary general of the Nepalese Army.

This was in recognition of the services rendered by Lord (then Sir Archibald) Wavell as Commander-in-Chief, India, when Nepalese and Kurkha troops served under him. The number of Nepalese recruits during the Second Great War to the Indian Army alone exceeded 100,000. The total population of Nepal is less than 7,000,000. Nepalese troops won ten Victoria Crosses during the war.

London Fosters Courtesy Slogan

London (CP)—A new campaign with the slogan "Courtesy Aids Service" has been launched by the London Passenger Transport Board.

Forty thousand circulars are being distributed among bus, tram and railway operators asking them to "stop nagging the public" and "get back to old-fashioned courtesy."

"The public is sick and tired of being regimented," says the circular.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.

Readers addressing letters to Dr. Brady will please include the word "Canada" on their return envelopes, as these letters have to be forwarded to Dr. Brady. And it is requested that readers use standard size envelopes that will hold a small booklet

WHAT NOT TO TAKE FOR HEADACHE

In preceding talks I gave my one-horse-and-buggy opinion or belief that persons subject to either ordinary neuralgic or 'nervous' headache or periodic sick headache (migraine) should increase their daily intake of calcium and vitamin D; and my opinion that aspirin (acetyl-salicylic acid) is the least dangerous (I do not call it safe) pain-killer you can take for headache and when you take it you should remain lying or sitting at rest for at least one hour after the dose.

I have never had a headache that required aspirin or other pain-killer, and I have never had a baby either, yet I am not unqualified to advise people about taking aspirin or having a baby.

If many good doctors regard aspirin as less dangerous than I do, well and good. The truth is I dislike any and all medicine—although I go for vitamins in a big way—yes, and calcium, and iodin ration—but these are nutritional, not medicinal.

Acetanilide (or similar pain-killers derived from coal tar — phenacetine, antipyrine, etc.) is downright dangerous for anybody to take as a sense-deadener — and that is all it does or can do, benumb sense of ache, pain, fatigue or what ails you—and I doubt that good doctors will differ much from my statement about this.

Numerous nostrums indiscriminately sold to the public as headache, cold, neuralgia, lame muscle, rheumatism, ache all over, fatigue or anxiety remedies are concoctions of this and that inert or unimportant stuff with acetanilide.

Death from aspirin poisoning is due to heart or respiratory failure. Death in acetanilide poisoning is due to heart failure plus interference with the oxygen-carrying function of the blood—a person who has taken overdose of acetanilide usually becomes cyanotic — skin, lips, mucous membranes, nails purplish or blue. Some physicians have debated upon the precise nature and significance of this cyanosis, but whatever they think about it, there can be no question that the victim of too much acetanilide dies of poisoning.

You don't "fight" headache when you take acetanilide— you fight your blood and heart.

So I tell you what not to take for headache. Don't take acetenilide, acetanilid, antifebrin, phenylacetamide, phenacetine, phenacetin, acetphenetidin, antipyrin, antipyrine, aminopyrine, pyramidon. Scrutinize the label on the headache cure, cold cure or whatever it may be and see whether one of these coaltar derivative pain-killers is contained in the medicine. If it is, don't take it. If a dose or two of aspirin, and a rest, fails to relieve the ache or pain, whatever its cause or nature, then, take my advice and call your doctor.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Vinegar and Lemon Juice Nonsense

Is there any basis for the claim that drinking lemon juice or vinegar each day will aid one in reducing?

(Mrs. F. T. W.)

Answer. No. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing for pamphlet "How to Lose Weight." If you send a clipping there will be no answer.

Abrasive

Will scrubbing the teeth with (an abrasive kitchen cleaner) injure the enamel? Have you any material on the preservation of the teeth? (Miss L. C.)

Answer—Your dentist would know—I don't. For booklet "Save Your Teeth" send 25 cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Loss of Appetite Caused by Lack

Does the expression "loss of appetite caused by a deficiency of B1 mean .. (J.C.H.)

Answer—It means the nostrum monger is obeying the rules of the federal authorities, that's all. You see the authorities won't permit him to claim the nostrum is a remedy for loss of appetite—unless he narrows it down to that one specific condition. The whole business is ridiculous, for how can the sucker or prospect know whether his loss of appetite is that particular condition? Great jokers, the federal government boys.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How did the Virgin Islands get their name?

The Virgin Islands comprise about 100 American and British islands and islets lying east of Puerto Rico and forming part of the long chain of islands that separate the Atlantic Ocean from the Caribbean Sea.

These islands were named by Christopher Columbus while on his second voyage in 1493.

In sailing from Guadaloupe to Puerto Rico in the fall of that year the Admiral sighted, but did not stop at, some of the Virgin Islands.

Columbus was in the habit of naming the lands he discovered after the various saints in the church calendar, and it being October 20, the feast day of St. Ursula, he named the largest island (now St. Croix) St. Ursula and the rest of the cluster Las Vergines, "the Virgins," in honor of the virgins who were martyred with St. Ursula.

Ursula was the legendary daughter of a Christian King of Britain who is supposed to have lived about the fourth century.

To escape marriage to a pagan prince Ursula and ten companions, each accompanied by 1,000 virgins, made a pilgrimage to Rome.

They travelled in eleven ships as far as they could up the Rhine. On their return trip Ursula, her ten companions and the eleven thousand virgins were all killed by the Huns near Cologne.

The legend is that Columbus, when he saw the great number of islands in the Virgin group, became fearful that he would run out of saints' names and therefore put the whole cluster under the patronage of St. Ursula and her eleven thousand virgins.

MAGEDOMA TIED UP

Kingston, May 11 —(CP)— Future of the former luxury yacht Magedoma, one-time bearer of the Duke of Windsor and the late Duke of Kent on a cruise of the Thousand Islands, which was loaned to the Department of National Defence as a training vessel on Lake Ontario, is a matter of speculation. The yacht is tied up at Kingston harbor while her owner, George Fulford, decides her future.

A Soldier Son's Search

A liberation story that is probably unique was told the other day, at the BBC microphone, by Alain Ferucci. He finds it a quiet life, being a waiter again, after six years with the Royal Engineers.

Father Italian, mother French, the family had lived in Britain for many years. As their mother came from Normandy, Alain and his brother had spent many holidays with aunts and uncles at Caen, till 1939 brought a halt to all that. Just before that, Mr. and Mrs. Ferucci had gone to the Riviera. When France fell, all news of them ceased.

Then came the morning when Alain landed with his company on a Normandy beach. Quite soon they reached Bayeaux, not far from Caen. The moment Caen was freed, young Ferucci went in to look for his aunts and uncles. Groping through smoke and over rubble he came upon the remains of his uncles' bakery — almost levelled to the ground. But he found his uncles quite safe—taking shelter in the big ovens. And not far away, he tracked down two aunts, with ten of his cousins, taking refuge in a cave. When Alain returned to the ruined shop, two other aunts had turned up. There was great rejoicing, shadowed, however, by the uncertainty about the Feruccis.

As Alain's company advanced through France and Belgium, his anxiety increased, till at Antwerp he got leave to go to the South of France to look for them. He hitch-hiked, but with so many bridges down, the going was slow, and it took him four days to get to Mentone. Fighting was still going on down there, and he had to walk two miles under shell-fire before he found the house where his parents had been living. It had been demolished by shells and there was no sign of its occupants. Then he learned that both his parents were in prison at Nice — held on false evidence given by someone that the Ferucci's sons were fighting in the German Army. Alain hitch-hiked on to Nice. There he saw the Prefect of Police, proved to him that he was in the British Army, and so got his parents released. He got a permit to requisition them a house near their ruined one—and the three of them drove to it in the British Consul's car. Then Alain had to hitch-hike all the way back to his Company at Antwerp. Later, he got further leave to see his parents comfortably settled. His father never recovered from the prison ordeal, and died a few months later. But Alain's mother is restored to health again.

London (CP) — Seventeen thousand guns have been handed into London police since the Home Secretary asked for illegally-held weapons to be given up. They include 340 machine guns and tommy guns.

Child Delinquency Drops in Toronto

Toronto (CP)—Figures for the last year show an all-time low for juvenile delinquency in Toronto, Judge D. L. Stewart of Toronto Family Court has announced.

Against the sharp rise in the number of children brought into courts during war years up to 1943, Judge Stewart reported a steady decrease since then.

He emphasized courts were more concerned with the reason behind misdemeanors and social possibilities rather than the children's criminal acts. He thought most delinquents were in that class before they knew what had happened rather than premeditating their misconduct.

The court officer named three basic rights of all children — wholesome outlets for normal energy under proper direction, the right to belong somewhere, with deep roots in the community, and the right to have something by which to live, like the example set by good living parents.

He called upon "parents and other adults" to offer the proper kind of leadership, to provide children with emotional security, a feeling of belonging, and keep family standards on a high plane.

"There will be no final solution to juvenile delinquency or adult crime, in spite of community centres, social workers, courts clergymen or church activities, until adults respect and keep their own laws and the laws of God."

Defeated Germany Broken in Morale

By GODFREY ANDERSON

Frankfurt, Germany (AP) — Here is the face of Germany today—a picture of want and destruction and broken morale:

Boys fight like animals for cigaret stubs and for lumps of coal dropped from trucks.

Long queues wait at the post office to buy stamps—only five to a customer—and at newsstands for the only paper in Frankfurt twice a week.

All along the roads pretty fraulein hitchhikers beg lifts; soldiers discourage them by painting "no darling" just under the windshield of their jeep. Many charcoal gas cars are stalled at the roadside while driver and passengers chop wood.

Slight activity is seen in the fields. Before the plow walks a horse with ribs showing through loose skin; behind it a boy of 12 or a white-haired woman whose sons have not come home —and may never come.

A year's rains have not washed away names of the dead roughly scratched on bricks, sometimes with a dusty wreath of evergreens nearby.

A bride in white steps from a bomb-damaged church amid flattened ruins to set up housekeeping perhaps in a cellar. No one seems to be building anything, or even trying. Frankfurt's main streets have been cleared for traffic. But most of the dust and broken bricks, the twisted iron and powdered rubble, have just been cast up in mounds on the sidewalks.

Thousands Unemployed

A business man said thousands are unemployed in the commercial field.

"Only a few businesses have started again since the war, since lack of materials and official restrictions limit trade," he said. "Most of the men and girls you see tramping the streets are looking for work—but they want office jobs."

"They won't do manual work and they won't help clear up the mess. Out in the country the farmers are worried about labor and are calling for aid."

Some unemployed make a living from scrounging and small-time black marketing, and most profiteer at the expense of their neighbors.

Many Germans still retain a semblance of pride—like the honest artisan who had tears in his eyes as he told me of the beautiful work he used to do before he was drafted into a Hitler war factory. But others show a bad breakdown of morale. Men whine and cringe to the occupation armies and then turn and bully someone weaker. Pleasure-mad frauleins whose men have not come home sell themselves for candy bars.

Noting the sneer on a shopkeeper's face as he waits on a Jew, you can see that beneath it's the same old Germany still.

COMMEMORATE DUKE

London (CP)—Dr. J. W. C. Wand, Bishop of London, has dedicated a memorial plaque in the Chapel of St. George's Hospital to the memory of the Duke of Kent, killed in an air crash in 1942. The Duke was president of the hospital from 1923 to 1943.

Offers Novel In 40 Hours

Sydney, Australia (CP)— Bert Bailey, 58-year-old engineer in suburban Punchbowl claims to be the fastest story writer in Australia. He presents his record as a challenge to Stanley Hennell, another Australian, who offered to write a novel in 40 hours.

Bailey says he wrote 35,000 words of a novel, "We People," in 15 1-2 hours and worked out 2,500 short stories last year while travelling in trams. He adds that while two of his long stories have been accepted by Sydney publishers, a total of 552 of his short stories have been rejected by newspapers.

Birthrate High 300 Years Ago

Conway, Wales (CP)— While Britain worries about the low birth rate, some glance with interest at a tombstone in Conway churchyard which records:

"Here lyeth the body of Nichs. Hookes, of Conway, Gent., who was ye 41st child of his father, Willm Hookes, Esq., by Alice his wife, and ye father of 27 children, who died ye 20th of March, 1637."

HINTS
on House Training

Training a young dog is largely a matter of understanding. It is good training for the master too. It teaches patience, control and perseverance.

A dog's main ambition is to do what his master wishes. Once a master realises that he will be successful in his efforts.

A sharp word to express disapproval, emphasized with the lightest tap of a newspaper, is all that is needed by way of correction. Severe beating will only frighten the dog, take his mind off his lesson and make him the harder to train.

"Listen, Pal!... the only thing you do not do is talk, but the one thing you can do better than anyone else is listen:

"Out of the hundreds of species of animals created by nature, your ancestors were the only ones to come to man to be his friend and to love him:

"What do you see in me, old fellow, to worship and adore? Where do you get your unselfishness and loyalty? Why would you lay down your very life for me and those I love?

"Yes, pup, I owe plenty to your forebears and, through you, old pal, I am going to pay it back."

WHAT a surprise answer. And what a thrilling answer to make—"Mine! And a C.C.M., too!"

In this brief conversation is expressed the opinion of Canadians on the choice of a bicycle.

From their earliest childhood young Canadians know that C.C.M. Joycycles and juvenile vehicles pedal and roll easily and swiftly and never "go on the blink". When they grow to school age their great desire is to own a C.C.M. bike—experience has taught them to prefer C.C.M.'s.

"Mine! And a C.C.M. too!" This is the year to make someone so exclaim and to make him extremely happy, pave the way to better health and provide him with the means of making money.

When you visit your C.C.M. dealer examine the bicycle carefully—see how easily and silently it runs, how swiftly and smoothly the brake functions. Note the smooth steering, the comfortable saddle and the true wheels.

Of course you will find the famous three letters—"C.C.M." on the trade mark located on the steering post—this is your guarantee of trouble-free cycling and full value for your money.

WEDDINGS

STINSON—MINAKER

Picton, May 13 —Flowers and ferns decorated Picton United Church, Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Lulu Maude, daughter of Nelson Minaker, Picton, and Flt.-Lt. Alan Wilson Stinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Stinson, Port Arthur. Rev. A. E. McCutcheon officiated Wedding music was played by Prof. F. E. Walden and Mrs. Walden sang.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white lace made with tight bodice, full skirt and puff sleeves. Her fingertip veil fell from a halo of orange blossoms and she carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Audrey Minaker attended her sister, wearing a long gown of turquoise sheer. She carried Ophelia roses. Miss Lucille Parks made a pretty flower girl, wearing blue net and carrying pink rosebuds.

Groomsman was George Stinson, of Kingston. Ushers were Allan VanCott, Picton and Bob Stinson, Peterborough.

The reception followed at the home of the bride's father. Receiving with the bridal couple were Mrs. Neil Parks, sister of the bride, and Mrs. M. B. Parks. Assisting in serving were Misses Madeline Reid and Mary Parks, Mrs. Roy Walters and Mrs. Morden Foster. Tea was poured by Miss Pearl Moore, Peterborough and Mrs. A. H. McLaughlin.

For travelling to Port Arthur the bride donned a pastel green suit with grey pearl button trim, with black accessories. They will reside at Clinton, Ont.

GRASSICK—REED

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, May 8, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Reed, Victoria Ave., when their eldest daughter, Barbara, became the bride of Albert Grassick, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Grassick, Edmonton, Alta. The Rev. H. S. Graham of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony.

The bride's sister, Bobbe, acted as bridesmaid. Mr. Eric C. Naylor was groomsman.

The happy couple will leave the city on Wednesday for Edmonton where they will make their home.

KIWANIS LADIES' AUXILIARY

The regular monthly meeting of the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary was held at Kiwanis Centre on Thursday evening, with an attendance of forty-two members.

The President, Mrs. Ethel Stiver, welcomed all those present, including Mrs. Hazel Baragar, who has been holidaying in the south for nearly three months.

After singing "O Canada", the Secretary, Mrs. Irma Reid, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

The report on the Tag Day was given by Mrs. Nancy Fozard, who expressed her gratitude to all those who helped in any way to make this day a huge success. Five hundred and fifty-six dollars was realized and is much needed in giving underprivileged children a holiday at Roblin Lake this summer.

Mrs. Chris Logan, convener of Sewing; then gave a very complete report on all the sewing accomplished since January 1st.

Fifty-one summer dresses were completed. Each dress different and ranging in size from two years to 15 years. Also three complete layettes, consisting of nighties, shirts, diapers, knitted bonnets, bootees and sweaters. These have been turned in to the C.A.S. along with some of the dresses which were on display at the meeting. This pretty and colorful display shows the achievement realized when willing workers co-operate under the leadership of a capable convener.

The convener expressed her appreciation to all those who helped with the sewing and to those who had donated the knitted articles; and reminded those present that a considerable amount of work was planned for the fall and as there were no meetings in July and August, those who could take work home, would assist in a big way.

A discussion took place regarding the sending of canned goods to England. This matter was laid over till more definite information can be received from Toronto.

Before the meeting closed the President called Mrs. Nancy Fozard and Mrs. Chris Logan to the front, and presented each with a rose, in recognition of their very capable leadership as conveners of the Tag Day and of the Sewing.

At the close of the meeting, all enjoyed a game of bridge after which refreshments were served. The president reminded all of next meeting which will begin with a pot-luck supper.

ENERGETIC CLUB

The Energetic Club Holloway Street Church met on Friday evening with a good attendance.

Scripture lesson was read by Bessie McAllister. To create a greater fellowship the president asked that each member in the coming two weeks, visit one couple that has not previously been visited

New members Mr. and Mrs. Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. Melborne were introduced.

The Club was invited by Mr. and Mrs. T. Post for a picnic, weather permitting, at their cottage on May 24.

Mr. Arnold Campbell brought in a statement on the original purpose of the club—formed in 1931 for younger married couples of the Church, to create fellowship in the church.

It was moved by Arnold Campbell that the club add to its closing ceremony—

"As a member of the Energetic Club my purpose is to be more friendly and to help create a better fellowship both in the club and in the church".

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Regentsburg's group now took charge with Mr. Ab. Smith in the chair. Mrs. Curry favored with violin solos, "Adoration" and "Scot's Lullaby". Mr. Alec Gordon favored with a few selections on the piano.

Ed. Shortt introduced the guest speaker, Mr. George Curry, principal of Collegiate Institute, who gave an interesting and informative talk on school work.

Refreshments were served by the group.

Belleville Presbytery Y.P.U. Holds Convention in Trenton

By MAUDE BURKE

Approximately two hundred and fifty enthusiastic members of Young People's Unions in the Belleville Presbytery convened in the two United Churches in Trenton for their biennial convention on Saturday last.

The theme of the convention was "Our Youth For Christ" which was carried out in the two addresses delivered in so challenging a manner by Rev. Norman McMurray B.A., B.D., Toronto, theme speaker, and in the discussion groups. President Earl M. Dafoe, Plainfield, very capably presided over the three sessions.

Worship Service

The morning's proceedings got underway with a worship service followed by a business period. Highlight of the morning session was the musical appreciation hour led by Rev. C. H. Dawes, Aylmer East, Quebec, during which the young people thrilled anew to his musical genius as he played from the great masters and then taught, in his own inimitable manner, several beautiful but seldom-used hymns. Mr. Dawes also gave of his talent during the afternoon session in the leading of a sing song after which he wove into a symphonette several favorite hymns from which was derived a "sermon in music" as Mr. Dawes so aptly termed it.

Question Answer Period

Concluding the morning's activities was a question and answer period during which problems arising in local unions were dealt with. After a delicious luncheon served by the ladies of Grace Church the members convened in King Street Church for the remainder of the convention.

A welcome to the church was extended by its minister, Rev. J. D. Martin, who also introduced Rev. N. McMurray, theme speaker.

Mr. McMurray referred to the theme of the program and asked the group to consider the question "Why Should Youth Be For Christ?"

Speaker Gives Reasons

"There is every reason why you and I should be for Christ," declared Mr. McMurray, and in a clear convincing manner, he led the group to see what those reasons are.

"First of all," the speaker said, "we should be for Christ because of what He was and is. Christ is God's ineffable gift of love through whom God acts to redeem man," the speaker went on, referring to the Statement of Faith of the United Church. "In Jesus, God comes face to face with man. Jesus is the Word made Flesh—the incarnation of God."

"But if Jesus were just a man would we have reason for being for him?" queried Mr. McMurray. "In gospel days that's all He was to those who saw Him—a Nazarene Carpenter—the Man of Gallilee. But what a man He was! Those who saw Him were conscious of a life, radiant with goodness, truth, and mercy, a man who "spoke with authority." Not only His words but His deeds made an impression,—He "went about doing good," healing and doing miracles,—but it was His whole-hearted devotion to God which was His strength. When we make that leap of faith to realize that Christ was a Perfect Man Son of God, we must be for Him."

Can Conquer Through Him

"And too we must be for Him because of what He can do for you and for me,—because we can conquer through Him the evil things in our hearts doing us and others harm." Illustrating this point with a story of an imprisoned criminal whose heart was hardened when urged to repent, but who on reading Jesus' words of prayer on the cross, "Father forgive them" saw a power not in man, a power which brought to him a sense of God's tenderness and forgiveness and felt a power come into his life which led to a true repentance and then the living of a new life, Mr. McMurray concluded his first address with the plea that we accept that strength, power and grace which He can give us and of which we are all in need.

Discussion Period

The members then went into discussion groups — Fellowship being conducted by: Rev. Floyd Honey, Baltimore; Citizenship in charge of Mr. D. G. Williams, Belleville Missions Rev, Herrington, Newburg, and Culture in charge of Mr. N. A. Pete Beach, Albert College.

Reports of the findings of these groups were given during the evening session.

Mrs. Carmen Bell, Peterboro, brought greetings from the National Y.P.U., urging the group to attend National Council being held in Albert College this summer.

Encouraging Reports

A very encouraging report on the Crusade teams was given by Mabel Archer who expressed her thanks to the teams of Selby, Centenary, Corbyville, Stirling and Holloway St., Belleville, for the fine services conducted in the interest of "The Crusade for Christ and His Kingdom."

Lively recreation led by 'Pete' Beach concluded the afternoon program.

The evening session began with a banquet served by the ladies of King St. Church which could not be surpassed. Welcomes were extended by Earl Dafoe, president and by the president of King St. Y.P.U. Mayor Cory brought a welcome from the town of Trenton and interdenominational greetings were extended by members of the sister denominations.

Miss Olive Sparling, field secretary for W.M.S. and Board of Christian Education spoke briefly, enlisting the support of the young people in Vacation schools for Sunday School boys and girls. Donald G. Williams, Conference President, brought greetings from that body urging the group to be Christ's witnesses in their daily contacts.

Fine Worship Service

South Hastings District presented a very fine worship service following which Rev. N. McMurray delivered the second theme address "What Does It Involve to be For Christ?"

"What must we do if we are to be for Christ?" asked Mr. McMurray.

"We must accept Him as our Saviour and Lord of Life and bow in reverence and humility before Him. It is not enough to call Jesus 'Lord' in hymn and prayer," said the speaker. "We must ask for guidance and go out and do the things He wants us to do. We will, if we are for Christ, be for Him, on our feet as well as on our knees, in the valley as well as on the mountain-top, and on the street as in the church. We must do justly, love mercy and walk humbly with our God. Do, Love, Walk, — Jesus did even though it took Him along a path leading to Calvary's cross. Should not the servant go the same way as the Master?"

Did Three Things

Referring to the Acts of the Apostles, Mr. McMurray pointed out that they did these three things and at no small cost. 'Inaction is the tragedy of the present day," declared the speaker. "We must keep the needle of our endeavor quivering toward Jesus, that all we do and say will be as He would want it."

Mr. McMurray concluded this stirring message with an appeal to the young people that they recognize the urgent need of workers for the building of the Kingdom and give themselves to the doing of Jesus' wishes that they may help make the world over after the ways of Truth, founded on the principles of Love, Justice and Right."

Officers Named

Raymond Gunsolus of Holloway St. Y.P.U., Belleville, was the choice of the convention as president, with Vivian Henderson of Selby being named as vice-president and Doris Scott of Foxboro as secretary. Rev. C. D. McLellan, chairman of the Presbytery, was named honorary president and Earl Dafoe as past president. Other executive members elected were as follows:

Fellowship — Roxey Hawley, Napanee;

Missions — Norman Morden, Bloomfield;

Citizenship — Harry Denton, Belleville;

Culture—Kay DeClair, Queensboro;

Leadership Training — Maude Burke, Belleville;

Publication — Eleanor Ireland, Trenton;

Boys' Work — Gerald McCaul, Napanee;

Treasurer — Allan Baxter, Bloomfield.

Officers Installed

Installation of the new executive officers was conducted by Rev. J. G. McKee of Grace Church, Trenton

Rev. A. L. Shorten, Foxboro, had charge of the closing meditation. The convention ended with all members joining in singing—"Take My Life and Let It Be", a well-loved hymn in keeping with the theme of the day. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. D. Martin.

Surprise Party Held For Couple Leaving District

Melville. (Special)—On Thursday evening a surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dainard in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Leavens, who sold their farm prior to moving to Wellington. An address was read by Mr. King Terry expressing the high esteem in which they are held, and Messrs. Walter Nind and Stanley Thompson presented them with a lovely floor lamp and magazine table. The Rev. E. N. Grant spoke in the highest terms of the fine characters of Mr. and Mrs. Leavens, both as neighbors and as church workers. An autograph book bearing the signatures of the 103 guests present was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Leavens as a memento of the pleasant evening. At the close of the evening delicious refreshments were served.

Miss Lois Liddle Feted by Friends

On Friday evening, Miss Lois Liddle was taken completely by surprise when a number of her friends gathered at her home to honor her with a cup and saucer shower. Hostess for the occasion were the Misses Gwen Bennett and Ruth Doig, who presented the gifts to the bride-elect under a gaily decorated parasol of pink, blue and white.

During the evening games were played and later a dainty buffet supper was served. A beautifully decorated three-tiered cake with pink, blue and white frosting centred the table. As the guests departed, each wished Lois much happiness in her new life.

Women's Activities

BURR'S W.A.

Burr's — The home of Mrs. Don Osterhout who was hostess to the May meeting of the W.A. looked very inviting following recent alterations and being newly decorated throughout. A profusion of mild plum blossoms throughout the rooms lent fragrance and added beauty. Following the devotional period under the leadership of the president, Mrs. Don Parks the flower offering was received by Mrs. Eric Edwards, treasurer, for the flower fund. June 5 was chosen as the date for the annual church cleaning that it may be in readiness for the memorial and decoration service which falls on June 9. Mrs. Richard Hall and Mrs. Leon Caughey were selected as delegates to attend the W.A. convention at Albury, United Church, May 23. It was decided if they are available to send several cases of canned vegetables to the European needy. Mrs. Herb Brason was a guest at the meeting. The program consisted of readings by Mrs. Ewart Harns and Mrs. Harold Hall. Mrs. A. Carter, Mrs. T. Morden, Mrs. E. Harns and Mrs. F. Osterhout assisted the hostess in serving. Mrs. Don Parks invited the meeting for June.

WOOLER W.M.S.

Wooler — The May meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. C. D. Cole on Tuesday afternoon with a good attendance. Mrs. S. L. Terrill, the president, presided and conducted the worship service.

Mrs. Terrill and Mrs. Waite gave brief reports of the Mission Band rally held in Cobourg on Saturday and Mrs. Cole brought greetings from Friends' Church that had celebrated its Fiftieth Anniversary a few days before.

Mrs. Orvis continued the Study Book on Currie of Chissamba. Mrs. L. Dorland sang "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer" and Mrs. C. R. Terrill read Edgar A. Guest's poem "Brothers All."

Mrs. R. A. Delve, mother of Rev. W. Delve and a former president, closed the meeting with prayer.

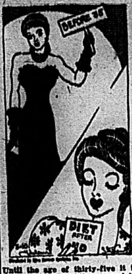
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

You don't have to starve to get Slender



Until the age of thirty-five it is better to be slightly overweight than underweight.

During the war years, women worked harder, consumed more groceries. Many gained weight. If the gain was not excessive—if one feels well, if proportions are pleasing, and there is no sign of a spare chin in the offing—why worry? The asparagus shape is no longer the ideal. Pleasing curves are fashionable.

Of course, there is a great difference between excess weight and a figure that is slender, yet not thin. Any doctor will tell the plumpie that the process of staying healthy and slender is simple. It requires nothing more than a knowledge of what one should eat to keep new fat cells from forming, to cause absorption of those that are already on hand.

The first need is will-power. If you think you can't stay on the diet wagon until you are down to normal, then give up trying. It takes time to reduce. If one loses a pound or two a week, that is progressing fast enough.

Taking calories from the diet means neither starvation nor unwise reducing that might imperil the health, it means the selection of proper foods. As a rule, the heavyweight has a desire for the elements that build adipose tissue—fats, starches and sweets. These elements must be cut down, but not deleted.

Until the age of 35 it is better to be slightly overweight than underweight; one is likely to be more energetic, have more resistance. At the approach of forty, one must watch the bathroom scales. When weight-gaining gets a good start, it doesn't seem to know when to stop. At middle-age there is an inclination to take less exercise, so fewer calories are burned up. Also, one is likely to lose the light step. Poor posture —which permits muscles to sag and lose resiliency—invites bulges. Fat cells will not linger on strong, firm muscles, that have vigorous exercise every day.

Each day there should be a serving of lean meat, fish or poultry. There should be at least two servings of vegetables, preferably leafy ones. Salad dressing should be made of mineral oil, instead of olive oil. There should be several servings of fruit— fresh or cooked, but without sugar.

One can have a baked potato occasionally, but no cereals, macaroni, cream, butter or pastries. Tea and coffee should be taken clear. Buttermilk and cottage cheese are recommended. One egg a day is included in the diet. No snacks between meals. No dipping into the bonbon box.

From four to six glasses of water a day comprise an important part of the reducing diet. The more outdoor life, the better.

To avoid softening of facial tissues, the complexion should have a creaming and brisk tapping every day.

Brilliant Designs

By PRUNELLA WOOD

MORE BRILLIANTLY colorful than for many a season, Sophie this spring has turned loose a rainbow of her own which gives bright accent to her well-known restraint of line and silhouette. Not that Sophie ignores the trend toward curves; there is new softness in her silhouette, but it still remains more natural than dramatic.

The printed silk suit pictured here is as good an example as any of the heightened color schemes, the more deliberately feminine silhouette. The silk is printed with muted blue and green which are knotted here and there with huge, natural pansies in purple tones. Note the longer jacket, which accents both rounded waist and hip lines, and which is accented itself by draped pockets. The blouse fabric is like the suit's.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

'Unhappy Veteran' Could This be You?

The letter that "Unhappy Veteran" wrote to this column a few weeks ago has certainly had repercussions. The girl he thought he was coming home to you remember, appeared to be giving him the run-around when he got back from overseas, and I suggested that he forget about her and look around for some one more reliable.

Some readers disagreed with me violently. They thought the girl might have a lot on her side. One of these letters was printed in this column recently.

And now here's a letter from a girl who thinks she was the very one the veteran was talking about, and she thinks she does have a lot on her side and maybe she does.

Here's what she says:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I'm writing you this letter in answer to the enclosed (She enclosed clipping of the column containing the "Unhappy Veteran's" letter) from, I believe, my boy friend.

"Now this is my side of the story. I really do not know my own mind about him. He is a good, clean boy. He doesn't smoke or drink, but he has so many other faults that I have rather gotten to dislike him because of them.

"First of all, he is never on time with his dates. Even when Mother invites him to dinner he keeps us waiting.

"He is also extremely close about spending money on me. For instance, when we are on the way home from the theatre and we pass an ice cream store, he says: 'You aren't hungry, are you?' Well, naturally I say no, to be polite.

"Also, his home life is very unpleasant. There is so much friction all the time. They all just seem to live for money alone and fight for it, as I have seen, and I am afraid if I ever married him he would become like his parents and want to quarrel with me a lot, and I couldn't stand that, as I come from a very quiet, reserved family. He seems different from the rest of his family in that he is rather quiet, but maybe that is only when he is around me. He is exceptionally serious and always thinking of the future, which is all right to a certain degree. But never seems to want to do or go anywhere that I want to. He will do it, but reluctantly, it seems to me, which makes me feel very uneasy.

"Please tell me what I can do to make him see the reasons why I do not care for him as much as he does for me. Or do you think I am wrong for feeling as I do about these things.

"Mixed-up"

No, I don't think you're wrong in feeling as you do about these things. They're all pretty important when you're thinking about them as elements in the character of the men you might decide to marry.

But where I do think you are wrong is in not telling this boy as tactfully as possible about your feelings, and talking it all over with him. After all, you've got him pretty mixed-up, too, you know—that is, supposing this "Unhappy Veteran" really is your boy friend and not just another poor bewildered guy whose girl has got him guessing.

My advice to you is just what I say: to tell him frankly what the trouble has been and why you have seemed so elusive. It's hardly fair to keep on accepting his attentions yet holding him off at the same time. Of course if you really don't want him, that is another thing. Then I don't see any particular reason for doing more than just telling him that plainly and letting it go at that, without going into all these reasons. But if you have any idea at all that, with a few changes here and there, you might like him very much, I'd lose no more time getting things cleared up. If you really love him, you can make him understand without hurting him, and if he really loves you, he'll want to do his best to overcome these obstacles.

Fashion Flashes

FLOWERS DON'T BLOOM on every hat. Some of the nicest models are content to be beribboned. A smart suit hat of gray felt has its narrow brim turned up at one side to reveal a narrow, scalloped band of black taffeta. A big black taffeta bow with scalloped ends is placed against the stovepipe brim.

Why not draw attention to a tiny waist, whether it be a gift of nature or one acquired through much exercise and dieting? A good way to do this is via the belt route, such as a red calf belt features an enormous, elongated figure 8 from hip to hip. Belt tapers to an inch width in back where it buckles.

Enduring beauty is to be found in the white evening gown that derives from Grecian inspiration. White jersey makes an exquisite gown with a long floating panel shirred into the shoulder, corresponding to the drapery below the waistline which is twisted at one side and released in a floating panel.

That hardy perennial, the floral print, has survived the lean war years and is back, more beautiful than ever. Vivid red carnations strewn on a royal blue silk crepe ground makes a beautiful fabric that is fashioned into an afternoon frock with soft tucks outlining a yoke, and a side-draped skirt. Cut-out carnations around the high neckline and sleeves.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Co-operative with the Customs of the Community

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

May I ask your help in a question that is bothering me very much? Recently my husband and I came to live in this small town. It seems that here the woman do not call to welcome strangers, but when they give a party they invite the newcomer either verbally, or, more usually, by telephone.

I have always lived where it is the custom of the hostess to call on the stranger before extending an invitation to her.

The other day I received an invitation to a bridge party from a hostess who had not called on me. I did not accept the invitation because I felt that it was not the proper thing for me to do. Do you think I was right or wrong in doing what I did?

D. K. C.

I think you were wrong. Granted that you have been accustomed to a different social point of view, you must realize also that community customs vary tremendously. And this question of calling on newcomers is one of the most important variations.

The only sensible rule for a newcomer in a community is to do as your neighbors do. If you do something that is out-of-step with what you know are the local customs, you won't be able to organize your place in the community social life.

The hostess who invited you to this particular party was doing what she is accustomed to doing, and she thoughtfully and generously offered you her hospitality. If you look at her hospitable invitation both from her point of view and that of the custom she is following, you will agree, I'm sure, that it was foolish and short-sighted of you to refuse her kind invitation. Remember that you are in the position of knowing more about their customs than they are of knowing about the customs to which you have been accustomed. Therefore they will be in the dark as to how to interpret your refusal of the invitation.

You are faced with these alternatives: either to go on refusing the invitations of these hostesses, and live an isolated life; or having "regretted" this first invitation, wisely change your point of view and decide to abide by their customs.

I hope you decide to take the latter course and enjoy the life of this new community and enjoy knowing these kind hostesses.

Send Wedding Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I work in an office where there are quite a number of girls. One of them is getting married soon, and she has invited me to her wedding. Should I take my gift with me to the wedding reception?

Bea

No. As soon as possible before the wedding send your gift addressed to the bride-to-be at her home. Usually the most convenient thing to do is to have the store where you purchase the gift, send it. . . .most stores specializing in wedding gifts package them festively.

Signing a Birthday Card

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How should I sign my name on a birthday card I want to send to my son's fiancee, whom I have met only twice?

E. D.

Your correct signature to this birthday greeting card would be the form of name you would correctly sign to any other note or letter: for example, Emily Smith Davis, or Emily Davis, or Emily S. Davis. You should not sign your formal name; for example, Mrs. John Davis.

Instead of signing your name, you might prefer to add a written message to the printed or engraved message on the card, by writing, "Tom's mother is sending you loving greetings for a Happy Birthday, and every good wish."

Form For Writing Signature

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I write all my letters by typewriter. Is it correct for me when I have finished the letter, to type in parentheses my last name with my husband's initials, and then in the space between that and the complimentary close, to sign my name Mrs. with my first and last names? For example, the way I will sign this letter:

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Margaret S. Smith
(Mrs. A. B. Smith)

This form is almost right. Just omit the "Mrs." before your handwritten signature. . . .write Margaret S. Smith. . .and the form will be correct. (In a signature, no title should be used before the name.)

Campbell Loans are Life Insured . . . $20 to $1000

INSURED LOANS

Here's the better, safer way to get ready cash. For your protection, Campbell Loans include Life Insurance to cover the unpaid loan balance. In case of death your family is thus relieved of all obligation for your loan. The complete balance is automatically paid off by the insurance company. Campbell Finance Corporation is the only loan company to provide this valuable protection. And there is NO EXTRA COST for this outstanding feature.

REDUCED RATES

Campbell loan costs are now at the lowest level in our history. Only a few examples are given here, of how practical it is to borrow at Campbell Finance. For details on any amount from $20 to $1000 phone or visit our nearest office. Remember, Life Insurance protection is included in all quotations. It costs you nothing extra. Private interview rooms are always available to allow the greatest freedom for discussion.

LONGER TERMS

For your greater convenience, Campbell Finance allow repayment terms up to 20 and 24 months. . . On loans $300 and up 20 months are allowed, and 24 months for loans $501 and up. This means that you can repay your loan in nominal monthly amounts on a soundly planned basis. With the high level of taxes and increased cost of living, longer Campbell terms are most helpful in systematic debt reduction. From our many repayment plans a qualified Campbell expert can help you to choose just the right one to fit your special needs.

4 LOAN PLANS

Campbell Finance provides a wider choice for borrowers with four different types of loans. Married couples can borrow money quickly without endorsers. Loans on your signature only (up to $100) are fast and simple to get. Also loans on various common types of security require no endorsers. From our four kinds of loans you can easily select a plan that will fill every requirement. Of all the people in Canada who borrow from licensed lenders, 1 out of every 4 uses Campbell Finance—specialists in personal loans for over 18 years.

A Treatment For Arthritic Rheumatic Pains

SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, SPONDYLITIS, FIBROSITIS, NEURITIS AND OTHER GERM-CAUSED RHEUMATIC DISORDERS

What is LANTIGEN?

Lantigen is prepared in a licensed laboratory in Australia. Lantigen is not a patent medicine but is a vaccine in a dissolved state. When taken it stimulates the system to create resistance against disease. It acts first by local absorption by the mucous membrane principally lining the nose, the throat, and the intestinal tract, and it is further operative by means of its distribution through the system.

A Dissolved Vaccine to be taken by mouth

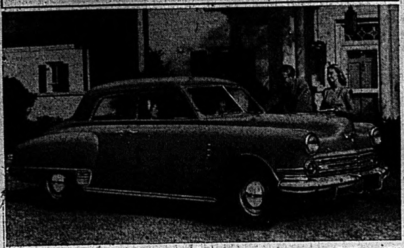
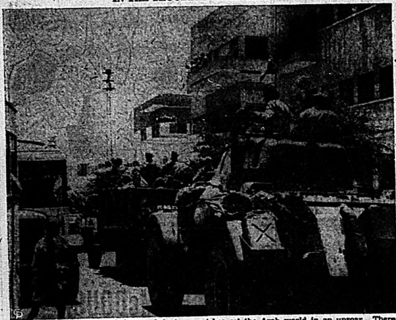
Studebaker Brings Out First Postwar Model



A fresh and appealing body design by Raymond Loewy is a family characteristic of all of the new 1947 Studebakers, "first genuine postwar automobile on the market." Fluid, graceful lines are emphasized on this four-door sedan in the Commander series by the extension of passenger compartments out to the former fender lines and the rearward sweep of curved surfaces. Two chassis improvements among a number worked out by Studebaker engineers are self-adjusting brakes and a redistribution of weight that promises to revolutionize conceptions of riding comfort.

IN THE TROUBLED HOLY LAND



A British tank and truck-borne infantry are patrolling the streets of Tel-Aviv as tension reaches a new high in the Holy Land. Recommendation of the joint Anglo-American Palestine commission would admit 100,000 Jews to Palestine has set the Arab world in an uproar. There are threats of a "Jehad" (Holy War) and there have been Arab strikes and minor riots in protest of the recommendation. Fearing a serious uprising, Britain has asked the United States how far the U. S. will go in giving military aid in Palestine.

FOOTNOTE TO THE COAL STRIKE

Because of restriction on the use of electric power as a coal conservation measure, workers of an upholstery factory in Chicago move their materials outdoors and take advantage of the sunlight in an effort to stave off closing down the plant. KENNEY BAND ON ITS FIFTH CANADA JAUNT

Dominion's Most Popular Radio Orchestra Will Wind up Tour at Hamilton's Centennial Celebration

By EDGAR SIMON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The mellow, danceable strains of Mart Kenney and his Western Gentlemen are again attracting crowds as Kenney takes his band on its fifth Canada-wide tour since the start of the war, adding to the 50,000 miles of territory covered in previous junkets.

Veterans of ten years of network broadcasting, the band is giving weekly broadcasts during the tour, which started early last month at London, Ont., and will wind up at Hamilton July 1, just in time for that city's centennial celebration.

Acknowledged as Canada's most popular band even before it received the Canadian Broadcaster's Beaver Award in 1944, Kenney's orchestra has won its reputation with a distinctive style that avoids the extremes of "sweet" and "hot" music and makes a play for listeners of all ages. Kenney, who does his own arranging, besides playing several instruments and pitching in on the vocals, prides himself on this middle-of-the-road policy.

Born in Toronto in 1910, Kenney moved to Vancouver two years later. He taught himself how to play the saxophone — much to the discomfort of his family and neighbors—at an early age and later added the clarinet.

At the age of 16 he left school and worked as a typewriter repair man, playing in small bands at night. Later he became sales manager of a Regina music store, a job he held for six months before he got a summer job as a band leader in Carlyle, Sask. Since then he's been a professional musician through the lean years of the depression, when he barnstormed out of Calgary, and the fatter years when he had successive engagements at the Hotel Vancouver, Hotel Saskatchewan in Regina, Banff Springs Hotel and the Royal York Hotel in Toronto.

His radio experience started with an audition for CFCN in Calgary, during which he suddenly found himself playing a saxophone solo with upside-down music. Surviving that experience without mishap, he has been playing to more and more satisfied listeners ever since.

Private radio station operators will gather in Quebec City to discuss general policies and, incidentally, to shoot a few rounds of golf at the four-day annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters May 27-30.

Twenty-seven items of business, 18 of which will be discussed in closed sessions, are on the agenda of the meeting. H. Napier Moore, editorial director of the Maclean Hunter Publishing Company, will be guest speaker at the association's annual dinner.

Vancouver youngsters who want to play Superman can get themselves on the air on a new radio show on station CKWX. The Junior Radio Theatre, a daily one-hour program, features such favorite children's programs as "Terry and the Pirates" and "Captain Midnight," as well as "Superman", aired by the children themselves.

Producer and master of ceremonies for the show is Rod Thompson, who has developed similar children's programs in Calgary and Edmonton. Thompson imports his talent from city schools and occasionally brings back a promising youngster for further instruction in announcing.

British Loan Bill Moved Over To the House

Washington, May 11 (AP) — Half its battle won, the British loan bill, today moved over to the House of Representatives, facing another hard struggle with its ultimate fate in doubt.

Administration forces, however, took much encouragement from the way the measure emerged victorious from the Senate by a 46-34 vote yesterday after a month of bitter debate.

Prime Minister Attlee was represented as "highly gratified" with the Senate's approval of the $3,750,000,000 credit, and his personal secretary said the prime minister will comment later in parliament.

But the House battle on the credit was still to come, and Chairman Brent Spence (Dem.-Ky.) of the Banking Committee cleared the way for the opening skirmishes by scheduling the start of public hearings before his group Tuesday. These are expected to take about two weeks.

Romsey, England (CP) — R. A. Pepperall, chief regional marketing officer of the milk marketing board here, said it may be possible to supply cream in a year's time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Henderson and family, of Picton, were Sunday tea guests of the latter's sister, Mrs. Clem Treverton and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Miller and Mr. Robert Miller were visitors on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Cole.

Mrs. Douglas Tummon called on Mrs. Arthur Bradshaw on Wednesday.

The Bethany W.M.S. was entertained on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Rev. J. and Mrs. Trumpour, Cannifton.

Tweed

Tweed — On Tuesday evening a number of the members of St. James Anglican Church attended the annual Synod Service in St. George's Cathedral, Kingston. Choir members of the many churches present united to form a massed choir of 300 voices. Rt Rev. John Lyons, Bishop of the Diocese, delivered his charge, and the Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson, B.A., B.D., was the special speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Williams and Paul left on Friday to make their home in Montreal. Mr. Williams, who has been a chemist at the Nichols Chemical Co. plant at Sulphide for the past two years, has been transferred to the plant at Nitro, Quebec. Canadian Nickel brings you Coffee for breakfast

CANADA produces no coffee. Brazil produces no Nickel. But Canadians like coffee for breakfast. Brazil, on the eve of great industrial expansion, is going to need more and more Nickel. So Canada imports Brazilian coffee. Brazil, it is hoped, will import increasing quantities of manufactured goods containing Canadian Nickel. Each product will help to pay for the other.

Canada cannot keep on importing goods from other lands unless Canadian goods are exported.

Less than three per cent of the Nickel produced in Canada is consumed in Canada. So we must continue to export Canadian Nickel if we are to continue to employ thousands of Canadians in the Nickel mines, smelters and refineries, and other thousands who produce the lumber, power, steel, machinery and supplies used by the Canadian Nickel industry.

By constantly expanding the use of Nickel at home and abroad, the Canadian Nickel industry brings additional benefits to Canada and Canadians.

"The Romance of Nickel" a 60-page book fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Cardinal Pitchers Falter And St. Louis No Longer 'Shoo-in' for the Pennant

Mound Corps Not All Its Cracked Up to be as Season Progresses

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

It is a moot question today whether collapse of the Cardinal pitching staff is due chiefly to the absence of Walker Cooper, star catcher sold to the New York Giants, or to return of pre-war stars to the big leagues.

Whatever the reason, it is no secret now that (1) the St. Louis mound corpsa is not all it's cracked up to be; (2) the Cards will not walk into the National League championship as predicted originally.

With one month of the 1946 campaign gone, St. Louis' two top hurlers last year — Harry (The Cat) Brecheen (15-4) and Charlie (Red) Barrett (23-12) — have won but one game between them.

Both had almost two full weeks of rest when they took the hill against Cincinnati yesterday. Each failed to last and the Reds swept a double bill 4-2 and 5-1 to move into a third-place tie with Boston Braves and Chicago Cubs. The double defeat tumbled the Cards from first to second place, 1½ games behind Brooklyn Dodgers.

Brooklyn ran its unbeaten victory string at home to eight by pummeling Philadelphia Phils 13-4. Southpaw Vic Lombardi notched his fourth victory aided by homers by Ed Stevens and Augie Galan.

Boston Braves slapped New York Giants 6-5 and 7-2 to drop the Giants into the second division.

The Cubs whipped seventh - place Pittsburgh 3-1 behind Claude Passeau's seven-hit pitching and moved within 3 games of the top.

Tigers Win Seven Straight

In the American League, although somewhat overshadowed by Boston Red Sox, whose winning streak ended at 15 Saturday, Detroit Tigers have put together a streak of their own. Dizzy Trout pitched the Bengals to their seventh straight yesterday with a 4-1, seven-hit performance over Chicago White Sox.

The league-leading Red Sox resumed their winning ways by defeating the New York Yankees 3-1 in the rubber game of their 3-game series before a tremendous turnout of 68,190, second highest single-game crowd in baseball history.

The game was a pitching duel between Boston's Mickey Harris and New York's Spud Chandler, southpaw Harris holding the Yanks to three hits in registering his sixth triumph without a defeat and Boston's 22nd in 26 games. For Chandler, who also gave up three hits, it was the first loss after five straight wins. Defeat left the Yanks 5½ games behind the Sox.

Washington Senators gained an even break with Philadelphia Athletics, winning the nightcap 3-1 after dropping the opener 6-4.

St. Louis Browns extended Bobby Feller to 10 innings before succumbing to Cleveland 4-3 in the opener, and then came back to scalp the Indians 9-3.

SUPPLIESDWINDLE AT BALL PARK

Louisville, Ky., May 13. (AP)—Supply of beer, soft drinks and hot dogs at Parkway Field, home of the American Association's Louisville Colonels, dwindled today as a dispute between the management and the ushers, ticket-takers and ticket-sellers union (AFL) continued.

B. K. Brantley, president of the Union, said picketing which began Saturday would continue until Union ushers, ticket-takers and ticket-sellers are employed.

Harry F. Petty, president of the Kentucky State Federation of Labor (AFL) said the pickets were formed after the club refused to hire the same ushers, ticket-sellers and takers who previously worked at the baseball park, after they became unionized.

Leon Shalkun, attorney for the Union, said he would seek an injunction today to prevent the club's using the public address system at the field.

SYRACUSE CHIEFS NOW LEADING IN INT. LEAGUE

Win Twice From Jersey City While Montreal Split With Orioles

(By The Associated Press)

Tight pitching by Millard (Dixie) Howell and Arnold Carter, Cincinnati farmhands, has boosted Syracuse Chiefs into the International League lead over Montreal Royals.

Although Elmer Durrett hit 3 home runs for Montreal in yesterday's doubleheader with Baltimore, the Royals managed only an even break while the Chiefs polished off Jersey City twice to regain first place.

Howell tossed a brilliant one-hitter at the Little Giants to win the seven-inning nightcap, 2-0, after Lefty Carter had coasted to an 11-1 decision. Hank Sauer, another Cincy prospect, homered in each tilt.

Durrett provided all the thrills for 21,911 spectators, the largest crowd ever to see a regular season game in the Montreal Park. Two of his homers came in the first game, a 12-1 romp for Johnny Gabbard. Alex Ronay allowed only three blows, including Durrett's third circuit clout, while the Orioles ganged up on Chet Kehn for a 6-2 verdict in the finale.

Buffalo and Toronto split even to remain tied for fourth place. Austin Knickerbocker's homer with one on enabled Ellis (Cot) Deal to top Billy Pierce in the first 2-1. In the after piece the Bisons climbed on Barney Cook for five runs in the third inning and went on to a 6-3 triumph.

Rochester needed only two hits to beat Newark, 4-1, but the Bears came back to even matters with a 3-1 triumph behind Lefty Herb Karpel. Roy Pitter and Bill Houtz were the tough luck losers in the opener when the Red Wings scored three in the first on three walks, an error and Eddie Joost's single.

Gus Lesnevich Favored to Beat Freddie Mills

London, May 13. (CP)—British Boxing critics almost unanimously favor America's Gus Lesnevich to defeat Freddie Mills, recently discharged from the R.A.F., in their fight for the world light heavyweight championship tomorrow night.

Since in their own countries they are recognized as champion at their weight, the bout will settle a trans-Atlantic argument. A sell-out crowd is expected at Harringay arena in North London.

Mills, younger of the two by five years, is known as an aggressive boxer who is easy to hit. Acknowledging his weakness in an article for a London paper Mills wrote, "I'll try not to leave myself wide open."

Experts who watched them train—Mills in London and Lesnevich work at the Channel Coast resort of Brighton — expressed fear that Lesnevich would topple British hopes whether or not the fight goes the full 15-round distance.

Before the war, Mills could be booked by any British promoter for £15 (about $68) any night in the week. Many doubt that he has come far enough to win the title, especially after his years of military service.

Lesnevich rates as a more experienced boxer who is harder to hit. He appeared in top shape to reporters who watched him work in a tiny gym over a pub at Brighton.

ACQUITTED BY COURT

Witley, Surrey, May 11 —(CP Cable)— Sgt. Harold Robert Johnson of Kingston and Pte. M. Mandelker of Toronto today were acquitted by a court martial of stealing 8,000 cigarettes from Witley field post-office.

The men, both non-smokers, contended the cigarettes were assigned them by soldiers being repatriated.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

dear boss
tonight they flush this woodbird,
no 'canvasback' this fellow,
if he punches like he eats ice cream its curtains—mauriello winnie.

There was ice cream on his chin; ice cream in his hair. The sweet stuff plastered his sweatshirt and dripped from his fingers, but Bruce Woodcock, first British heavyweight to invade the U.S.A. since the war bugles tooted in 1939 was happy. He swallowed chunks of creamy confection and contentedly munched the crispness of the cone containers.

"Blimey," quote he, "this is a bit of all right, y'know. Don't see much 'o this blinkin' stuff where I comes from." The fact that he meets his first trial-horse from the American Academy of Applied Pugilism, one Tony Mauriello, tonight in Madison Square Gardens, didn't seem to bother the pleasant-visaged representative of the allegorical gent who sports the Union Jack on his vest, wears a topper and has fat rosy cheeks.

Mike Jacobs flushed the Woodcock from the boxing coverts of the tight little island, where Bruce had piled up an impressive record of 25 victories in as many starts, 24 of them via the-bye-bye route.

That fact seems to absolve the big Britisher from any suspicion of having horizontal habits, such as those of one of his predecessors, Phainting Phil Scott, the Swooning Swan of the Soho, whose yen for astronomical observations from a face-up prone position after a punch or two, was one of his characteristics.

In fact, the husky young Woodcock has hit the canvas but three times in his career and on two occasions arose from the levelled-off stance to win by knock-outs. And that, brothers, is something for the little red book, which sets him apart from the traditional British canvasback bruiser of recent boxing times.

American sports writers and other alleged authorities are not over-impressive with the type of slugger who has fallen victim to the Woodcock fistic blasts. The only three fighters he's fought whose names mean anything in Fistiana Americana are Jack London, Martin Thornton and Al. Delaney, and even at that the more blase of the Yankee sports mill-pounders politely inquire "Prithee, gentlemen, and who might these palookas be?".

So it seems, that the Hon. Bruce, he of British Woodcockian extraction, has two American strikes on him before he enters the ring tonight. He'll be sure of two things, a substantial roll of Yankee greenbacks, and a pre-fight typical Yankee ringside "Salute to the Fallen", garnished, egad, with a sympathetic cacaphony for the "foreigner" who has the effrontery to match his pugilistic ability against one of Boxdom's minute men who will go out there and give his all for Washington, "Old Glory", Mike Jacobs, a fistful of dough, and a future engagement.

But the consensus of American sports writers concede the point that Woodcock's record couldn't be built entirely on knocking over set-ups. They, who have seen him, say he packs a good wallop and is unusually aggressive. He disdains the typical British style of boxing rather than fighting and sails into an opponent with gusto, and fire in his eye.

If Woodcock upsets the Mauriello fruit cart tonight, he will have gone quite a way along the American road to fighting fame. For Signor Tony, reputed to be one of the best heavyweights below the Louis-Conn bracket, is no push-over, 'tis said, and if the Woodcock mitt is raised in token of victory, or as is his custom over 'ome, leaves the dark-skinned son of Naples prone and oblivious to what is going on, he will be in line for a shot at Joe Louis' title — pardon — the winner of the Louis-Conn June tea party.

British fighters of the early past have done well financially, if not in the ring. Tommy Farr, last and most popular of the English heavies didn't win once in five starts, although it is recalled he forced Joe Louis to the limit in a 15-round go. But Tommy, from Tonypandy, took 'ome a good sized packet of Yankee dollars. And Phil Scott, he who wore holes in ring canvases, and loved reclining in the resin, also lugged home a fortune.

Joe Beckett, king of British horizontal heavies, as one writer puts it was never knocked out in the U.S.A., although the late Tex Rickard once had ideas of bringing him over here and letting him do his aquatic act behind a screen to save him from vegetable showers."

Which reminds us of an evening back in the days when Kaiser Wilhelm had ideas of feeding the swans at Windsor Castle; a bloke could get a drop of arf-and-arf in the Elephant and Castle, or a spot of tea and French pastry in the Strand Corner House, without ducking everytime a tire blew out; when bobby-sixers were called flappers, and English Mary, noticing the brass (polished) insignia "Canada" on khaki epaulettes, wondered "did you know me cousin Art, who lives in Saskatoon?"

It was box night at the National Sporting Club and a French garcon named Georges Carpentier was, according to the brief British notices, named as the opponent to one Joe Beckett, he of the pugnacious jaw, a fierce visage, two arms, legs and a broad back, which he used in lieu of a chesterfield every time he wanted to take a nap in the ring.

The arf-and-arf being very pleasantly flavored that evening, and the barmaid, a Lancashire lass, minus the clogs and shawl, blessed with more than passing beauty, we lingered longer than necessary. Arriving at the 'all, a few seconds after the main event was scheduled, we met tuxedoes English gentry, and their ladies emerging from the entrance.

"Deuced brief, what" murmured one fair-haired scion of nobility. "Dash it all, old fellow," smiled another, "I hodly had the gasper going, when it happened. Stout fella, this Carponcheay." But the Canadian troops who streamed out later from the cheaper seats had another word for it. In fact they had several words which can't be printed. In short, two things happened after Beckett and Carpentier met in the centre of the ring. A white streak of French fistic lightning struck squarely on the Beckett button. The Beckett back hit the canvas, and that was that. It happened in 15 seconds.

SPORT SHORTS FROM BRITAIN

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, May 11. (CP)—Raymond Glendenning, sports writer and radio announcer, has some interesting accounts of the Lincoln Handicap which he "aired" from an automobile rigged up with a transmitter. The race was won by Langton Abbot.

His "running" commentary created racing history in Britain as his car raced inside the enclosure with the horses.

"What struck me most was the rapid acceleration of the horses from a standing start," he wrote in The Sunday Graphic. "Taking a rough reading on our speedometer they were up to 30 miles an hour inside two furlongs and when (Jockey) Thommy Weston shot Langton Abbot out in front we had to hit 45 to keep pace with him."

Arthur Perowne, Norwich butcher's son, has, according to experts, a big future in the golfing world.

The 16-year-old boy is entered in the British amateur championship at Birkdale, Lancashire and in the boys' championship at Bruntsfield, Edinburgh—and that will be the end of his amateur appearances.

Perowne senior took the boy away from school last Christmas and sent him to Parkstone, Dorset, where Reg Whitcombe is professional, for some "polishing up." Par figure at Parkstone is 72 and Arthur started with a 73.

He will probably start his professional career as assistant to Whitcombe.

Town Planning Minister Lewis Silkin says it would not be "harmonious" to erect a greyhound track and sports stadium at a proposed site at Colchester.

It would be in such close proximity to the Roman remains that it would be out of harmony with the historic association of Colchester, he said as she upheld the objection by Colchester Corporation to the proposed track.

Lord Burghley, president of the British Olympic committee and president of the Amateur Athletic Association of Great Britain, says he "hopes to be able to make some important announcements soon" regarding the 1948 Olympic Games to be held in London.

"All I can say is that we are making our plans and everything is going satisfactorily," he said in London when he received on behalf of the A.A.A. a new trophy, the Milocarian Cup, presented by the Milocarian Athletic Club for annual competition among schools in England and Wales. Boys aged between 15 and 17 will each take part in three events—one of which must be a track and another a field event.

TO STUDY PRISON REFORM

Toronto, May 11 —(CP)— Provincial Treasurer Leslie Frost yesterday said Harvey Cotnam, provincial auditor, will accompany Provincial Secretary George Dunbar on a 10-week trip to Europe to study prison reform methods. Mr. Dunbar and Mr. Cotnam sail on Monday on the Queen Mary. "We are interested in the financial aspects of the set-up and what it would cost to establish similar systems here," said Mr. Frost.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

LESSON NO. 985
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

If you pick your spot, you are really hot. This is the thought that keeps bobbing up whenever a singleton lead is being considered.

The hearts in a deal are distributed as shown here:

WEST
EAST
♥Q 9 4 3 2
SOUTH
♥A 10 7 6

South is the declarer at a contract of four spades. You are in the west seat and your lead is the eightspot. What do you expect to gain thereby?

Your aim is to find the heart ace in your partner's hand. Your hope is that he will take it and return a heart for you to trump. But what is the percentage in favor of his having that ace?

The ace is not in your hand. One of the other three has it. One of them is your partner. The other two are opponents. Odds are thus two-to-one against your chances of success.

That's a sucker bet in any language that is printable. Only a sap takes such unnecessary chances. Particularly if some other lead offers better odds. Especially in a scientific game like bridge.

What is the objection to such a lead, if partner does not have the ace? You are likely to wreck partner's king or queen. You take the guess out of that suit for the declarer.

If you did not lead the singleton heart, will south know which way to finesse? Not without a guess. And he has a 50-50 chance of guessing wrong. Why make it easier for him?

There are times when a singleton lead is worth the gamble. But not merely because it is a singleton. Only because you may have other card holdings in other suits to compensate.

As a rule, a singleton lead is advisable only when you have no top lead and no desirable long suit lead. Despite this, there are plenty of partners who prefer a singleton lead to any other.

That's why some bridge players leave home.

RING 'GIANTS' TO MEET HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

THE BATTLE OF GIANTS — that's what Walter Gerow is calling the main bout he has lined up for next Friday at the Arena. Wladyslaw Talun the "Blockbuster" will heave his gargantuan frame in conflict with the mighty Milwaukean, Fred Von Schact.

And if the Arena ring holds up when those two behemoths crash into each other it should result in the loudest body-contact explosion the building has seen. Talun lost a disqualification decision here last week and the "biggest Pole on any street" left for Montreal in high dudgeon indeed.

Although Von Schact stands 6 foot five inches and weighs over two hundred and fifty pounds he will still be giving away three inches and some sixty pounds to the Blockbuster. In this case it's like putting a tiger in with an elephant. And what will happen no man knoweth.

In the meantime Walter Gerow is arranging to specially strengthen the ring platform and supports. Two other matches will have the rapidly climbing Sharpe brothers, Ben and Mike meeting Bunny Dunlop and Jan Gotch. These Sharpe brothers are six foot sixers and really spectacular.

Policeman Heavy Favorite to Win Golf Tournament

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Tadworth, Surrey, England, May 13. (CP Cable) — Henry T. Newport may be a policeman in the House of Commons but it is a cinch he will receive a sympathetic, if not an eager hearing when he talks golf in the lobbies of Westminster.

Henry is the "people's choice" to win the parliamentary golf tournament this year. His display Saturday when he hob-nobbed with peers and commons over the fairways of swanky Walton Heath Course made him a heavy favorite.

The tournament, arranged by the parliamentary golfing society, is open to newspapermen, policement and members of the two Houses of Parliament, Newport was the only policeman who took part in the event.

It attracted 26 entries, 10 peers, 12 commons and four "others", including besides Newport Admiral Sir Geoffrey Blake of the Black Rod (Sergeant-at-Arms in the House of Lords) and senior clerks E. J. Edenborough and H. R. M. Farmer.

Newport had easy victories in his first two rounds. He defeated W. S. Duthie, Conservative, six and five and C. S. Taylor, Conservative, five and four respectively. Lord Simon, president of the parliamentary golfing society and present title holder, was eliminated in the first round by Lord Teviot two up.

The third round of the event will be played in June.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, May 13 (AP)—Jan Clayton is back in Hollywood after a 15-month absence in which she acquired fame in two Broadway hits, a new husband and a special song.

I last saw Jan at a Hollywood party on the eve of her departure for New York. She had just played a romantic lead opposite Tom Drake in a Wally Beery picture, "This Man's Navy," and was disappointed about her movie career. So she was going to see if a stage play would change her luck. The play was called "Carousel."

When I saw her this week Jan was a different woman. A hit in "Carousel" and "Show Boat", she returned to the Culver City lot to star in "Jenny Was a Lady." She had with her a copy of a song called, "So Far," and the story behind it is one of the most touching in show business.

While Jan was starring in "Carousel," Jerome Kern picked her as the ideal Magnolia for his revival of "Show Boat". But she was already under contract. So the composer made a deal: he would write a song for Jan and give it to the studio if she could appear in the operetta. The studio accepted, but insisted on paying $1 for the song just to make it legal.

Kern died before the deal could be consummated. But Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II took over the obligation and supplied the $1 song, "So Far," in return for Jan's services.

Jan's husband is Robert Lerner, who now is studying law at New York University. The other day an actor asked what her husband was doing since he left the service. "He's unemployed," she said. "That's all right," the actor consoled, "a lot of veterans are having trouble getting jobs." He later discovered Lerner is heir to department store millions.

I'LL WAIT FOR YOU

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

CHAPTER 24

"I didn't think I'd ever hold you like this, darling, or say the thousand things I have to say only to you. You can't explain love but there are a lot of ways to say it....I had a swell speech worked out last night when I was driving but holding you close like this makes me forget it.... Is there any one else in the world this morning? I don't think so. Just us, darling, and somebody to make it legal. Oh, yes, and Edwina and Dick Fenton waiting in New York to watch us make it legal. They say they won't be cheated. They want to be there. But you haven't said a word. Hey, you're not going to jilt me again, are you?"

"Did I before? I apologized for falling in love with you that day. That seems such a long time ago, doesn't it? It doesn't belong to now, Norman. None of that belongs to now."

"Except us!" He was like a boy now, excited and delighted. He was the Norman of the picnic, the Norman who had bribed an orchestra leader to prolong the dance with her, the Norman who had called her Aphrodite. Tilting her chin with his hand, he said, "Edwina won't break in on this! You're so lovely.... I'm wound up like an eight-day clock. I've talked aloud to myself all the way here. 'She' won't have a white satin gown or whatever it is girls like to wear to be married in but she doesn't need it. She'll have orchids and a ticket to Hawaii'.... We're going to Hawaii on our honeymoon in case you don't know...."

"'And she'll have me, the lucky girl,'" you said to yourself...."

He laughed. "No! 'We'll have each other!' You're interrupting me...My business partners have been grand about it, though they did wag their heads sadly and asked, 'You getting married? That means we postpone our vacations! And we thought you went to Newton for your health!'"

"And father sent you here..."

"With his blessing —and your clothes. We all packed, Rosie, your father and I. Rosie cried, your father smiled a good deal and I made no sense at all. You'll find your clothes in a frightful state! But you can buy more on the way—in Chicago and Los Angeles and Honolulu. A national wardrobe...."

Suddenly he was serious. "Edwina told me about Alan. She told me everything. But I didn't know that your loyalty was no longer necessary until Alan stopped in New York. I didn't see him. He saw Dick before he went away. I don't know where he went. I didn't stop to ask. I made reservations on a ship going to Honolulu and I went to Newton—for you...."

"I was coming to you — today. I had a timetable. I knew we didn't have to wait any longer.. A friend is here with me. Let's go tell Ann...."

But Ann had fainted and the guests coming down to breakfast and the guests who had finished breakfast and who ordinarily would have gone to the lounge for warmth and to read were grouped about her, fanning her, rubbing her wrists and looking quite perplexed. Some one said, "She seems to have a good pulse but she's certainly taking a long time to come out of it."

They were married that evening in the living room of Dick's apartment and there was nothing to indicate the haste with which the wedding had been arranged. The fragrance of many exquisite flowers mingled in the large attractive room where Carol, very fair and very lovely in a simple blue frock, stood with Norman before a clergyman.

Only Edwina and Dick were there and to Edwina it was a far more impressive occasion than the elaborate church weddings she had attended. Wearing a brown frock she had bought in Paris two years ago, she felt dwarfed not only by the bigness of Dick and Norman but also by the bigness of the occasion. Like Ann, she did not know whether she was going to laugh or cry... Her thoughts went beyond this rainy September night to the years ahead for Carol and Norman. And often her thoughts of them were halted by the familiarity of the words she was hearing and she remembered her clear, quick, eager responses to the same questions...Now she felt on the outside looking in, like a hungry child with her nose pressed against a candy store window.

On the outside looking in... But the ceremony was over and Carol's radiant face turned to her. Norman, smiling now and happy, and handsomer than ever, gave her a resounding kiss and shook Dick's hand vigorously and soon everybody was talking at once and toasts were drunk and Carol, wearing the silver fox jacket that Edwina had bought for her that day and charged to Norman, and Norman were running through the rain again to Dick's car with Edwina and Dick following....

They made their train with only a minute to spare and there was little time for good-byes....

"Wear a lei for me," Dick shouted through the window.

Edwina threw them a kiss and watched them, standing very close together and looking so "right" together, as the train slowly moved away, leaving only steel and dampness and silence..

Dick said soberly, "It makes you rather speechless, doesn't it, seeing something like that? It makes me sad—because you feel left out in the cold, I suppose. I don't wonder he went off the deep end over her. She's gorgeous. And that isn't the end of their love story. The next chapters will be better."

He stuffed his hands into the pockets of his topcoat and pulled his hat down over his eyes.

"You can see them living in some lovely country place with a couple of lovely children. And you can see a lot of sunshine and love and happiness and peace.."

Edwina nodded. "Yes. And it all came true....Shall we go, Dick?"

"Where are you going now?" Dick Fenton said to Edwina as the train bore Carol and Norman away on the first stage of their honeymoon trip.

She wished he hadn't asked her that because she had no place to go except to her tiny apartment.

"Home." She tried to smile. "But you go on. I share a certain melancholy Swede's celebrated passion for walking in the rain."

On the street, glistening with rain, he turned to her again.

"I haven't asked you how you like your job, Edwina, or how you're making out in the new setup. Have you settled everything in Newton? Aren't you going back?"

"Everything is settled there; I don't owe a penny and I'm not going back—not for a long time anyway. And I like the job very much. Norman has been marvelous to me. Wouldn't let me be lonely."

"You're the bravest girl I've ever known."

"Because I've come down in the world and kept my chin up? I haven't come down, Dick. I've gone up. I've paid my debts and I'm straight with the world and I've something left over that I'm going to be very stingy about."

"When Cornelia comes back to town and Carol and Norman come back from their honeymoon, we'll have a party...."

"Thanks. That's sweet of you. But I won't be a third wheel for either of you and I can't afford your parties. I can't belong to the working-girl group in the daytime and go to your parties at night. And I won't let Norman and Carol feel responsible for me." Or sorry for me, she thought....

He smiled. "You're still the bravest girl I've ever known. If it hadn't been for you, the world would be minus two happy people tonight on their way to Hawaii, and a boy who made one mistake in his life would be on trial rather than free and honest, his debts paid, too.

"You think Carol is the heroine, Carol who is beautiful and who has just married the man she loves? No, you are, Edwina. And we'll never forget it. I thought I was a pretty hard-boiled attorney until the night I saw you come up those steep dark steps to Mr. Hartley's rooms. Alan came first and you followed him. There was significance in that. You made him come....and you set him free and you gave Carol her great happiness...."

She looked up at his hat from which the rain was dripping.

"Stop it, or you'll have me either conceited or in tears, and I've had so much fun today, ordering flowers for the wedding and buying that jacket for Carol, the first really luxurious, expensive thing she's ever had. You're getting soaked, Dick. Good-bye."

She heard his thoughtful good-bye as she turned and walked away, a slim, graceful figure who hoped that when she reached the apartment hotel where she had taken a one-room, kitchenette and bath apartment no one would see her, and if by chance some one did, he or she would not be able to distinguish rain from tears.

Edwina was working full-time now at her typing job with Norman's firm though later, when the schools opened, she would work only half-time so that she could take up several studies. Now each day was the same—the alarm clock calling her from sleep, the hastily prepared breakfast in the kitchen so tiny she could scarcely turn around, then hurrying into her clothes and meeting on the street other girls whose lives were the same as hers. The huge office building seemed to swallow her and then expel her, once for luncheon at some crowded, inexpensive, noisy place, and once again at 5 o'clock to walk back to the tiny apartment, to cook again and to spend an evening alone.

Despising self-pity, she told herself that she had brought this dull, unchanging life upon herself by her extravagance and recklessness, and yet each evening when she stepped from the office building and paused a moment to buy a newspaper and then began the long walk home, she was sick with loneliness. Not that it was her former life she wanted, a life of parties and clothes and demanding men and women and late hours and liquor and emotional conflicts. It was that she had found herself a misfit among the girls at the office and the girls at the apartment hotel, who had read about her for the last five years and who regarded her, some with awe, some with jealousy, some with open animosity and ridicule. And she was determined not to be either a responsibility or an object of pity to Carol and Norman or Dick.

She was walking home, the newspaper tucked under her arm, her small feet moving quickly, then stopping to wait for a traffic light to change, then moving again .. But why was she hurrying, she asked herself. She had nothing to go back to and as she looked into other faces, she saw courage and drabness and weariness in most of the passing parade.

Gallantly she was fighting what had always frightened her more than anything else—loneliness. For these three weeks since Carol and Norman had been married had taught her that she could not bear loneliness. When you were rich, you could bribe loneliness with pleasure and people, even though the pleasure as well as the people were false. But you were never completely alone.

Now loneliness was a drifting and an aching void; minutes dragged and each day was the same as the day before. Her life, which she had wanted so much to make purposeful and full, had become purposeless and empty, and her strength and her new ambition were utilized only in eight hours at a desk before a typewriter.

Pausing in a knot of people, she thought: It isn't that I'm ungrateful to Norman. I'm terribly grateful. It was he who taught me how to be generous and unselfish, and I'd like to go on being like that. I don't mind being poor and unknown. But I can't bear to be so alone after Norman's friendship ..

In the modest apartment hotel, she went to the desk and asked for her mail, her spirits rising when she saw that there was a letter for her and a card, the letter from Amy Durfee and the card from Carol and Norman, the latter another of the series of cards she had received from Hawaii. Stepping into the elevator, she came face to face with three girls who would, she suspected, begin to talk about her as soon as she got off! "That was Edwina Burke," they would probably say. "She has a job and lives here. Spent all her money. It's her own fault.."

The little apartment she entered was the typical apartment of a working girl who lives alone and who cooks and does small domestic chores for herself. The studio couch was both sofa and bed, and there was one comfortable chair, a table, a lamp, a chest of drawers and a small radio. On the wall were two flower prints and a hanging bookshelf. Furniture from the house in Newton, which she had not given with her gift to the museum or sold to Mr. Lane, had been stored in the attic of the Newton house with Mrs. Lane's permission after a long and thoroughly pleasant telephone conversation. There was nothing in this room or in the kitchenette to remind her of the splendor of the house in Newton.

Pulling off her hat, she sank wearily in the chair and read the card, "Much love from Carol and Norman" and, smiling wistfully, put it aside as one puts aside something to be treasured and looked at again. Then she tore open Amy's letter; Amy had written chiefly not of herself but of Edwina. In part, the letter read:

Smart Girls Always Carry Paradol in their Handbags

They know that Paradol will relieve them quickly of headaches, and other discomforts, as well as help to check colds.

One girl writes,—"Until I used Paradol every month I suffered almost unbearable pains. It is the most quickly effective relief I have ever used and there is no disagreeable after effect."

DON'T -just complain of itching, burning PILES! do something about it!

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any rectal itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when so fine a remedy may be had at such a small cost. Money back if you are not entirely pleased.

NOTE—The sponsor of this notice is an old, reliable firm doing business in Canada for over 20 years. Hem-Roid must help your annoying and painful pile condition—must do it quickly, easily and pleasantly or your own test of this remarkably successful formula costs you nothing. Try it today.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

Toronto, May 13 (CP)— The Mining groups and the Western oils were down moderately on the Stock Exchange at noon and the Industrials had an index gain of .45. Trading was dull on the whole and the turnover for the first three hours was 882,000 shares.

In the Industrial Section the Liquor, Utility, Senior Oil and Steel stocks were higher.

The Gold group harbored a few strong spots.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, May 13. (AP) — Scattered favorites continued to make a fairly good showing in today's stock market although many leaders displayed mild retreating tendencies.

The return to work of the coal miners was viewed as constructive but numerous customers still were skeptical regarding the labor picture and its repercussions on second quarter corporate net.

Dealings tapered after a moderately active opening and declines of fractions to a point or so predominated near the fourth hour.

Actress Thrilled With Life in Canada

Toronto (CP)—The Toronto cabbie stared at his blonde passenger to the point of rudeness, said "Didn't I see you in a London show?"

It has been like that since Georgina arrived from England on an erstwhile banana boat. Because thousands of Canadians in the armed forces saw her on London's West End stage, the Marigny theatre in Paris, and the theatres of Brussels, Rome, Naples and Bari—to mention a few.

Romance brought Georgina (that's her stage name) to Canada, caused her to spurn a brilliant career on the London stage. She married a Canadian war correspondent, Allen Nickleson, on three days' notice in London, played her usual role in the musical comedy, "Irene", two hours after the wedding.

As for Canada, she "loves" it, can't get over travelling hundreds of miles and "still being in the same country, even the same Province."

"And why didn't someone tell me about hockey," said the young actress-singer. "When I saw my first hockey game I nearly went crazy. I never saw anything so fast, so exciting. And I actually embarrass my friends at games because I shriek so much."

The greatest sports thrill she ever had came when Winnipeg Monarchs beat St. Michael's College for the Memorial Cup. She was rooting for Monarchs "because they were the underdogs." (Which is typical British).

Tummy Did Flip-Flops

"I was never so excited in all my life and my tummy did flip-flops the whole way through. There's nothing like that in Britain."

Georgina recently made her first public appearance in Canada. A soprano, she was a featured artist at a Toronto concert. A newspaper music critic, noting her songs were most beautiful, said: "Her voice is purest, lightest soprano and her enunciation faultless."

Georgina, tall and just turned 24, likes her welcome to Canada. It was at Halifax and she and her husband had just stepped off the boat, were awaiting a train to the east in the station rotunda.

A Canadian sailor touched his hat, said: "Pardon me, but didn't I see you about 10 days ago at His Majesty's Theatre in London?"

"I knew right then that I was going to like Canada," Georgina said. "It was such a heart-warming welcome."

Before going into "Irene," Georgina toured Egypt and Italy with "The Merry Widow," and arrived back in London the day before D-Day. Later the show toured Europe, went close to the fighting lines.

Georgina feels it a "pity" that Canada, because of its scattered population, has no great stage life, such as London or New York.

"But I think the theatre in Canada, now that the war is over, will boom as much as it can," she said. "Hundreds and hundreds, of Canadians never saw the legitimate stage until they went overseas—and they got to like it. There were always plenty of Canadians on leave in the various London theatres, and in the war zones, too."

Aussies Arbitrate Reduced Work Week

Melbourne, Australia (CP)—A court hearing this month will determine whether a 40-hour week is to be introduced generally in Australian industry. Five judges, sitting as the full arbitration court, will hear the case which may last two months.

The printing industry employees' union has laid a claim before the court for a 40-hour week, and 47 other unions, the federal government, state governments, chambers of manufactures and individual employees, have applied for the right to intervene. Powerless to pass national 40-hour-week legislation, the federal government has intervened to make the reduced week a general issue.

India Takes Steps To End Illiteracy

New Delhi (CP)—A universal system of free, compulsory education for India has been recommended by the National Planning Committee, established by the Indian National Congress in 1938. Pandit Jewaharlal Nehru is chairman of the committee. It is proposed to spend $660,000,000 annually on this scheme and to conscript 250,000 educated Indians to carry out the plan.

The scheme also includes an adult literacy program for both sexes, free nursery classes and the use of motion pictures and radio as part of the educational program. The committee suggests that the cost of the campaign could be met by the funding of private agricultural debts through the state at a lower rate of interest than at present.

It is estimated that at present only 12 per cent of the population of India is literate, and the intention is to eradicate illiteracy over a period of eight years.

NEW INDUSTRY

New Delhi (CP)—The government of India is preparing the establishment of an aircraft industry in India. A delegation of British experts has been despatched to India to discuss technical aspects and advise on the necessary preparations.

CAR PLUNGED, CHILDREN KILLED

When their car plunged into the Nanaimo river, B.C., Mr. and Mrs. Earl R. Sleen and their four children, ABOVE, were killed. The children are Derrick, two; Douglas, one; Diane, eight, and Denise, four. With two other occupants, who were also killed, the Sleen family were returning to Victoria after a pleasure trip.

Course Supplies New Personality

Toronto (CP)—If the office secretary suddenly blossoms out with newly-acquired charm, poise and grooming, chances are she's been attending classes at Dress Rehearsal Limited.

The idea of doing something to bolster the self-confidence of young girls entering the business world occurred to Mrs. Inez Misener Pierson while she was studying at the Cleveland Playhouse. She decided that pointers in stage deportment for young actresses were just as valuable in everyday life.

In conjunction with Anton Diffring, stage and radio actor, Mrs. Pierson set up Dress Rehearsal Limited to supply courses in such vital subjects as business psychology, individualized make-up and how to wear an evening gown.

Organized six months ago as a dramatic school, Dress Rehearsal Limited supplies three-month courses in dramatic and radio technique as well as its personality courses for the young businesswoman.

Ignorance Not Bliss --Bewildered Marine

Melbourne, Australia (CP) — An American marine has dished out a Dorothy Dix-like enquiry to Melbourne's town clerk, H. S. Wootton. He wants to know if he was married while he was in Melbourne in 1943. The letter from Chelsea, Mass., runs:

"Will you be so kind as to check your service records, or rather your marital records, to see whether or not I, Corporal Frederick J. Mugford, U.S.M.C., was married while I was stationed in Melbourne, Victoria, Australia, from January 1, 1943 to October 3, 1943, with the 1st Marine Division, B. Company, 1st Btn., 1st Marines?"

Mr. Wootton has sent the letter on to the state statisician whose department records the three big events in most lives—birth, marriage and death.

Made Trip For Bride Returns With Cattle

Adelaide, Australia, May 13—(CP) — A returned soldier who made a special trip to England to bring back his bride returned to Australia without his wife but with four prize bulls and four heifers. He is H. A. Burns, of Adelaide.

Burns met his wife while serving in England in 1940. He returned to Australia believing that she would follow soon after. He waited a year and then went back to England. In England he found, after waiting some months, that he could not get a passage to Australia for either his wife or himself.

Finally, a single passage on a ship was offered on the condition that he groomed and fed a consignment of cattle during the trip.

He escorted the animals to Sydney where he got the good news that his wife hoped to leave England soon.

Army Biscuits Ease Shortage

Capetown (CP)— To aleviate the acute bread shortage in South Africa, 9,000 48-pound cases of surplus army biscuits have been made available to the War Stores Disposal Board for sale to both the European and non-European public.

The biscuits are being sold at the cost price of 30s. ($6.75) a case, at which rate the price works out at 7 1-2d. per pound, which is "quite cheap." According to Major W. Geach, the secretary of the War Stores Disposal Board, 3,000 cases have already been sold.

Three Arrested Armed Robbery And Theft of Car

Kingston, May 13 (CP)—Harry Hout, 21, of Riverside, Theodore Valentine, 26, and Arthur Barker, 32 of Windsor, were arrested Saturday night on charges of armed robbery and car theft.

The three were alleged to have been driving in a car, reported stolen from the Belle River district. They were said to have driven away from a service station at Gananoque earlier in the evening after refusing to pay the operator for gasoline.

Found in their possession were a loaded 32 calibre revolver and stolen motor licence markers.

Dad's Music Scorned By Menuhin Children

London, May 13 (CP) — Yehudi Menuhin's playing may be to most people the world's greatest violin music, but to five-year-old Krov and six-year-old Zamira—his son and daughter — it is "just an old scraping noise."

The youngsters solemnly told a reporter that "Mummy" at her piano plays much better.

Both parents say it is wrong to teach music to an unwilling child. "It spoils them for life," said Mrs. Menuhin. "They enjoy music more if it is not forced on them early in life," said the father.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop and ma went to a party last night, and this morning ma said, I never saw anybody with such perfect manners as Blantch Hipple's brother from Chicago.

Do you mean that long lean jack in the box that seems to spend half his time up in the air? pop said, and ma said, Now William that's no way to speak of a naturel gentleman who rises to his feet instinctively whenever a lady leaves or enters the room.

He didn't rise to his feet, he leeped like a scared kangaroo, pop said. The ferst time he did it I thought he had sat on a pin, and then I realized his mother must of had a bad fright when she slipped on a book of ettiquette before he was born. It's sudden leepers like that who cause dangerous panics by creating the impression that bildings are on fire, he said.

You're just talking from pure jellissy because all the ladies thought he was so charming, ma said. Why, a woman hardly had time to reach for a cigarette when low and behold he was right there bending over her with his lighter lighted, she said, and pop said, You can take my werd for it he's bernt the end of more than one woman's nose trying to break his own record for the 3 yard cigarette dash. And if you knew anything about accident insurance statistics, you'd realize how many men have broken their legs on slippery floors sprinting to light a woman's cigarette, he said.

I realize you're just talking to cover up your own lazy sitting ways, that's what I realize, ma said, and pop said, If you really want the low down on that cigarette dasher from Chicago, he's really an inveterate duck hunter, and all his apparent politeness with that lighter of his was just a dodge to train his eyes to be the ferst to spot a duck in the sky and his fingers to be the first to pull the trigger.

Oh, drink your coffee, ma said. Which he did.

Winnipeg Inspector Is Bicycle Sleuth

Winnipeg (CP)—A candidate for the title of Sherlock Holmes of the bicycle stealing racket is inspector W. T. Hamilton of Winnipeg who in the past 12 years has scientifically recovered 9,136 stolen bicycles—some of them imported here from Montreal and Vancouver.

Proof of his efficiency is in the fact that of 796 bicycles stolen in Winnipeg last year, 714 were recovered. The stolen bicycles had a value of $33,490.

Mr. Hamilton recalls as outstanding the "Case of the Hanging Bicycle" which was solved in 1938. It was a boiling hot day in July when he stopped at a farmhouse near Winnipeg for a drink of water before continuing his search.

A woman answered the door and offered him a drink from a pail but when Mr. Hamilton suggested the water in the well would be cooler she offered him wine.

Mr. Hamilton, alert with suspicion, went to the well for a drink and there was the bicycle—hanging at the end of a rope.

Canadian police chiefs say that Winnipeg is the city where bicycle thieves are most likely to fail. Convictions on the charge send some to the penitentiary.

A 73-year-old man was recently convicted of stealing bicycles and sentenced to two years in Stoney Mountain penitentiary.

"I guess this is my last trip to Stoney," he said. "I've lost my keys."

7,000,000 Britons Get Defence Medal

London (CP)—Altogether 7,000,000 Britons are entitled to the Defence Medal and 150 miles of medal ribbon will be used for cutting individual ribbons, 2 1-2 inches long.

Ribbon will be available before the medals which will require many tons of bronze, though each will weigh only one ounce.

Four million civilians and 3,000,000 servicemen and women are invited to go to any post office and "fill out the appropriate claim form."

WANTS VOTES FOR BIRTHS

Goulburn, Australia (CP) — Higher birthrate in Australia should be encouraged by giving fathers an extra vote for every son, mothers an extra vote for every daughter, W. C. Wentworth suggested at a meeting at the Australian Institute of Political Science.

Noted Murder Case Again Before Court

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

Auckland, N.Z. (CP)— New Zealand's most notable cause celebre, which is like the Dreyfus case in the persistence with which it comes forward for revision, has again come before the courts. This is the Eric Mareo murder case, in which a new appeal is being sought.

It is 11 years now since the tragedy which led to Mareo being sentenced to death for the murder of his beautiful young wife. The sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, but since then there has been an appeal, a retrial, three petitions to Parliament for revision, and notable English toxologists have written monographs on the case and its findings.

The case provided one of the greatest sensations in New Zealand criminal history even when it first occurred. Both parties were known throughout the country. Mareo came here early in the thirties after much experience in Europe and like a meteor became almost overnight the most prominent musical personality in New Zealand. He had a gift for making music popular that created something of a revolution in a not notably musical country.

He founded and conducted the Mareo Symphony Orchestra which scored immediate triumphs and later, the Mareo Operatic Society which had an equally brilliant success. This was in no small part due to his wife, a remarkably beautiful and talented actress and singer.

In 1935 Mareo was arrested on a charge of murdering his wife by administering overdoses of veronal. The trial lasted nine days and provided sensations each day. An appeal that the verdict of guilty was against the weight of evidence was rejected.

Fresh evidence was brought to light and a retrial was ordered, witnesses being brought from Australia to support the defence case that the veronal had been self-administered intentionally or automatically while the victim was under the drug's influence. This trial lasted 14 days and the verdict was the same.

Parliament has rejected three petitions for revision which have been before it, but a new method of approach was opened up last year when an Act was amended which makes a new appeal possible. The first application to come forward under the amended Act is the Mareo case.

This time the defence seeks to bring witnesses from England to support its case.

one reason why

132,000 Borrowers Preferred the B of M in 1945

There are a lot of reasons why 132,000 Canadians chose to borrow for personal purposes at the Bank of Montreal last year, just as there are a lot of reasons why well over a million people choose this bank as their depository.

Perhaps the most important reason is that, here at the Bank of Montreal, they can obtain personal loans at the lowest cost.

Nowhere can you borrow more cheaply or on more favourable terms than at the B of M. And nowhere will you find formality and red tape so cut away.

Because of the low cost, convenient terms, and the friendly, helpful approach of our people, you, too, will enjoy dealing with the B of M when you have need to borrow money.

A point to remember is: when you ask for a loan at the B of M, you do not ask a favour.

Iranian Army Hastens Plans for War

Military and Tribes In North Reported Supporting Shah

Premier Qavam Says He Seeks Peaceful Settlement

Tehran, May 14. (AP) — The Iranian army hastened preparations for war today although the central government appeared determined to pursue its announced policy of a peaceful settlement of the Azerbaijan problem.

Iranian sources expressed belief that the military and the local northern tribes were swerving from government control to back the young Shah, their commander-in-chief.

Premier Ahmed Qavam, in a public statement on the "postponement" of the Azerbaijan negotiations, said he was attempting "with the best intention and peaceful attitude to solve the problems". He said he hoped "the good intentions and patriotism I felt among the representatives from Azerbaijan will prove sufficient to relieve the anxiety felt by the public."

Azerbaijan is the northern province bordering Russia in which a semi-autonomous regime was established during the Russian occupation.

Premier Qavam said recent negotiations between the central government and a delegation from Azerbaijan had foundered on three major differences.

Difference Listed

These differences, which included an Azerbaijan demand for redistribution of large estates and public lands, were announced in a communique as:

1. The Iranian government claimed the right to appoint a provincial governor general of Azerbaijan. Jafar Pishevari, Azerbaijan "premier", insisted that the governor be selected by the provincial council.

2. The Iranian government likewise claimed the right to appoint army and gendarmerie officers. Pishevari insisted that they be commissioned by the provincial council.

3. Pishevari proposed redistribution of estates of land owners and the decision of public lands among peasants. Iranian officials maintained such a move would be unconstitutional and could be taken only if authorized by parliament.

Qavam said Pishevari's delegation returned to Tabriz yesterday "to report and receive instructions" after the conference ended in a stalemate.

Gang Warfare Not Blamed for Accident

Toronto, May 14. (CP)—Police conferred today with Judge J. L Stewart of the Juvenile Court to determine court action to be taken in the death of 19-year-old Walter Zenuk, fatally injured by a giant skyrocket Sunday night.

A senior police official said that if a charge were laid it would be manslaughter and he expressed the view that only one person would be charged.

Inspector Frank Crowe repeated a denial that gang warfare was to blame for the accident. "This was no gang warfare. It was just a bunch of boys setting off fireworks for amusement."

Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson has ordered an inquest, the date to be fixed later.

Meanwhile an official of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department said if it had the authority it would like to ban use of fireworks, except under specified occasions and under supervision.

Weather Synopsis

Synopsis: Ottawa and the eastern United States are experiencing a southerly flow of moist warm air giving mostly overcast skies and widely scattered showers. This flow is expected to continue for today and most of Wednesday, as the cool dry air mass now over the Prairie Provinces is moving this way very slowly. Interaction between the two air masses is causing snow in Northwestern Ontario, Southern Manitoba and the Dakotas.

BELGIUM CLAIMS SPAIN IS REFUGE FOR L. DEGRELLE

Complaint Says Franco Refuses to Hand Over Rexist Leader

New York, May 14 — (AP) — The question of war criminal extradition was raised indirectly before the U. S. Security Council's subcommittee on Spain today by a Belgian statement emphasizing that Franco Spain has become a refuge for the Belgian Quisling, Leon Degrelle.

The Belgian complaint was filed in support of Polish charges that Spain is a hideaway for Nazi war criminals and scientists engaged in atomic research.

The Belgian government told the sub-committee that Franco has refused to hand over the former Belgian Rexist party leader who pursued a politico-military career with Hitler's armies of the east and west before his escape by plane into Spain more than a year ago.

"This refusal to extradite this notorious war criminal and collaborator has caused bad feeling between Belgium and Spain," the Belgians said in response to the committee's request to U. N. members for information on Spain. The statement made no formal request, however, that the U. N. support Belgian extradition efforts.

Negotiations for Degrelle's extradition were said to be under way last summer after Spanish police reported an attempt to kidnap him, but the Belgian government recently announced further efforts had failed.

A Belgian court in December, 1944, was reported to have sentenced him — in absentia — to be shot for collaboration with the Nazis and he now is being sought for trial before the Brussels High Court of Justice. Degrelle was decorated by Hitler for leading German troops on the eastern front, where he was reported wounded in 1942, and was wearing the uniform of a German colonel when he crash-landed on a Spanish beach May 8, 1945.

WANT COMMITTEE OF HOUSE TO DRAW BILL OF RIGHTS

Commons Rejects Bill Which J. Diefenbaker Sought to Include In Citizenship Bill

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, May 14. (CP)— A suggestion that a parliamentary committee be established to draw up a Bill of Rights was advanced in the Commons yesterday by Veteran Minister Mackenzie before the House rejected a Bill of Rights which John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) sought to have included in the Canadian Citizenship Bill.

Mr. Mackenzie said it was his own wish to see such a committee set up and he would be pleased to discuss the question with other members of the government. Through such a committee all parties could consider what should be in a Canadian Bill of Rights and the provinces could be consulted.

Mr. Diefenbaker had moved an amendment to the Citizenship Bill so that it would contain a clause outlining the rights of Canadian Citizens.

"May I say to my honorable friend," said Mr. Mackenzie, "that the place for that is not in connection with this Bill, the place for that is in those terms which may be brought to reality in a year or so from now, terms which would contain a joint declaration of this parliament and sent, if necessary, for such comment as might be made upon them to the Provinces of Canada.

The amendment was rejected without a vote.

Cannot be Defined

Mr. Mackenzie, concluding debate on Mr. Diefenbaker's Bill of Rights, said human rights, political rights and economic rights could not be defined by charter. Basically and fundamentally they were in the soul and spirit of man. Canadians had had to fight for their rights and they still were fighting for them today.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, Angus MacInnis (CCF—Vancouver East) and David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) stressed the need for a Bill or Charter of Rights, but favored it a separate measure and not as part of other legislation.

Nazi Militaristic Literature And Military Memorials to be Destroyed

Berlin, May 14 — (AP) — A purge of German Fascist and militarist literature, criticized in some Allied quarters as "akin to the Nazi book burnings," has been ordered by the four-power Allied control council.

Destruction of Nazi and German military memorials of the two great wars also was directed by the council, in orders approved by its co-ordinating committee. Many monuments already have been razed.

"The Americans agreed to the principle of banning books glorifying Nazi theories and German military tradition," said Miss Vivian Cox, assistant to the deputy director of the American armed forces division.

She asked that the Americans "fought this order at the start on the argument that if people wanted to retain banned books they would find places to hide them. So we insisted either on a law naming specifically the material to be destroyed or to leave all decisions to the discretion of zone commanders. The latter was agreed upon."

An American public relations officer, announcing that the order on literature would be published May 20, disclosed some of its details in advance.

He said it provides for a purge "to eradicate in all forms Fascist, militarist and anti-democratic ideas in Germany through confiscation and destruction of Nazi literature and other media of propaganda.

"Owners of circulating libraries, bookshops and publishing houses, all former state and municipal libraries and heads of all universities and schools must hand over to the military commandants all Nazi and military propaganda in their possession."

Miss Cox said private libraries were excluded.

"Textbooks, magazines, newspaper files and films containing Nazi racial theories and other propaganda, as well as instructions, maps and diagrams used for military training of troops are included in the list of material to be surrendered for destruction," the public relations officer said the order would stipulate.

The order, said to have been sponsored by the French and hotly debated by the co-ordinating committee, would require that the banned books be surrendered within two months, with as yet unspecified penalties provided for disobedience.

Beef Supplies Tighten And Butter Shortage Slackens Says Board

Ottawa, May 14 (CP)—The Prices Board said today in a monthly summary of the Dominion's food situation that beef and butter had taken top priority in the public interest, with a tightening up of beef supplies and a slackening of the butter shortage.

The survey also showed that while larger cities, particularly Toronto, were the first to feel the pinch of beef distribution, there was ample meat, such as lamb, veal and other cuts, going into domestic markets in Canada to satisfy the consumer ration of two pounds a person a week.

In dairy products, British Columbia reported canned milk so short that retailers delivered only to housewives for infant feeding. Retailers required baby's ration books, showing name and age, before making deliveries. Northern Alberta was short on evaporated milk.

There was general improvement in the butter situation for consumer needs at present but storage supplies were far below normal, with cheese factories resuming operation in May.

Cattle Go to Pasture

"A slump in milk and butter may result, but this should clear up spotty shortages at various points," the Board said. "This should be overcome, however, when cattle go to pasture."

Depleted stocks of beef in British Columbia, Southern Alberta, Ontario urban centres and the Maritimes were in part due to a seasonal decline in cattle deliveries, but also to less marketing of cattle to stockyards and packers. Sales were mostly to smaller buyers.

Nova Scotia, Quebec, New Brunswick and Manitoba have a "fair amount" of pork and pork products. While supplies elsewhere were not always sufficient for demand, they were more plentiful than for some time. A few lambs were offered for Easter trade in Ontario, but frozen lambs and storage stocks were more prevalent. New Brunswick had a surplus of mutton.

Sausages were reported adequate for the needs.

The mid-month adjustment in the mark-up basis on imported cabbage, carrots, beets, turnips and onions, resulted in better distribution. Limited hothouse supplies were available, such as to-

HUSBAND HELD FOR SLAYING OF INDIAN BRIDE

Leslie Hill Surrenders to Police Five Hours After Wife Dies of Stab Wound

London, Ont, May 14. (CP)—A 21-year-old Brantford Indian was due to appear in court today and Crown Attorney Claude Savage of London, said he will be charged with murder after the fatal stabbing of Kathleen Hill, his pretty 20-year-old bride of two weeks.

Mr. Savage, who announced the court appearance, added that a date probably will be set for a preliminary hearing during the session.

The youth, Leslie Hill, surrendered to police yesterday five hours after his wife collapsed in the doorway of her mother's home—a cabin on the Chippawa Indian Reserve, 25 miles west of London. Her stepfather, Amos DeLeary, said she gasped: "He stabbed me," before she lapsed into unconsciousness, bleeding from a cut jugular vein.

Argument Started

"I was working in the front yard and Mrs. DeLeary and her daughter, (Mrs. Hill), were sitting on chairs on the lawn when Hill came out of the house," Mr. DeLeary said. "Hill wanted Kathleen to go to Brantford with him, but she refused until he got a job there. Then she said she would come down later.

Siamese Twin Girls Born Week Ago, Die

Portland, Ore., May 14. (AP)—The Siamese twin girls, born here a week ago to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hurse, Deep River, Wash., died in hospital today.

One twin succumbed at 6.35 a.m., and the other 25 minutes later.

Hospital attendants reported the 26-year-old mother both saddened and relieved at the news. "She dreaded to have it happen," an attendant said, "although she felt that it would probably be the best thing."

The babies were born joined at the base of the spine. They never would have been able to walk.

The infants—Susan and Carol—weakened yesterday, after a brief period in which they grew stronger. Dr. Joseph V. Springer, the attending physician, had not expected them to live.

The father, a logger, was notified of the deaths this morning. He and Mrs. Hurse have two small healthy boys.

JOHN L. LEWIS WANTS WELFARE FUND FOR MINERS

Negotiators in Soft Coal Strike Run Into a $70,000,000 Obstacle

Washington, May 14 — (AP)—Soft coal negotiations in the United States collided with a $70,000,000 obstacle today — the cost of the welfare fund John L. Lewis wants for his United Mine Workers (A.F.L.) each year.

Operators, taken by surprise by the proposal for a seven-per-cent payroll levy, withheld formal reply until Mr. Lewis spells out the rest of his contract demands.

But their reactions expressed privately to newspapermen raised doubts that the negotiations of the next 24 hours could produce the general agreement President Truman has asked for by tomorrow.

One producer termed the demand "ridiculous." Another, not a member of the negotiating committee, said: "We reject the whole damned principle."

As most of the 400,000 miners who have been on strike since April 1 returned to work yesterday under a two-week truce, Mr. Lewis' outline of the specific form he wants the welfare fund to take marked the first time since the talks began two months ago that he has laid down a concrete formula. The operators received it in an hour-long recital by the mine union chief shortly after they agreed to pay the miners $3,000,000 in back holiday wages which Mr. Lewis demanded as a condition to discussing a new contract.

Launches His Appeal

Then Mr. Lewis launched his appeal for improved life insurance for miners and their families, for hospital care, medical and surgical treatment and advances in cleanliness and sanitation. He asked for the seven-per-cent payroll fund to replace the average five-per-cent deductions now made from the miners' pay cheques for health and welfare items.

After that, Mr. Lewis renewed his mine safety demand, insisting again that the operators and miners agree to accept safety recommendations of Federal mine inspectors, these findings now are purely advisory, since enforcement powers rest with the states.

Government labor officials though the next two or three days would determine whether a settlement could be reached before the strike truce expires May 25.

Lewis' surprise demand for the payroll fund represented a shift from his strategy of a year ago when he asked for a 10-cent-a-ton royalty. This would have yielded the union $57,500,000 on 1945 production.

An operator spokesman said the payroll levy would add 14 cents to the cost of a ton of coal at the mine.

DEFENCE COUNSEL REPRIMANDED BY CHIEF JUSTICE

Court States Course Taken 'Highly Improper' and 'Very Indiscreet'

Ottawa, May 14 —(CP)— Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court today reprimanded defence counsel in espionage cases before him for "highly improper" conduct in sending "two parties" to interview potential jurymen last night.

At the opening of court, he said it had been brought to his attention that "certain of the panel" called for jury duty had been "interviewed."

He had immediately discussed this with defence and Crown counsel and R. A. Hughes, counsel for E. W. Mazerall, had told him that together with other defence lawyers he had authorized "these parties to interview" the jurymen for the purpose of obtaining "certain information."

Mr. Hughes had assured him "and I accept his assurance" that these parties "were instructed in no way to seek to influence the jury or ascertain their views" regarding the espionage cases.

"However," said the Chief Justice, "I want to say that in my view the course adopted by defence counsel was highly improper."

This applied to all counsel who authorized any communication with any juror who had been summoned and might be selected among the 12 who make up the petit jury.

(There were 53 men on hand when selection of a jury started.)

"I hope," Chief Justice McRuer added, "that this will never occur again in the courts of Ontario."

Mr. Hughes had said it was his intention only to obtain such information as to the background of the jurors as might be obtained from an assessment roll or other places" to assist in challenges in selection of the petit jury.

Chief Justice McRuer said he accepted this assurance "unreservedly." But the act was "very indiscreet."

"I'm sure the jurors in no way will be influenced", added the Chief Justice, "but say, for the guidance of counsel, that any recurrence may well be dealt with as contempt of court."

The jurors come as "judges." They were entitled to be left alone.

"I trust," he concluded, "that nothing that has occurred will be interpreted by anyone to in any way affect the judicial course of this trial."

Mazerall and three others pleaded not guilty late yesterday to conspiracy charges while charges under the Secrets Act itself were deferred. Only Mazerall pleaded to charges under the Act and he pleaded not guilty.

The other three were J. S. Benning, H. S. Gerson and M. S. Nightingale.

Meanwhile, the number who have elected speedy trial from among the 11 committed for trial here rose to five when Lunan elected that method rather than go before the jury in the Supreme Court. He also pleaded not guilty and his case was tentatively set over until May 31.

Sharp Decrease In Traffic Receipts Says C.N.R. Head

Railway 'Squeezed' Between Rising Costs, Frozen Rates

Ottawa, May 14 —(CP)— Increases in freight rates will be sought by Canadian railways to meet increasing operating costs, R. C. Vaughan, president of the Canadian National Railways, today told the Commons railway committee.

Mr. Vaughan made the announcement under questioning by King Hazen (PC-St. John-Albert), after the railway president had made a statement in which he said the railway was in a "squeeze" between rising costs, frozen rates and falling traffic.

He said no immediate consideration was being given to an application for increases in passenger rates. The amount of freight increases to be sought had not been determined. He recalled that United States railways had recently asked for a general 25 per cent increase in freight rates with special adjustments on some commodities.

Mr. Vaughan said it was likely the same general pattern would be followed in the application now being prepared by Canadian railways.

Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary East) asked what action was likely to be taken on particular commodities.

Transport Minister Chevrier said the decision would rest with the transport commission and interested parties would have an opportunity to appear before the commission.

$20,000,000 Lower

In a statement made to the committee as it launched a study of C.N.R. affairs, Mr. Vaughan estimated traffic receipts for the first five months of this year would be $20,000,000 below last year.

"We are in the toughest kind of a squeeze play," he said. "Our selling prices are frozen, but our production costs are mounting in onerous fashion. Even a continuation of traffic volume at wartime levels would not suffice to enable the railway to shoulder additional burdens of the magnitude I have outlined without relief of some sort.

"Traffic volume is now falling. In the month of April our receipts were down $4,341,000 or 12 per cent. Our May budget forecasts a decrease for that month of $7,171,000 or 19 per cent."

Mr. Vaughan commented his report on the railways outlook was in sharp contrast to the 1945 situation but he said he wished to leave no misconception about the situation the railway faced.

"Now we face new problems. The shortage of labor is behind us. The supply of repair material still remains difficult and in some cases critical. We have some arrears of maintenance to catch up. The supply of coal is a matter for anxiety . . .

While some expenses reduced as traffic dropped off others did not. The post-war traffic was less remunerative than that carried during the war. In the first quarter of 1946 car loadings increased and more freight trains were operated but revenue was lower. The same situation applied to passenger traffic.

"We are therefore doing more work for less money," he reported, "but we are much more concerned about the constantly increasing costs of operation."

Prime Minister King Sails for U.K., 'Strange' Passengers Go as Neighbors

New York, May 14 (CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King sailed today for the United Kingdom and the scheduled May 20 resumption of the Empire conferences. As neighbors he had, the strangest fellow passengers of his extensive travels—an assortment of snakes and turtles. There also was a Colombian siskin.

A number of alligators also were to have made the voyage in the cabin next-door-but-one to the Prime Minister's sun-deck suite aboard the Queen Mary but the owners of the 81,000-ton liner refused passage to the Saurian reptiles. They feared the damage and panic that might result should they break loose.

The turtles, 14 varieties, and the snakes—"really, just little ones only a foot or so long," said their possessor, Lt.-Cmdr. Peter Scott—are on their way to the London Zoo to replenish stocks depleted during the blitz. With the siskin, a rare bird similar to a canary, they occupied cabin S-22 with Cmdr. and Mrs. Scott. Mr. King's suite is S-18.

The turtles, snakes and alligators—the last are to go via slow freight, not on the luxury liner Queen Mary—were donated to the London Zoo by New York City's Bronx Zoo. Cmdr. Scott, recently out of the Royal Navy, has just completed a successful New York showing of his paintings and etchings for which he has won considerable note.

Cmdr. Scott's turtles will be fed en route with raw meat—"just little bits; any old stuff handy." Cmdr. Scott did not say what he will feed the snakes.

A. McCrimmon's Body Found In Marsh Near Home

Missing since mid-morning Sunday when he disappeared from his farm home near Milford, the body of Allan McCrimmon, age 35, was found by searchers late Monday evening in a marsh about one mile from his home.

Cecil Thompson, Cherry Valley farmer, probing the marshy terrain at the rear of the McCrimmon farm, discovered the body of McCrimmon in a sitting posture in a pool of water about four feet deep. He made the discovery when the stick he was using struck an unfamiliar object. It was McCrimmon's hat. Searching further Thompson found the drowned body of the thirty-five year old farmer.

It is believed that McCrimmon fell into the pool while climbing the boundary fence between his own farm and that of a farmer named Dodds. The pool is located directly inside the fence on the McCrimmon property. There is a possibility that he had wandered off his own farm and was returning, when the fatality occurred.

Police and Coroner Dr. Lighthall, Picton, were notified. Following investigation, Coroner Lighthall decided that no inquest would be necessary.

Approximately 200 farmers and neighbors, together with district school children searched futilely for Mr. McCrimmon throughout Sunday while Monday two bloodhounds from Ottawa were thrown into the search by provincial police.

McCrimmon disappeared from his farm home about nine-thirty on Sunday morning, when his wife and three of his four children, were away from the house. A daughter, Pearl, age 13, was in the home at the time her father went out but he did not state where he was going. The other children are, Gordon, age six, and twins, Clara and Keith, age three years.

Father of Accused Youth Testifies

Toronto, May 14 —(CP)— Ernest Warner, father of one of four Toronto youths charged with the murder by shooting of a storekeeper last Dec. 26, testified in assize court today that he had gone overseas with the armed forces at a time his son, Donald, 17, was 11 years old. He had enlisted shortly after the outbreak of war and did not return to Canada until August of 1944.

Wearing a discharge button, the youthful father gave evidence in a quavering voice as the eighth day of the trial opened before Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay. He looked directly at his son in the prisoners' dock as he spoke, then returned to his seat at the rear of the court as 19-year-old Howard Urquhart took the stand.

Urquhart, Warner, Edward Martin, 18, and William Mullen, 20, were arrested and charged with murder a few days after the slaying of 55-year-old Meyer Tobias in his North Toronto dress shop started one of the city's most intensive manhunts.

Urquhart told the same story from the witness stand as the Warner youth told yesterday, of the four being unable because of crowds to get into a downtown theatre last Boxing Day night, "so someone suggested we have a holdup."

They stole a car, Urquhart testified. Martin had a gun in his pocket "and when I asked him if it was loaded he said 'no'."

KINSMEN MAKE ARRANGEMENTS FOR TAG DAY

Arrangements for their forthcoming tag day on Saturday were completed by members of the local Kinsmen Club at their regular dinner meeting held at the Quinte Hotel Monday evening, following which initiation ceremonies for seven new members were conducted at the Belleville Yacht Club.

Tag day funds this year will be turned over to the Cancer Research Fund, for which the local Kinsmen Club have pledged themselves to the extent of $500.

New service club members who "rode the goat" in initiation ceremonies were Ross Schryver, Jack Sherwood, Ross Bailey, Jim Ward, Jim Walker, Jack McNabb and Barney Sheffield.

BARGE ON SHOAL OFF PT. TRAVERSE

A tow barge, believed to be loaded with oil, ran aground this morning on Gull Bay shoal, two miles off Point Traverse on Lake Ontario, according to word brought in by fishermen.

The barge was eastbound towards Kingston when it struck the shoal. It is being pounded by heavy seas but, as yet, none of the crew has been removed. The tug "Russell", American registry, is standing by to give any needed assistance.

It is thought that a faulty compass was the reason for the grounding as the crew believed their position to be near the Galloes Islands, about twenty-five miles from where the accident occurred.

Establishment of High School Districts Outside Cities And Towns New Trend in Education

S. D. Rendell of Department of Education, Toronto, Explains System to Rotary Club

A movement to establish high school districts outside of cities and towns in Ontario which will tend to equalize educational opportunities for rural students is now in progress across the province, S. D. Rendell, Ontario Department of Education, Toronto, told the Rotary Club on Monday.

"The high school districts, which will be set up by county councils, will not affect urban centres directly," Mr. Rendell said, adding that the movement to establish the districts would not be possible if it were not for a new system of grants whereby rural districts will be given greater financial assistance.

This new government system coupled with the district plan should result in bringing equality of opportunity to the rural urban centres.

Never Had Opportunity.

The rural student heretofore has never had the opportunity to obtain the type of education for which he is fitted, as compared to that of the urban student. "At present," the speaker said, "there are only two kinds of high school courses in Ontario, academic and so-called vocational. The Department is striving for something in between so that each student can get the type of education he is best fitted for."

"In rural Ontario 80 per cent of 426 secondary schools offer only the academic course. In urban Ontario you find both courses offered where a student can take his choice."

The new Department of Vocational Guidance steers pupils into their proper sphere in life. This is all right insofar as city schools are concerned where a student has his choice but in rural schools where only an academic course is available the student not suited to this, finally quits.

Lack Facilities

Rural schools, the speaker went on, lack libraries, gymnasia, auditoriums and cafeterias, and in this way the balance is entirely in favor of the urban student. The rural student does not get the thrill of a large assembly, the school band, or the opportunity to take a course which will teach him to use his hands.

A complete course of education cannot be derived from a textbook alone, Mr. Rendall told the clubmen. In the rural districts there are many brains to be salvaged; many aptitudes and skills to be developed. When the average assessment for high schools is compared to farms, there is not much difference, he said.

"Rural Ontario has been paying a fair contribution to secondary school education for many years, and I doubt if it has been getting its money's worth."

The high school distict idea, he went on, will take in townships and villages in an area 15 miles in radius and 30 miles across. "The Department's job is to try to convince the rural people to pool their money and students and concentrate on one area so they can have the same secondary school advantages the city schools have."

Want District in County

In Hastings County with an 18 million dollar assessment and 34,000 population, the department is trying to locate a high school district, outside of Belleville and Trenton in an area with 10 million dollars assessment. If this is done, it will be a step in the right direction, the speaker declared.

"If we can get this one school with 300 students, they will get the same advantages as those attending the Belleville school with the exception of highly specialized courses."

This size area may be too large in a snow country, but if the disadvantages of distance can be overcome, it will be found that the county school will offer the courses, and provide the accommodation comparable to the Belleville school, one of the better institutions in this part of Ontario.

Paid Grants

The operating costs of transportation in a high school district would be included in the operational costs of the school, and the district's school's grant would be paid accordingly. This grant would be based on assessment of the district, and attendance.

Mr. Rendall felt there will be many barriers to the proposition.

Some residents of rural areas want the local school, some business men would feel their business would be affected, and such things as town pride and tradition might stand in the way.

"Eleven townships in North Hastings to as far down as Limerick township, have expressed a desire to pool their resources and pupils for a school in Bancroft," Mr. Rendall said. This will have to be sanctioned by a County Council by-law, expected to be passed at the June session of that body.

"The Hastings County Council," he said, "through a special committee, will likely establish a suburban high school district to accommodate the southern townships. This district will "buy" its education from Belleville, submit its costs including transportation, etc., and get its own grant. By doing so it will get the proper type of education for its rural children.

Mr. Rendall addresses members of the county council, and educational authorities of the city and district at a special meeting tonight. He was introduced by Rotarian Jack Deacon, with club thanks expressed by Rotarian Roy Mackiem. Past President Lloyd Hicks was in the chair.

John Richards Held For Theft From Local Stores

Taken into custody over the weekend following complaints of shop-lifting in a local department store, John Richards, employee of a local shoe store, and Evelyn Roderique, 209½ Front Street, have been formally charged with theft, it was stated today by Inspector Clair Hayes of the local police department.

Richards has been remanded in custody awaiting trial, while Miss Roderique has been granted bail.

Following apprehension of the above named persons police officers made a search of a Front Street apartment and discovered a quantity of dresses, coats and purses and other articles which are alleged to have been stolen.

According to police Richards only last August was released after serving a penitentiary term for his part concerning a break-in at a Bridge Street jewellery store.

Will Investigate Death of Confessed Slayer's First Wife

White Cloud, Mich., May 14 — (AP) — County Prosecutor J. Donald Murphy said today he is asking investigation into the death of the first wife of Charles Gilbert, who has confessed the bludgeon slaying of his second wife and four-year-old stepdaughter.

Gilbert waived examination yesterday at his appearance for a preliminary hearing on two charges of murder in the deaths of his second wife, Gladys, 26, and stepdaughter Karen Greenwald. Their bodies were discovered last week in a shallow grave near Grant.

Police said inquiries are being made into Gilbert's story that his first wife died after falling while hanging a picture in their home. They quoted Gilbert as saying his first wife was pregnant at the time of her death. A post-mortem examination Saturday disclosed that his second wife also was pregnant when, Gilbert said, he killed her with a car crank April 19.

A three-man board has been appointed to give the 35-year-old Muskegon foundry worker a sanity test today.

In a signed statement Gilbert said he killed his wife because she had been cruel to Karen and their other two children. He killed the child, he said, because he realized "she could talk."

An investigation to determine whether the woman and child were alive but unconscious when Gilbert buried them is being dropped. Dr. Le Moyne Snyder, state police medical-legal adviser, reported the blows were severe enough to have caused instant death.

ROOSEVELT JR.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the late president, is attaching a dedicatory plaque to an interior door of the Pennsylvania Central Airlines' Capitaliner "City of Milwaukee". The "City of Milwaukee" is the famous air liner that carried President Roosevelt and his entourage to the historic Casablanca conference in 1943. It was dubbed the "Flying White House" after this mission.

James Melton, famous Metropolitan Opera tenor and star of stage, screen and radio, who will sing before a Belleville audience tonight at the Collegiate Institute in the final concert of the 1945-46 program of the Belleville Community Canadian Concert Association.

Concert Assoc. Given Outline Of Booking Program

"When the community concerts started in Canada about fifteen years ago, good music was limited to the larger cities and even these cities were not able to have regular concerts with top-notch artists. However by last December, regular community concerts were being held in 410 cities and this figure will probably reach 500 by the end of the year," said Mrs. Ethel Mills, community concert organizer from Oleonton, N.Y., when she addressed the annual meeting of the Belleville Community Concert Association at the Y.M.C.A. Monday evening.

"The interest in this particular kind of concert presentation is growing very rapidly and all over the country the attendance figures are going up," continued Mrs. Mills.

Fortunate to Get Melton.

The speaker outlined the method of booking concert stars for the community concerts and remarked that Belleville was very fortunate in securing James Melton for the concert tonight. "We have a great many new artists this year," said Mrs. Mills enumerating some of the new artists available for community concert appearances.

"We find that the New York reviews are not a good way to judge an artist," concluded the speaker. "What we want to know is what the towns around us think. That is how we judge an artist's ability."

The speaker was introduced by Harry Croll and thanked by R. E. Hachborn, president of the local association.

"This year the Belleville Community Concert Association is in a strange situation," said Mr. Hachborn. "A large number of membership renewals are already in and we have a long waiting list. The membership campaign is well on the way. I hope that we can establish a permanent waiting list this year."

The president paid tribute to Lt.-Col. B. C. Sisler who has been treasurer of the local association since its inception but has resigned due to pressure of business. He also thanked Mrs. P. C. McGuire and her committee and welcomed the new members to the committee.

483 Members at Present.

Mrs. W. H. Finkle, membership campaign chairman, outlined plans for the membership campaign. "We have 483 members to date as well as 85 student memberships." Mrs. Finkle urged the workers to take an active part in the reception of the artists.

George E. Currie, principal of B.C.I. & V.S. and newly-elected treasurer of the local Community Concert Association, thanked the body for offering student memberships. "It is a great thing that the young people are being given the chance to hear these great artists at such a modest fee," said Mr. Currie.

The chairman announced that there would be an exhibition of paintings from the National Galleries of Canada at the Collegiate starting Wednesday, May 15th., and lasting for three days.

R. E. Hachborn, President

Mr. Hachborn gave the results of the election of officers held recently. Officers elected included R. E. Hachborn, president; J. Deacon, W. H. JAMES FRASER
(Kingston, Ont.)

James (Jimmy) Fraser, 39, well-known in this city, and a former salesman for the Wray Furnishing Company here died suddenly at his home in Kingston yesterday following a heart seizure, it was learned here today.

The late Jimmy Fraser was born in Pembroke and received his early education in that town. He entered the furnishing business as a salesman at an early age, coming to Belleville in early 1937 to join the staff of the Wray Furnishing Company.

He was working for the Canadian Pacific Railway out of Kingston at the time of his sudden demise, and was recently married to the former Miss Marguerite Jenkins of that city.

Fraser was well-known in service club circles of this city and was associated with the Kinsmen Club during his stay here.

He joined the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in early 1940 and received the commission of a second lieutenant. He was unable to proceed overseas for medical reasons and served for over three years in Canada. He was attached to the training staff at Fort Frontenac for some time prior to his discharge in 1944.

HENRY J. CLARK
(Tweed)

Tweed, May 14 (Special) — Henry J. Clark, a life long resident of this village and district, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday, May 12th., after an illness of two weeks' duration.

Born in Tweed the late Mr. Clark was in his 81st. year and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Clark. He was engaged in the jewelry business for the past sixty years, part of which time he was in business in Marmora. He was a member of St. James' Anglican Church, Tweed, and was highly esteemed.

Surviving him are one son, Henry M. Clark, Drumheller, Alberta, and one brother, George E. Clark, Tweed.

The funeral took place this Tuesday afternoon to St. James' Anglican Church where the Burial Office was conducted by the Rev. Rural Dean W. J. Robinson, who also said the committal prayers at St. James' cemetery.

JAMES HENRY DOWSER
(Los Angeles, Calif.)

Word was received in the city recently of the death of James Henry "Hank" Dowser in Los Angeles, Calif. He was formerly of Belleville, having been born in this city, 75 years ago, being the son of the late Charles and Mrs. Wilder Dowser. The late Mr. Dowser had been retired for some years. After receiving his early education in this city he entered university and became a consulting engineer and then joined the Allis-Chalmers Company of Milwaukee, Wis, and completed such works as the filtration plant in Detroit and several other plants of the same nature in the United States, Europe, Australia and New Zealand. Mr. Dowser in his younger life in this city was an all-round athlete being an excellent swimmer and figure skater and on his many visits to the old town journeyed to the arena for a skate. He was a member of the Masonic Order and the Royal Arch Masons.

Surviving are four daughters and one son, all living in the United States. His wife predeceased him some years ago. A nephew and two nieces reside in this city.

Men Who Order Suits Now for Early Summer Delivery Just Plain Optimists

Patches this summer will be no sign of poverty according to a survey of those merchandising establishments that cater to the sartorial needs of the mere male.

Walk into a gentlemen's clothing store and tell the proprietor and his staff a joke. It may be humorous and produce a laugh. It may be not so funny and get just an amused snicker.

But if you want to hear howls of laughter, try this on them:—

"I would like to get measured for a suit of clothes, and would like to have it by the end of June."

That Samsonian quip will bring down the house, figuratively speaking.

The prop and his staff may glare at you with quizzical eyes. They will probably go into a crap-shooter's huddle from which will emanate such whispers as "I wonder if he has heard" or "Mebbe we had better call an alienist."

They may pat you on the back; proffer you a chair and ask you if you take water with the aspirin. They might offer to drive you home.

Because next to an enduring world peace within the next few weeks, or the rebate on overpaid income taxes, a custom-made suit of clothes is the hardest thing in the world to procure—within several months at the least.

Suit quotas in men's shops here, at least for the summer months, are bursting at the seams, the quotas, not the suits. The best the well-dressed male can expect, if he hasn't done so already, is to get his name on the list for autumn tailoring, then sit back and pray to his favorite resident of Olympus that he gets delivery before the guy with the scythe and whiskers officially welcomes in 1947.

So it looks as though a lot of males of the species will be wearing made-over summer clothes, and when that last resort comes to an end they may be wearing shorts on account of the lower parts of the pants being utilized for repair purposes on other garments.

And don't blame the poor men if they are seen promenading down the main thoroughfare this late summer in a pantless state. It won't be absent-mindedness—just the fact that the poor guys just "ain't got" suitable coverings for their nether limbs.

No Pre-war Plan Made For U-Boat War on Britain

—ADM. WAGNER

Nuernberg, May 13 — (AP) — Admiral Gerhard Wagner, former chief of the Nazi naval command staff, testified before the international military tribunal today that the German Navy drafted no pre-war plan of operations against Britain "because such a war appeared absolutely hopeless."

The witness, who appeared in behalf of Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, former naval commander-in-chief, said Britain's sea might was so overwhelming submarine warfare "was the only means we had to damage England, and it was not given preferential treatment" in pre-war planning.

As a result, he continued, Germany entered the war with only about 20 submarines fit for Atlantic service, "whereas Britain and France each had over 100."

Wagner declared the Nazi naval command decided, on the advice of the Foreign Office, to adhere strictly to the 1935 London agreement on U-boat warfare until it was clear that Britain was violating its terms, because "we recognized the power of enemy propaganda in the last war and didn't propose to give the enemy cause to speak against us again in the worst possible way."

Wagner said it was almost immediately apparent that the British were converting merchant ships into armed warships which engaged in numerous artillery duels with U-boats.

He said the German navy considered the old rules of submarine warfare had been outmoded by two new factors — the use of planes against U-boats and the development of radar and other electrical detection devices.

New Carrier Tactics May be Developed From Manoeuvres

On Board U.S.S. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the Caribbean, May 13—(AP)—New carrier tactics may be developed and old ones are likely to be modified as a result of 8th Fleet experiences in current training manoeuvres.

Captain Charles D. Griffin, fleet operations officer, said today tactics used in the Pacific are new in the Atlantic and since conditions vary in the two oceans, the fleet staff will prepare a report with recommendation for modification of tactics to fit them to the situation.

Aircraft carriers also will be changed, but only partly due to experiences during this manoeuvre.

One change in this class of carrier, rated at 45,000 tons, will be in the bow. The sides of the forward section will be made higher on the Coral Sea, now nearing completion at Norfolk, to avoid some of the water damage inflicted on the Midway during an Arctic storm on "operation frostbite."

Some less important changes such as relocation of life raft stations, will be made in the Coral Sea as a result of the Midway's experience. Hangar deck doors will be modified to strengthen them against the pounding of high seas.

Another change in this class will be modification of the Island — the raised portion on the starboard side of the flight deck which houses the primary control centres of the ship — so that the Admiral's bridge (known as the flag bridge) will be located at the forward part of the Island just below the navigating bridge as it is on the Essex class carrier.

Wide Divergence Of Opinion

Toronto, May 13. (CP)—A wide divergence of opinion throughout Ontario exits as to whether the bulk of money for Children's Aid work should be provided from public or private funds, Judge H. D. Lang, of Stratford, told the 31st annual meeting here Saturday of the Association of Children's Aid Societies of Ontario. He said reports showed 21 societies support the private fund principle, 16 are definitely opposed to provincial government direction of their work, six are interested in provincial support and eight local societies are divided in their attitude.

Revelation of Nazidom

One of the scenes which must surely impress German people has been enacted in the condemnation to death by hanging of 58 Nazis for the horrors which went on in the extermination camp at Mauthausen in which connection three others received life sentences.

This is one of the evidences of the sinister and foul attitude of the Nazis to the sufferings of humanity.

German atrocities have been a terrible shock to the world and all that had earlier been charged has been more than proven in the case of those who were in charge of Mauthausen camp.

The summary of the judgment of the military court was that it had found "irrefutable record of death by shootings, gassings, hangings, and regulated starvation" which made every official culpably and criminally responsible.

The depths to which Nazi criminality descended upon poor suffering humanity could not have been imagined or forecast. Dante's "Inferno" cannot even with its horrors rival the facts brought out at such trials as those at Mauthausen and other camps. Deeds of crime went on as if there were no thought of retribution. Criminal Nazis moved in a world of evil and of hatred of humanity and the records show to what depth below depth in suffering the masters and operators of such camps made the prisoners undergo.

The present world will not be able to conceive of any group of men descending to lower depths than those plumbed by the Nazis. They formed the most degraded organization of degraded and cruel people humanity has ever known. History has many sordid pages to reveal of atrocities in other days and other parts of the world, but the Nazis' plunge into criminality will make readers of history in future ages shudder with horror at the thought of that evil force Nazism and the deeds of those criminal Nazis, fiendish beyond comparison.

History Recalled

News this week linked Prime Minister King with one of the historic figures in British parliamentary history, William Pitt the Younger. On Sunday the very day Mr. King was beginning his journey to the conference of Commonwealth ministers in London, he equalled the length of service in the post of first minister achieved by the Younger Pitt. On June 7th he will equal that of Sir John A. MacDonald and on that date he will have the record for service over all parliamentary leaders in the British Empire. Pitt the Younger had served Britain as government leader for 18 years, 11 months and three days.

William Pitt the Younger was the second son of William Pitt the Elder, who became Earl of Chatham, the great leader who directed the course of Britain in the turbulent eighteenth century with the Seven Years' War and the war beginning with the American Colonies of which he did not approve. The Elder Pitt was one of the greatest of all parliamentary orators and statesmen of all times and was noted for his self-disinterestedness and integrity.

His son, William Pitt the Younger, also came on the scene in another period of turbulence and trial, that of the French Revolution and the wars which stemmed from that momentous event and kept the Continent of Europe in a state of war until 1815. The Younger Pitt became Chancellor of the Exchequer under Shelburne and his financial genius led to many reforms, one being the establishment of a sinking fund to retire the national debt.

At the age of 25 he had become Prime Minister. He did not interfere with the French Revolution but in 1793 war arose between Britain and France when he entered into alliance with many great continental powers and aided the coalition with large grants for the hiring of troops. He effected the union of Great Britain and Ireland in 1800 but resigned the next year and war broke out in 1803 and in 1804 Pitt was called again to the prime minister's post. He engaged the great powers of Russia and Austria in a new coalition which was broken by the French victory at Austerlitz. Pitt did not long survive and he died at the early age of 46, secure in the love of the people of Britain for his leadership and integrity. His last words as he gazed into the future with Napoleon still going strong, were "Oh, my country! how I leave my country!" It was to be more than nine years in the future before the threat of Napoleon was at last broken at Waterloo, and peace settled down upon weary and war-worn Europe.

Mr. King like the two Pitts had the great task of administration during a great conflict and the good fortune of seeing the Second World War close with victory for the Allies in which Canada earned high renown for her military effort on behalf of the United Nations and the service she gave in making weapons of war and providing foodstuffs for the Allies.

Bread and Crusts

It isn't any hardship whatever to consume bread that is other than very fresh. As a matter of fact many thousands of people prefer bread that is at least a day old, not only because they like it better than fresh bread but because they consider, and with every reason, that it is better for their state of health. Nor is it any hardship whatever to consume our crusts. Even when they become very stale, they can be made into thoroughly palatable and nutritious dishes. And they are better for most of us than fresh, doughy substances which must cause a great deal of gastric trouble and swell the sales volume of patent medicine manufacturers.

While we think it is a terrible thing for millions of people in other parts of the world to be on the verge of starvation, few of us are trying to do very much about going to their relief. The only way in which we can do so at this time is to cut down our own consumption of food in every way possible, to get rid of our wasteful food practices and to show the world that we mean what we say when we talk about the pitiable plight of distressed populations and even pray for their succor.

—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Sounds of Spring

When storm doors are taken off and windows opened, the noises of the outside world break in with a startling freshness. In the snug winter months one had almost forgotten that the world rolled on, but the noises of spring are a brisk reminder that it is still there.

Birds give out their joy in a medley of whistles and trills. The clap of a horse's hoof on cobblestones comes pleasantly to the ear. The shouts of children at play have a gladdening sound.

Even the mechanical noises of a big city seem good. A streetcar clanging past, a motor car purring down the street, a train chugging in from outlying towns, all speak of a world at work. They give a sense of order and stability.

All sounds, uniting in a cheery busyness, remind us that the universe still goes on governed by unbroken laws.

Real Fruits of Freedom

The fact that under free institutions the people of the United States have achieved the highest standard of living found anywhere in the world seems to have confused many in this country into the belief that freedom is a means to reach the goal of ease and comfort, says the Burlington, Vt., Free Press. But the fruit of freedom is not primarily a full stomach or more radios, automobiles, nylon stockings, refrigerators, fur coats, and labor-saving devices. The fruit of freedom is a lifting of the human spirit above the creature comforts of life to a point where they become minor items in the journey of man through this world.

Newspaper Facts

A public utilities company in a mid-western U. S. city attributed a direct reversal in public opinion to newspaper advertising.

It seems strange that a gold medal offered 34 years ago to the first individual crossing the Dominion from coast to coast in a motor operating on roads still remains unclaimed, the Brockville Recorder and Times notes. Perhaps Brigadier R. A. Macfarlane, who is about to hop off at Louisburg, N.S., on such a trip, will show the way to road-builders.

JUST FOLKS

RESISTANCE LOW

"Resistance low!" the doctor said,
As solemnly he shook his head.
"Must rest a little longer now
And try to build it up, somehow!

"Resistance low! No strength to fight
Bacteria and parasite.
Resistance low! Beware of sneezes;
You're subject to all diseases."

"Resistance low!" as out I went
I wondered if the doctor meant—
Like all the maladies he knew,
Temptations need resistance, too.

Does character, like health, require
That man shall not too quickly tire,
Lest, stricken by some deadly foe,
His friends shall say: "Resistance low!"

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

MAY 14TH., 1926

Tweed village is considering the installation of a water system.

A large number of friends gathered at the United Church at Eldorado recently to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Fox and family who are leaving the neighborhood to reside in Belleville. An appreciative address was read by the pastor of the church, the Rev. J. M. Whyte, and short speeches were made by Mr. Fred Comerford and Mr. N. Blackburn, also by Mrs. Comford, who spoke on behalf of the W.M.S. Suitable replies were made by Mr. and Mrs. Fox. Numerous beautiful pieces of silver were presented to them. Refreshments were served at the close of the proceedings. Much regret is felt at the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Fox from the community.

Mrs. D. V. Sinclair and daughters have returned to the city from Toronto where they spent the winter.

Mr. A. C. McFee of Toronto, an old Belleville boy, is spending a few days in town.

30 YEARS AGO

MAY 14TH., 1916.

On Tuesday morning last the residence of Mr. D. Lindsay, Marmora, was burned to the ground.

At a meeting of the Quarterly Board of Marmora Methodist Circuit, the Rev. Wendell P. Woodyer, B.A., was invited to become pastor upon the retirement of the Rev. W. H. Clarke at the end of the present conference year.

Creatore and his band will appear at the Griffin Opera House here on the evening of May 18th.

Mr. George T. Woodley has returned home after spending a vacation in Bermuda.

40 YEARS AGO

MAY 14TH., 1906.

On Sunday last Bridge Street Methodist Church celebrated the 91st. anniversary of its organization as a congregation. In the year 1815 thirteen persons organized Belleville's first church, now Bridge Street Methodist Church. These were the Rev. Isaac Brock Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Abel Gilbert, Mrs. Seth Meacham, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Mitts, Miss Phoebe Zwick and Mr. and Mrs. William Ross. The first minister of any denomination to visit this place was the Rev. Darius Dunham, a Methodish minister, in the year 1795.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Adna Brown of Chicago, Ill., are visiting the former's father, Mr. G. N. Brown, Coleman Street.

50 YEARS AGO

MAY 14TH., 1896

About this time last year the weather was severely cold. On May 12th., 13th., 14th., 18th., and 21st., the temperature was close to frost and on the 16th., 17th., and 22nd., it was at or below the freezing point. On the 22nd. the thermometer registered 24 or 8 degrees below the freezing point.

The members of Court Dulmage A.O.F. held their second meeting last night and initiated fourteen candidates. The charter list contains the names of fifty-two members.

William Brown, Licenced Auctioneer of the City of Belleville and the County of Hastings, office at M. Lally's agricultural machinery warehouse, Front Street, Belleville. Sales promptly attended to. (Advt.).

Mr. John Shearing, of the C.P.R. offices, Montreal, was here yesterday on a short visit to his father, Mr. R. Shearing.

Russian News Letter

Written For The Canadian Press
By V. PETROV

Moscow, May 14 (CP)—A drive to put Russia in the forefront of world timber producers calls for restoration of lumbering projects wrecked by German invasion and general promotion of the industry throughout the country.

M. N. Sprintsin, chief of the long-range planning division of the People's Commissariat of the timber industry, says that Russia has forest tracts of more than 3,700,000 square miles, three-quarters of which are in the Asiatic section of the Soviet Union and therefore escaped invasion damage.

In areas which were occupied, 150 sawmills and wood-working plants will be restored to meet the demands of the country's huge building and rehabilitation program. Major projects damaged included furniture and wood-working mills at Kiev, Dniepropetrovsk and Kremenchug.

In other lumbering areas 1,500 miles of narrow-gauge railways have to be stored along with hundreds of bridges and other installations.

Increased efficiency is being called for in lumbering operations and with the added mechanization is expected to double labor productivity in the next five years.

Topping the list of sports stadia to be built in Russia since the war is the Moscow sports palace where weight-lifting, wrestling and boxing matches will be held.

"Moscow boxers, wrestlers and weight-lifters have been dreaming of a sports palace like this for years," said Nikolai Korolyov, Russia's heavyweight boxing champion, when he examined the plans of the buildings, which provide a central amphitheatre flanked by halls on either side.

One hall would be used for training purposes exclusively, each of the three sports having a different room. The main auditorium, with a seating capacity of 2,000, would have a boxing ring designed to be clearly visible from any point.

Floating canneries are being used by Russian crab fishermen in the Pacific fishing-grounds. Putting to sea for six or seven months, the vessels return with their catches canned and ready for the consumer.

Looking Ahead in Ottawa

(By the Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, May 14 —(CP)— Parliamentary observers now are speculating that the federal budget, which had been expected late this month, now will not be brought down until June due to the delay in beginning its preparation.

The late start was caused by the fact Finance Minister Ilsley and his advisers could not begin work on the budget until after the conclusion of the recent Dominion-Provincial conference, the outcome of which affected the budget itself.

Because of the lack of agreement at the conference, the relationship of the federal government to the provinces in the budget will be the same as last year since taxation agreements between those administrations remain in force until next March.

Under those pacts, the federal government must pay the provinces $134,000,000 to compensate them for the taxation fields they surrendered to the Dominion as a wartime measure.

Spies: Whether by design or by development, the final report of the royal commission on espionage is not expected until sometime next month, possibly later. Chances are that at least the first round in the current spy trials will be finished then, although appeals may develop later.

Sources close to the three-months-old commission predict that its valedictory will be "startling" in some of its disclosures and recommendations. They predict, too, that its pages will number in the hundreds.

The two justices of the Supreme Court, R. L. Kellock and Robert Tachereau have been simultaneously hearing more witnesses and compiling sections of the report in past weeks.

One indication of the immense task already behind them lies in the bulk of the commission evidence now being used in the trials as the basis of the Crown case. Its pages number more than 4,000 and more witnesses have been heard since.

HEADS WORLD FUND

Former Finance Minister of Belgium, Camille Gutt, will direct the new $7,397,500,000 International Monetary Fund to stabilize currencies. The lawyer and journalist was unanimously elected managing director of the world fund, at a salary of $30,000 a year. The task of the 39-nation fund is to promote "monetary stability, a high level of international trade and general world prosperity."

Prime Minister Will be Abroad Indefinite Time

By R. J. ANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, May 14 — (CP) — Prime Minister King sailed today for Great Britain to take part in Dominions talks scheduled to resume May 20. Length of his stay abroad is indefinite.

Mr. King, accompanied to London by Norman Robertson, Under-Secretary of State, and his personal staff, boarded the liner at 10 p.m. Monday. The Queen Mary sailed at 5 a.m. today.

The Prime Minister, as customary, had little to say to reporters before his departure. He posed willingly for newspaper and movie photographers alongside the huge bulk of the liner lying at her Hudson River pier but said only:

"I am glad to be going abroad at this time." To a girl reporter he said facetiously: "Tell them I'm glad to see you."

Mr. Robertson said how long Mr. King was away from Ottawa would depend upon the progress "of the conference in Paris." He did not amplify his remark but it was believed he referred to the European peace parleys for which no date yet has been set but which State Secretary Byrnes of the United States is seeking to open June 15.

Among Mr. King's shipmates are Sir Gerald Campbell, retired British minister in Washington returning home after a lengthy stay in San Diego, Calif., and Lady Campbell. Sir Gerald was piped aboard ship by kilted Highlanders of a New York City British Legion Post.

Another fellow-passenger is the Earl of Halifax, retiring British Ambassador to the United States who boarded the vessel a minute behind Sir Gerald. Lord Halifax came up the gangplank so quietly his arrival passed almost unnoticed. Also among the 850 civilians and 600 service personnel is Viscount Astor, Lord Mayor of Bristol, who with his wife had been in the United States since January. Lady Astor is remaining in her native Virginia until June.

Industrial Accident Toll Higher in April

Toronto, May 14 — Ontario's industrial accident figures for last month (April) as reported by the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations from records of the Workmen's Compensation Board are: 10,549 accidents, including 34 fatalities; in April a year ago the figures were 9,906 and 40.

In April 1946, the Board awarded $1,335,628.69, the highest total of awards for any one month in the history of compensation in Ontario; last year, the April awards were $1,035,380.07.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Readers addressing letters to Dr. Brady will please include the word "Canada" on their return envelopes, as these letters have to be forwarded to Dr. Brady. And it is requested that readers use standard size envelopes that will hold a small booklet

WHATINYOUKNOWWHERE IS INDIGESTION?

Redondo Beach man writes: Next time any one doubts the existence of a place named Penn Yann tell him about those excellent dinghies that are manufactured there.

Sir, I can't do that in this column, but maybe a few residents of Swift River, Stamps and Brady will now concede there is such a place. Excuse the interruptions please, and state your question.

I note in your talk about appendicitis you make it pretty clear that the notion of indigestion as explaining anything more than mild uneasiness or discomfort is foolish. Having reached the ripe old age of 61 I am getting more and more interested in cancer statistics which indicate that oldsters supply most of the mortality from this cause. Organizations engaged in cancer research publish bulletins telling the public how to recognize early signs of cancer. Invariably one of the things we are warned to beware of is "indigestion." Now I ask you, kind sir — Whatin . . . is indigestion?

(......)

All I know, Captain, is what I told in that article or talk about appendicitis. In the case to which I referred in that talk, entitled "Short Experience With Indigestion"—at least that was the way I wrote it — the victim developed his one and only "indigestion" an hour or two after lunching on cocoanut, which had never before upset him in the least — but within an hour he went to bed, within three or four hours had a doctor, and within 18 hours was well rid of a gangrenous appendix. I said gangrenous. If you don't believe it I'll show you the scar. I'm rather proud of it —the record, I mean — from perfect health to uneventful convalescence from gangrenous appendicitis in 18 hours I say God bless American surgeons, the real surgeons, not the brass boys.

I neither deny nor affirm your suggestion that people past sixty are more vulnerable to cancer. I would not even examine the statistics to learn about that. The way I look at it is this. Once you have got past sixty in fair condition you ought to be happy about the whole thing. It stands to reason that you must be a well constructed bit of machinery to have worked so well for that length of time.

One who has had sixty years of life surely can take whatever fate has in store for him, with fair philosophy if not with cheerful indifference. Not that one shouldn't avail himself of every possibility of relief or cure for whatever his trouble may be. If it is cancer there are these possibilities:

1. Immediate radical surgery.
2. X-ray or radium treatment to complement or supplement surgery.
3. Palliation with medicine, including opiates and narcotics, especially the narcotic alcohol.

I believe, Captain, that the organizations fighting cancer mean beware of fooling along or procrastinating with "indigestion," for if you do take it as signifying merely something "disagreeing" you'll be sorry later on.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Let's All Disagree

I disagree with your advice that old folks should drink intoxicating liquor . . . It don't make them agreeable, it makes them mean and causes their family lots of trouble.

(R. L.)

Answer — So do I. But hold on here, I have never suggested or advised that any one drink intoxicating liquor.

Arthritis

I wish you would write a piece about arthritis. Have you a pamphlet about it?

(E. M. Y.)

Answer — I printed several articles about it here a month ago. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask, in writing, for pamphlet on Arthritis.

Sun Bathing

Please give instructions for sun bathing. My vacation begins in three weeks and I want to get all the benefit from the sun.

(C. W.)

Answer—Instructions in Brady Baby Book — for copy send ten cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How did Buttermilk Channel get its name?

Governors Island in New York Bay is separated from Long Island by a deep arm of water known as "Buttermilk Channel."

How this unusual name originated is not known for certain. It may be the corruption of some Dutch or Indian term the origin and meaning of which have been lost.

There is, however, a tradition on the subject. It is believed that Governors Island was once connected with Long Island. At any rate, when Wouter Van Twiller was governor of New Netherland and the channel was so narrow and shallow that cattle could easily wade across it.

Van Twiller became governor of the colony in 1633. According to one historian, four years later he purchased Governors Island (then known as Nooten or Nutten Island) from the Indians for "an axe-head, or two, a string of beads, and a few nails."

The only boats that could navigate the channel in those days were flatbottomed craft drawing little water.

Such boats made regular trips across the channel to carry buttermilk, a favorite drink among the Dutch, from the dairies of Long Island to Governors Island and New Amsterdam.

They were popularly called "buttermilk boats," and from this circumstance, according to the tradition, the channel received the name Buttermilk Channel.

Kingston Soldier Drowned in Canal

Montreal, May 14 —(CP)— Allegedly driving a stolen automobile, Pte. Jean Marie Latreille, 22, of Kingston, was drowned Monday night apparently as the result of a blowout of a front tire of the car which careened off the highway into the Soulanges Canal one mile west of the bridge at Cedars, Que.

The car was the property of Ronald Brown of Montreal, who while driving to Cornwall Friday night picked up a soldier. Near Lancaster, it was alleged that the soldier forced him out of the car at dagger's point. The soldier then drove off in the automobile heading in the direction of Montreal.

MURDER SUSPECT SAYS HOLD-UP CHANCE INCIDENT

Six Went Downtown to See Movie but Four Carried Out Robbery Court Told

Toronto, May 14 —(CP)— The story of six youths who went downtown to a movie theatre and, finding a crowd lined up, turned instead to a study of what places might be robbed, was told yesterday by one of four young men accused of murder in the hold-up slaying of Meyer Tobias, North Toronto clothing merchant.

Tobias was slain in a hold-up at his dress shop on Mount Pleasant Road on Dec. 26. Accused of murder are Donald Warner, 17; Edward Martin, 18; Howard Urquhart, 18, and William Mullen, 20.

Youngest of the accused, Warner, was the one who told the story. He was the first of the prisoners to take the stand after the Crown concluded its case in a week of court hearings by calling more than 30 witnesses.

Warner, first witness as the defence took over, said that he was one of six young men who went downtown to see a movie on Dec. 26. They found a line-up in front of the theatre, and they moved across the street where discussion started of places that might be robbed. The casual way in which a hold-up was decided on, according to Warner's testimony, was illustrated by his evidence that the fatal Tobias shop hold-up was the third place they had approached.

Named Whole Party.

Warner named the three other accused, and two youths who are not charged, as comprising the six in the party. After they saw the line-up in front of the theatre they walked across the street and talked.

"Some one said something about being short of money, I can't recall who it was," he said. "Then someone said something about holding up a store. I said 'where are we going to get a car?" Some one said something about copping a car off a parking lot. Then the whole party drove to a poolroom in the East-End. Licence plates were stolen off a car and put on the car the party was driving. Don Mitchell went into his house and returned with an automatic which he handed to Urquhart. Mitchell then left. Another youth, Frank Owens, was dropped at his home next. That left the four accused in the car.

Drove to Queen East.

They drove to Queen Street East but as they got to a store they had picked out, the store was closing. Then they drove back to North Toronto and parked the car. The four got out and approached a second hand store they had picked out. "There were too many people around, so we turned and walked north to the dress shop," said Warner.

Martin entered the dress shop first, then Mullen, then himself. "I closed the door and Ed Martin had told the man 'It's a hold-up.' The man just stood there and one of them pushed him."

They pushed Tobias into the back room. Martin was with Tobias; Mullen was standing in the passage-way, and Warner was in the front of the shop. "I had gone two or three steps towards the back room when there was an explosion. It made my ears ring. I ran toward the back room. Bill Mullen came running out. He didn't say anything. He was just staring at his gun. You could see smoke coming from the barrel."

matoes, cucumbers and lettuce. Asparagus and celery were plentiful, but some varieties of canned vegetables were scarce in every area.

New potatoes in southwestern Ontario were expected between June 20 and July 1, and early deliveries of onions between July 1 and 15, with seed onions ready around the middle of August. Potato acreage increases in that area ranged from 10 to 33 per cent, according to district, and the onion acreage was up from 10 to 15 per cent.

Large quantities of carrots were planted under contract with canners and there were increased acreages of cabbage, cauliflower and celery. Asparagus and radishes now were available.

New Potatoes in May

British Columbia and Saskatchewan were expecting imported new potatoes about the middle of May. New Brunswick was having difficulty in getting tablestock potatoes, but seed potatoes were "very plentiful." Sweet potatoes were available throughout the Maritimes.

Sugar was plentiful everywhere, but there was a general shortage of corn syrup. In New Brunswick supplies of maple syrup and maple cream were in excess of last season.

Tea, coffee, cocoa, citrus fruits and imported tomatoes were 'very plentiful.' Canned fish, fruits and tomatoes generally were scarce, however.

There was an abundance of fresh fish but lard and shortening continued scarce, with some refined tallow available. Hand-picked beans were more plentiful in the Maritimes but yellow eyes still were scarce.

COLLEGIATE NEWS

ASSEMBLY

The students filed into the auditorium for this week's assembly period again to the tempo of recorded band music. Mr. A. Cooper was in charge of the band which practised on the campus in preparation for inspection.

Mr. Burgess read from the Psalms, number 121, and this was followed by the War Savings Stamp report by Mr. Hill.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Nora Ellis came to the stage on behalf of the Girls' Athletic Society to make an appeal for the return of girl cadette hats and ties, articles that are greatly needed. Nora also announced a Church Parade of the Girl Cadettes to Bridge Street United Church on Sunday, May 26, 1946.

Softball series began last Wednesday, May 8th, for inter-form games. Preparations were being made for a C.O.S.S.A. league including St. Mike's, Albert College and B.C.I. Jim Watson also reported that a Field and Track Meet for the Bay of Quinte would be held at Albert College on June 8, 1946.

Mr. Currie announced a display of original paintings that will be in the school on loan from the Canadian Exhibition of Art on Wednesday, May 15, 1946. Tea will be available.

"Rednow" Lipstick Products sponsored a radio program enacted by members of the Girls' Athletic Society to announce a Tea Dance to be held in the Girls' gym at 4:15 p. m. on May 15, 1946.

Among the recognizable participants were Marg. Taylor, (author and director), Lois Flindall, Luella Homan, June Matthews, Margaret Young, Geraldine Murray, and Joan Newman. Remember the name "Rednow" Lipstick . . . it stays on!

We were favored with an excellent example of "ivory tickling" by Beavis (called Donald by his mother) who played in teen-age tempo "Stormy Weather," "Blues," "Boogy-Woogy Prayer," and "Ain't Misbehavin'."

Our silver screen was utilized again by reproducing (Physics — room 314) two educational films. The one entitled "Engineering" showed the various branches of practical engineering, and the other one, "Nursing." The latter was of special interest to the girls, many of whom are planning to enter a course of nursing very soon.

Coming Events.

Wednesday, May 15th., is the date for the "Bunny-Hop" being sponsored by the Girls' Athletic Society. If their assembly period advertising is any indication, this should be the tea-dance to end all tea-dances. So if you like your P. T. set to music, be at the girls' gym come Wednesday at four pip emma. And be sure to bring the tenth part of a dollar—or a boyfriend with two of them.

Wednesday noon will also feature some physical exercises, only of a different variety. These exercises will be in the form of a softball game between 9H and 10B. Thursday noon will see another interform softball fixture, this one between 13B and the winner of the May 10th game, 12D and G. Friday noon, lower school takes over again with 9D tackling the winner of the May 13th game between 9B and 10G. Monday is again lower school. 9G will take on the winner of Wednesday's game between 9H and 10B. Tuesday noon 11A will try their skill against 13A or 11C, D, and G, whichever one wins their game of May 14.

Now back to music again. The 23rd of May is the date of the B.C.I.V.S. Spring Formal. Music is being provided by those master musicians, The Commodores. This formal should be an even better success than the one held after Commencement. So if you haven't procured your invitations as yet take your two dollars along to any member of the council or your room master and the situation will be remedied. Incidentally, each invite is good for one couple, not one person. If you have any other questions you would like to have answered (e.g. 'May I have an invitation to the Spring Formal, please?) see Scott Denton, any of his cohorts, or your form-master toot der sweet, and the tooter der sweeter.

Detoured Correspondence

(Special) A student of B.C.I. received a letter on May 9, 1946 that was mailed from Narooma, Australia, on December 17, 1945. From Narooma, New South Wales, Australia, the letter travelled to Moruya, New South Wales, Australia arriving on December 18, 1945. After a lengthy trip by boat, the letter reached Vancouver on February 2, 1946. This letter bore an improper address and "Foster Avenue," being mistaken for the city, was forwarded to Foster, P.Q., and found its way from there to Montreal on February 7, 1946. The letter remained in a Montreal "Dead Letter" office until May 8, 1946, being then sent on to Belleville arriving on May 9, 1946.

This letter was the answering correspondence of a Pen Pal who was uninformed of the proper address to which she was writing. A period of six months elapsed between the time of mailing in Australia and arrival in Canada.

If it were not for an efficient Postal Commission in Canada the letter would undoubtedly have remained in a "dead letter" office and never have been claimed since the addressee was a Belleville resident.

THE 50TH BOY

There's forty-nine boys
Who always will run
When you show any sign
Of some work to be done.

When the time comes around
For the dishes to do
Those forty-nine boys
From the scene they all flew.

But the fiftieth boy
With a smile on his face
Washes the dishes
And puts them in place.

Who is the one
Who's there on the spot
To empty the garbage
Or clean up the lot.

It's the fiftieth boy
The ashes takes out
And never shows signs
Of a whimper or pout.

Those forty-nine boys
They're never around
To rake up the leaves
Or spade up the ground.

But that fiftieth boy
He never will shirk
When you ask for a hand
To help with the work.

He's courteous and careful
And not like the rest;
Of all of the boys
He's the one that's liked best.

And the forty-nine boys
They all like him, too,
For he's fair and square
And honest and true.

So there's one boy you love
While you like all the rest
But down in your heart
You love the fiftieth boy best.

Are you the fiftieth boy?

—Doug Donaldson.

MY FIRST HORSEBACK RIDE

I never forget the day I rode a horse
I was just plain full of remorse
I got jolted and bumped and knocked around
And thrown off on the bumpy ground.

Ah, the others with laughter would roar,
But just to spite them I tried all the more.
Upon his back I got, and said, easy now boy!
But up went his head, and he galloped for joy.

Right clean out of the saddle I did bounce
And went head over heels in a flounce
Oh! What a wreck that horse made of me
I just wasn't fit for anyone to see.

Somehow I managed to get myself up
But I felt like a poor beaten pup
Looking a very disrespectable sight
I got up again and held on tight.

Now Trixy was my horse's name
He seemed now quite calm and almost tame
But there wasn't much I could do or say
To change that horse's ways.

After that, appendix trouble I had.
I don't know whether I was glad or sad
For the way that horse knocked me around
I wished I was six-feet underground.

WEDDINGS

BIRD—McCORMACK

A very pretty wedding was performed on May 11th., at the Bridge Street parsonage, when Dorothy Ellen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCormack, of Musclow, became the bride of Arthur Bird, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Bird, of Wellington. The Rev. D. C. Amos performed the ceremony.

The bride's sister, Josephine, acted as bridesmaid.

Mr. Clifford Morris was groomsman.

The happy couple left for Toronto and Detroit on their honeymoon.

SULLIVAN—RIDLEY

Bridge Street United Church parsonage was the scene of a lovely Spring wedding on May 11, at 2.30 p.m., when Elizabeth Cornelia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Ridley, became the bride of Hugh Augustus, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Sullivan. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. C. Amos.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white silk net with sweetheart neckline and white net gloves. She wore a fingertip veil and carried a nosegay of roses and sweetpeas. Miss Nora Stoliker was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of blue sheer with blue net headdress and gloves, and carrying a nosegay of sweetpeas.

The groom was attended by Mr. Clayton Shensel, Trenton.

Following the reception held at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate families of the bride and groom, the couple left on a motor trip to Watertown, Buffalo and Niagara Falls, the bride wearing for travelling, a brown tailored suit with matching accessories and lime green top coat. On their return, they will reside in Belleville.

Questions and Answers

Readers may direct their questions, giving their name and address and mentioning the name of this paper to Information Branch, WPTB, 490 Sussex Street, Ottawa, Ont.

Q. I live in a house which I have rented for the past four years. The owner sold it and about the middle of April the new owner told us we had to be out by July 1. He gave us no written notice. The new owner also wants to raise the rent until July 1. Is he within his rights to do this?

A. No, from the information received in your letter we believe you are protected by the freezing order and the new owner would be unable to give you any notice while that order is still in effect. With regard to the increase in rent, the owner would not be permitted to raise the rent without permission from the Rentals Administration. If he has secured such permission he should have the proper forms to show you.

Q. A friend of mine has been ill for the past year and during this time had made some things he would like to sell. Is there a ceiling price on handicraft work and is a licence necessary?

A. Your friend should apply to the nearest office of the Prices there is no charge for this permit there is no charge for this perm. when he makes his application they will advise him as to the proper procedure in having his articles priced as there is a price ceiling on handicraft work.

Q. How long must a visitor to Canada remain before he is given a ration card?

A. A visitor to Canada will be given a temporary ration card immediately following his application to the Local Ration Board, provided he intends to remain at least seven days in Canada.

Q. How can we give temporary ration cards to American visitors if we haven't enough food for ourselves?

A. If you visited the United States you would be given temporary rations for the duration of your stay in that country. Naturally when our neighbors visit in Canada they expect the same courtesy. The tourist trade brings tremendous business to Canada each year and it is readily understood that people would not want to visit in a country where they could not obtain food supplies while there.

KING AND QUEEN GIVE $2,225 TO COVENTRY FUND

Coventry, Warwickshire, England, May 14 (CP Cable)—The King and Queen donated £500 ($2,225) yesterday to open an interdenominational drive for £1,250,000 to rebuild Coventry cathedral, ruined by a German air attack Nov. 14, 1940. The fund is backed by both Church of England and Free Church leaders.

WINS AS GRASS-SKIRT CHARMER

Looking more glamorous than many a South Sea belle we've seen, little Janis Ann Labno, four, of Chicago, wears her grass skirt with all the aplomb of a Hollywood beauty. The photo, entered in a baby contest at Camp Morris, France, by her G. I. uncle, Bruno Salvi, topped all others and Janis won the title of "prettiest child."

Salads in the Making

Salads, nowadays, are no longer confined to the Summer as they used to be when greens, radishes, cucumbers, tomatoes, celery, etc., put in a brief appearance and then disappeared until the next Summer. Delicious salads can now be made the year round from numerous combinations.

Salads are a versatile food, they tempt the appetite on a hot day or satisfy it on a cold day; they can be either a light refreshment or a hearty dish; they are also an excellent means of presenting small amounts of left-over foods cluttering the refrigerator. These little bits of different foods add flavor, color and variety to any salad.

The appearance of the ingredients used, especially the greens, will contribute greatly to the eye appeal; they must be fresh, perky and crisp, except in the case of the wilted-greens salad, which are wilted deliberately. Other requisites of the attractive salad are color contrast and color harmony. Salad greens, scarlet tomatoes, pale green cucumbers, golden orange carrots, etc., really create a symphony of color.

No salad is complete without a dressing and salad dressings are many and diverse. It must be remembered that the dressing should complement the flavor, blend with the texture and harmonize with the character of the salad.

The following salad recipes are suggested by the home economists of the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

SPRINGTIME SUPPER SALAD

1 cup cooked meat, diced.
1 cup cooked potatoes, diced
1 cup cooked beets, diced (if canned, drain well)
1-2 cup sliced radishes
1 teaspoon celery seed
1-4 cup chopped green onions
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
2 hard-cooked eggs, coarsely chopped.
2-3 cup cooked salad dressing

Combine all ingredients except 1 hard-cooked egg, which is to be sliced and used as a garnish. Add salad dressing last and toss ingredients lightly together. Chill thoroughly and serve on crisp lettuce. Six servings.

THREE-IN-ONE LUNCHEON SALAD

Part 1

2 cups diced cooked meat
2 tbsps. chopped green pepper
2 tbsps. chopped green onion
2 tbsps. mayonnaise
1-4 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tbsp. catsup.

Rub bowl with a clove of garlic if desired. Combine meat, green pepper and onion. Blend together mayonnaise, Worcestershire sauce and catsup. Pour over meat mixture and toss together lightly with a fork. Chill.

Part 2

2 cups cooked lima beans
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
2 tbsps. mayonnaise
1-8 tsp. curry powder
1-8 tsp. chili powder

Combine lima beans and parsley. To mayonnaise add the curry and chili powders, blend well. Add to beans and mix together lightly. Chill.

Part 3

1 cup coarsely grated raw carrot
2 cups shredded cabbage
1-3 cup chopped cucumber or radishes
2 tbsps chopped green onion
3 tbsps. mayonnaise
1 tsp. prepared mustard

Mix together the carrot, cabbage, cucumber or radishes and onion. Blend mayonnaise with prepared mustard and pour over salad. Toss lightly with a fork. On a medium sized platter, arrange three lettuce leaves, fill each with a different mixture. Garnish with sliced hard cooked egg, radish roses and parsley. Six servings.

The meeting opened with the retiring president, Mrs. L. R. Green in the chair. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. J. Gordanier. Receipts of the year were slightly over four hundred dollars with a favorable balance on hand. Correspondence was dealt with. Mrs. Green reported on the recent meeting held in the Town Hall with respect to the proposed new covered rink at which meeting she represented the Marmora Women's Institute. Short reports were then given by the conveners of the standing committees of the year's activities of each.

Miss Phyllis Wright, A.T.C.M., A.W.S.M., of the Marmora High School staff, gave a group of pianoforte numbers as follows: Rustle of Spring, Christian Sending; Concerto in A Minor, E. Grieg; Two Larks, Leschettisky; Old Vienna, Leopold Godonesky.

Mrs. John Gawley, district president, gave an address and then presided for the election of officers. The meeting then adjourned and refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

The district convention will be held in Cooper on June 4th and in addition to the four delegates, it is hoped other members will avail themselves of the privilege to attend. In her address Mrs. Gawley mentioned the organization of a new branch at Moira and it is expected that this branch which will take the name of Huntingdon East, will be fully represented at the Cooper gathering.

MOUNTAIN VIEW W.I.

The Mountain View Women's Institute held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Keebles on May 7, with 18 members and one visitor.

Correspondence was read and short discussions followed. It was decided to $10 to the Blind. Plans were made for the District Convention to be held at Wellington and Mrs. Stanley Barber and Mrs. Creiney appointed delegates.

Letters of thanks and appreciations were read from a couple of the members.

Election of officers followed. As Mrs. Lewis Wallbridge resigned, Mrs. Clifford Barber was appointed the new president and Mrs. Clark Sprung, secretary-treasurer for the coming year.

Mrs. Ben Anderson moved a vote of thanks to the retiring president, Mrs. L. Wallbridge, who has acted for fifteen years.

This being the Agriculture meeting it was in charge of the convener, Mrs. A. Poste; who had several short papers, which were given by Mrs. Poste and Mrs. Anderson on flowers and Mrs. Stanley Barber on Ontario Industries.

The hostess served delicious refreshments.

AVONDALE NEIGHBORS' AID

The regular meeting of Avondale Neighbors' Aid met at the home of Mrs. A. Clare on May 9th., with 14 members and four visitors present with the president presiding.

The Scripture Lesson was read by Mrs. S. Lough assisted by Mrs. A. Clare and Mrs. W. Denyes after which Mrs. J. Chambers led in prayer.

Minutes and roll were given by Mrs. H. Wright, the secretary being absent. Several members expressed thanks for cards sent them while sick.

Treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $66.18.

A reading on Mother's Day was given by Mrs. C. Holmes and was enjoyed by everyone.

Mrs. Youdale of Belleville, was guest speaker and gave a splendid address on "Truth" which was greatly appreciated after which a contest was enjoyed by all, with Mrs. Button being the winner.

Refreshments were then served by the hostess with Mrs. Boulton and Mrs. Elvidge assisting. A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. Elvidge to Mrs. A. Clare for opening her home.

U.P.E.—BELLEVILLE W.C.

The May meeting was held in the Y.M.C.A. parlors with 29 present.

As this was VE-Day —the poem written by Mrs. Helen B. Anderson as a special tribute to the returned men and those who gave their lives in the cause for freedom, was read by Mrs. Weese, who closed with a "Prayer for Victory in Peace as Well as in War."

The Rev. Mr. Wagar, chairman of the Campaign Com., for Cancer Research, then gave a short talk and outlined the work which begins tis week. The seriousness and necessity for immediate action and financial aid was stressed.

A tribute of love and esteem for the late Mrs. Hall, one of the oldest and best loved members, whose passing was deeply regretted, was then given in a short memorial of silent prayer and closing with Tennyson's beautiful poem "Crossing the Bar" and "Abide With Me".

Mrs. Osborne took charge of the program in which thoughts of "Mother's Day" predominated.

Three excellent readings paying tribute to mother's love and care, were read.

Mrs. Lent and Mrs. Ackerman conducted community singing.

An excellent contest "The Songs My Mother Sang" resulted in Mrs. Osborne winning the prize, donated by Mrs. S. Anderson.

Mrs. Allan McCoy was received into the membership of the club. Collection amounted to $14.

Dainty refreshments were served with Mrs. P. Parliament, Mrs. Boyd and Mrs. S. Anderson as hostesses.

Mrs. Lent kindly invited the club to her home for the June meeting, and a vote of thanks was extended to all those assisting, as well as to Mr. Wagar for the use of the parlors for the afternoon.

ST. PAUL'S LADIES' GUILD

Marmora.—The monthly meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild was held on Thursday evening in the Parish Hall. The President, Mrs. W. D. Lavender, occupied the chair and the attendance of members was good. The rector, Rev. J. M. Brownlie opened the meeting with prayer. The treasurer's report was given by Miss Miriam Savage, mentioned that a gratifying sum had been handed in as a result of the Lenten free-will offerings. Mrs. A. Eggleton reported for the Sick Committee. The rector gave a general talk in which he touched upon the Anglican Advance Appeal. The meeting was closed after which refreshments were served.

The meeting was then turned over to the W.M.S., President Mrs. R. Roblin. An invitation from Grace United Church, Trenton, was accepted. A letter was read from Mrs. B. Lehman describing her trip to Africa. Since this letter was received Mr. and Mrs. Lehman have arrived in Africa, travelling from Egypt by plane. The next topic of Study will be on India, President suggested a scrapbook be started on this. A joint devotional service was held at the close of the business meeting. Mrs. G. McDonald led this in a most capable manner. The theme was "The Christian Home". Several members assisted in the service. The meeting was closed with the following poem being read.

God's Book

Mother I've found an old dusty thing,
High on the shelf—just a book.
"Why, that's a Bible, Tommy
dear,
Be careful—that's God's Book".
"God's Book?" the child exclaimed,
"Then, mother, before we lose it,
We'd better send it back to God,
For you know we never use it."

After the meeting dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

CARMEL W.M.S.

The May meeting of Carmel W.M.S., was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Brintnell and was presided over by the President, Mrs. Seldon Homan; The theme of the meeting, was "The Christian Home".

MORE LONG DISTANCE CALLS THAN IN WARTIME!

JUST two years ago we were serving 975,000 telephones.

There are now 120,000 more telephones and as a result Long Distance calling has steadily increased even though the war is over. Actually the volume of calling is now about 100% higher than when the war began.

That's why it is so helpful when you observe the proper sequence, as shown below, in making Long Distance calls.

We are building new lines and new switchboards but it will take some time to get them into use. In the meantime we'll appreciate your help and understanding, especially if your call is delayed.

WHEN YOU PLACE
a Long Distance Call . . .

FIRST, give the operator the name of the distant city . . .

THEN, the telephone number of your party . . .

THEN, when the operator asks it, your own telephone number.

If you don't know the distant telephone number, please make a note of it for future use when you hear the operator repeat it.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Signing a Guest Book

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How should a married couple sign a guest book; for example, a guest book at a wedding? Does the husband sign for both? At a wedding reception we attended the other day my husband wrote "Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith" in the guest book. Was this correct?

B. S.

No. In a guest book informal names are signed, and generally the wife signs on one line and the husband on the line below. The wife's signature should be "Mary Robinson Smith" or "Mary R. Smith" or "Mary Smith"; and the husband's, "Henry Smith".

Tip for Coat-Room Attendant

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm going to a dance to be given in the ball-room of a fashionable New York hotel next month. Should I tip the coat-room attendant when I go to get my wrap after the dance? If so, how much?

Marie

Yes, it is customary to tip the coat-room attendant. Usually, as a not-too-subtle hint, you'll see a tray with some coins on it! Ten or fifteen cents is an adequate tip; a quarter, a generous tip.

Engraved Cards for an Graduate

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter who is to graduate from High School this June has asked for visiting-cards as one of her graduation presents, and my husband and I are planning to give them to her soon so that she will have them to enclose with her graduation invitations. Should "Miss" be engraved before her name? And what type of engraving would you advise?

Mother

Yes, "Miss" should be engraved before her name on the cards. Ask your stationer or engraver to show you and your daughter various engraving types. . . . she will, I believe, be particularly interested in Shaded Antique Roman, for the letters are tall and graceful and youthful. And Script, less expensive, is always in excellent taste. . . but please don't choose too small a script.

Correct Salutation to Thank-You Notes

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In planning to write my thank-you notes for wedding presents, I am confused as to when to begin a note "Dear Mr. and Mrs. Smith". In this, for example, correct when I write to my fiance's relatives and friends whom I have never met? Would it also be the correct salutation when I write to thank a "Mr. and Mrs", who are friends of my parents but whom I don't know very intimately, or in cases when I don't know both Mr. and Mrs.?

Bride-to-be.

In all of these cases you should address your thank-you note only to "Mrs. Smith", begin it "Dear Mrs. Smith", and in the body of the note express your thanks to both. . .for example, "It was so kind of you and your husband to send us the handsome crystal bowl, and Bob and I thank you most heartily for your goodness and generosity to us."

At a Trousseau Tea

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At my daughter's trousseau tea is it correct for her fiance's mother to pour? And should any of her friends be invited to the tea?

L. E.

I don't think it's a good idea to have the prospective bridegroom's mother "stationed" at the tea-table. I think it's better taste more gracefully considerate of her and more convenient for her, to be free from such responsibilities, so that she may mingle with the guests and receive necessary introductions. Whether other relatives of the bridegroom-to-be, or family friends are invited to the trousseau tea depends on convenience.

Rainy-Day Radiance

By ALICE ALDEN

CAN ANYONE remember way back to the dim, dark days of the old-fashioned drab raincoat and steamy mackintosh? Even if we could, we'd soon forget them in contemplation of today's sunshiny, colorful raintogs that make going out in the rain a pleasure. Aqua cotton poplin treated with 'Zelan' durable repellent finish makes this pert raincoat that also comes in other pastels as well as dark colors. The yoked neckline has a contrasting band of stitching, a detail repeated around the snug-buttoning wrists. It can be worn loose or belted. The pointed hood has a well-fitted drawstring neckline.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Hair Should be a gorgeous asset

It's a funny thing. When most women had locks of short length, the coiffure stylists proclaimed that hair should be upped. A fine idea, since tresses at the nape line consisted of only four or five inches, wouldn't stay upped for sour apples. Now that many women have pigtail material, are wadding it atop their heads, we hear mutterings to the effect that the short bob is coming back. It makes one laugh. Some women will always be shorties, others will be longies, and fashion can go jump in the lake. We don't rush pell mell at the sound of the style gong any more.

Many women love the short shearing, insist upon having it. Others think it's fun to sport topknots. Young girls and many movie stars have flowing manes. We doubt if a standardized hair-do will be accepted. Women have become more and more emancipated. If a new style suits us, is becoming, we're for it. If not, phooey to it.

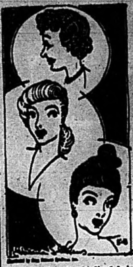
Besides thinking of arrangement, we are learning to consider quality, tone and sheen, the rewards of good grooming. No head of hair has a guarantee that it will stay as it. Illness, worry, sleeplessness and nervousness can have a deplorable effect upon it. Hence the need for attentions other than the weekly or fortnightly pilgrimage to the beauty shop for shampoo and wave set.

The casual attention common to most women who depend upon professional treatment is really curious, considering the time spent on the complexion and fingernails. It would seem that, if the old mop has a whoopsy hair-do, that is all that it needs. A faulty idea, to say the least, as the precious wool is subject to ills the same as any other portion of the human body. Daily the complexion is creamed and patted, daily it is arrayed in gay pigment. But hair and scalp can look after themselves.

Wise mothers will see that little daughters make it as much a practice to brush their hair as to brush their teeth. They can make no greater contribution to adult hair beauty. The hairbrush, used vigorously, will act as a scalp tonic and an instrument of massage. Little daughter will get a good start along the road to good appearance.

Even though the wave may suffer somewhat, brush your hair every night until you feel your scalp tingling. Don't slam the bristles down at the temples and back from the face; be gentle there, where young shafts are appearing along the hair line. Groom briskly from back to front, throwing the hair forward. Treat a strand at a time, holding it away from the face.

Have two brushes, so one will always be clean. Narrow ones, with bristles set in groups, are best. The bristles should be of reasonable firmness. A soft brush does nothing at all in the way of removing surface dust or stimulating the blood streams of the scalp.



We doubt if a standardized hair-do will be accepted

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He's Eight Years Older than She Is — Is That Too Old?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm in love with a fellow 26 years old and I am 18. My mother thinks that he is too old for me, and that we shouldn't get married. We are engaged. I think if I love him, and I do, it doesn't matter about the age. What do you think?

I have been going out with him for two years, steady. I never went with many other boys. Some people think I should go out with other fellows to find out if I do love him. They claim I haven't been with enough boys to know if I love him or not. What is your opinion?

Alice

Well, Alice, so far as your first question goes, there's no set rule about ages. This 26-year-old man wouldn't necessarily be too old for you. And then again, of course, he might. It all depends upon individuals. Some girls are older mentally and temperamentally than they are in years, or vice versa. The same thing applies to men. And it's much more important that a girl and a man match up in mental and emotional age than that the number of their actual years should be the same. So measured by that yardstick, how do you and this young man match up?

As to whether or not you have known enough boys to be certain that this is the man you want, only you can tell that. But I should think if your feeling for each other has lasted two years of "going steady", it might be fair to assume that it is real. However, you are young enough to wait a little before getting married if you have any doubts in the matter yourself, and it certainly would do no harm to take your time.

He's in Love with a Married Woman—What Shall He Do About it?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For several years I have been very much in love with a married woman. She has a family of four and her husband. Therefore we don't see each other as often as we would like to.

I'm sure she is just as much in love with me as I am with her, but we both realize we can not go on like this any longer. Do you think it advisable to ask her to get a divorce, shall we go on as we have been doing, or do you think it is better that we both try to forget each other? I am single.

Perplexed.

What I think is advisable is that you let this woman alone, and leave her to do her duty, if she knows how, by the husband and family with whom she seems to be playing fast and loose. Leaving entirely aside the fact that you had no business taking up with a married woman in the first place, what right have you to try and break up another man's home by asking her to get a divorce? Evidently she is not as anxious as you think she is to change the relationships, since she apparently has not spoken of getting a divorce herself.

You ought to get out of this woman's life at once, and stay out. With the country full of single women to pursue, you, a single man, ought to be ashamed of yourself for trying to steal another man's wife.

Wherever You May Be . . .

"THAT'S A LOAD OFF MY MIND!"

Mrs. Mason's husband gets his pay in cash. Since he's working all day, his wife banks it for him, and she says she's always jittery 'til she gets it safely there. And her brother, who runs a store, says he worries too about the money from the cash register! Safeguarding your money is one of the prime services rendered by your bank.

What a relief it is when you have deposited your money in the bank! No more worry lest it should be lost or stolen! You need only keep a little ready cash in your pocket or in the house. Bills can be paid by cheque and your cancelled cheque is your receipt.

When the teller hands you your pass book, you glance at the balance and know to a cent how much money you have. You are so accustomed to your bank's accuracy that you seldom bother to check the figures.

The very fact that you—and some 5,000,000 others—take all these conveniences as a matter of course is a daily demonstration of your confidence in the dependability and efficiency of your bank.

Ilsley Requests Competent Civil Service Recruits

Hamilton, Ont., May 14 (CP)—Receiving an honorary degree from McMaster University here Monday, Finance Minister Ilsley asked for competent civil service recruits and held out the prospect of better pay in the public service.

In a speech prepared for delivery at convocation exercises, Mr. Ilsley—who is to receive another honorary degree from Dalhousie University, Halifax, tomorrow—told of the complex problems facing government departments today and declared it was essential the public service be well-manned.

"The government cannot always give adequate financial recognition of merit," Mr. Ilsley said. "It is much easier for a private employer than it is for the government to make a wide differentiation between salaries paid, and, in exceptional instances to pay very high salaries.

"Governments, however, are recognizing as they never did before the folly of being too niggarly in the financial recognition of high competence and talent and there is no doubt that many of the inequities arising from excessive standardization of salaries will have to be eliminated as time goes on.

"Even though this is done, the university graduate of exceptional ability may still find that his ability will receive greater financial rewards in private life than in the government service."

There was public service too on the political level that was providing a challenge of "equal insistence" to Canadian youth. He spoke of its discouragements and compensations and said: "No career is more honorable than that of the public service."

NEW SPEED RECORD

Hamilton Field, Calif., May 14 —(AP) — A United States Army B-29 set a speed record of seven hours 14 minutes Sunday for the flight from Hickam Field, Hawaii, to the mainland. The new mark was faster by 40 minutes than the old record set May 5 by a Pan-American Constellation Clipper.

STILL WAVING

The Swiss flag is one of the oldest in Europe, and was used as early as 1339.

Mrs. E. Elmy, 14 Dunbar St., Belleville, writes: "Every woman likes to get her wash finished as early as possible on washday and I find Super Suds cuts my washing time in half and makes the clothes so clean and white, I never have to boil or scrub them. Super Suds is certainly a swell washday soap."

Thank you, Mrs. Elmy, for your grand letter. You see, Ladies, Super Suds is Concentrated. Super Suds actually gives you far more washing-power, which means sudsier, longer-lasting suds, for easier and quicker washdays. And Super Suds costs no more than ordinary washday soap.

Tribute Paid Newspaperman On Retirement

Halifax, May 14 —(CP)— Halifax newspapermen paid tribute Saturday night to A. D. Merkel, who retired May 1 as Atlantic superintendent of The Canadian Press. Mr. Merkel was guest of honor at a dinner tendered by the Halifax newspapers, The Herald and Mail and The Chronicle and Star.

H. P. Duchemin of the Sydney Post-Record and former president of The Canadian Press paid tribute to Mr. Merkel for "his courage and impartiality." "The work he did was a big factor in the success of CP," said Mr. Duchemin. "There is no employee with as long a record in one field. The Maritime field is a difficult one to fill."

Mayor J. E. Ahern of Halifax, himself a newspaperman, presented Mr. Merkel with a fountain pen on behalf of the city of Halifax.

Others who spoke included Sir Joseph Chisholm, chief justice of Nova Scotia, and Charles Bruce, general superintendent of The Canadian Press, who was trained under Mr. Merkel.

Telegrams of good wishes to Mr. Merkel were read from F. I. Ker of the Hamilton Spectator, president of The Canadian Press, and T. F. Drummie of the Saint John Telegraph-Journal and a director of The Canadian Press.

C. F. Fraser, managing editor, The Chronicle and Star, presented him with a shotgun on behalf of the Halifax newspapers.

R. J. Ranjin, managing editor, The Herald and Mail, and a director of The Canadian Press, presided.

Scouts Volunteer To Rebuild House

Preston, Ont., May 14 —(CP) —More than 3,000 "work hours" have been voluntarily contributed by senior scouts and enthusiastic young men in the reconstruction of Preston's famous "Scout House," which was gutted by fire in December last year with damage exceeding $5,000.

The boys have done most of the reconstruction, calling in outside help for electrical wiring, plumbing and spray painting. Every care is being taken to rebuild as closely as possible to the original appearance — with a look-out for new facilities wherever practical.

Cost of the reconstruction has been borne largely by voluntary subscriptions made by firms, organizations and citizens. A total of $3,000 was collected, while insurance coverage on the building was only $2,400 as against the $5,000 loss.

Officials are hopeful that the building — began as a stone barn some 110 years ago — will be entirely free of debt on completion.

Preston's popular 'Teen Canteen,' which was housed in the building, is also being rebuilt.

Bureau of Mines to Assist Canadian Industry in Trade Competition

By ANDY ROSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, May 14—(CP)—From a background of unprecedented wartime expansion and achievement, practically unknown to the Canadian public, a government agency here has embarked on a program which well may spell success or failure for many Canadian industries in the post-war scramble for world trade.

It is the Bureau of Mines of the Resources Department, whose name gives little indication of the ramifications and vital importance to the country of the investigation and research it undertakes.

Nestled in a string of unpretentious red brick buildings on out-of-the-way Booth Street are extensive modern laboratories and workshops valued at approximately $5,000,000. Its facilities are designed to duplicate and solve the complex problems faced by Canada's vast mining and metals industry.

Reconversion

Expanding tremendously during the war to chase bugs which developed and design improvements in the technology behind the Dominion's munitions drive, the Bureau under its new chief, C. H. Parsons, has turned quickly to the problems of reconversion.

Its over-all objectives are to create jobs by aiding the development of new industries and to maintain jobs by keeping established Canadian businesses at least abreast if not ahead of competition abroad.

For this task it has the solid know-how built during the war when the Bureau's activities increased from some 20 individual problems handled annually for war industries in pre-war years to a peak of more than 1,200 projects in 1943.

During the battle of the home front, its staff was asked to solve more than 1,000 problems in aircraft manufacture, some 1,100 in vehicles, 900 in tanks, 330 in ships, 400 in ammunition, 300 in supplies and 250 in guns.

In some cases, notably the construction of "Asdic" submarine detecting equipment for the British and Canadian navies, the Bureau actually did the manufacturing itself. The staff on Asdic work grew from four to 50 and eventually the Bureau acquired a plant at Renfrew, Ont., employing as many as 250, where the secret project was completed.

First Armor-Piercing Projectile

Largely, however, it was a labor of perfecting methods of manufacture elsewhere and of trouble-shooting.

The Bureau produced the first armor-piercing projectile with a tungsten carbide core produced in North America, perfected methods of making aircraft control cable in Canada, conducted successful experiments which led to production of fine quality armor plate for the first time in Canada and made hundreds of investigations into production possibilities of such war-short minerals as cryolite tungsten, aluminum, scheelite, molybdenum, chrone, magnesium and tantalite.

Allied radio and radar equipment programs were saved from a threatened shortage of insulator parts by development in Canada of steatite deposits. Steatite was found particularly suitable for high-grade insulators and closely shrouded in secrecy, a plant was designed and brought into production to save the situation.

Among the hundreds of other projects were the building of a pilot plant, still in operation, to extract high-grade salt from the extensive rock salt deposits at Malagash, N.S.; studies of crude oil from Turner Valley as a source of toluene for explosives; investigation of the possibility of extracting aviation and motor fuels by hydrogenation from the bituminuous sand of Alberta and the oil shales of New Brunswick.

MacLean Elects Trial by Judge On Theft Count

Hamilton, May 14 —(CP)— Donald MacLean, one of three Hamilton persons committed for trial in connection with Hamilton's torso-slaying, on Monday elected trial by judge without jury on a charge of theft of street car tickets or cash from the Hamilton Street Railway.

The charge against the 64-year-old janitor for the tramways did not specify the amount involved or the period over which the alleged thefts took place.

Last April 26, MacLean, his daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Dick, 26, and her friend, William Bohozuk, 27, were committed to stand trial at the fall assizes on charges of murdering John Dick, husband of Mrs. Dick, whose headless and limbless body was found March 16 near a roadway on the nearby Hamilton mountain.

Two days before the three were committed for the Dick slaying, Bohozuk and Mrs. Dick had been committed for trial on charges of murdering a baby whose cement-encased body was found in a suitcase in Mrs. Dick's residence during a police search for her husband who disappeared March 6.

Peterborough Whole Milk Producers In Militant Mood Over Subsidy Cut

Peterborough, May 14 —(CP) —Continuance of the federal government's winter subsidy on milk of 55 cents a hundred pounds, instead of the seasonable reduction to summer level of 35 cents was unanimously demanded by the Peterborough whole milk producers here Friday night at a meeting which lasted long past midnight.

Refusal to accept the 20-cent cut was the immediate declaration of the county farmers and they went also beyond that objective with the starting of a movement seeking an increase of 70 cents a hundred for their milk.

Resentment and impatience flared forth at times and gave V. S. Milburn, Toronto secretary of the Ontario Milk Board, one of the warmest sessions of his long experience. Numerous resolutions, motions and amendments went before the meeting ranging from restoring of the subsidy meeting with the city dealers to increase the price 1½ cents a quart, to applying to the Federation of Labor, Canadian Congress of Labor or C.I.O. for admittance.

Mr. Milburn was definitely told that the producers were not prepared to compromise on a subsidy between 35 and 55 cents.

In one of the discussions Mr. Milburn asked what might happen if the farmers did not get redress of their grievance and one man shouted "strike," while another "if they don't pay it they don't get the milk."

"Let us look the facts cooly in the face," Mr. Milburn continued. "Are you prepared to hold your milk?"

The reply was "sure feed it to the pigs."

"How long? Mr. Milburn continued. "What about those farmers who will bring their milk into the dairies, when you're not delivering? You know there would be some."

And the answer came: "Yes, and at night."

Mr. Milburn: "All right what happens next?"

Several men called out "picket the roads. There are not so many. Dump their milk into the ditch. They did it in the States."

"I Didn't Intend To Kill Him" Statement Said

Toronto, May 14 — (CP) — A statement which police said was given them by 18-year-old Edward Martin, one of four Toronto youths charged with the murder of a shopkeeper, concluded with the words "I didn't intend to kill him," a Supreme Court Assize jury was told Monday.

The statement was read in court after Mr. Justice Keiller MacKay ruled it admissible. Detective-Sgt. Frank Wilson testified it was taken from Martin after his arrest Dec. 28, two days after Meyer Tobias, 55-year-old North Toronto dress shop proprietor, was shot and killed in his store.

The others charged are Donald Warner, 17; Howard Urquhart, 19, and William Mullen, 20.

The statement quoted Martin as saying that he and three others drove to the Tobias store in a stolen automobile, that Tobias stood up from a desk when told it was a holdup, and that Martin fired a shot at the floor between the merchant's feet.

Tobias walked towards them and "when he jumped at me I fired another shot down, which I think hit his shoulder," the statement added. "Then Mullen fired a shot."

They then left the store and fled in the car.

Before the statement was admitted, Martin testified he had been forced and threatened into giving it. This, police witnesses denied.

Martin charged that police officers told him they didn't want to get "tough," but could get "plenty tough," and it was then he "thought I had to talk."

He testified that after the statement was made he was allowed to read it and that he was misquoted in certain sections. When he pointed this out, he was told "it doesn't matter," he swore.

Statements of Urquhart and Warner, admitting they were at the scene of the murder, previously were admitted as evidence. The trial is opening its second week and may last as long as 10 days or two weeks more.

"LIFE'S BIGGER MOMENTS"

"And now you're going to be Married"

Naturally you're walking on air ever since she whispered that magic word. If ever there is a time when a man is entitled to disregard the laws of gravity, it is during the dreamy days which follow the popping of the 64-dollar question.

However, if you'll just climb down from that cloud for a minute, we'd like to suggest a very practical step which you should take before the wedding bells ring out. This step is to call in the North American Life representative and check over your Life Assurance programme. Likely your new responsibilities call for some changes in your Life Assurance plans. You'll find him well informed on all aspects of insurance for young married people. He has helped many a young man to line up a sound Life Assurance programme which protects his family and fits neatly into his budget.

Mr. MacInnis said that the writing down of rights would be of little use if those rights were not protected.

Labor Minister Mitchell said he felt a "Bill of Responsibilities" rather than a Bill of Rights was needed. There was too much talk about "Rights" without any thought of the responsibilities which went with them.

John Hackett (PC-Stanstead) objected to a clause which would allow a woman of another nationality who married a Canadian to retain that nationality: Mr. Hackett sought an explanation of why there was a departure from the age old practice under which the wife assumed the citizenship of her husband on marriage.

State Secretary Martin said the government sought in the Bill to allow women to have citizenship in their own right.

Reject Amendment

Mr. Martin obtained the support of the House in rejecting an amendment by Thomas Reid (L—New Westminster) which would provide for loss of citizenship for any citizen who acknowledged the citizenship of another country while residing in Canada.

Howard Green (PC—Vancouver South), supporting the amendment, said there had been cases of Russians in Canada who, though not Canadian citizens, had applied to the Soviet Embassy for Soviet citizenship. They were formerly residents of territory now with the Soviet Union.

He said that where persons acknowledged another citizenship, as had been done by Japanese in Canada, there should be provision for loss of Canadian citizenship.

Mr. Martin said that if Mr. Reid's amendment was accepted it would mean any group of citizens could voluntarily divest themselves of citizenship in "connivance" with a foreign power in Canada.

Under another section of the Bill, Mr. Martin moved an amendment which would take Canadian citizenship from any Canadian who served in forces fighting against Canada during a war.

The amendment was not finally dealt with before the adjournment hour.

HUSBAND HELD

"This started an argument and Hill asked his wife to go around to the back of the house. The next thing we heard was a scream. The girl's mother ran around to the back of the house and the daughter went around to the other side to the door. The girl collapsed just inside the door.

Saw Man Run Across Field

Mr. DeLeary said he saw Hill run across a field and disappear into the bush 200 yards away.

Provincial Police from all over the district poured into the area shortly after. Late in the afternoon a posse of ten officers were ready to pick up Indian guides and start a manhunt through the tangled bush country of the Reserve. A call was sent to Ottawa to have "Duke" famed government police dog, flown in to aid in the search.

The plans proved unnecessary. While they were formed, Hill telephoned officers at St. Thomas from the little community of Frome. Police covered the six miles to Frome from St. Thomas in five minutes and picked him up.

Police said that Hill's first exclamation on being returned to the DeLeary home was: "Is she dead?" Coroner Dr. H. R. Pink, of Deleware said the Indian girl died from a wound made by a sharp instrument which severed the jugular vein.

Officers removed a large hunting knife Hill carried. He was brought to Middlesex County jail.

Six German Civilians Held In Fatal Shooting

Nuernberg, May 14 — (AP) — Six German civilians, all men, have been arrested by military police scouring the suburban Erlenstegen area for clues in Friday's fatal shooting of two American soldiers in a jeep.

The six are being held for further inquiry, security officers announced, because their identity papers were incomplete and they were unable to explain their presence in the area. It was not immediately apparent whether any of them were connected with the mysterious shooting.

Military police who searched a four-square mile sector on Sunday found small quantities of American rations and cigarets in German homes.

The identity of the two victims, both members of the Stars and Stripes army newspaper staff, have not yet been released.

THE PROVINCE OF PROMISE...

ONTARIO'S northern timber areas form a very important part of her natural wealth, and logging — getting the trees out for pulping — is a colourful operation which, while linked with progress, is still in step with nature. The processing of pulp into newsprint and a host of new and promised products is however an advanced industry upon which model towns are built and careers are launched. Ontario's forest wealth is side-kick to her mineral riches . . . more solid if less spectacular. Pulpwood and gold are each the yield of rugged country . . . each in its way beckons to the daring.

FOREST WEALTH

An estimated 71,031,000,000 cubic feet of timber stand on Ontario's 104,000,000 acres of forested land. With a capital investment of $250,000,000, the pulp-and-paper and lumber industries rank first in industrial financing. Forest industries also lead in number employed, salaries and wages paid and net value of products. Plans are afoot to: (a) train men in efficient logging methods; (b) maintain the yield of natural tree growth by reforestation and (c) modernize woods operations with mechanical equipment.

LEO DUROCHER CHANGES MIND ABOUT HIS TEAM

Willing to String Along With Veterans if Dodgers Can Win Pennant

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, May 14 — (AP) — Leo Durocher has changed his mind completely about improving the breed of Brooklyn ball players through his "youth movement" and has decided that, after all, it might be pleasant to win the National League flag.

As the Dodgers, out in front after nearly a month of play, opened another "crucial" series against St. Louis Cards at Ebbets Field today, they had their old-line professionals manning nearly every position. The kiddies who started the campaign so auspiciously in the outfield were back on the bench.

Before his club showed its present potentialities and before the Cards began showing signs that they might not be invincible, Leo swore on a stack of score sheets he would rather develop some crack young players this year than win the pennant with his veterans. It was suggested something had happened to change his mind.

"It's not me," he said in quick denial. "I'm still not saying or thinking anything about winning a pennant. I've just made the changes in my lineup that seemed called for as we went along, like sending Pete Reiser back to his old position in centre field.

"I don't say we can win the flag. I haven't even seen the Cards yet. But these boys of mine feel they can win it and I'm not going to tell them different. They think they're a great ball club. I've never seen finer team spirit. They came from behind to win nine of their first 14 games.

Still Talking it up

"Why, the other day when we got six runs behind to the Phillies my boys still were talking it up on the bench and saying come on, we can beat those guys. Personally, I wasn't feeling so good. I wouldn't like to be six runs behind against the bloomer girls. But they did just what they said they would do — came up and won. They've got what it takes here."

While the Dodger infield still is somewhat unsettled, the remainder of the lineup appears to be established. Dixie Walker, Angie Galan and Reiser comprise a tried and tested outfield with a husky punch at the plate.

The team's infield problems should be adjusted when the veteran Cookie Lavagetto is ready to take over his old job at third after several years in the service and a recent operation for chips on his throwing elbow. That will permit Billy Herman and Eddie Stanky, two capable operatives, to divide the chores at second.

Pee Wee Reese is, of course, a valuable fixture at short. Eddie Stevens, a 20-year-old is playing a nice first base.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

There are many colorful stories now going the rounds of the late Jimmy Johnston, the "Man with the Iron Hat, a fight manager and promoter who as Arthur (New York Times) Daley put it, "had his full quota of champions but who also resurrected the most gosh-awful collection of bums—O the word is Johnston's own, and cleverly steered them into big money and fame of sorts. Some of them couldn't fight worth a lick but the fast-talking enthusiastic Man in a Derby Hat was able to convince tabby cats that they were roaring man-eating tigers."

Perhaps nothing better illustrates his nimble resourcefulness than the way he talked Jess Willard out of a victory over Boer Rodel, the South African, whom James J. called "my Boer." Everyone was 'my' with him. It was "my Boer" and "my Philip" (for Phainting Phil Scott) and "my bum" for them and others.

Rodel didn't have a chance against Willard who then was on his way to winning the heavyweight championship of the world. That didn't feaze Mr. Johnston. When the contestants climbed into the ring, Jimmy cheerfully advised Tom Jones, Jess' manager, to examine the Boer's gloves as a precautionary measure . Once Jones had left Willard's corner, Johnston sidled over.

"Jess," he said in ominous tones, "You killed a man with a punch in your last fight." This was true. Then he added, "It would end your career if you killed another man and this fellow of mine has a very weak heart. One real punch would finish him. Please be careful." This was not true.

PURSUIT BY WILLARD

But every time the giant grew forgetful and walloped "my Boer" with too much violence, Jimmy would scream a warning in horrified tones. Jess was so circumspect about his hitting that he lost the newspaper decision to the South African. When the Johnston duplicity was explained to Willard later, he chased Jimmy down the dressing-room corridor. The unsuspecting Boer, however, was so impressed by his triumph that he demanded a rematch. Jimmy arranged it and Jess, ignoring Rodel's supposed weak heart, vengefully belted the daylights out of him.

He was the chap who took an ordinary Welsh boxer named Billy Daniels and transformed him almost instantly into the colorful Gypsy Daniels. The transformation came by superimposing on the original structure a flaming kerchief and a couple of dime-store curtain rings which became eye-catching ear-dings. Daniels was introduced to a palpitating public as the son of a gypsy king, the oldest of nineteen children. Jimmy also drew considerable attention to his "Chinese lightweight" whose real name was Mickey Mulligan.

Jimmy Johnston grew mellow and beloved in his later years but underneath he still was the same saucy, scrappy fellow who always was outwitting the rest. Boxing has become a big business with the romance taken from it. Jimmy was one who helped put it there. The ring game never again will be the same without the erstwhile Boy Bandit."

• • •

Johnston liked to talk about his promotions and Frank Graham, writing in the Journal-American a few weeks ago, said one of his favorite stories was about the time he matched Jim Coffee, the Roscommon Giant, with Pittsburgh Frank Moran in the old Garden in 1915. The fight split Irish fight-followers in New York into two camps. The old Garden was too small to hold the crowd that demanded entrance, and thousands stood outside waiting for tidings from within.

• • •

Moran flattened Coffee in the third round and the crowd boiled out into the streets where for the next half-hour, the police were busy breaking up fights. Meanwhile the promoter, who had finished counting the dough, was sitting in his office when the 'phone rang and a voice asked who'd won the fight. Johnston told him Moran had won in three rounds.

"Wait a minute!" said the voice. "My friend here bet me Coffee would win and I want you to tell him what happened."

The other fellow came on to ask who'd won the fight and Johnston told him, "Coffee, in five rounds." The first fellow returned, yelling, "Who won?" and Johnston replied, "Moran, in three rounds." Then of course the second one came back again and Johnston again said, "Coffee, in five." Said Johnston. "They were calling from a bar and they started to slug each other, forgetting to hang up the 'phone, and I sat there and listened and there must have been 50 guys in the fight and I could hear bottles and glasses smashing. It was wonderful and I was sorry I couldn't be there to see it."

And incidentally here's a phophecy which might be kept in mind. It was the last one made by the late Jimmy, "Louis will knock Conn out in three rounds." Johnston hadn't much use for Louis for the Sepia Slugger was tied up with Mike Jacobs, and on many occasions he publicly belittled the Louis achievements in the ring. Privately, however, the late Jimmy admitted that the Negro fighter had all the qualities of real greatness and would in later years, be rated one of the all-time fistic greats.

Manager Ben Lady of the Kingston Ponies is rounding his squad into shape for the Border League opening game in the new $50,000 park in Kingston come Thursday, when the Ponies meet Ogdensburg in the loop curtain-raiser on that day and Friday. They get their first taste, however, of loop competition today and tomorrow when they tangle with the same squad at Ogdensburg. The Thursday game starts at 6 p.m.

The Toronto Maple Leafs baseball club is seriously considering the placing of a farm professional club in Peterborough next year, to be operated along similar lines to those of the Kingston Ponies. It is also rumored that the Leafs will install one or more such clubs in other centres. Well, there's an opportunity for Belleville—if and when those lights are installed in the Exhibition Grounds. Perhaps, as a last resort, a pro-team of strangers here would awaken the sports Rip Van Winkles of this city from that long prostrated sleep.

Leafs Defeat Orioles and Continue to Hold Fourth Place in Loop

(By The Associated Press)

Pete Appleton, 41-year-old righthander, is teaching a few mound tricks to such youngsters as Art Houtteman, Billy Pierce and Lou Kretlow—all promising rookies optioned to Buffalo Bisons by Detroit Tigers.

Appleton, signed by the Bisons at the outset of the season after drawing his release from Washington Senators, is largely responsible for Buffalo's third-place berth today in the International League, 2 1-2 games behind first-place Syracuse.

The veteran righthander made his fifth relief appearance yesterday and saved a 6-5 decision over Jersey City Giants for Houtteman. In his previous four outings, Appleton saved three contests and received credit for the victory in the other.

In the only other scheduled contest, Les McCrabb of Toronto Maple Leafs blanked Baltimore Orioles 3-0 on five hits. Four of the Oriole hits were collected by Johnny Ward.

Syracuse and Rochester engaged in exhibition games while Newark and Montreal were idle. The Chiefs nosed out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3 and the Red Wings bowed 4-3, to the Cincinnati Reds.

THEIR ROAD TO Enjoyment

Two million or more motorists from the States visit us each year . . . thousands for the sheer beauty of our countryside. Let's see to it that our hospitality matches its perfection.

WHAT CAN I DO?

Well, everybody has his own way of showing hospitality . . . whatever you do, make sure it adds up to "drop in anytime, we're glad to have you!" Here's a set of tips suggested by an Ontario hotelman.

1. Find out all about what your own neighborhood offers and become a booster.
2. Write your friends in the States about Ontario . . . show them that you're really proud of it.
3. Try to make all our visitors glad they came . . . and be really enthusiastic about it.
4. If they ask for information or directions, take time to answer them fully and graciously.
5. In any business dealings you may have with them, remember Canada's reputation for courtesy and fairness depends on you.
6. To sum it all up, just follow the "Golden Rule!"

On Sidney Bay Hill, Bruce Peninsula, Ontario.

IT'S EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS . . . it's good business!

Worth his weight in gold! Actually the Province of Ontario, in pre-war years, profited to almost the same extent from tourist business as it did from the much publicized gold mining industry. It is up to each of us to see that this business goes on growing.

We all share! Everyone benefits from the income our tourist business represents. This diagram, based on figures supplied by the Hotel Association, shows this. Aside from the demands of hospitality, it's good business to make our visitors feel at home.

It works both ways! They treat us royally when we visit them . . . we can't do less than return the compliment. Remember that it costs money to take a holiday . . . so let's see they get a good return for every penny they spend in Canada.

"Let's make them want to come back!"

LESSON NO. 986
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Let it be said that you have been sufficiently warned against a singleton lead. When you do lead a singleton, however, know what else your partner has a right to expect in your hand.

Leads follow the order of choice in tops, longies, shorts; don't lead a suit bid by opponents; against a suit contract, don't lead away from an ace or a king.

So, when you lead a (short) singleton, you deny having any top or desirable long suit lead. Either your long suit has been bid by opponents. Or it contains an ace or a king.

Even then the singleton lead is a poor choice unless it has the backing of certain help. The singleton leader should also have in trumps the ace with one or two more, or king with two more.

What is the purpose of your singleton lead? To trump a return lead in that suit before your trumps are gone. If partner does not take the first trick, have some chance of trumping a later trick.

Chances are two-to-one that your partner may not have the ace of your singleton lead. Most likely, declarer will win that trick. If he does, he may start pulling trumps.

At such a time, be fortified to stop the flow of trumps. When will you be able to do that and still have a trump left? When you have the ace with another, or king and two more.

After checking trump leads, you may find a lead that will enter partner's hand. He will lead the suit you can trump. In this way you make up for the trick your singleton may have cost your side.

Opponents are in a four spade contract when it is your opening lead from this hand::

♠K 3 2
♥9
♦A 6 5 3
♣K 7 5 4 2

Lead your singleton heart nine. At least you have the correct holding for it. Have it handy in case you need an alibi.

Hollywood, May 14 (AP)—The curtain of secrecy has been lifted on the revolutionary method with which Robert Montgomery will direct his first picture. Hope you haven't been losing too much sleep over it.

"'Lady in the Lake' will be filmed in the first person," Bob told me. "I will appear only four times in the picture, just to establish the character, which is the Private Eye, Philip Marlowe. During the rest of the time, the camera will act as my eyes."

That means the camera will move as Montgomery's head would move. The lens will attempt to recreate as closely as possible a man's sight. When the character walks up stairs, the camera will not slide up, but move as a man's line of vision would.

"For the first time in movies, the actors will talk directly at the camera, as though they were talking to me," Bob explained. "My voice will be heard and occasionally my arms will be seen. For instance, I might bring a cigaret up to the camera; then you would see smoke being blown out."

Bob said the technique has been used in sequences before, but never throughout a picture.

In Manhattan

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, May 14. (CP)—Bidden godspeed by a mob of London west-end well-wishers that tore the buttons from their clothes in a paroxysm of adulation, cheered lustily upon their arrival at La Guardia Field, feted by Broadway and Park Avenue society, Laurence Olivier, Ralph Richardson and their old Vic Company stepped on the local stage this week amid tremendous expectations.

Even more remarkable—they proved at least 99 per cent as terrific as they had been advertised.

The London troupe, opening a six-week repertory stand, led what was conceded their trump card—"Henry IV, Part I," with Mr. Richardson in the role of Falstaff and Mr. Olivier as Hotspur. TransAtlantic travellers have been bringing back tall tales of the magnificence of these two performances—created when London was under V-bombs—and they have not exaggerated.

With minor exceptions, the rest of the company is of high standard. The sets by Gower Parks and costumes by Roger Furse are restrained but effective. John Sullivan's lighting has suffered little in transplantation.

More striking than these details is the harmony of the whole. This reviewer—a sucker for Shakespeare meant it to be—impetuous, gallant, stirring and self-mocking. This and the sharply-contrasting competent opportunism of Nicholas Hannen's performance in the title role make the historical side of the play as entertaining as its better-known tavern scenes.

In the latter, Mr. Richardson is without peer. His bawdy, swilling, belly-scratching fat knight is a titantic creation—as unsavory as it is delightful, and not by turns but simultaneously. The actor does the playwright the courtesy of reading his lines as they appear in the folio, without attempting to settle any of the knotty questions of interpretation posed by Bradley, Morgan and their scholarly followers. What emerges is the greatest comic figure of the English-speaking stage, portrayed robustly but without rant.

If a fault is to be found in the production it lies in Michael Warre's performance as Prince Hal. The part is one of Shakespeare's most demanding, for though it must be blended the antipathetic attributes of the old morality-play figures of Virtue and Vice. To measure up to the performances of the two principals—who, in a manner, personify these two ideals—is just beyond Mr. Warre's scope as an actor. He is competent when he should be superlative.

The nature of this quibble indicates how hard one must search for a fault to pick in the Old Vic Company.

COMEDIAN PLAYS ON WINNING TEAM

Buffalo, N.Y., May 14 (AP) — The Llo-Da-Mar bowl team of Santa Monica, Cal., today succeeded Chicago Budweisers as American Bowling Congress team champions.

The squad, sponsored by movie comedian Harold Lloyd, rolled into the tournament lead here May 7, a week before the closing date, with a 3,023 gross, the lone 3000-total of the 1946 world championship tournament.

The Budweisers, who did not defend their title, took first place in the last tournament four years ago at Columbus, O., with a 3,131 total.

Llo-Da-Mar split a $1,500 first prize. Milwaukee drew second place and $1,200.

Sizzling Boston Red Sox, Puzzling St. Louis Cards Spotlighted on Road Swings

Boston Club Opens First Western Tour and Cards to Open With Dodgers

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Big league attendance will zoom over the 3,000,000 mark on the way to an all-time high today as the sizzling Boston Red Sox open their first western tour and the puzzling St. Louis Cardinals move east to wrestle with the first-place Brooklyn Dodgers.

When 10,951,502 paid to see the 1945 games, many believed the mark would stand as a record for years to come. Now, a month after the start of the 24-week season, New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox, Philadelphia Athletics and Cincinnati Reds have drawn about half as much as they did all last year.

The Yanks, with 578,940 in the till, are regarded a cinch to smash the major league standard Chicago Cubs hung up on 1929 when they played before a 1,485,766 at Wrigley Field.

Detroit is beginning to catch fire as the Tigers flash the form that led them to a pennant and world series triumph last fall. Although the Bengals have been away from home most of the season, their Briggs stadium turnstile counts are marching along with 1945 figures.

Tigers picked up six easy runs in a wild second inning to gain a 6-5 edge over Chicago. Six walks, an error, an outfield fly and a bunt single produced the big bundle for the Bengals.

St. Louis Browns split a doubleheader at Cleveland. Red Embree turned them back with five blows in the opener, knocking in three runs of the Tribe's 9-2 margin. Al Milnar, making his first start shut out Cleveland, 3-0, with six hits in the second tilt.

Brooklyn warmed up for the Cardinals by hanging another one on the Phillies' chin 6-3, coming from behind to do it.

Boston spurted with four in the ninth to shade New York Giants, 7-6 giving reliefer Earl Reid his first big league victory.

GUS LESNEVICH EXPECTS HARD FIGHT FROM MILLS

World Light Heavyweight Title at Stake When American and Englishman Meet

London, May 14 — (CP) — Tangling in the first big-time Anglo-American prizefight since Tommy Farr challenged Joe Louis before the war, Gus Lesnevich and Freddie Mills will meet tonight for the world light heavyweight championship before what is expected to be a record crowd in Harringay Stadium.

Titleholder Lesnevich lays his crown on the line in a 15-round go against the British cruiserweight (light heavyweight) king.

Fans who gather at Harringay tomorrow will see a sharp contrast in styles which may make the fight one of the most spectacular in the history of British indoor contests.

Lesnevich, who exploits the straight left in traditional English manner, rounded off training Monday with a quiet stroll on the Sussex Downs. Characteristically, he refused to comment on the possible outcome of the battle.

"I am in fine shape," he said. "I know I am in for a very hard struggle. I have never been better and there will be no excuses if I lose."

Mills is facing his first fight in 15 months. Recently demobilized from the R.A.F. after service in India, his first task was to get down to 175-pound weight limit.

Determined to bring the laurels to Britain, Mills has trained for this fight harder than ever before. He finished up Monday with fast skipping and shadow boxing.

"I am in fine fettle: I am looking forward to a terrific scrap," Mills commented. He echoed his rival's confidence when he said there would be no excuse for him if he lost.

British fight fans are expected to pay in about £40,000 ($178,000) tomorrow night. Of this Lesnevich will get about £12,000 while Mills will net about £7,000.

Yankees Take To Air For Trip To St. Louis

(By The Canadian Press)

Not all of the New York Yankees took to the air yesterday when the American League club inaugurated its inter-city airplane transportation plan for scheduled tours. Thirty members of the squad boarded the four-engined aircraft for the first chartered flight to St. Louis. Another group, however, did not choose to fly and left New York by train, these including Charles Ruffing, Floyd Bevins, Frank Crosetti and Bill Wight.

Manager Joe McCarthy, who made the trip by air, said many of the players had had flying experience while with the armed forces during the war.

Acting for the Montreal Royals, the Brooklyn National League club yesterday secured a temporary injunction at New York to restrain the Mexican circuit from luring players from the International League farm team and to prevent shortstop Stan Breard from playing south of the Rio Grande.

Belgium eliminated Monaco yesterday in European Davis Cup competition and qualified to meet China in the second round of the zone.

When he was knocked out by Ichie Sands at Newcastle, Australia, Stu Mallon, light-heavyweight boxer from the United States, suffered a double fracture of the jaw and is in hospital there.

The seven-bar pace for three-year-olds in Grand Circuit racing at Santa Anita Park yesterday was won by Queen Anabelle when she covered the mile in 2:05.

LEN WADSWORTH LOSES BY T.K.O.

Boston, May 14 —(AP)— Len Wadsworth, Sudbury, middleweight, said today he went through a 10-minute "mental blackout" before dropping a four-round technical knockout decision to Mad Anthony Jones of Boston.

They clashed in a 10-round boxing feature last night and early in the first round, Wadsworth was felled for nine by a terrific right flush on the jaw.

"I don't remember a thing that happened after I went down," Wadsworth said.

He amazed a crowd of 2,104 by regaining his feet and then startled it with several offensive flashes before the referee halted the one-sided action at 2:10 in the fourth session to save him from unnecessary punishment.

BABY HAS 4 EXTRA PIGGIES TO GO TO MARKET

When Mrs. Jeanne Diaz, 20, of Chicago, Ill., plays "This little piggy" with two-months-old son, Michael, she has to work a few extra porkers into the yarn. The youngster, born on March 10, has six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot. The extra members seem to be perfectly developed. The photo shows the fingers.

I'LL WAIT FOR YOU

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

CHAPTER 25.

I never told you this before, but before your father died he told me that you would be poor again. He seemed to know exactly what would happen to you. He said, "Amy, Edwina won't find herself until she's poor but she has good stuff in her and I'm not afraid to leave her alone. We Burkes go soft with money. Without it we can fight and we're not happy unless we're fighting. I enjoyed my life more when I was fighting for my existence than I've ever enjoyed it since. I know my girl. She'll get kicked about but she'll learn and she'll love that Harding boy until she dies. There'll be a hundred men in between but she'll love him. That's another Burke trait, falling in love once in your life."

I don't know how right he was, my dear, but he had an uncanny way of being right about most things, of seeing ahead of his time and of understanding people — even his own child.

I had dinner with Robert Tallant last night and we talked about you and Carol and Norman and of course Alan, too. My evenings with him are rich in good conversation and if I were twenty, no, ten years younger, I'm afraid your unromantic Amy would be quite in love. But we shall remain, I am sure, only partners in bridge and golf, and enduring friends.

You young people — how I love you and envy you, and how you annoy me. How dishonest you are with yourselves and how you deceive yourselves with your silly romanticism that keeps you away from the truth and the thing your heart really desires. Always looking over a fence, when in you and in you alone is materal for a fine life. And when you make a mistake, you look up very wide-eyed and say, "Oh, I didn't know!" and cry your little hearts out when the answer has been in you all the while.

I've always said, Edwina, that you were honest with every one except yourself. Strip yourself of all shams and pretenses and look into yourself because each individual is a rare treasure chest which too few of us ever discover....."

Edwina's hands dropped to her lap, still holding Amy Durfee's letter. How like Amy to write such a letter — dear, old, honest straight-thinkng Amy! "won't be sorry for myself!" Edwina told herself. "I won't! I'll get my dinner and go for a walk, and tomorrow I'll work harder at the office and not think so much."

Quickly she arose and went to the kitchenette, slipped a white organdy apron over her head and opened the refrigerator. She was busy fifteen minutes before the telephone rang.

Dick? Cornelia? They'd been grand to her though recently she had rejected their invitations.....

Drying her hands, she picked up the telephone.

"Edwina? Edwina Burke?"

"Yes....."

"Not the Edwina Burke! It can't be! But it will be very swell if it is....."

"It is....."

She heard a gay, boyish laugh. "Darling, this is Jock Aldridge and I only just learned — ran into Sue Patton today; we're both just back in town — that you were here. I've tried several times to get you....."

She had a vision of a tall boy, lean and strong from polo and tennis and golf, and a sunburned face with bright blue eyes and a weak mouth that smiled a charming, twisted smile. Just back in town from Bar Harbor probably. And Sue, just back from Maine coast, had no doubt received the check Edwina sent her. A check for two hundred and fifty dollars which Sue would cash and then stuff absent-mindedly into her smart purse to spend for luncheons and manicures and taxis....

"I'm not in during the day, Jock. I work...."

"So Sue said." He laughed again. "You girls do the most fantastic things these days. Work! But I want to see you, Edwina. I've missed you like the devil all summer. You dropped out of sight. Lots of people asked about you. We supposed you were down in that Godforsaken town you're from. Anyway, why not tonight to tell me about it?"

"I told you. I work. I can't stay up all night at one of your parties, Jock." They would have cocktails and dinner and dance at one popular place after another, and the people she had known would greet her and welcome her back — because she had paid them what she owed them. Sue, Barbara, Sonny, Eric, the gang...."Darling, where have you been?" they would ask. "What a perfectly elegant tan! The Stuarts are back in town and you simply must...."Lights and music and voices. It would not be lonely back on the merry-go-round and she had money, money in the bank. Why not? Why not go out in a blaze of glory?

"I won't keep you out all night," he said. "Of course I would if I could. I'll call for you at seven..."

Edwina was about to say, "All right. I'll be ready at seven," when she found that she had been absently fingering Amy's letter. A letter.....a letter from a stiff, starched nurse who had never had time to be lonely.... Just a letter, but it made her say, "Sorry, Jock. I have to have a clear head in the morning. I'm not working for fun but because I have to. Anyway, it was nice of you to think of me."

"Lost your grip?"

"No. Not at all. I've lost my taste for people like you. Goodbye."

Her hand was shaking as she thought: I didn't do it, Amy. I couldn't. I'm loney but I'm clean and I don't want to get dirty again. And I don't owe anybody. Permit me to be a little pleased with myself for once, and thank you again.....

She ate a hot dinner alone and read the newspaper as she ate. When the few dishes were washed and put away, she washed stockings and a collar and cuff set and hummed along with the radio. She wasn't beaten. She wasn't afraid. She was young and strong and there must be something for her in the unknown, unlived years ahead.

It was only eight o'clock then. If she stayed in, she would be conscious of silence and loneliness again, so she put on a boyish black felt hat and the tailored little black coat and went out — and walked with her face set against the brisk October wind that swept aound the corners of tall buildings and whipped tears in her eyes.

She thought: It wouldn't be bad if I had some one....And she thought that if she had some one, she could laugh and say, "Look at the man running down the street after his hat! I wonder where all these people are going ....Why do people come to New York? What do they expect to find here that they can't find some other place? Let's stop somewhere and have a hot drink and a cigarette. I know a place that's cheap where they have good spaghetti and good music and everybody calls the proprietor Poppa...."What is life with its sharp vivid colors, its neutral grays, its tragic black? Love still makes the world tick more than greed and ambition. If Amy had charge of it, it would be a wonderful world where every one would get a decent "break"......

She did not glance into the shop windows and she rejected the idea of stopping in to see a movie. Movies were drugs that wore off when you came out. Strip yourself of shams and pretenses and look into yourself, Amy had written. Very well. Do it. Do it now! And what did she see? That she was kinder and wiser than the Edwina of eighteen had been, but that some things about her were the same...

Little Benny's Note Book

Us fellows were walking home from school and Puds Simkins said, Hay Benny, how about going in and getting your baskit ball and all having some fun with it?

Which just then I saw Mrs. Sitgrove going in our house with little Elmer, and I said, Aw heck, now I cant.

Aw heck, why not? Glasses Magee said, and I said, Because if I go in now my mother will stop me and make me stay in and play with that darn little kid to keep him from interrupting them while they're talking.

Well G, cant you sneek passed so she cant hear you? Shorty Judge said, and Glasses said, Sure, go on in and sneek passed like a bergler, and I said, I tried that too often and it's never werked yet, she's too good of a deteckive.

Well hay, supposing I ring your bell and say you told me I could have the lend of your baskit ball, and if your mother asks me where you are I'll claim I dont know, Puds said, and I said, Well if you dont know where I am, how could I of told you anything?

I didn't think of that, Puds said, and Shorty said, Well why cant he tell her you told him this morning, and he knew where you were then but he dont now?

Nothing doing, it sounds too much like a lie, and that's one thing I'm not suppose to get caught doing, I said.

Which just then the boy from the drugstore went up my front steps with something square looking in a paper bag, and Glasses said, Oh boy, ice cream, your mother ordered ice cream for them.

Oh well, maybe I'll take a chance on trying to sneek passed, I said, and the fellows all yelled, Oh yes, like fun, if you go in now we wont see you again or the baskit ball either, sneek passed like heck, you'll go in yelling Here I am, that's what you'll do.

The result being I had to take care of Elmer but the ice cream was werth it.

REOPENS AIR ROUTE

Poole, Dorset, England, May 14 —(Reuters) — The British Overseas Airways Corporation's Hythe class flying boat Hudson took off Sunday to reopen the 12,000-mile Empire flying boat route to Sydney, closed during the war. A twice-weekly service will be operated jointly by B.O.A.C. and its Australian associate, Qantas Empire Airways. The crews will change at Singapore.

Visited 30,000 Patients In Hospitals in 32 Years. . .

Des Moines, May 14 — (AP) — Thomas M. Shallenberger, 95, who claimed to have visited approximately 30,000 patients at Des Moines hospitals over a period of 32 years, died Sunday at his home here. Shallenberger each year received birthday cards and greetings from the men and women he called his "patients." Shallenberger started his hospital visiting with a call to a sick friend. He claimed to have visited one patient 225 times at the hospital and at home, and taken him 175 bouquets.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

Toronto, May 14 —(CP)— Stocks turned heavy on the stock exchange in the second hour and by noon the golds and industrials were down ¾ of a point or more, the base metals were down .54 and the Western oils were lower by .06.

Volume was smaller than usual at 815,000 shares for the first three hours.

The market for Duvay set a lively pace, and in the heavy turnover the price climbed to 50 for a net gain of 9 cents on news of a drill core from the property running ounces per ton across a foot.

The paper, utility and steel stocks slipped off for sizeable losses and the foods held to the up side.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, May 14—(AP)—Labor clouds continued to chill pivotal stocks in today's market.

While associated specials maintained their popularity to a certain degree, some of these were stalled by profit cashing. Dealings slowed after an active opening. Losses, running to two or more points at the worst, were shaded in most cases near the fourth hour.

Canadians were mixed on the big board at noon. Hiram Walker Hjumped 1 1/2 at 127 and Distillers Seagram gained 1/4 at 110. Canadian Pacific lost 1/4 at 18 5/8, Dome Mines ½ at 23 ¾ and International Nickel 5-8 at 39¼.

FATHER OF

Urquhart, who said he left school when he was 14, also testified that he handed the gun to Mullen and said "remember, there must be no shooting."

Later, Urquhart said, he watched Mullen inspect the gun and saw a cartridge jump out. He quoted Mullen as saying then, "we can't have any of this."

He sat in the car at the driver's seat while the three others entered the dress shop, he said. He heard three shots and the three youths ran from the store, ran towards the wrong car, then entered the stolen car and they drove away.

Warner had related a similar story yesterday. He testified after the Crown had introduced a letter from Mullen to his mother, written from jail, and which said in part: "I didn't even know the gun had been fired until I saw the smoke coming from the barrel."

Mrs. G. Barclay Pres. Q.A. Home And School Club

The final meeting for the year of Queen Alexandra Home and School Club was held on Monday evening at the school.

As a prelude to the meeting several songs were sung by the members, led by Mrs. Rollins, after which, somewhat in a spirit of levity, Mr. Anderson presented the president, Mrs. Scott, with a gavel.

An exceptionally good musical program was enjoyed and much appreciated by members. Davey Branscombe and Don Charlton each played a cornet solo, accompanied by Mrs. Reed at the piano, then together they played a duet. Mrs. Goodier thanked the boys and wished them success and expressed the wish that more boys might follow their studies in the musical world. Miss Ethel Smith sang two songs, ably accompanied at the piano by Mr. "Bill" Navin. Miss Lashbrook voiced the very enthusiastic thanks for all present.

Mrs. Goodier announced on behalf of the sports committee, that a field day will be held for the school at the Fair Grounds on June 7th.

Report Given.

Mrs. Barclay, delegate to the recent meeting of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Clubs, gave an interesting resume of the meetings which she attended. She reported that developing trained leadership in the community was stressed by speakers as being the most important job, and the parents should be partners with the government in getting the best from schools. Mrs. Barclay then made a motion that the Queen Alexandra School become a member of the U.N.N.R., which was unanimously carried.

Annual reports were read by officers and members of the executive, and Mrs. Scott, the out-going president, thanked all those who had contributed to a very successful year. Part of her very excellent address follows:

Teachers Praised

"Let us not, in our zeal for advancement, lose sight of the fine things which are already ours, of the splendid opportunities which have for years been available to our children, the excellent trained leadership with which they have been surrounded. Sometimes we become so absorbed with the demands of home making that we forget to appreciate or show our appreciation for the patient effort that the teacher is putting forth all day, day after day, in the class room with that child of ours. We sometimes take these things for granted and I felt if we could somehow learn more about just what is going on each day in our classrooms it would be a revelation to us in excellent teaching methods and approaches to the child which we could so profitably emulate in our own home dealings.

Public Bodies Thanked

And as regard to creating public opinion favorable toward educational advancement and sympathetic toward school needs, we made one definite step in this direction this year, in sponsoring the open meeting where the public could hear and become acquainted with the school board candidates and gain insight into their plans and their problems. The scope here is unlimited. Home and School is more and more recognized as a force in community and national life. We have felt a definite warmth this year toward our activities coming from the school board, the city council, and other civic bodies. I would like to express appreciation to the school board and city officials and service clubs for their kindly interest in our endeavors during the past year. I see a bright future for Home and School in future co-operative endeavor with these bodies.

Mrs. Finkle thanked Mrs. Scott for her very excellent work during the past year and presented her with a past-president pin, which might serve as a reminder of the gratitude of the club.

Mr. Anderson then installed the in-coming executive, which consists of the following: President, Mrs. Gordon Barclay; 1st Vice-President, Mr. Edward Buchanan; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. E. A. Goodier; Recording Secretary, Mrs. T. E. O'Connor; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. R. G. Williams; Treasurer, Mrs. Edward Buchanan; Executive, Mrs. Norval Tomkin, Mrs. W. Sherry, Mrs. Everett Fairman, Mrs. A. D. McLean, Mrs. R. W. Hart.

DISTRIBUTE R.C.A.F. BADGES

Ottawa, May 14 (CP)—It was reliably learned here yesterday that more than 200,000 badges are being distributed to R.C.A.F. veterans of Second Great War but letters accompanying the badge emphasize they are to mark a man's reserve rather than his veteran status. An official said the R.C.A.F. was not trying to compete in any way with the discharge button distributed to Canadian veterans of the three services.

PROFESSOR WHO WROTE DETECTIVE FICTION DIES

New York, May 14 (CP) — Dr. Rudolph Kagey 41, assistant professor of philosophy at New York University, who wrote best-selling detective fiction under the pen-name of Kurt Steel, died in hospital yesterday after a year's illness. Dr. Kagey's best-known thriller was "Murder Goes to College," written in 1937 and later filmed in Hollywood.

1,750 Countryless Jews Nearing Promised Land

By CARTER DAVIDSON

Aboard Jewish Refugee Ship Smyruni, Off Haifa, Palestine, May 14 — (AP) — From 20 miles out in the Mediterranean, this ancient rust-scarred Greek motor freight ship today wearily slogged her way toward the promised land of her cargo — 1,750 countryless Jews.

An illegal shipload of immigrants, because the Jewish refugees fled Constanta, Romania, a week ago without passports and without certificates, this vessel is under the protection — and in the custody — of the British destroyer Jarvis and two gunboats.

Only the lusty singing of "Hatikvah," the Jewish national anthem, distinguished the ship's decks from a concentration camp barracks.

Packed close together on a single deck, on the roofs of deckhouses and peering by turns from portholes, the immigrants ranged in age from babes in arms to bearded men, nearly all in tatters.

The ship was headed for Tel Aviv last sunset, with an elaborate underground screen in preparation to help them land in darkness.

British plane patrols radioed the freighter's position, however, and shortly after dark the destroyer Jarvis took the battered ship and its human cargo in custody and patrolled for more than 12 hours up and down the Palestine coast while arrangements for disembarkation were made.

CONFIDENT LEWIS MEETS BACKERS

Seemingly confident of the eventual outcome of the coal strike, United Mine Workers' President John L. Lewis, RIGHT, breaks out one of his rare smiles as he arrives at the U.M.W. policy committee meeting in Washington. The 250-man group upheld his strike, settlement demands to the mine operators. Beside Lewis is Thomas Kennedy, union secretary. Lack of coal has shut down many industries.

Sub-committee Statement

On the subject of alleged persecution and execution of Spanish Republicans and others by the Franco-regime, the sub-committee announced last night it would generally accept evidence from Spanish underground sources "subject to the proof of the authenticity of each document."

The sub-committee, now holding daily sessions over a mounting stack of evidence, awaited formal presentation of the 350-page indictment of Franco brought here from Paris by Jose Giri, premier of the exile Spanish Republican regime.

The Spanish Republicans charge that German scientists are experimenting on atomic fission in Granda and Murcia provinces with encouragement of the Franco government.

The document also carries detailed reports of Gestapo agents operating in Spain, the strength and plans of Franco's armies and date on "tortures, terrorism and cruelties" practised in Spain, which the Republicans describe as one "huge penitentiary" housing up to 20,000 prisoners in the Madrid area alone.

MAY DRAFT PEACE TREATY FOR GERMANY NOV 12

Lunan Reported Mazerall Agreed "To Participate"

Faces Charge of Conspiring To Give Russia Information

Ottawa, May 15 —(CP)— The Crown quoted today from a Russian embassy file said to concern Gordon Lunan an excerpt in which Lunan reported that Edward Wilfred Mazerall had "agreed to participate" in the activities of a network of Russian agents.

J. R. Cartwright, Crown counsel, completed this morning his reading of contents of the file to an Ontario Supreme Court jury trying Mazerall on a charge of conspiracy.

Lunan is the alleged "head" of a cell of agents said to include Mazerall.

A letter in the file indicated that Lunan had reported to the embassy that the accused had "promised to give assistance" to the extent of his ability and promised reports on his work with the National Research Council. Later, however, Lunan reported that Mazerall was "extremely busy" and needed another 10 days to "complete his work."

Mazerall, 30-year-old native of Fredericton, faces a charge of conspiring to give information to Russia. Actually, he is alleged to have given Lunan two documents on radar but the Crown has admitted they were made public very shortly after.

Crown's Contention.

It is the Crown's contention that the agreement to give, not the giving itself, is the vital factor in conspiracy.

Mr. Cartwright renewed an appeal to have a document connected with Prof. Israel Halperin of Queen's University treated in camera because it related to a matter the United States government still considered secret. The Chief Justice directed that it not be read to the jury, that it be placed on record for them but urged that no publicity be given.

Halperin is one of those with whom Mazerall is alleged to have conspired.

Excerpts read from the embassy documents purported to show that Lunan had been instructed to take certain precautions in meeting Mazerall and others. Meetings were to take place casually on street corners and taxis were not to be used in going to the trysts.

Wives Not Informed.

Lunan was instructed to tell Mazerall and the others not to inform their wives of what was occurring.

Meetings with Mazerall were to be arranged inconspicuously at lunch time.

Payment of $30 was suggested for Mazerall.

The instructions to Lunan suggested he get various information on army dispositions, strength and plans.

Gouzenko on Stand

Igor Gouzenko, former cipher clerk at the Russian Embassy, was recalled to the witness stand. He identified a picture of Lt.-Col. Rogov, former military attache, at the Embassy, who was known as "Jan" or "Brent" in the network.

He identified, too, a few pages from a notebook in which Rogov had given a breakdown of personnel and sections of the research council. Some of them were dubbed "C.C.F." and one "reactionary — anti-Soviet."

Next came another file Gouzenko had taken when he left the Embassy Sept. 5, 1945. He said it was the file on Durnford Smith, another council engineer who is named on the same indictment with Mazerall.

When defence lawyer R. A. Hughes queried as to translations of the Russian documents, the Crown said most of them had been done by Mervyn Black, R.C.M.P., who has been Gouzenko's interpreter through the spy trials. He had corrected translations of the others.

Weather Forecast

Synopsis: Southerly winds continue to bring warm moist air to southern and northeastern Ontario, Quebec, and the eastern United States. Skies have been mostly overcast with scattered showers but the air is becoming somewhat drier and skies are clearing this morning. Cool dry air over the prairie provinces and the mid-western states continues to move slowly our way and will probably enter this district during the night preceded by showers and a few thunderstorms.

Musso Paid Hitler 7 Billion Month For Protection

—RAHN.

Asperg, Germany, May 15 (AP) —Mussolini paid "protection money" at the rate of 7,000,000,000 lire a month to Adolf Hitler after his rescue by German paratroopers, says Rudolf Hermann Rahn, German ambassador in Rome at the time of Italy's armistice.

This 46-year-old bushy-browed diplomat, a member of the party since 1933 though he now claims he always tried to use his "sobering liberal influence" against his fellow-Nazis, is interned in the moated mountain citadel of Hohen-Esperg with other Nazi diplomats from Italy and Portugal and Spain.

He told how he went to see Mussolini after the Fascist leader's rescue from atop Gran Sasso mountain in the Abruzzo, and asked him on orders from Berlin what he now proposed to do to help obtain order behind the German lines.

Mussolini, knowing that the banks in northern Italy already were occupied by German troops, agreed to place 7,000,000,000 lire a month at Rahn's disposal through the bank of Italy. For this, Rahn undertook that the Germans would keep rigorous order and help to strengthen Mussolini's hand.

PICKEREL SEASON OPENS

Toronto, May 15 — (CP) — Dawn today meant something to thousands of eager Ontario fishermen — it was the opening of the pickerel season. From Rice Lake and Scugog Lake near Toronto to Lake Nipissing in the north — perhaps the best pickerel lake in North America — and from the French River to the Pickerel River fishermen were ready. A daily limit is allowed of eight fish.

6-WEEK HOLIDAY MAY BE DECLARED IN FLOUR OUTPUT

Fast Dwindling Wheat Supplies in U.S. Mills Threatening Enforced Cut

Washington, May 15 (AP) — Fast-dwindling wheat supplies in United States mills threatened today to force a six-week holiday in the output of flour for domestic consumption.

This possibility arose as the House Agriculture Committee announced a comprehensive investigation of both the domestic and world food situations, with the first session set tomorrow.

The flour situation shaped up this way:

On May 1 mills were required to cut their stocks to a 21-day supply. Few if any have been able to obtain wheat in the meantime because the government is offering farmers a bonus of 30 cents a bushel above the ceiling price—which is the top legitimate price millers may offer. The 1946 wheat will not start moving to market until July.

Some mills already have shut down and a survey last night indicated many others either will close or curtail operations sharply.

This prospect posed two problems for the government:

1. Will flour stocks on hand be sufficient to supply consumers until the new wheat crop becomes available?

2. Should the government divert some of the famine-relief wheat it is buying to American mills in order to keep them operating until the new harvest?

Agriculture Secretary Anderson is known to be studying these problems. Chester C. Davis chairman of President Truman's famine emergency committee, told an interviewer that he believes supplies of flour now in distribution channels will be sufficient to meet domestic needs on the basis of consumption recommendations of his committee until new wheat becomes available.

400-POUND BEAR SHOT

Fort William, May 15 — (CP) — A bear's love for milk and the accuracy of Mrs. E. Merritt with a gun, led to the death Sunday of a 400-pound black bear in the South Gillies section, 36 miles southwest of here.

The bear, which had been robbing farmers of poultry and frightening livestock, entered the ground of the Merritt farm Sunday. Mrs. Merritt shot it as it was leaving with its head stuck in the top of a milk can.

Ottawa Bans Heat in Public Buildings Toronto School Furnaces Still Operate

Toronto, May 15. (CP)—There is heat today in Toronto schools —provided by soft coal—in spite of an order of Reconstruction Minister Howe in Ottawa, Tuesday night forbidding use of soft coal in heating schools and public and office buildings.

W. R. Cockburn, the chairman of the Board of Education, said he has taken it on himself to authorize officials to keep temperatures in schoolrooms at 65 to 68 degrees and that the matter may be discussed at a Board meeting, Thursday night.

Mr. Cockburn, who said he would favor closing the schools rather than operate them without heat, sent a telegram of protest to Mr. Howe saying: 'Must protest your order prohibiting use of soft coal in schools. Health of children may be jeopardized in event of colder weather. Will you not allow school boards some leeway in using coal supplies now in bins when rooms are too cold for little children."

He said he is also seeking legal advice as to whether the Dominion government has authority to forbid a school caretaker from putting in the school furnace coal that is already in the bins.

Meanwhile heat was off in many public and private buildings today in compliance with the order, designed to conserve supplies of soft coal which are scanty because of the strike in the United States.

Florists complained that tomato and other plants would be endangered by the order.

Ottawa, May 15. (CP)—Sharp restrictions on the use of bituminous coal in various types of Ontario and Quebec public buildings came into effect today as a measure to conserve stockpiles which are running low as a result of the recent United States coal strike.

The restrictive order, announced yesterday by Reconstruction Minister Howe, bans the use of soft coal for the heating of office buildings, stores, schools, theatres, public buildings or any place of business.

Top officials of the coal control, headed by E. J. Brunning, coal controller, went into conference early today on the general coal situation and application of the new order.

One thing they had to consider was the prompt reaction of W. R. Cockburn, chairman of the Toronto Board of Education, who announced last night that the Board would "defy" the order and continue to burn coal it had in the school bins. There was no immediate indication of what attitude the Ottawa officials would take to this stand.

Mr. Howe, in explaining the necessity of the order, said yesterday that while production in some American mines had been resumed on a temporary basis stocks of bituminous coal were "continuing to decrease at an alarming rate" and only a small proportion of normal requirements could be expected within the next four weeks.

The order exempted private dwellings, hospitals, infirmaries, doctors' offices, apartment buildings, hotels and other places of residence.

Soft Coal Operators Reject "Unequivocally" Demands of J.L. Lewis

Washington, May 15 — (AP) — Soft coal operators today informed John L. Lewis they reject "unequivocally" his demand for a seven-per-cent payroll levy to finance a miners' welfare fund.

The operators' negotiating committee said in replying to the United Mine Workers that Mr. Lewis' proposal presented "a new social theory and philosophy, the effect of which would extend to every industry in America, and as such must be considered and acted upon as a national problem and not as one relating to the coal industry alone."

The committee said the problem was one to be considered by public legislative bodies.

President Truman, meanwhile, awaited a report by nightfall, if possible, on the progress of negotiations to end the two-month-old dispute.

Mr. Truman last Friday asked Mr. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers (A.F.L.) and Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the operators, to report back in four or five days. This is the fifth day after their White House visit.

While most miners are back at work under a two-week truce that began Monday, hope virtually vanished for a speedy settlement of the dispute which cut off bituminous production for forty-two days.

Pounded Table Hard

It was reported that Mr. Lewis thumped the table so hard at yesterday's session that ashtrays bounded on its polished surface, as he declared that the making of a contract depended upon acceptance of the health and welfare demand.

The operators said that on the basis of last year's $1,000,000,000 payroll, the seven-per-cent levy would yield the union $70,000,000 annually and add approximately 14 cents to the cost of a ton of coal at the mine.

Mr. Lewis at a later press conference termed the cost claim "grotesque and absurd" and said the contribution could be deducted from mine taxes. He added that the operators' estimate was based on a 600,000,000-ton output, and he said such a yield in peacetime would be impossible.

Mr. O'Neill told reporters that Lewis "laid in front of the conference the proposition that there would be no contract until the welfare fund was conceded by the operators on the basis presented by him, which was the amount discussed (Monday) to be paid into the union by the operators and administered by the union."

BILL TO GUARANTEE VETS OLD JOBS BACK DEFEATED

Commons Completes Clause-by-Clause Study of Citizenship Bill

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, May 15. (CP)—Completion of clause-by-clause study of the Canadian Citizenship Bill in the Commons yesterday was followed by passage of a half dozen minor measures and a statement on government policy with respect to the future operation of Crown companies.

As members cleaned lesser government legislation from the order paper, they took time out to level such opposition at a Bill sponsored by Labor Minister Mitchell that it was withdrawn and sent to the Veterans' Committee for redrafting.

The bill was aimed at incorporating into the statutes the amendments made by Order-in Council to the 1942 Act which guaranteed veterans re-instatement in the jobs they held prior to enlistment. Under the Bill the orders would have been affixed as a schedule to the 1942 Act.

Some Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. members and one Liberal joined in describing the bill as "contradictory, illogical, unclear, ridiculous, slack, inefficient, unsound" and an example of "lazy-man's legislation." Mr. Mitchell agreed to withdraw the Bill in the face of the criticism, but said that interpretation of the Act had so far led to no difficulties.

Montreal Fire Claims 3 Lives

Montreal, May 15 — (CP) — Death toll of a fire that for a time threatened a section of downtown Dalhousie Avenue last night, stood at three today, from the blaze that claimed the lives of a 30-year-old mother and two of her young children.

The dead were: Mrs. Henry Costello, who died in hospital from burns suffered in the fire; Henry, six, and Margaret Rose, 3 1/2, who died in their blazing home that occupied the second and third floors of a three-storey building.

Police said Mrs. Costello successfully rescued her two-year-old daughter, Caroline, and then ran back into the building in an effort to save the other two children. Henry Costello, the father, was not at home at the time of the fire, of undetermined origin.

Homes of 20 families in adjoining residences were saved by prompt action on the part of firefighters.

Firemen Albert Kelly and Oscar Boucher suffered slight injuries while removing the bodies of the two children. Mrs. Costello, unconscious and badly burned, was found on the main floor.

DREW SAYS ONT. READY TO RESUME D-P CONFERENCE

Accuses Manitoba Premier of Misrepresenting Reasons for Adjournment

Toronto, May 15 (CP)—Premier Drew of Ontario Tuesday proclaimed his government's willingness to resume the Dominion -·Povincial conference and accused Premier Garson off Manitoba of misrepresenting the reasons for its adjournment 11 days ago.

In an address prepared for delivery to the Progressive Conservative Business Men's Club the Premier asserted that Ontario will not be a party to the confused and "unjust system of multiple taxation". proposed by the Dominion. But he added that agreement can be reached between Dominion and Provinces and his government is eagerly awaiting the call for its resumption.

He referred to a statement by Premier Garson that "it is calamitous for Canada that the Ontario and Quebec governments could not have continued with those of the other seven provinces in the negotiations of a compromise" and declared:-

"The impression conveyed by those words of the Premier of Manitoba is without foundation. The Ontario government continued at all times to urge the necessity for agreement."

The conference was not at an end. It was adjourned sine die to meet at the call of the Dominion government and "the government of every province has the right to expect that the conference will be reconvened when the Dominion government has had the opportunity to consider the matter further."

Money Not Chief Issue

Money was not the chief issue though it was—"what was in issue and what is still in issue is whether we are really to retain the Federal system or are to create a unitary system of government in Canada."

If the provinces surrendered their taxing powers they would become more administrative units

Timmins, May 15 —(CP)— Reputed to be the oldest living married couple in Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Godfroy are preparing to celebrate their 72nd wedding anniversary Sept. 18. They were married at Berthierville, Que., in 1874.

37,000 B.C. LUMBER WORKERS READY TO STRIKE

Effects Expected To Tie up 80,000 Persons In Building Industry And Other Trades

Victoria, May 15 —(CP)— The British Columbia lumber industry will receive a crippling blow at 11 a.m. today when 37,000 logging and sawmill workers in the province go on strike, and within a week or 10 days its effects are expected to tie up an estimated 80,000 persons in the building industry and other trades.

The strike, called last week following collapse of negotiations in a dispute between the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) and B. C. lumber operators, will go off on schedule as a result of breakdown of a conference here yesterday presided over by Chief Justice Gordon Sloan.

Unable to Find Common Ground.

"I was unable to find common ground to bring them together," said the Chief Justice at conclusion of the sessions.

"Industry would not negotiate while a strike threat hung over its head and the union wouldn't withdraw the strike threat except on terms that were unacceptable to industry."

The Chief Justice was not prepared to say what recommendations he would make to the Minister of Labor. He could not, he added, make any proposals relative to hours of work, wages, or other issues.

Collapse at yesterday's conference resulted when both parties refused to back down in stands taken.

Operators Refused Demands.

The union had agreed to call off the strike on condition that the operators agreed to an 18-cent hourly wage increase and a 40-hour week.

The operators would not accept these demands and refused to enter into negotiations with the union while the strike was pending.

As a result Chief Justice Sloan was powerless to effect a settlement.

Original union demands included a 40-hour week, 25-cents an hour wage increase, union shop and voluntary dues check-off.

The operators had countered with 12½ cents an hour increase, 44-hour week in a three year contract, providing other union demands were dropped.

This resulted in a deadlock in discussions and brought about the decision to call a strike.

R. V. Stuart, operators' representative, said "the strike will be entirely illegal." He stated that the operators had previously agreed to negotiate all issues and disputes other than union security which was to have been arbitrated.

"This proposal was contingent on the union calling off the strike. The union refused to call off the strike."

I.W.A. delegation head, Harold Pritchett, said the union had done everything possible to bring about a peaceful settlement."

Meanwhile, one lumber company, Cook and Volen Co. Ltd., at Gibson's Landing, 30 miles northwest of Vancouver, have accepted union demands and have signed the 1946 agreement. The firm, operated by three veterans, is a combination sawmill and logging camp with about 20 employees.

Eskimo Dog Gobbled 30,000 Vitamin Tablets, Entire Supply of Muskox

Philadelphia, May 15 — (AP) — It's a good thing the men of Canada's recently-completed Exercise Muskox had no need for vitamin tablets — an Eskimo dog gobbled up their entire supply of 30,000 tablets at one sitting.

Dr. F. H. L. Taylor of Boston, member of a Harvard laboratory party which assisted Canadian Army scientists in making physical fitness tests of the Arctic adventurers before and after their Arctic trek said today the men came through physically well and some had fitness scores "equivalent to those of Harvard athletes."

Here to address the American College of Physicians' 27th meeting Dr. Taylor told a reporter the 30,000 vitamin tablets had been provided the Muskox party for use "in an emergency."

"We learned later that when the party was at Baker Lake, a dog owned by an Eskimo in the vicinity raided the vitamin tablet supply and ate the whole lot!"

Baker Lake is 500 miles north of Churchill, Man., starting point of the trek.

Declaring that at last reports, the pooch was doing all right, Dr. Taylor grinned:

"He's probably the strongest dog in the whole northland!"

Dr. Taylor said all members of the party — including 35 Canadians and 10 American observers — were given a general health checkup before leaving and subjected to physical fitness tests while carrying packs weighing one-third their body weight.

"The men came out in at least as good health as they went in. If anything, their physical health had improved. The largest loss of weight was three pounds."

Foreign Ministers Report on Status At June 15 Meeting

Molotov Proposes 21-Power Peace Conference in July

Paris, May 15 — (AP)—State Secretary Byrnes of the United States today proposed to the Foreign Ministers Council that a peace conference be called Nov. 12 to draft a peace treaty for Germany, an American informant said.

In a session completely taken up with discussion of critical German problems, Mr. Byrnes proposed that representatives of Britain, Russia, France and the United States start meeting immediately to draw up a treaty draft for Germany which the foreign ministers could present to the peace conference, the informant said.

If the date of Nov. 12 is adopted, the peace conference would convene on the 25th anniversary of the opening session of the 1921 Washington Disarmament Conference and 28 years and a day after the 1918 Armistice.

Mr. Byrnes was reported to have proposed that the foreign ministers' representatives first report on the economic status of Germany to the Foreign Ministers Council at their next meeting, possibly June 15.

Meanwhile sources close to the Russian delegation predicted Foreign Minister Molotov would agree to a proposal to summon a 21-power peace conference in July following another four-power conference next month.

Austria Not on Agenda

These sources expressed belief that while Mr. Molotov would accede to three of the four suggestions made last night by State Secretary James F. Byrnes of the United States he definitely would not agree to place the Austrian Treaty on the agenda for a suggested Big Four foreign ministers session June 15.

It appeared, meanwhile, that the current conference might wind up its work tomorrow without basic agreement on peace treaties. President Truman's personal plane, already was reported on its way to Paris to return Mr. Byrnes and the United States delegation to Washington.

The conferees were ready to turn to German problems today for the first time since they met here April 25. The first question on the day's agenda was whether China, in the person of Ambassador Tsien Tai, would be permitted to participate in the discussion of Germany.

Last Item

The last item on the agenda for the present conference was scheduled to be France's demand for political detachment of the Ruhr, the Saar and the Rhineland from Western Germany. This was expected to occupy the council until tomorrow.

Mr. Byrnes proposed, in a formal statement last night, that the ministers should recognize openly and frankly the differences which exist in drafting peace treaties and that they should adjourn until June 15, trying in the meantime to reconcile the differences.

He proposed further that the ministers convoke the 21-Nation peace conference either for July 1 or July 15 but added that if the date is not set now, it should be fixed at the June 15 meeting. His third proposal was for immediate signature of a liberalized armistice for Italy — already agreed to in principle — and his fourth was for addition of Austria to the agenda.

British and French delegations concurred immediately with Mr. Byrnes' program, but the Russian delegation sought time before giving an answer. Sources close to the Soviet delegation expressed belief that Mr. Molotov would agree to all except the point concerning Austria. The Russians have refused steadfastly to discuss Austria at this session.

Two Arrests Made in Murder Of Woman Doctor

Lahore, May 15 — (Reuters)— Two arrests have been made following the murder of Capt. Joyce Hieron, British woman doctor attached to the Royal Army Medical Corps, it was learned here today.

Capt. Hieron was murdered when travelling on Sunday in the Bombay-Peshawar Express on her way to Kashmir for a holiday. With her was N. W. Reid, a Nursing Sister of the Queen Alexandra Nursing Service.

Three men believed to be Sikhs are reported to have entered the women's compartment.

The attackers left the train after robbing the women of 450 rupees (about $120).

One man was seized at a railway station near the point at which the murder was committed. A second man, detained at a village near Lahore, has already been remanded in custody.

Police also are on the trail of a third suspect.

Three men, described as fierce-looking and bearded, boarded the train just when it was picking up speed after a stop north of Lahore.

The men forced their way into the compartment and the girls struggled desperately with them for 10 minutes. Capt. Hieron was overpowered and flung through the carriage window. Miss Reid, who now is in hospital, was left in a badly shocked condition.

Slain by Axe Blows Over Head

Montreal, May 15 — (CP)—The body of Anselme Laframboise, 49, slain by axe blows over the head, was found by Provincial Police early today in his home at St. Genevieve, Que., about 20 miles west of this city.

Police said they were detaining a man as an important witness in the slaying.

Laframboise was killed shortly before 3 a.m. today police said, and they were summoned to the nearby municipality by the St. Genevieve parish priest. The axe with which Laframboise allegedly was slain was found on the premises when members of the provincial force's homicide squad arrived at about 4 a.m.

Investigation is continuing.

GIVEN PRISON TERM

Timmins, May 15 — (CP) — Charles K. Dale, 31, of Toronto, found guilty on four charges of break-in and theft, was sentenced yesterday to 2½ years in Kingston penitentiary. Police said Dale, in the period between May 1 and May 8, broke into and robbed a laundry, cleaning establishment and office of a life assuranee company.

DEPT. OF EDUCATION HEARD AT B.C.I. ON COUNTY HIGH SCHOOLS

S. D. Rendell of the Ontario Department of Education addressed members of the Hastings county councils, school boards and county clerks at Belleville Collegiate Tuesday afternoon. The subject of his address was "Rural County High Schools".

Chairman for the meeting was W. H. Finkle, chairman of the Belleville Board of Education.

Mr. Rendell was introduced by George E. Currie, principal of B.C.I. & V.S.

His address was substantially the same as that given at the Rotary Club Monday night and reported on page 2 of the Ontario Intelligencer Tuesday. A short question period followed.

PICKEREL WATERS ATTRACT FISHERMEN

The pickerel season officially opened today and a number of local Izaak Waltons gathered their fishing gear and went in search of the fish, that heretofore have been reported to be plentiful in the various parts of the district.

Pickerel have been reported as being present in larger numbers than in other years in the Salmon River near Shannonville, while bay fishermen also state the fish to be active in their areas.

The Trent River will likely attract large numbers of pickerel seekers, as will Hastings county haunts that in former years have yielded good hauls.

BURNING DUMP FORCES LONG VIGIL ON FIREMEN

Members of the local fire department were occasioned a five-hour vigil at the city dump Tuesday night as flames from burning garbage and other refuse stubbornly refused to be brought under control. Firemen were called to the dump at nine o'clock in the evening and remained on the job until two o'clock this morning.

As result of a second alarm shortly before midnight Tuesday, firemen were called to extinguish flames in the marsh near the city pump house on the Trent Road. Tuesday afternoon a chimney fire alarm was answered to 205 Station Street. No damage resulted from any of the blazes, it was reported by Fire Chief William Lynch.

Girl Guides, Brownies To Attend Rally For Lady Baden-Powell

The Belleville and District Girl Guides and Brownies plan to visit Kingston on the afternoon of June 10th. to be present at the rally, held in that city, for Lady Baden-Powell, World Chief Guide and widow of the founder of the Boy Scout and Girl Guide movements.

Lady Baden-Powell arrived in Vancouver on May 7th and is presently touring the Dominion after an extensive tour of the United States. Her Canadian tour will cover most of the larger cities and she will be in Toronto during the last week in May for the annual meeting of the Canadian Council of the Girl Guides' Association.

After her tour of Canada, Lady Baden-Powell will visit the Girl Guides of Newfoundland.

AVERAGE BETTER

Halifax, May 15 —(CP)—The general average of achievement of veterans returned to university work was "considerably higher" than that of non-veterans, Dr. A. E. Kerr, president of Dalhousie University, said at convocation exercises yesterday.

PICTON

$1,305 Donated To National Institute for Blind

Picton, May 15 — The tag day for the National Institute for the Blind, held Saturday, was a splendid success with returns of $1,305.56 reported and several donations yet to be received. Sale of tags netted $330.56 in Picton, $56.30 in Bloomfield, $29.70 in Milford, $25 at West Lake, with special donations of $864 also being received. Mrs. S. J. Collier was convener of the campaign.

Cadet Corps Praised.

High praise was given the Royal Canadian Army Cadets when Picton Collegiate Corps was inspected by Major T. C. Holmes, Cadet Officer for M. D. 3, here Monday night. The armories was crowded with spectators. Mayor Holmes congratulated the corps not only on its marching but on the demonstrations of signalling, first aid and rifle work. He stressed the point that cadet training teaches discipline and includes all students, rather than the stars as is the case in sport. Major Holmes remarked that this was his farewell visit to Picton as he is retiring as cadet officer. He was given hearty cheers by the corps.

Lt.-Col. W. A. Davern, O. C. Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, also congratulated the corps on its showing. Cadet Capt. James Hepburn was presented with an award in recognition of his efficiency as a marksman.

Cadet officers are, Cadet Major, Harry Bowers; Cadet Captain, J. Hepburn; Cadet Lieutenants, Robert Walmsley, George Hepburn and Donald Rand; C.S.M., Bill Wensley.

Sailing Races Planned.

Plans for sailing races here on July 1st were discussed at a meeting of Prince Edward Yacht Club, presided over by Rear Commodore J. H. Daubney, head of the sailing division. Owners of skimmers and dinghies are getting their craft ready for the season, and it is likely there will be a sailing race on the morning of the power boat regatta on August 5th.

The power boat section also discussed plans for the regatta and at a further meeting this week committees will be named. Among new owners of fast boats are Emmerson Mason, J. C. Cooper, Len Baker, H. L. Vancleaf, H. B. Tully, Donald Hill.

Appreciated by the scores of sailors calling here will be the marine service, station being erected by George Publow.

Deseronto Constable Arrests Two Men In Irwin's Garage

Apprehended in Irwin's garage, Deseronto, as they were about to leave the premises with it is alleged two cartons packed with cigarettes and other article, John Thompson, of Rossmore, and Roy Thompson, of Oshawa, no relation, are in county jail here awaiting trial.

Following their arrest by Police Chief N. E. Langdon, of Deseronto, the two young men were returned to Belleville by local police in connection with another charge. Chief Langdon in making his nightly rounds reported that he surprised the two men as they were packing the two cartons in the garage and that they had made their entrance by smashing a side window.

Marysville Garage Entered

Thieves who during the night entered the J. McCauley garage at Marysville, were successful in their efforts, and made a successful getaway with from three to four hundred dollars worth of tools.

This is the fifth time in three years which the McCauley garage has been entered. Three of the break-ins were solved by provincial police, but stolen equipment was not recovered.

RAISES TAX RATE

Cornwall, Ont., May 15 —(CP) —Cornwall's municipal tax rate for 1946 is 28½ mills, an increase of 5½ mills over last year and highest in the community's history. The rate was struck at a city council meeting Monday night. Mayor Aaron Horovitz said the increase is due to higher expenditures for fire, police and health protection.

TRENTON

Twent-six Cases Heard in Police Court in Trenton

Trenton — Twenty-six cases were heard in Trenton police court before Magistrate T. Y. Wills and B. C. Donnan, Crown Attorney.

Dean L. Summerville who was arrested last week and charged with assault on a Trenton man, had his case enlarged to May 21. Summerville was also charged with an offence under the Criminal Code for wearing an army uniform without permission. This case also was enlarged to May 21.

Maude Crooks charged with vagrancy, had her case enlarged to May 21.

Appeared on Five Charges.

George Alfred Anderson appeared on five charges, namely a breach of the Liquor Control Act, three charges of breaking, entering and theft and one charge of attempting to break and enter. Each case was enlarged to May 21.

John A. Goodwin appeared with Anderson on three charges of breaking, entering and theft, and one charge of attempting to break and enter. His cases were also enlarged to May 21.

A local merchant appeared on three charges of breach of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board Regulations. His case was enlarged for one week.

Wm. Elliott and H. E. Cryderman were each fined $13 for a breach of the Liquor Control Act. Found Guilty.

Norman Harris charged with a breach of the Highway Traffic Act, did not appear. Evidence was taken and he was found guilty and fined $10 plus $2.50 costs.

Kenneth Sinclair was fined $12.50 for having defective brakes.

Babson & Co. and Leslie Topshee paid the usual $4.50 for failing to obey the red traffic light.

Five persons were fined the usual $2 for breach of the parking by-law.

Harold Buck appeared on a charge of non-support and had his case enlarged for one week.

25th Anniversary Is Celebrated By Surprise Dinner

On Saturday evening, May 11, the family and friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. Breach, Foster Ave., gathered at the home of their son, Mr. W. Breach, Pine Street, to honor them with a surprise dinner, it being the occasion of their 25th Wedding Anniversary.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with silver streamers, horseshoes and wedding bells. In the centre of the table was a wedding cake. During the evening their youngest son presented them with a chest of silverware and other gifts. The bride and groom thanked one and all for their kindness.

Montreal Firm Awarded Contract By Corbin Co.

L. G. Oglivie and Company, Limited, Montreal, contractors, have been awarded the general contract for the proposed plant expansion program at the Corbin Lock Company of Canada, it has been announced by Mr. L. E. McLean, plant manager. The contract was awarded last Thursday, while the contractors commenced work on the project on Monday of this week.

As previously reported the proposed plant expansion at Corbins calls for additions comprising 51,000 square feet to iron foundry, pattern vault, cupola house, machine shop, japanning building, extension to the south wing and alterations to the existing office structure. Additions will be one storey brick and steel construction.

New Beauty Salon Offers Special Opening-day Feature

A complimentary shampoo or manicure will be a special opening day gesture on the part of the management for customers making appointments Thursday at the new Royal Beauty Salon at 330 Front Street, it has been announced by the joint proprietors Miss Alma Sauer and Mrs. Klaudia Gardner.

Located opposite the McCarthy Theatre, Belleville's newest beauty salon is modernistically appointed and fitted with the latest in hair dressing equipment. The proprietors of the Royal Beauty Salon come to Belleville well experienced in hair dressing technique, having operated a hair dressing parlor in St. Catharines before coming to this city.

Stork all Tuckered Out After Depositing 31 Crib Occupants In Five Days at Hospital

Railroads may come and steamships may go but the Stork Aerial Express apparently will go on forever.

And regardless of strikes, fuel shortages, and world unrest the long-billed "toter" of bundles of happiness, is experiencing one of the best months in his long and useful career, according to officials of the Belleville General Hospital.

Slightly bow-backed from excess tonnage carried on his daily flights, the old bird deposited no less than 31 packages of gurgling humanity in the hospital maternity ward from May 9 to the 13th. Seventeen of this number were girls.

Record for Hospital

This, hospital officials say, is an all-time 5 day record for the hospital if not for the province.

And that is not all. During the first 13 days of the month, 41 new Canadians first saw the light of day in the hospital.

Which means, that the maternity and other staffs of the institution were busier than the proverbial one-armed carpenter with the hives, and immediate prospects reveal no great alleviation of the situation.

Their work, however, according to Administrator Gordon Barclay was greatly facilitated by the fine co-operation of several of the new mammas, who offered to return to their homes some three or four days after the birth of their children. "This helped us to a great extent," Mr. Barclay said, "and we are gratefully appreciative of the gesture."

Loses Out to Taxicab

On one occasion, the Stork who ordinarily is not accustomed to being outsped by any other form of transportation, was forced to secede first place in a baby race with a humble taxicab.

In fact, the race was a three-way affair with the Stork heading the parade at the start followed closely by Mr. and Mrs. James Steeves, Deseronto, and Dr. McVicker , also of that town.

The Stork lost out by a bill, with the doctor a close third, although the latter had a margin at the start of the race.

Baby boy Steeves was born as the taxi sped along Highway No. 2 near Belleville, with the Stork coming fast and the doctor racing to make up lost time. The little fellow is doing nicely, thank you, and left with his mother yesterday for his Deseronto home.

Included in the 31 babies which arrived between May 9 and 13, was one set of twins, born to Mr. and Mrs. John Sero, 44 Great St. James Street, Belleville.

Bureau of Mines Turns to Task Of Keeping Canadian Mines To Front With New Alloys, Uses

By ANDY ROSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, May 15 — (CP) — Expanded tremendously to back up Canadian munitions production, the Bureau of Mines has turned to the task of keeping the Dominion's mines and metal manufacturers in the forefront of world competition in the development of new alloys and uses for them.

One of its many branches, the Physical Metallurgical Research Laboratories, was opened in 1939 with three permanent engineers and one handyman. Now housed in a modern, three-storey building on Booth Street, it has 20 engineers and, including laboratory assistants, a staff of 70. Most are practical men recruited from industry.

It has such an impressive array of up-to-the-minute equipment and machinery that to the layman it seems a baffling assembly of machines — some monstrous, roaring, awesome things; some delicate, beautiful intricacies.

Their war job done, these machines now hum to the needs of a converting Canadian industry. Canadian manufacturers, in this one section of the Bureau, now have at their disposal the following facilities for solution of their technical problems:—

A complete experimental foundry with electric arc, high frequency, pit and gas-fired furnaces, core ovens, a standard foundry sand mixing mill and sand research equipment; precision casting laboratories; a corrosion section and divisions relating to mechanical testing, welding, stress and strain, creep, metallographics, gas occlusion and atomic structure.

And now nearing completion is a new $750,000 plastic deformation section, which will include a huge extrusion press and rolling and forging facilities. The extrusion press, gobbling white-hot metal billets, will squeeze out pipes, angle strips and other shapes somewhat like extruding a strip of tooth paste from a tube.

Canadian Effort In War Pictured By Canadians

Ottawa, May 15 — (CP) — A broad-focus view of Canada's war effort as pictured by Canadian artists in the field is on display at the National Gallery, depicting Canadian service life from Tunisia to Kiska.

The exhibition, containing approximately 300 representative paintings by Canadian war artists, was opened on two floors of the Gallery last night by Viscount Alexander. After a stay in the capital it will move on to Montreal and other Canadian cities.

More complete and "finished" than earlier exhibitions of war art, the collection includes a number of pictures Canadian war artists have had time to rebuild from rough sketches made at scenes of action.

A foreword to the exhibition's catalog, by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, former Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom and chairman of the Canadian Overseas Artists Control Committee points out that "artists in this war were soldiers, sailors and airmen, working often under conditions of hardship and danger.

"They and we can be very proud of what they achieved. Canada now has a fine pictorial record of her many-sided war effort, of which the pictures in this exhibition are only part."

Most of the navy pictures show ships and battle stations in action, while the army section, highlighted by paintings by Maj. Charles Comfort and Capt. Lawren P. Harris, both of Toronto, includes graphic scenes of action in Italy.

Pansy Spinks Dies of Wound Sustained May 1

Pembroke, May 15 —(CP)— Pansy (Pat) Spinks, 21-year-old Waltham, Que., girl who has been unconscious in hospital since searchers found her near her home May 1 with a bullet wound in her forehead, died early today.

Miss Spinks, who was sought for three days after she failed to return from what apparently was a solo hunting expedition, has been in such critical condition that authorities at hospital here declined to operate for removal of the .22 calibre bullet in her head. Suffering from the effects of the wound and three days' exposure, she did not recover sufficiently for even an X-ray to be taken.

Hospital authorities from the outset had little hope she would recover, although on Sunday an improvement had been noted in her condition.

Living with her family near the Pontiac County town of Waltham, she left the farm during the afternoon of April 28 to hunt for small game. A crack shot, the girl took with her a .22 calibre revolver as was her custom.

She was found by Reginald Libby, farmer with whom her family lived, lying on a hillside in the bushlands surrounding the Upper Ottawa Valley town, after searchers combed the district for three days.

It was understood that Miss Spinks had not been in good health and had visited a doctor in the district some days before her fatal trip into the bush.

NOTICE

THE REGULAR BI-MONTHLY MEETING OF THE CANADIAN LEGION BRANCH 99, OF THURSDAY, MAY 16th., 1946, IS CANCELLED.

NEXT MEETING JUNE 6th, 1946

H. E. SMITH, President. G. ELLARBY, Secretary.

J. G. Gillanders, Court of Appeal Justice, Dies

Toronto, May 15 (CP)—Mr. Justice John G. Gillanders, 50, member of the Ontario Court of Appeal, died early today. He had been ill with a heart condition and had not presided since last December.

Native of Highgate, Ont., Mr. Justice Gillanders was appointed to the Appeal Court in 1938. Called to the Bar at Osgoode Hall here in 1921, he was created a K.C. in 1934 and practised as partner in a London, Ont., law firm from 1922 until his elevation to the bench.

He was a Governor of the University of Western Ontario at London and was chairman of the Ontario Cancer Commission in 1938. He served in the First Great War with the British Air Force and won the D.F.C. He received his early education at Ridgetown, Ont.

Death of Mr. Justice Gillanders while still a comparatively young man brought to an end a career devoted in an exceptional degree to the public service. He brought to the bench a wealth of varied experience as one of western Ontario's outstanding and most successful barristers.

Performed Brilliantly

Following his appointment to the Appeal Court, and despite impaired health, he performed brilliantly many onerous public duties. In addition to these duties, he assumed chairmanship of several boards and became one of Canada's most-sought labor conciliators. In 1943 he acted as a judge of the new Ontario Labor Court.

Notable cases in the field of labor relations and conciliation were the Davie Shipbuilding strike of bus drivers of Montreal tramways, a Halifax shipyards labor dispute, and a dispute between the International Nickel Company and the United Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

On Arbitral Tribunal

A year ago he was appointed by the Chief Justice of Canada as chairman of the Arbitral Tribunal which dealt with Saskatchewan's claim to receive payments under the Dominion-Provincial agreement, without any right of set-off by the Dominion of monies payable to it in respect of seed grain guarantees.

His latest appointment came last August when he became chairman of a three-man arbitration board studying the dispute between the United Packinghouse Workers and Canada Packers, Ltd.

Mr. Justice Gillanders first practised law with Hon. J. C. Elliott and R. G. Ivey in the firm of Ivey, Elliott and Gillanders, in London, and later under the name of Ivey and Gillanders. During those years he gained a wide practice, with emphasis on the civil aspect.

Miss Lillian Black Presented With Gift On Retirement From Office

Members of the Hastings County Law Library Association paid tangible tribute to 37 years of efficient service the other day, when they presented Miss Lillian Black, deputy sheriff of the county, for nearly four decades with a handsome fountain pen. Miss Black retired from active duty a short time ago.

Miss Black, was taken completely by surprise when the presentation was made to her, and in a few gracious words, she thanked the donors and her many friends of the various staffs of the county offices.

She has served under four sheriffs during her term of office, these being George Hope, W. Morrison, J. H. Clare and the present sheriff Mr. John D. O'Flynn.

Blind Pensioners May be Given Extra Pension

Ottawa, May 15 —(CP)— Veterans Minister Mackenzie announced Tuesday at a session of the Commons Veterans Committee that the government has accepted the principle that pensions may be granted for disability or death incurred on service either at home or abroad.

Previously, the principle applied only to personnel on service outside of Canada and there had been an all-party agitation and requests from the Canadian Legion to restore the general insurance principle to the Pension Act. Provisions covering this principle were dropped from the act at the start of the Second Great War.

At present a man incurring disability or death under any circumstances overseas is considered pensionable whereas disability or death incurred at home had to be attributable to specific military service. For instance, a man incurring a serious disability in a softball game at Camp Borden could not previously collect a pension.

At the same time the Minister announced several other amendments to the Pension Act which the government is prepared to recommend. The first of these concerns blind pensioners who, in addition to their disability pension, are also granted a helplessness allowance of $480 annually.

Placed in Institutions.

Certain of these blind pensioners have been placed on what is known as "veterans' care" in institutions operated by the veterans department. At present, when they are placed in these institutions, payment of the helplessness allowance has been suspended. The amendment now proposed will permit continuance of the helplessness allowance to blind pensioners who are in a veterans department institution under the "veterans' care" regulation.

A third amendment affects widows divorced from the veteran on whose account they were receiving pension. At present when a separated or divorced wife survives her husband and is eligible for a widow's pension, the maximum pension payable is the amount of allowances she may have been receiving under an agreement of separation, or under an order of the court. The proposed amendment will give the Canadian pension commission discretion to pay widow's pension to these women up to the statutory rate of $60 monthly.

A fourth proposed amendment will be of substantial benefit to Canadians who served in the British forces during the First Great War. Mr. Mackenzie explained that there exists at present a discrepancy between pensions payable to officers in this category and to ranks below that of warrant officer.

Some More Fish But Less Other Foods For Britain

By HELEN CAMP

London, May 15 (AP)—Britain may get more fish in the next few months but she'll get less of virtually every other food. And even the fish won't mean much to the British because they'll have no fat to fry it with.

"To 90 per cent of the people in England fish means fried fish," a food ministry spokesman said. "If they haven't any fat they don't know what to do with fish and no matter how many pamphlets we put out or what we tell them they won't listen."

The food outlook, as outlined by him, includes:

Possible further cuts in cooking fat, recently reduced from two ounces weekly to one.

Continuance of the two-ounce cheese ration, just cut from the three for the summer.

No increase in weekly rations of 23 cents worth of meat, three ounces of bacon, eight ounces of sugar, and two ounces of tea.

Another possible reduction in the wheat content of bread with rationing "not off the cards."

No increase in fruit supplies except for a few "token" shipments from abroad and the summer crop of plums and English apples.

No hopes of raising egg and milk production because new bread regulations mean less wheat for animal feeding.

Import Canned Fruits Out

Explaining that "we've got to go very carefully about anything involving dollars," the ministry official said canned fruits and some meats which used to come from Canada and United States are "out." Any dollar imports must be kept to "pure necessities" such as wheat, he said, and even these "very much less than during lend lease" although "we'll have to continue to get dried eggs even if they are expensive."

Token shipments of what he called "more interesting foods" have included one load of bananas, which allowed about a pound each for children under 18, and a few bleu and camembert cheeses from Denmark and France. Imports of lettuce, tomatoes, radishes, and peas from France, Belgium, and Holland have been arranged.

Shortage of Ships

Eating apples, once sent from Australia, cannot be imported because of shortage of refrigerated ships. Seed oils and pineapple will not come from Malaya as they once did, because these states now are barely feeding themselves. A scarcity of special banana boats, which allow for ripening during shipment, and damage to Jamaica plantations limit banana supplies.

Rhubarb and watercress will be fairly plentiful and so will plums although most of them go for few more citrus fruits imported, but still far from pre-war supplies. Potatoes, the spokesman said, "look all right" but may be short for a month or so if new ones are late and old ones have rotted in storage.

Brussels sprouts, staple winter vegetable in England, will not be available again until late summer or autumn, and the ministry spokesman said there was little hope of immediately reducing such prices as 12 shillings ($2.40) for a peach, eight to 12 shillings for a bunch of asparagus, and 10 shillings for a cucumber.

ECONOMIC CHAOS IN BUDAPEST

This is pay-day in Budapest. The employee collects his salary in a bag or an attache case because the number of pengoes earned has increased due to inflation. Shops are crammed with goods which very few people can buy. Some prices are quoted in thousands of millions of pengoes. Shopkeepers cannot put price tags on their goods, they merely put a number, such as 1, 2, 3, 4, etc. At the side of the window there is always a handwritten list showing how much the goods or item cost at the moment you look at them. The list alters twice a day.

Ottawa Merchants Agree on Five-Day Week for Summer

Ottawa, May 14 — (CP) — Ottawa merchants at a meeting last night decided on a five-day week for the summer months, with selection of a closing day left to individual stores. C. E. Pickering, Board of Trade president, suggested a zone system whereby stores close on the same day within a certain area and it was decided various firms would submit their views in writing.

Indian Fined $1,020 For Having Illegal Skins

Sudbury, May 15 (CP)—Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe, in a judgment handed down Tuesday, said that an Indian Reserve within the province of Ontario — even although it is administered by the Federal government—remains provincial territory.

The judgment came as Fred Sinbert, an Ojibway Indian, was fined $20 and costs for illegal possession of each of 49 beaver skins, and $10 and costs for each of three mink skins and one otter pelt. The fine totalled $1,020, exclusive of costs.

Representatives of two tribes, the Ojibways and the Chippewans, who were spectators at the case, said they intended to appeal.

Sinbert's counsel, G. M. Miller, had maintained that Indian reservations are not part of the province of Ontario. He said that under the Robinson treaty of 1850 between the Indians and white men, Queen Victoria had promised the Indians that in return for certain lands, they would be allowed to hunt over territory ceded to them, and "to fish in the waters as they have heretofore been in the habit of doing." It named certain areas as Indian Reserves.

Arrested May 6.

Sinbert was arrested May 6 by game wardens on a highway just outside Sudbury as he was bringing the skins here for marketing. He told the court he caught all the beaver, mink and otter on his reserve at Spanish River, although game supervisor Chas. Bibby testified there are no beaver on the reserve.

Crown Attorney E. D. Wilkins quoted section of the Ontario Game and Fisheries Act which provides no one shall have in his possession parts of beaver or skins during the closed season, except during a 10-day period of grace allowed after end of the open season. A section states that "person" where it occurs in the reading of the act, shall be interpreted to mean "any individual, including Indians."

Miller took issue with the act, saying that at the time the Indians negotiated their treaty, there was no province of Ontario. The treaty provided there should be no interference with Indian fishing and hunting rights within their reservations, therefore, he contended, there should be no charge against Sinbert providing the game was taken on the reserve.

The magistrate replied that Sinbert was charged with illegal possession of the beaver and other skins "in the province of Ontario." There was no doubt he was in the province when arrested.

DETECTS FLAW

PENSIONS
FOR YOUR EMPLOYEES

A sign of the times, and contributing much to social progress, is the increasing number of Pension Plans which are being established by employers to provide retirement income for their employees.

The various forms of Pension Plans available and the different degrees of control, flexibility and benefit which each affords, make it difficult to choose the most suitable Plan, without careful study.

Our experience in the field of Pension Trusts extends over many years and embraces the planning and administration of a number of such Trusts, including the operation of a very flexible and economical type of Pension Fund for our own employees.

We offer you the benefit of our experience in selecting and setting up your Pension Plan and the advantage of our services in connection with its operation.

You are welcome to discuss your Pension Plan problems with us, without obligation.

The Byrnes Proposal

While the four foreign ministers are still seeking agreement pure and simple or, failing that, agreement to differ, which would enable a full peace conference to take up the task of treaty-drafting where the foreign ministers have left off, the question of Germany's future remains on the Paris agenda.

Whether or not, in a final sauve qui peut, consideration of this subject is destined to be deferred from the present meeting of the foreign ministers, discussion of so vital a problem cannot be postponed much longer.

On this, it is observed in London, there is agreement at least between the governments and public opinion in Britain, the United States and France. The attitude of Russia is less clear.

In the three Western Democracies there is full realization of the extent to which the future of Europe and the world depends, in the phrase of a London Times leader, on the place and status to be assigned to a defeated Germany.

The future of the Rhineland and the Ruhr is the most important of all the German problems which still demands settlement. It is a problem which to the French, with their poignant memories of 1870, 1914 and 1939, is a source of almost sleepless concern. To solve it, the French propose complete political severance of the Rhineland and the Ruhr from the rest of Germany.

The United Kingdom Government, which thoroughly endorses the French resolve to prevent Germany ever again becoming an aggressive menace, much less an aggressive reality, and which is convinced that the Rhineland and the Ruhr must be subjected to special control, is nevertheless not in favor of political separation, which it believes would sow seeds of German irredentism.

Russia's position has not yet been officially defined from Moscow, although if German Communist propaganda in the Russian zone may be taken as a guide, Russia appears opposed to an amputation in the West.

Now Mr. Byrnes, the United States Secretary of State, has publicly renewed the proposal which he made in secret to the United Kingdom, French and Russian governments some months ago, of a treaty to ensure the total disarmament or demilitarization of Germany.

The proposed treaty sets forth the detailed and far-reaching measures necessary to ensure the treaty's object and provides that after the termination of the Allied occupation of Germany a four-power commission of control should inspect and report upon the manner in which Germany is or is not fulfilling her obligations in the matter of total disarmament and demilitarization. If the commission of control reports any violation or intended violation, the Four Powers "shall take such prompt action, including action by air, sea or land forces, as may be necessary to assure the immediate cessation or prevention of such violation or attempted violation." The Four Powers shall also immediately notify the United Nations Security Council.

The treaty would be for twenty-five years, with a provision that six months before the expiration of this term the Four Powers should determine whether the interests of international peace and security required its renewal.

Not the least important feature of Mr. Byrnes' iniative is that it emanated unprompted and unheralded and unexpected from the United States Government.

City and Town Gardens

The weather has not been a very marked incentive towards the cultivation of plots for the growing of a crop this year but many have prepared their land for planting in the hope and natural assurance that these will yield food which will come in well this year to take the place of food that can be thus spared and saved for export to the famine-threatened lands.

A good crop of vegetables can be accordingly of great advantage besides the appeal of planting and watching the plants grow to become rivals of the market size commodities.

Every extra bit of earth put to the purpose of production can be made a source of intense satisfaction in helping a cause as well as in working up the hobby of gardening.

Though the weather is cool so far the city lot gardeners expect a satisfactory growing season.

Hong Kong's Recovery

Sir Mark Young has returned to the governorship of Hong Kong, having taken over from the military governor, Admiral Harcourt, who has ruled since the Japanese surrender.

The best evidence of Hong Kong's recovery and good prospects is the way its people have flowed back. The British liberated a hungry and depopulated city of some 600,000 instead of the 1,640,000 of prewar days. Now the gates are again open to Chinese immigrants and the population has already risen to about a million and a third.

This fact underlies the King's message to the people of Hong Kong on the occasion of the restoration of civil government. His Majesty's words were: "The return of Sir Mark Young and the re-establishment of the civil government of Hong King marks a further stage in the restoration of the Colony after the long and arduous ordeal through which it passed. The hardships and cruelties of Japanese oppression left in their train many difficulties and problems. With resolution and co-operation these difficulties will be overcome.

"The military administration under Admiral Harcourt has already set Hong Kong on the path of happiness and prosperity. I have no doubt that the strenuous efforts which will be made in this direction by the civil government will receive the whole-hearted support of all sections of the community. I am confident all of you will play your full part in re-establishing that spirit of tolerance and goodwill which alone will enable Hong Kong to regain the pride of place she occupied in the past and achieve that influence for world peace in the future for which her position as a great international meeting place makes her so particularly fitted.

"The Queen and I rejoice with you on this occasion and send our greetings and heartfelt good wishes for the future."

At the liberation, the British set up emergency relief camps, as many of the people were suffering from beri-beri and other food-deficiency diseases. They imported rice and flour, scrap iron for ploughs and twine for fishing nets and began the restoration of public services and roads, manv of which were grown over.

Hong Kong lives by trade and imports. Before the war its port was cleared annually of eighty thousand vessels, including fishing junks. Its annual trade was worth seventy million pounds and wheat, textiles and machinery passed through the wharves from Britain and America in exchange for oils, rice, sugar, silk and tea from China, Malaya and the East Indies. Under the Japanese occupation imports almost ceased and food and firewood almost vanished.

One third of all dwellings became uninhabitable.

Recovery has been swift. Owing to the enterprise and resiliency of the merchants, trading began unexpectedly and quickly. Within a month the banks re-opened and deposits poured in at the rate of half a million dollars per day.

The dollar has been stabilized, rice and flour are evenly distributed by rationing and a cost of living or rehabilitation allowance has been instituted for government workers.

Much is still needed. The task of re-housing is heavy. Rebuilding has begun and ten thousand tons of cement have been ordered in Australia. Matches, ropes and clothing used to be made in Hong Kong but raw materials are slow in returning. Fishing, which practically stopped under the Japanese, is in full swing again. Prices have increased, but control is carefully maintained and the United Kingdom Government are contributing to the cost of administration until the city can once more balance its own budget.

DENIAL

To all some triumph is denied,
As if all hearts should know despair;
Their steadfastness to right be tried
And what their faith in God will bear.

Some never reach the wealth they seek.
Some never touch the book of fame.
And others—may they not be weak—
The love they need may never claim.

'Tis not when skies above are fair,
And all is well, a man is tried,
But by the hurts he's asked to bear
And by the joys to him denied.

London Letter

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, May 15. (CP)—London clutches eagerly at any sign of a return to normal and paint-pots and politeness are hailed as the latest indications that times are returning to their pre-war tempo.

More and more shopfronts are being brightened up with glossy trims, though at present they chiefly serve to accentuate the down-at-heel shabbiness of their neighbors. Brick bomb shelters are slowly being crushed and eliminated from the streets and new building painfully emerges from the rubble of homes and offices.

The courtesy campaign has its loudest champions in London transports, which controls the city's huge transportaton system. Bus conductors and drivers are exhorted to mind their p's and q's in public, and admiring letters from passengers are given due publicity.

This love-feast reached its climax with the company announcing that regular passengers who behave nicely are to have their reward. London transport will write them congratulatory letters.

This isn't to say that Londoners have adopted a hat-tipping, after-you attitude universally; there's still plenty of pushing in the underground and bus queues, and leather-lunged conductors still bellow their brusque orders.

Queues, which are still so prevalent, are notorious places for frayed tempers, although sometimes the resignation of shoppers and shopkeepers alike carries them beyond tantrums. Thus overwhelmed was the butcher's queue confronted by the notice:

"No sausages. No offal. No bones. Don't tell me last week's meat was tough. I know."

But warm Spring weather has done much to soothe irritated nerves and shattered walls and rubble heaps lost some of their depressing starkness as nearby trees burst into leaf.

ALL FOUR ACCUSED OF MURDER GIVE VERSION OF AFFAIR

Case Expected to Go to Jury Late Today After Nine Days of Hearings

Toronto, May 15 — (CP) — The case of four youths charged with murder in the hold-up slaying of a shopkeeper — first trial in Toronto's history where four have been charged with one slaying—was expected to go to the jury late today after nine days of court hearings.

The accused are William Mullen, 20; Howard Urquhart, 19; Edward Martin, 18, and Donald Warner, 17. Testimony has been given the court that these four went downtown to a moving picture theatre on the night of Dec. 28, found a line-up in front of the theatre and instead of waiting decided to hold-up a store. Accused themselves have testified that two stores were visited before the dress shop of Meyer Tobias on Mount Pleasant Road in North Toronto was entered. Tobias was slain by a bullet.

All four prisoners have testified in their own defence in the last two days, the last witness being Martin. Each prisoner agreed substantially about the events of the evening. — the decision not to stand in the theatre line-up; to steal a car from a downtown parking-lot; to visit first a store on East Queen Street, which was closing when they arrived; another store on Mount Pleasant Road, where there were too many people outside, and then the Tobias store.

Urquhart Driving Car

It was about the events in the Tobias store that Crown and defence counsel placed most insistence in their questioning and cross-examination.

It was established that Urquhart was driving the car; that Warner was in the front of the store; that Mullen was in the passage-way from the store to the rear area, and that Martin was with Tobias in the back room, after the dress shop proprietor had failed to respond to their warning "This is a stick-up" and had been pushed into the rear rooms.

Mullen, the last to testify, swore that when the two shots were fired Martin and Tobias were alone in the back room while he stood with gun in hand in the passage-way. "Martin asked him for his money," said Mullen. "Tobias just stood there. Then I saw Martin work the bolt action on his gun and fire a shot at the floor. Then Tobias leaped at him. He charged with his head down . . .

Another Shot Fired

"Then there was another shot fired and I was startled and I jumped back and started to run out of the store. I got halfway out and noticed my gun smoking." Mullen maintained that his gun went off without his knowing at at almost the same time as Martin's gun was fired in the struggle with Tobias.

Martin told the court that he had fired his own gun into the floor. "Tobias knocked me back across a table, holding my arm between the shoulder and elbow. When he knocked my arm, it made the gun go off. I shoved him off me with my left hand. Then I heard a shot, saw the man fall to the floor, and I got excited and ran from the store."

Perry Ryan, counsel for Mullen, asked him to demonstrate how Martin's gun could have gone off when Tobias tackled him. Mullen tackled Ryan and all but threw him over counsel's table.

Ex-Soldier Wins Bag of Gold As 'Consequence'

Edmonton, May 15. (CP)—The 29-year-old discharged American infantryman from the United States army who muffed a question and "won" himself a trip to Yellowknife, Y.T., from Los Angeles on a radio program, today was en route home with his "forfeit".

Herb Holland, an ex-lieutenant, had a bag full of free-gold from Yellowknife.

Mike Mitto, Yellowknife's most colorful character, told Holland where he should plant a charge of dynamite where the gold he was seeking might be found.

Holland, out of hospital after 15-months with a wound in the arm from a Japanese machine-gun blast, couldn't answer a question on a radio program (Truth or Consequences) and one hour later found himself on a plane headed for the north country in Canada.

The Chicago-born soldier, who now claims Los Angeles as his hometown, was agog with the vastness of Canada but said "regardless of the wonderful attractions of Canada's northern parts I will still call Los Angeles my home.'

While in the northland, Holland had to get the autograph of Mike Mitto and dig for himself a nugget, or a "piece of gold", in Canada's new Salmita goldfield near Yellowknife.

He was frustrated at the start of his return trip. One plane cracked up on landing while Herb was trying to get out after getting his sample. A sudden cold snap, however, enabled another plane to get in and "rescue" him. Otherwise, said Holland, "we'd have been there for six weeks."

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

Readers addressing letters to Dr. Brady will please include the word "Canada" on their return envelopes, as these letters have to be forwarded to Dr. Brady. And it is requested that readers use standard size envelopes that will hold a small booklet

WHO IS ILLEGITIMATE?

While we were fighting for our own national life and telling the world we were fighting for everybody who wasn't on the enemy's side, we seemed determined—to hear us tell it—to establish and maintain freedom and dignity, not for just certain favored or superior people but for all mankind. It was thrilling, even tear-jerking, to hear statesmen proclaim this lofty ideal.

Now that the mortal danger is over, for a while, it is radical, communistic or unpatriotic to mouth such noble sentiments. After all we must be practical and remember that other peoples are not quite so advanced and so highly civilized as we are.

And now that we can relax and settle back into the cushions again it is only natural that our Nazi-minded citizens should resume their stealthy persecution of citizens of different ethnical origin or religious faith.

During the war, as I realize only now, one word rarely if at all appeared in the letters people write asking for information or advice. The word is illegitimate. Now that we are through fighting this word again appears too frequently in the daily mail.

So I beg leave to repeat something I said here last August:

A child cannot be illegitimate, but many have illegitimate parents. If the child of illegitimate parents were given a fair break and not stigmatized by that cruel epithet we "respectable" people love to apply, the child's life would be no different from the life of any one else, so far as soul and character are concerned, and his or her social status would be no different from yours or mine.

That may not be precisely as I worded it before, but it is the idea I sought to convey.

Now I serve notice that the term "illegitimate" as applied to an individual who has done no wrong must not be used in a letter to me. If you do use the term or any synonymous term I shall ignore your letter.

This is the least I can do in behalf of the victim of the parents' delinquency. In every instance, of course, one or both parents has or have betrayed the child's birthright.

I have seen some of these human beings who have "come unwelcomed into birth" (a kindly woman remarks), who, as they grew and developed, manifested more lovely and lovable traits than most of us are endowed with. So have we all. And that is remarkable in itself, for it would seem that the dirty deal they get from society might reasonably cause them to develop the opposite traits.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Allergy

Some time ago I sent for your Allergy pamphlet, followed the instructions about taking potassium chloride and vitamin C. . . it completely cleared up a stubborn case of year-round allergy. Too bad I didn't know about it before I spent a lot of time and money on tests, shots etc. (J. R.)

Answer—Until the mystery of allergy is solved we'll never know whether a remedy or treatment or just coincidence brings the relief. On written request (no clipping, please) I'll send the pamphlet "Relief for Allergy"—inclose stamped self addressed envelope or ordinary, not toy size.

But Not Buried

I inclose 25 cents and stamped self addressed envelope for "The 7 Keys to Vite." I can do with some more vite. I enjoy your column and I think derive considerable benefit from it. My husband, an physician laughs at me and says Dr. Brady died ten years ago and the column is stuff cooked up by a syndicate. (E. M.———)

Answer—So that's what ails me? My bowling has been terrible lately. But they haven't buried me yet, so I'm hoping your husband is mistaken. That term "syndicate" probably bothers your husband—his mind may be relieved if he looks it up in Webster.

Minerals

When I came to Florida I was perfectly well, but I think I may be starving for minerals, because the soil here is so poor in minerals, in the way described by Neil Clark in a magazine article, and I thought you might suggest something to correct the deficiency. (B. G. L.)

Answer—Calcium, phosphorus, iodine and iron are the important minerals. Send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet "What to Eat and Why."

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is the queerest family of birds?

The distinction of being the queerest and most unbirdlike of all living birds is generally awarded by naturalists to the family of New Zealand birds known to the Maoris as kiwis.

"Kiwi" (pronounced KEE-wi) is of imitative origin and is fancied to resemble the cry uttered by this bird. The Maoris sometimes refer to the bird as kiwi-kiwi.

Kiwis are near kin to the extinct giant moas, and belong to the genus Apeteryx, "wingless."

These curious creatures, some of which are larger than domestic fowls in size and weight, are covered with reddish-brown or grayish feathers resembling long, loose, coarse hair, and they have no visible wings or tail. Some of the grayish specimens look as if they had been sprinkled with ashes.

Their nostrils are at the extreme tip of the long, slightly curved bill with which the birds feel their way around at night like a blind man with a cane. In fact, the kiwis are so secretive that very few people even in New Zealand have ever seen one.

Their favorite diet consists of earthworms, which they detect partly by touch and partly by smell and which they obtain by probing the soil to a considerable depth.

Although kiwis are flightless, they are not entirely wingless as their scientific name suggests. A pair of tiny, undeveloped wings about three inches long are concealed beneath the hair-like plumage.

During the day the birds are inactive and spend the time rolled up in a ball or standing with their bills touching the ground as if using them for props. The female, which is much larger than the male, lays one or two eggs in a burrow and the male does most of the incubating. Compared to the size of the birds the eggs are remarkably large. A kiwi egg of the largest species is five inches long and three inches in diameter. It weighs about eight times as much as an ordinary chicken egg and represents about one-fourth of the weight of the bird that lays it.

Young kiwis attain a high degree of maturity before being hatched and when they emerge from the eggs they are fully feathered and capable of taking care of themselves without the aid of their parents. The kiwi is popularly regarded as a sort of national emblem of New Zealand. Steps have been made to save these interesting relics of past ages from imminent extinction, but their preservation is made difficult by the fact that eggs laid in captivity are usually infertile.

HOURS OF SALE SET

Toronto, May 15 — (CP) — A city by-law becoming effective yesterday sets the hours of 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. for weekday retail sales of gasoline to motorists in the Toronto area. Service stations desiring to operate on Sundays must obtain special permits from the Ontario Highways Department, Sunday hours being limited to 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

TWENTY PERSONS HOMELESS

Cobalt, May 15 — (CP) — Twenty persons in two families were homeless today after fire which destroyed two houses here. No one was injured. The blaze started in the home of Rene Chauvreau and spread to the adjoining residence of Avit Depres, both houses being gutted within half-an-hour. Nearby houses were evacuated and their contents carried to the street but the flames were confined to the two homes.

IVANHOE

Mother's Day Services Held In Three Charges

Ivanhoe — Over three hundred persons attended the three congregational Mother's Day services held on Ivanhoe pastoral charge on Sunday. At Salem in the morning and White Lake in the afternoon unified services were held in which the minister, the Rev. J. F. Everson was assisted by the Sunday School superintendents, Mr. William Johnston and Mr. Ernest Holland respectively. The order of service followed in each case was the one suggested by the Ontario Religious Educational Council, and was supplanted by special choir selections. The missionary story in the morning was told by Mrs. Delbert Sine and in the afternoon by Miss Evelyn Downey.

Children Baptised

Baptism services were held at both the above mentioned appointments when the following children were presented: Salem, Ross Murney Sarles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Lindsay Sarles; Carol Ann Sine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Arthur Sine; Audrey Doreen Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Carter; Grant Jeffrey Hagerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lorne Hagerman; Linda Elizabeth Sine and Gail Jenette Sine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert McDougal Sine; Victor Everett Yorke, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Yorke and Elsie Mae Barnard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Richmond Barnard. Bethesda, Alden McAmmond Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Robert Woods; Carman Clare Downey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hector Carman Downey; Sharon Elaine Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Robert Francis and Ivan Glen McMillan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ethelbert Rollins McMillan.

Mothers in Choir

A choir of the following mothers led the singing at the evening service and contributed three special numbers, Mesdames, Arthur Wood, Hugh McMillan, Clarence Reid, Earl Benson, Frank Palmer and Charles Keeble. Mrs. Stanley Prest presided at the piano. Mrs. Clarence Reid contributed a solo, "I Never Can Forget the Day".

The two choir numbers were, "Lead Kindly Light" and "Happy the Home." The hymns were announced by Mrs. Frank Palmer, Mrs. Arthur Wood and Mrs. Earl Benson. The offering was received by Mrs. Harold Reid and Mrs. A. Cooney. Mrs. Hugh McMillan offered prayer. Mrs. Samuel Twiddy read a Scripture lesson. The address at each service, "We All Share in Making a Home" was given by the minister.

Lantern Slides Shown

At a meeting held in Beulah United Church on Friday evening, which was addressed by Miss Olive Sparling, of Toronto, representative of the Ontario Religious Educational Council, who showed lantern pictures on Vacation School work and which was well attended, the following persons were appointed a committee to explore the possibility of holding such a school at Ivanhoe, Convener Rev. J. F. Everson, Secretary Mrs. Milton Shaw, Mrs. John Wallace, Rev. W. H. V. Walker, Mrs. William French, Mrs. Earl Benson, Mrs. Ernie Woods, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lovibond. It is anticipated that such a school will be held early in July.

Ivanhoe — Miss Gladys Rollins, Reg. N. of Toronto is spending a week with her mother, Mrs. Joseph Rollins.

Mr. Allie McMillan, of Peterboro was the guest over the weekend of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert McMillan.

Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn of Toronto are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wood.

Mrs. Harry Kilpatrick and daughter Bernice, of Belleville, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer and Beverly.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bray, of Trenton spent a day recently with her mother Mrs. Samuel Kilpatrick who returned to Trenton with them.

The many friends here of Mrs. Elmer Rollins will be sorry to learn of her sudden illness but pleased to learn that she is making a satisfactory recovery.

A number of cheese makers report that the flow of milk coming into factories is considerably less than at the same time a year ago; in some cases being thirty per cent less due to drought and cold nights having an adverse effect upon the growth of grass.

There has been a considerable amount of confusion in this and surrounding sections as the result of the changed time. Some cheese factories and schools have been running on standard time and others on fast time. Over the weekend the public school and the United Church decided to adopt the fast time and clocks have been moved forward one hour.

Mrs. Orland J. Bertrand, of Gilead and Mrs. Harold A. Mason of Belleville spent Monday with their parents at the parsonage.

Rossmore

Rossmore — The weekly euchre was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Moy on Wednesday night the prize winners were, ladies' 1st, Miss Sylvia Redick, men's, Mr. C. Brownlee, consolation, Mrs. F. Belnap, Mr. C. Moy, lone hand prize, Miss Sylvia Redick.

Little Mary Daniels is a patient in Belleville General Hospital. All hope she will soon be home.

Mr. Flagler and family have moved in their new home here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Brownlee, Mrs. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. C. Moy, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Vandewater, Mr. and Mrs. B. Gerow, Mrs. E. Gerow, Mrs. Root, Mr. and Mrs. F. Belnap and Joy, also Mr. and Mrs. P. Clapp, Mr. and Mrs. B. Root, Jack and Jerry, Mr. and Mrs. K. Gerow and Mrs. Kelleher, Belleville, spent Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Gerow Belleville, the occasion being Mrs. Gerow's birthday; she was presented with a gift for which she thanked all present. Euchre was played and refreshments served and all departed wishing Mrs. Gerow many more happy birthdays.

or local commissions or a unitary National government. Ontario had no intention of entering into an agreement for subsidy payments "which will put it in the position of being a clamorous beggar at the door of the present or any other Dominion government."

There had been an effort to convey the impression that all the provinces but Ontario and Quebec were ready to sign an agreement but Ontario and Quebec were ready to sign an agreement with the Dominion on the latter's terms. "That is untrue. Several provinces were quite as emphatic in asserting the very principles that Ontario put forward and there was no indication that they had any, intention of abandoning their position."

Not Seeking Concessions

The Ontario government proposals to the conference were that the provinces surrender for the period of the transitional tax agreement the corporation and personal income tax fields and that the Dominion vacate succession duties, gasoline tax, amusement tax, race track pari-mutuel tax, security transfer tax and electricity tax. In return for surrendering income tax rights, Ontario suggested the Dominion make an annual payment of $12 per capita to the provinces varied in relation to the gross National production and population of 1941.

Finance Minister Ilsley gave "some figures as to the cost which this would impose upon the Dominion government which had no relation whatever to reality."

Ontario was not seeking concessions. It was asked to make concessions and in return asked an adequate amount to carry on its own affairs. The Dominion proposals would have been inadequate to meet Ontario's financial needs. A $200,000,000 budget was in prospect for Ontario within the proposed three-year term of the transitional agreement. The minimum assured under the Dominion proposals was $58,000,000 and under the Ontario proposals $48,000,000. The province thus would have to turn to its own sources of revenue for approximately three-quarters of its possible requirements. Unless it had assured fields of taxation it and other provincial governments would be in the power of the Dominion government.

Charles Pearce, Self-Styled King Of Hoboes, Dead

Bracebridge, Ont., May 15 — (CP) — Charles Pearce, self-styled king of Canadian hoboes, is dead. One of the Dominion's most interesting characters, his death came in hospital in this Muskoka district town some 90 miles north of Toronto after an illness of two weeks.

King Charlie was born in Brixton, England — just when he never would say precisely although he remarked three years ago "I believe I'm about 104 years old." By his own account, he spent 78 years in Canada, 67 of them as a knight of the road.

He was an inveterate collector of medals, convention buttons and newspaper clippings of his own strange career.

A tramp, and proud of it, Pearce had regular ports of call on his travels across the Dominion. He was a familiar figure in newspaper offices where he often had something unusual to offer in the way of an interview.

At times he would be campaigning for the premiership of Canada or organizing a convention of his hobo subjects or planning to attend "an inquest of William Lyon Mackenzie King." In earlier years, one of his bitterest rivals was George Graham, a rival claimant to the hobo throne.

He always succeeded in clinging to the dignity of his adopted title and demanded — and received — a show of respect from his interviewers. Even in jails, to which he was frequently committed on vagrancy charges — he demanded honor and homage.

One of his favorite themes was that he was persistently sought as a husband by admiring women. But he always insisted that any woman aspiring to become his queen must bring with her a dowry of at least $10,000. He claimed to have received and rejected two such offers and even in his declining years constantly expressed the fear that "the girls will get me yet."

So far as is known, he died unmarried.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

London, Ont., May 15—Leslie Hill, 21-year-old Brantford Indian, was formally charged in county court Tuesday with the murder of his 20-year-old bride of two weeks, on the Chippewa Indian Reserve.

Magistrate James Morley of Exeter, recently-named as Middlesex county magistrate, sat on the bench for the first time at the short hearing and remanded Hill in custody for one week.

"Wait Oscar — I gotta better idea. Throw in this package of crisp, crunchy Grape-Nuts Flakes — 'n' if THAT comes out you better leave town"

"Now you're talkin', Joe! The little woman might toss my hat out again but she'll never part with a package of malty-rich, nut-sweet Post's Grape-Nuts Flakes. And while she's fondly caressing 'em, I'll sneak upstairs to bed."

"Sure enough these Grape-Nuts Flakes are wonderful smile bait. And they stick-to-your ribs, too — with carbohydrates for energy; proteins for muscle; phosphorus for teeth and bones; iron for the blood; and other food essentials."

"My wife knows that Grape-Nuts Flakes are doubly good because they're made of two grains—wheat and malted barley—cleverly blended, baked and then toasted for matchless flavor, delightful crispness, easy digestion. Those recipes on the package for cookies and other good things will catch her eye, too!"

WEDDINGS

MAINPRIZE—DENIKE

Picton, — The home of the bride's parents at Bloomfield was the scene of a lovely wedding, on Saturday afternoon, when Rev. A. E. McCutcheon united in marriage, Hazel Annie Denike and Milton Charles Mainprize. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Denike, Bloomfield, formerly of Belleville, and the groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Denton Mainprize, Campbellford. The ceremony took place against a background of ferns, interspersed with pale pink carnations and snapdragons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in powder blue crepe, street length, made with sweetheart neckline, three-quarter length sleeves, self-embroidered flowers at the neck. She wore a pink flowered hat with veil and pink gloves. She also wore the gift of the groom, a string of pearls and ear-rings to match. Her Colonial bouquet was of pink roses.

Mr. J. Donald Baxter, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a two-piece street length dress of beige crepe with flowers made of beige braid at the neck. She wore a blue flowered hat with veil and blue gloves, and a sterling silver pin and ear-rings. Her Colonial bouquet was of red roses.

Mr. Walter Laurence, Bloomfield, attended the groom.

Miss Donna Haugh, Toronto, small niece of the bride, attended the door. Wedding music was played by Miss Earlene McCutcheon and during the signing of the register played "I Love You Truly".

The reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother was smart in black triple sheer with corsage of pink roses. Miss Edith Mainprize, sister of the groom, chose figured blue sheer with black accessories and a corsage of red roses. A three-tiered wedding cake centred the lace-covered table, flanked by a crystal candelabra. Pink roses adorned the buffet. Tea was poured by Mrs. T. Barnard, Toronto, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. A. E. McCutcheon, Picton. Assistants were Miss Cora Leavitt, Miss Phyllis Laurence, Miss Betty Marvin, Mrs. Lyle Branscombe and Mrs. Fred Cooper.

For travelling to Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride donned an aqua blue suit with shell pink blouse and brown coat and accessories with corsage of pink roses. They will make their home at Bloomfield.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson Haugh and daughter, Donna; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Barnard, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Denike, all of Toronto.

BOYCE—BAXTER

A wedding of interest to Belleville readers took place at Digby, N.S., on May 8, when Miss Pauline Baxter, of Digby, became the bride of Mr. Ross Boyce, of Belleville. After a wedding trip in the eastern provinces Mr. and Mrs. Boyce will reside in Belleville. Mr. Boyce, following his discharge from the Navy, has taken his pre-war job at the Boyce Garage.

Display of 'Fabrics of Tomorrow' At C.D.S. Shows Versatility of New Materials for Home and Wear

Fiberglas, kroy, nylon, vinyon, aralac, plexon, velon—these will be magic names to the housewife of the near future as she uses these new fabrics in clothing, curtains, furniture, screening and almost every other way in which fabric can be used. Still quite new in the fabric world, the different materials are being displayed by the Lux Laboratories at the Canadian Department Store this week. Two washability experts, Miss June Reid, and Miss Jean Warren are present to expound the qualities of the multi-colored fabrics in the display.

MISS JUNE REID

Fiberglas, made from "glass marbles" was shown in beautiful weaves and colors. Uncrushable and fireproof, this fabric will be used for making curtains for tomorrow's home. Kroy, an unshrinkable wool-like material will be ideal for baby clothes, as well as women's blouses.

High Tenacity Rayon

Rayons are also on display, the most remarkable of which is a "high tenacity" rayon, which although inexpensive, is extremely strong and wearable. Its use as tow ropes during the war is ample proof of its strength. Nylon appeared in different weaves, and will be perfect for curtains as it does not sag or stretch even when wet. Nylon sheer looked like the finest chiffon. A material for women's lingerie was shown with nylon front and rayon back.

Vinyon, made from air, coal, and water as is nylon, but with natural gas and salt added, was shown in a particularly attractive weave. Aralac, the milk product, moth proof, mildew proof, and almost as warm as wool, was shown in checked and plain materials. Plexon, available now in purses, is a fine example of the new miracle material. Starting from a rayon or cotton thread base, any number of different coats of plastic are added, each giving the thread a different property.

Velon Used For Screening

Velon, although not shown in the display, was described by Miss Reid. Used in screening, it will be water proof, wear-proof and scuff-proof. Made in pastel shades to blend with house interiors, the screening is also practically hole-proof.

Magic names indeed, these new materials are going to remove practically every fault of present day fabrics. The women allergic to wool will find aralac products ideal; the women who despair of having attractive furniture with small children about, will find the new fabrics literally "child-proof." This display of fabrics of tomorrow is a most interesting one.

Magic of James Melton's Voice Wins Hearts of City Audience

A tall handsome figure, immaculate in evening clothes strode out from the wings to the centre of the concert stage of the Collegiate Auditorium Tuesday night. As if by magic, the conversational hum of a capacity-filled house ceased. There was a tense silence for a moment then a spontaneous burst of applause echoed in the building as the infectious smile of James Melton, Metropolitan Opera tenor, stage, screen and radio star, preluded his golden voice in the first number of the program.

The magic of the Melton voice and the magnetism of the opera's stars captivating personality reached out across the footlights and captured his audience long before the mellow notes of his first offering, Handel's magnificent aria "Thanks Be to Thee" from "Israel in Egypt" had died away.

Perhaps no singing artist brought here by the Belleville Community Concert Association, has matched Melton's versatility in the interpretation of song literature. His infectious joviality, natural, genial stage manner, his wide range of repertoire from the lilting ballads of the American west to the resounding operatic arias brought his audience to his artistic feet.

Enthusiastic Reception

And perhaps no artist has ever been accorded such a reception here as was Mr. Melton last night. A thrilled audience greeted each offering with prolonged applause, and the artist generously responded with several encores.

The versatility, beauty of voice and liveliness of the singer's temperament were exemplified in the program which ranged from grand opera to simple love ballads. Mr. Melton's linguistic ability was apparent in his clear enunciation in songs offered in German, Italian and French. He was equally at home with the immortal aria from "Lucia di Lammermoor" as he was with the beautifully melodic favorite, "I Hear You Calling Me."

Sang Serenade by Schubert

There was warmth and tenderness in the soft nuances of Grieg's "Mit Einer Wasserlilie" in German; the impassioned rhapsody of Delibes "Fantasies aux divins mensonges", from "Lakme and in the hauntingly beautiful "Serenade' by Schubert. Captivated by the beauty of the last number, the audience sat in almost reverent silence as the magnificent voice of the artist was heard in the melody that is a household word in musical circles.

He captured the moods of sorrowing lovers in Faure's "Fleur-Jetee" and Szulc's "Clair de Lune", both sung in French, while the rollicking rhythmic music of old Spain was heard in Obrador's "El Vito" and Hageman's "Don Juan Gomez", the musical story of a gay caballero who aired his egoism in melody.

Further exemplification of Mr. Melton's versatility was apparent in his offering of the lilting Irish ballad, "She Moved Thro' the Fair", by Hughes, and the soulful Scottish folk song, "Hame" by Davies.

Sang Cowboy Ballad

He introduced a vein of musical humor in his "I Rise As You Enter", the song of a modern troubadour who sings his love in the idiom of the younger generation, and in "Along the Chisholm Trail", well-known cowboy ballad. Mr. Melton interspersed whistling choruses in this number and his introduction of snatches of histrionic comedy, earned for him a thunderous ovation.

A modern touch was noted in his final encore "Soliloquy" from the current New York hit "Carousel" in which a "barker" dreams aloud in melody of the future of his yet unborn child whether it be boy or girl.

The immortal music of the late George Gershwin was introduced by Mr. Melton when he offered as an encore, the famous composer's "Where's My Bess", from "Porgy and Bess".

Outstanding Pianist

Executing an outstanding mastery of his instrument, Mr. Carroll Hollister, well-known New York artist and accompanist, assisted Mr. Melton at the piano. The "lesser" member of the team, Mr. Hollister's artistry was noticeably apparent in his renditions of difficult accompaniments.

He crowned an evening's brilliant achievement with his offering of three piano numbers "Prelude" and "La Cathedrale Engloutie" by Debussy, and "Ritual Fire Dance" by De Falla. Brought back to the stage by insistent curtain calls, Mr. Hollister offered two additional numbers receiving a splendid ovation as he concluded his part of the program.

The Melton concert marked the closing attraction on the 1945-46 program of the Concert Association here. President Russell Hachborn in a brief address prior to the second part the program, told the audience that already 700 members had subscribed for the 1946-47 series, and urged former members who had not yet done so to renew their subscriptions. The deadline was set at Wednesday midnight. He predicted a capacity sell-out of memberships for the coming season.

HALLOWAY YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION

Halloway Young Adult Group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McMullen on May 8, with Lorna Hough in charge. The Scripture lesson was read by Verna Townsend. Poem was read by Georgina Goodfellow. Marion Reid read the worship story 'Proudly They Realized". Mary Beak read the "Ten Commandments and Friendship".

The President, Colin Donald, then took over. The topic was read by Lorna Hough. A contest was then put on by Lorna after which refreshments were served which brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

Women's Activities

TYENDINAGA EAST W.I.

The Tyendinaga East Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Bruce Kimmerly for their May meeting with the new president, Mrs. Garry Provins, in the chair. Twenty-one members and two visitors answered the roll-call. Mrs. H. Sweetnam, the new secretary-treasurer read the minutes and correspondence. Several members paid their fees. A donation of $10 was voted to the Clothing Drive and $5 to the Institute for the Blind. A discussion on the co-operative program, and the district annual meeting followed.

Topic, "The Union Jack", was well given by Mrs. R. Stafford. Mrs. C. J. Akey thanked the past president and secretary-treasurer for their co-operation in the past and the president presented them with small gifts to which they suitably replied.

Mrs. R. Tucker had charge of the program.

Mrs. F. Hutchinson gave the story of "When You and I Were Young Maggie" and all joined in singing the number.

A solo "That's What God Made Mothers For", was sung by Mrs. Price with Mrs. E. Waddingham at the piano.

Mrs. R. Harvey gave a reading entitled "Mother".

A contest was conducted by Mrs. R. Tucker with Mrs. S. E. Winter winning the prize.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and committee.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the hostess for her kind hospitality.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH W.M.S.

Madoc.—The W.M.S. of St. Peter's Church held their May meeting at the manse on Thursday afternoon. The president, Miss Vankleeck, opened the meeting with a little poem, "He Was Not Black", followed by Bible reading by Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Fields Allen. The lesson period on "Outstanding Christians in Africa", was in charge of Mrs. McCaffrey and Mrs. Will Millar gave a sketch of the life of Dr. Samuel Crowther. Mrs. Orrie Reid and Mrs. David Blakely gave readings.

Mrs. McCaffrey told of an aunt of Mrs. Kenneth West of Madoc, who had gone as a missionary under the auspices of the Soudan Mission of Toronto, in 1918 and died there. Mention was also made of the Rev. Allen Moore of Madoc Township, working for several years as a missionary in Africa.

The president again took the chair for the business period. Mention was made of the death of the last two charter members of 60 years ago. Mrs. Wm. Mackintosh and Mrs. Fred Rollins, who passed away within two days of one another.

Mrs. Larsen was asked to give the beautiful tribute to Mrs. Mackintosh that she gave at the presbyterial in Kingston on May 1st. The members all stood for a minute of silence for these two devoted members.

Mrs. McCaffrey took charge of the report of the Presbyterial in May as the president was unable to go.

The hostess assisted by Miss Vankleeck served refreshments and the ladies were given an opportunity to examine the curios of Africa which were on display.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Samain Presented With Travelling Bags, Purse of Money

County officials, representatives of the local legal profession, the Belleville Police Department and local Provincial Police Tuesday evening at the county court house paid tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Samain, county jailer and jail matron, who have tendered their resignations and in the near future will return to their native England.

Judge C. A. Cameron acted as master of ceremonies for the evening's program which saw county officials and local police heads express their appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Samain for their full co-operation during the years which they had acted as county jailer and matron. Words of appreciation were heard from Warden James Nickle; County Treasurer Ross Bailey, Justice of the Peace Miss Mary Butler, representatives of the local legal profession, Frank Cushing and Ormonde Butler, Chief of Police Walter Probert and Inspector Clair Hayes. Provincial Police Constable Ernest Keays presented a letter from Inspector Harry Thompson who owing to ill-health was unable to be present.

On behalf of those present, Sheriff J. D. O'Flynn presented Mr. Samain with a handsome travelling bag while Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan likewise presented Mrs. Samain with a travelling bag. A purse of money was also presented to the retiring jailer and his wife.

Stan Nighswander President K.G. Home, School Club

The regular meeting of the King George Home and School Association met Monday evening at the school, with Mr. M. Hackett, president, presiding.

Mr. Bob Reid favored with a piano solo, "Piano Concerto", by Tschaikowsky.

Mr. Everett Fairman brought in the new slate of officers for the coming year:

Past President—Mr. M. Hackett
President—Mr. Stan Nighswander.
Vice President—Mrs. N. Meldrum.
Rec.-Secretary— Mrs. R. G. Coulter
Corr. Secretary— Mrs. J. R. McCullough.
Treasurer—Mrs. R. A. Wyatt.

It was decided to change the date of the regular meeting from the second Monday of the month to the third Tuesday of the month.

Grade VIII pupils then favored with a delightful chorus "Santa Lucia".

Mr. Hackett's room won the attendance award.

Mr. Everett Fairman introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. George Currie, principal of the B.C.I.V.S.

Mr. Currie speaking on the subject of "Vocational Guidance," stated that there is no longer any gulf between secondary, elementary, and primary schools as education is now recognised as a continuous process.

When a child reaches secondary school, it is hoped that he is a well-taught person, well-taught at home, in his impressionable years, well-taught by the community, church and school.

To be successful in diversified living, a child should be educated with a diversified course of study. There is no such thing as a maladjusted child, but there may be maladjusted schools. The school must organize its course to meet the basic needs of the child.

A child has a right to experience success if he has worked for it and if he tries and fails it is an injustice to him. He should be taking a course that he can do successfully. Pupils who do not do well in abstract subjects may do well in the industrial or home economics courses, and all courses have an equal dignity.

THE CHURCH NEEDS YOU!

Take up the Challenge

LEADERS throughout Christendom agree that the hopes of mankind depend on Christianity in action. The bright new order for which the world waits cannot be brought about by treaties, pacts or legislation alone. The Church of England in Canada accepts the challenge and calls upon all to rededicate their lives to Christ and the great task of rebuilding a Christian Canada and a Christian World.

The Anglican Advance Appeal calls to YOU to enlist in this great crusade—to make such sacrifice as may be necessary to help provide the $4,300,000 required.

To enable the Church to advance in Canada, to ensure that she may meet the needs of ever-widening frontiers in the far North and West and that her ministers may after a lifetime of service be assured of an adequate pension. Also that the Church may assist England in the rebuilding of Churches damaged by war, and to maintain her commitments to her medical missions in the Far East.

Under the Patronage of His Excellency Field-Marshal Viscount Alexander of Tunis and Errigal, G.C.B., G.C.M.B., C.F.I., C.S.I., D.S.O., M.C., and Her Excellency Lady Margaret Alexander, the Anglican Advance Appeal launches a nation-wide canvass for funds.

May 12th to 19th—This is the week set apart for you to make or pledge your personal offering. Should a church visitor fail to call on you, please mail your contribution to the Anglican Church in your community or Diocesan Headquarters.

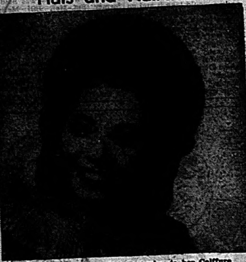
Hats and Hairdos



Jeff Donnell Wears a Hat Becoming to her Coiffure

By HELEN FOLLETT

THERE MAY have been a time when hats were wackier, but nobody is able to recall it. You can get them with wing-like brims or with steeple-like crowns, or so small that you could lose one as easily as you misplace your rouge compact, or lipstick.

Of all details of dress the hat is most important. Isn't it so? The wrong hat does one in, as far as style and good looks are concerned. The too perky one on a dignified old girl just doesn't suit.

Hasten Slowly

After all, we must come to one conclusion; it is wise to ponder, make haste slowly, when choosing a chapeau. It should be tried on before a full length mirror to see if it is friendly to the silhouette.

Before stalking hats, decide upon the hairdo you are going to sport this season. Hats and hairdos should be on friendly terms; they aren't always as many of the sisters have found out to their sorrow.

When trying on the hat, look at your neck. If the neck is long and thin, for goodness sake don't get a long, thin hat. The rule for girls with round, moonlike faces, is not to wear lids that are small and round. A hat with an irregular brim, uplifted if you like, is better than one of the page-boy pill boxes.

The offerings of the milliners are so varied, so charming, chic and sassy—even though goofy—that any woman can find a model that will not only look like her, but will make her look smartly dressed.

It is necessary to regard the ensemble that is you—the relationship of hat to frock and coat and hair dress, the relationship between the color of the frock and the makeup you use.

It is a jolly game to play. If the reflection in the mirror is gratifying, then you win.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Sub-debs Should Not Look Jaded

Youth is long on activity, short on rest. Youth's slogan is "let's go places." Youth can dance all through the night, fly around like crazy all day, but that's no reason why it should.

Girls of high school age are still children, hateful though that word may be to them. You can't be a good grower unless you are a good sleeper, and that means getting nine full hours of slumber. Do we hear mutterings from the sidelines? ("Isn't she quaint? Must be an old dodo") Go on, throw bricks; we don't care. You are not made of wire and fiddle strings, as you may fancy. Young people are subject to illness. They wear out at times. Even locomotives wear out, so we've heard tell.

It is during sleep that the body does its pick-up work, building tissues, bones, blood cells, all those elements of which the human body is constructed. A girl of fifteen or sixteen may keep on growing for several years, usually does. Growth takes one's strength. The pretty one desires above all things to have a pretty figure. All right. Then let her have due regard for the laws of health.

Not enough sleep makes the skin colorless. Fatigue puts old eyes in young faces. That's bad.

Youth fancies it has unlimited vitality, but that is not true in all cases. From high school a girl leaps into college activities. Social affairs and class work may be found exhausting. They won't be if the girl is properly nourished, eats a balanced diet, gets plenty of sleep. ("There she goes again! Bet she goes to bed at 9 o'clock, the old fussy!")

The finicky eater is doing herself an injustice. You can't run your motors without fuel. Boys, as a rule, have an appreciation of good groceries, love to eat. Many girls are given to nibbling. A soda just before dinner will take away the appetite. Luncheon may be just a few bites. As for breakfast! Unless Mom stands there and orders "Eat your cereal," breakfast wouldn't be much more than a scramble.

Growing girls require more food than the average adult.

Girls who are still growing require more food than the average adult. A long-continued diet deficiency may lead to anemia or even heart strain. Debility from undernourishment comes creeping along stealthily. As strength declines, the appetite fades away. It is a vicious circle. Any girl who isn't hungry at meal time, who doesn't love the taste, look and smell of good food is not in a state of health.

Underfeeding makes for inefficiency. If you are a nibbler, and find your classwork difficult, better stoke up. Take a quart of milk a day and eat man-sized meals.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

..Is Jealousy a Proof of Love?..

Some girls seems to feel flattered when the man they're going around with is jealous of them. And some wives take it as a compliment when their husbands fly into a rage if they smile at or talk to another man.

Apparently they believe that the greater the jealousy, the greater the love.

The girl who writes the following letter, however is evidently not quite sure whether this is true or not.

She says:

"I am a girl of 17, and am going with a boy about the same age.

"He is the kind of boy who is very jealous. If I talk to other boys, he accuses me of going out with them. He doesn't even like me to dance with a boy, regardless of who he is. He tells me he loves me, and says he is waiting for the time when we can be together forever. If we have an argument, he doesn't take any other girls out, but he dances with them to see if I will run out on him or dance with other boys. After he tries me out to see my reactions, he wants to make up.

"He couldn't treat anyone any better than he does me. He is very nice, and gives me very expensive presents. Is this jealousy a sure way to know he loves me, or just a pretense of love?

J. A. M."

If your boy friend can't treat anyone any better than he treats you, J.A.M.—if, in other words, the way he treats you is the best he can do—then I would advise you to look around for someone who could do quite a little better than that.

If you talk to any other boy, this one at once suspects you of going out with him. So obviously he doesn't trust you, but is always ready to believe you're two-timing him. Not very sporting of him, is it?

He doesn't like you to dance with anybody but himself. But if the two of you have a spat, off he goes to dance with other girls, keeping one eye on you to see if you retaliate by floating off in the arms of another boy. If you refrain from the tactics to which he himself resorts, he graciously consents to make up with you. If you don't, I suppose he'd go on sulking. Pretty childish, this kind of business, don't you think?

And so you want to know if behavior of this sort is a sure proof that he loves you.

I say certainly not. The only thing it's a sure proof of is that he's a selfish adolescent, who will grow up into a selfish, domineering man, if he doesn't look out, and make some poor girl's life perfectly miserable—if he's ever lucky enough to persuade any girl to marry him.

People don't usually need proofs that another person loves them. They know it by the thoughtfulness he shows for their comfort, his consideration for their feelings, his eagerness to make them happy, his concern to do nothing that will ever wound or annoy them, and his quickness to make amends when things go wrong.

No, jealousy is not a proof of love for another. It's a proof of love for oneself. Self-centredness is another name for that. And the self-centred person is not capable of true love.

It's About Time

ITS ABOUT TIME to make place mats and napkins like these for a linen-shower gift. Use medium weight or heavy linen trimmed with handkerchief linen. (Or batiste on linen-weave cotton). Applique white stripes on gray or any medium shade, then hem.

The smart set of the season, so far as we are concerned, is a matching gilet and belt set. The white pique gilet is embroidered with black sequins, while the black patent leather belt is spiced with a triangular piece of white pique in front.

GILEAD Y.P.U.

The regular Gilead Y.P.U, meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrenson on May 2, with an attendance of fifteen members. The President, Carman Huffman, took charge of the Worship Service with Earl Treverton reading the Scripture.

It was decided to invite the three other unions on this circuit to the closing meeting on May 17, with slides being shown by Holloway Street Church, Belleville.

George Clare the Christian Fellowship convener, took charge of the program; reading "Little Things", by Earl Treverton; reading, "Character" by Olive Ross. A sing-song led by Mrs. Lawrenson. Reading, "Saved" by Norma Clare. The recreation was led by Georgina Huffman. The hostess served refreshments.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Notes to Thank for Messages of Sympathy

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please suggest a few samples of thank-you notes to friends who have sent flowers, notes, and spiritual bouquets for one who has passed away?

Is it proper to sign these notes "The Smith Family," or should each name be written individually? There are four children in the family, and one son and one daughter is married.

D. S.

These notes of thanks may be written by the one who was closest in relationship to the deceased, or by one of the daughters or sons; and whoever writes the notes signs his or her name only.

For example, to thank for messages of sympathy, this note might be written:

Dear Mrs. Allen,

Thank you for your kind message of sympathy. Your friendly words of understanding were a great comfort to all of us.

Most sincerely,
Frank Smith

To thank for a spiritual bouquet, the son might write:

Dear Mary,

We all send you our deep thanks for the spiritual bouquet you sent in memory of our dear mother. It was a beautiful tribute to her, and we appreciate your good thought.

Sincerely,
Robert Smith.

And to thank for flowers, the married daughter might write:

Dear Dorothy,

Father has asked me to write you to tell you how much he appreciated your words of sympathy and understanding, and to thank you for the beautiful memorial roses you sent for Mother's funeral.

Sincerely,
Jane Smith Brown

Or:

Dear Jane,

Our family deeply appreciates your kind message of sympathy and we thank you for the lovely lillies that brought your message of remembrance. I cannot adequately tell you how much your kindness and your understanding words have meant to Father and to us.

Devotedly,
Jane

Bride Walks on Her Father's Right

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. At a church wedding, does the bride come down the aisle on her father's right arm or left arm? It would seem awkward to me if the bride's father walks on her right because then he would have to walk around her train.

2. I would also like to know on what side of the church the bride's family sit, and on which side the groom's family.

J. D.

1. The bride walks down the aisle on her father's right arm. And this, as you say, avoids the awkwardness of having the father walk around the bride's train.

2. The left side of the church is the bride's side; the right the groom's side. After the bride's father has escorted the bride down the aisle, he takes his place with the bride's mother in the front pew on the left of the aisle.

Attractive Summer Frock

FOR THE WOMAN who, while she adores prints, somehow feels too large and conspicuous in them, one shop is starring the type of frock depicted here. It is a one-piecer with a two-piece look. The blouse top made with long, loose sleeves and a casual open neck with classic collar, is of flower-sprigged white crepe. The skirt is of black crepe built on to a little hip yoke that ties centre front. There are gathers at the centre front and the back is gored.

Butter Production In Four Months Down 1,500 Tons

Toronto, May 15 — (CP)—Production of butter by Ontario creameries in the first four months of 1946 was down more than 1,500 tons as compared with the output in the same period last year, the Ontario Department of Agriculture said yesterday in its monthly dairy report.

Cumulative output of creamery butter for the first four months was 15,327,400 pounds against 18,808,400 for the same period last year. Butter production in April 1946 was 5,352,100 pounds against 6,117,500 for April 1945. Stocks of creamery butter in storage warehouses throughout the province up to May 1 was 1,065,400 pounds against 1,478,000 in the same period last year.

The cumulative output of cheddar cheese for the first 4 months was 8,156,200 pounds against 12,833,700 for the same period last year. Cheddar cheese production for April was 4,681,400 pounds against 7,291,000 in April 1945.

Commercial sales of fluid milk in March was 40,645,300 quarts against 35,619,500 in March 1945.

Six Men Held For Conspiracy

Montreal, May 15 — (CP)—Six men were arrested today in connection with the recent dynamiting of two National Breweries trucks, a warehouse and a garage, detective headquarters announced Tuesday night.

The men, charged with conspiracy in and causing an explosion are suspected of being the perpetrators of the bombing which wrecked two brewery trucks, the inside of the brewery terminal warehouse on St. James Street and the Canadian Malting Company garage on downtown St. Ambroise Street.

In all the attacks, which occurred during the past fortnight, either a homemade bomb or a package of "raw" dynamite was thrown at the target.

The men arrested were listed as: Arthur Plouffe, 35, Benoit Vincent, 25, Fleurent Landry, 35, Etienne Bienvenue, 40, Maurice Tarrasa, 23, and Germain Daoust, 40, all of Montreal.

A partial strike has been in effect since March 29 at the four Montreal breweries of the company. Officials both of National Breweries and of the International Union of United Brewery Workers (AFL) have condemned the use of violence.

WON'T STOP TALKING

Aylmer, Que., May 15—(CP)—Jean Francois Pouliot, Independent Liberal Member of Parliament for Temiscouata who announced he will not speak in any more Commons debates, is making it clear he by no means intends to stop talking. Last night he attacked what he called the "family compact" of senior civil servants which he said was running parliament's business. Tonight it was the $1,250,000,000 loan to Britain, in a speech by the fiery member before a service (Rotary) club in this Ottawa district town.

Sound Education Groundwork For Success Later in Life Syl Apps Tells Graduates

Centre Hockey Star of Toronto Maple Leafs Addresses Tweed High School Pupils at Commencement Exercises

Tweed (Special)—The importance of a sound education as the groundwork for success later in life was emphasized to graduating pupils of Tweed High School on Friday evening when at St. Carthagh's Hall, Sylvanus Apps, centre ice idol of the Toronto Maple Leaf's hockey club was the guest speaker at the annual commencement exercises.

The hall was filled to capacity for the occasion to hear the fine musical program and to see medals, prizes and diplomas presented to the year's successful students.

He congratulated the graduating pupils on their fine work throughout the year assuring them that all the advantages in the business world lay with those who had prepared themselves with the best education. "Start out with a sense of responsibility" stated the Toronto hockey idol, "for any job worth doing is worth doing well. Make the best of your opportunities and have confidence in your own capabilities for nothing is too big for the education you have received at Tweed High School."

Principal Introduced Speaker

Principal of Tweed High School Mr. T. E. Moffatt, introduced the guest speaker who recalled 12 years ago when he graduated from high school at Paris, Ont. He referred briefly to his association with the Toronto Leafs admitting that at times he played fairly well, sometimes good, while at other times he was "terrible."

Felix Rashotte, chairman of the high school board acted as chairman for the program and added his congratulation to the successful pupils. "Tweed high school was well equipped," he said, "and it had a splendid staff of teachers who had been hired for another term."

He advised students to learn a good trade and later in business life, to give their employer 100 per cent co-operation.

Reeve Extends Greetings.

Reeve of Tweed village, Mr. S. A. McCarey, extended greetings from the council to the staff of the high school and congratulated the students upon the honors they had received. "Tweed High School," he said, "had a record second to none, much of the credit being due to an efficient teaching staff."

An interesting sidelight of the evening's program was the presentation of a car to Mr. James Ryan who recently tendered his resignation following twenty-five years' service as a member of the school board.

Miss Margaret Harrison was valedictorian for the graduating class.

Included on the evening's program were piano solos by William Beatty, Dean Whalen and Mr. Ronald M. Maranda. The high school glee club, directed by Mr. Maranda, sang three numbers. "A Song of India" (M. Rimsky-Korsakow), "Down South" (Wm. H. Myddleton). Doris Curry and Betty Snare favored with a piano duet, while senior and junior girls staged drill numbers.

Medals Presented.

Norman Both won the boys' Upper School medal, while Margaret Harrison won the girls' counterpart. Grade XII medal was won by Donald McQuade and Grade XI medal by Shirley Bowers. Commercial medal was won by Marion Tucker. Scholarship winners were Jean Meraw, First Grade X; Joan McCrea, Second Grade X; Claire LeSage, First Grade IX, and Doris Curry, Second Grade IX. These were presented by Mr. LeSage.

Honor graduation diplomas were won by Merle Bateman, Norman Both, Elizabeth Gordon, Margaret Harrison, Lois Levere, Raymond Shannon and Marion Tucker. These diplomas were also presented by Mr. LeSage.

Mr. E. Hodgins presented graduation diplomas to the following: Marion Beatty, Anna-Marie McGuire, Norena Barker, Merrill Dales, Grant T. Elliott, Ellenore Gehan, Lorne Gehan, Jean Kelly, Verna Langevin, Lois Levere, Elizabeth McCulloch, Milton McTaggart, Patrick Shannon and Donald McQuade.

Commercial Certificates

Commercial certificates were presented by Mr. Hodgins to the following: Marion Beatty, Rosemond Langevin, Milton McTaggart, Margaret Sherry, Esther Sinclair and Marion Tucker.

Middle School certificates were presented by Mr. John Burns. Trasna Alexander, Fred Allore, Norena Barker, Carl Bateman, Marion Beatty, William Beatty, Catherine Bergeron, Shirley Bowers, Veronica Cassidy, Pauline Champagne, Edwin Champagne, Clifford Cotton, Stanley Courneya, Merrill Dales, Cecilia De Marsh, Grant A. Elliott, Grant T. Elliott, Stewart Elliott, Margaret Garrison, Ellenore Gehan, Lorn Johnston, Jean Kelly, Louise Lajole, Charles Langevin, Rose Langevin, Verna Langevin, Lois Levere, Lois McCaw, Donald McQuade, Milton McTaggart, David Paul, Wilber Pipe, Theresa Rashotte, Jean Roushorn, Pat Shannon, Margaret Sherry, Barbara Simmons, Esther Sinclair and Lois Way.

Intermediate Certificates

Intermediate certificates presented by Mr. S. H. Connor: Donald Austin, Ida Barry, Ray Bateman, Bosfleze Bergeron, Kenneth Carleton, Ernest Cassidy, Ann De Marsh, Lorna Doran, Marion Fenlon, Joyce Goodfellow, Bruce Jones, Patricia La Berge, Theresa Latendre, Joan McCrea, Donald Martin, Jean Meraw, Rosemary Meraw, Ioma Shultz, Betty Snare, Douglas Spencer and Echo Thompson.

In appreciation for their efforts in winning the Bay of Quinte District C.O.S.S.A. rugby championship, members of the 1945 team were presented with fountain pens by the high school board. Name of each boy was engraved on the pens which were presented by Mr. Thos. Beatty.

Dorothy Kelly and Echo Thompson won first and second prizes respectively in the Strathcona Fund garden competition while the Strathcona Fund poultry project winners were Robert Courtney and Leo Cassidy.

Mrs. M.E. Knight, Winnipeg, Freed Of Murder Charge

Winnipeg, May 15 — (CP)—In a modest downtown home, Mrs. Margaret E. Knight, the 38-year-old "perfect mother," was with her five children today, freed of a charge of murder — the knife-slaying of her 42-year-old husband, Henry Knight.

It took a 12-man-jury only 13 minutes yesterday to return an acquittal verdict before Mr. Justice W. J. Donovan in Court of King's Bench.

The two-day trial brought out a story of years of family strife, bitter quarrels, and brutality. It came mainly from the children, three of whom testified for their mother.

Knight came home drunk the evening of March 31, complained of food served for his supper, and in a scuffle with his wife, after threatening many times to kill her, was fatally stabbed. Mrs. Knight said she had been attempting to take the knife — a long bread knife — away from her husband.

A 15-year-old daughter, Lillian, called her mother "the perfect mother." Few children were as fortunate in their mothers, she told the court.

"She prepared the best food in Winnipeg. My father was always drunk, and if he couldn't get liquor he seemed to be as bad as when he had it."

An Unhappy Home

Mrs. Knight told a story of an unhappy home, marred by quarrels and brutality. Several times she had been in hospital after her husband had beat her.

"If your husband was always fighting, why didn't you leave him?" asked Crown Prosecutor O. M. M. Kay.

"I couldn't leave the children. I would rather suffer than leave my children."

Knight had been unemployed since last August and his wife had to keep roomers. Most of his unemployment insurance was spent on liquor, and at times he tried to get the children's allowance cheques for drink.

"I would put money away for rent, and he would take it and go out," said Mrs. Knight. "He always came home drunk. In the morning when he was sober he would be sorry."

Mrs. Knight, surrounded by friends, mostly women, left the court, thankful for the words of Mr. Justice Donovan.

"I realize you have suffered considerably," he told her. "I hope your troubles have ended."

15 NEW EARTHS EVERY CENTURY

Population Experts in Washington Figure Need Under Best Life Conditions

Washington, May 15 — (CP) — Establishment throughout the world of living and health conditions as good as the best in any country would bring such an increase in population that the equivalent of 15 new worlds would be required each 100 years to sustain it, according to the Washington Population Bureau of Experts.

This bureau, a non-profit making organization "for scientific educational purposes of gathering, correlating and distributing population data," has reached some staggering conclusions on subject.

If India's death rate, for instance, could be lowered to equal that of the United States, and the present birth rate continued, that country alone could populate five earths in a single century.

These conclusions are based upon the present-day figures of population increase and present-day levels of living standards and production.

About 75 per cent, of the world's people are suffering from want of the bare necessities for healthful living, yet their birth rate is so high that they are increasing twice as rapidly as the more fortunate 25 per cent

In India, the bulletin says, the population increased 50,000,000 between 1930 and 1940. Yet in India one of every four die before the second birthday, while in New Zealand, as an instance, only one of four die before the 58th birthday.

It estimates that China could export 6,000,000 people a year and still increase its population at the present birth rate. Japan, Russia and Italy also were included among the countries with swiftly increasing populations against high death rates.

Between 1900 and 1940 the population of the earth increased faster than in any other similar period in history. The annual increase was 19 per cent, higher than in the period from 1850 to 1900.

"Should the present global population continue to increase at the same rate that prevailed between 1900 and 1940," the bulletin concludes, "the earth would hold over 21,000,000,000 by the year 2240." In 1940 the earth's population was a little more than 2,000,000,000.

These data, the bulletin says "indicate that the solution of the population problem is basic to the solution of the problem of a healthful level of living for the earth's people.

"These data also may suggest that — in the absence of a practical program of world population limitation — atomic energy, industrialization, technology, and such forces would have to create or discover the equivalent of approximately 15 new earths every single century in order to free the people of the world from want."

Attempted Suicide Charged After Body Discovered

Toronto, May 15 — (CP)—Arrested after the body of an estranged mother of four children was found in an east-end home, James Ward, 42, was remanded in court Tuesday for one week on a charge of attempted suicide. Police said the body, that of Mrs. Margaret Marshall, 34, was discovered after they received a call early today to investigate a "suicide pact."

Police said Ward whose wife lives in Owen Sound, and Mrs. Marshall had occupied two upstairs rooms in the house and that Ward came downstairs at dawn and told his landlady Mrs. Marshall appeared to be dead.

Police added that in a statement to them Ward said he and the woman planned to take their lives and had turned on illuminating gas jets. He had regained consciousness, found the jets turned off and could not remember who had turned them off.

An autopsy to determine cause of death of the woman was ordered.

Mrs. Marshall was separated from her husband four years ago. She also is survived by the children, Joan, 14; John, 11; Caroline, 10, and George, six.

Ward, police said, is father of six children.

WILSON WINS DECISION

Los Angeles, May 15 — (AP)—California Jackie Wilson, 144, of Los Angeles, won a unanimous one-sided decision last night over Fritzie Zivic, 147, former world welterweight champion from Pittsburgh, in a 10-round bout before a capacity crowd of 10,400.

Wilson, whose state welterweight title was not at stake, used superior reach to keep the Pittsburgh veteran on the defensive most of the way. Zivic took a good beating on the head, but his clutching tactics kept him from serious danger.

CARRY 55,000 EGGS

Kansas City, May 15 (AP)—Don Turnbull, Secretary of the International Baby Chick Association, is worried about an air trip to Warsaw, Poland—a flight on which he will "chaperone" 55,000 hen eggs. A rough landing could cause quite an omelet, and a costly one, too. Each one of the eggs, consigned to Poland for incubation by the United Nations relief administration, is worth from 50 cents to $1.

Centenary

Mother's Day Service

Centenary — Special Mother's Day service was observed at the combined service of Sunday School and church on Sunday morning Four mothers took the service, Mrs. Edgar Ray gave the call to worship and led in prayer. Mrs. Fred Aikens gave a special Mother's Day reading which was inspiring to young and old alike. The scripture reading was given by Mrs. Reg. Edmondson. A story "In a Chinese Home," was told by Mrs. J. Kelley and showed what an influence for good the Christian home can be in world today, many heartaches and broken homes could be avoided, if parents would strive to live the Christian way of life.

Rev. Mr. McCallum paid tribute to Christian homes and family life and also to the founder of Mother's Day.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, and the service most appropriate for the baptismal service for two children.

"WHAT!
I CATCH ALLIGATORS FOR A LIVING?"

No wonder she is astonished at the idea. Yet, catching alligators has something to do with filling her pay envelope.

In a little tropical town, where the sun stands straight overhead at noon, alligator skins are a source of income. But while they can grow fine alligators, they cannot make paper. And in this far away town you will find Canadian paper being used for printing, wrapping and stationery . . just as it is in many other places throughout the world.

So the alligator skins are shipped to Canada to make belts and bags, and this provides dollars for the tropical country to buy paper from us.

That's why the little lady who types letters all day for the paper company is deeper into the alligator-catching business than she suspects. She's in the banana and pineapple business, too . . . and many others she never thinks about.

But then : : : so are YOU : : : for at least 35 cents out of every dollar you earn comes because Canada buys and sells goods in other countries. Stop and think what it means: Over one-third of your income — more than you spend on food for the family — comes from Canadian export and import trade.

HOW YOU CAN CREATE GOOD TIMES

Because foreign trade plays such a big part in your life; and makes jobs and wages for you . . . of course you will want to see it grow.

Therefore if you have to wait a while, because merchandise you want is being sold abroad . . . your patience will help. And if you happen to be helping to produce any article for foreign trade, put your best into it . . . for it is a little part of Canada. That will help, too.

* Everyone who buys or sells merchandise abroad makes jobs in Canada. That is why we have a Foreign Trade Service in the Department of Trade and Commerce. It maintains able trade commissioners in 26 countries, and an experienced export and import staff at head office, to collect the most up-to-date information on foreign markets and give practical help to every business that wishes to buy or sell in other countries.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

Track and field athletes of the district will converge on the Albert College field here on May 24 when the first COSSA meet since the war will get under way. Decision to hold the meet here was made at a recent meeting of the Bay of Quinte district of the COSSA representatives held under the chairmanship of N. A. "Pete" Beach of Albert College.

• • •

Present were Principal George Perkin, Picton Collegiate Institute; Secretary Moffatt, Tweed; Homer Townsend, Belleville Collegiate Institute; Mr. Beach, Albert College; Major Jim Rickaby, Ontario School for the Deaf; Miss McLaughlin, Napanee and M. Good of Stirling.

• • •

On June 8, Coach Pete Beach announced the other day, a full COSSA meet of this district will be held at Albert College, which is expected to attract upwards of 200 track and field athletes. This meet will start at 1 p. m. and will run through till the finals. Classes will include junior, intermediate and senior boys and girls.

• • •

Juniors in order to compete must be under 15 years of age as at May 1, intermediates under 17 and seniors under 20. A special dispensation was made to seniors whereby any senior having service in the armed forces will be eligible to compete regardless of age.

Following the May 24 meet at Albert, the day's activities will end with a banquet in the college dining room at which C. Douglas Monsson, Queen's University new athletic director will be the guest speaker.

The district COSSA meet here on June 8 will be the first since the war when all class champions were given two weeks free training at various summer camps sponsored by the Ontario Athletic Commission. Since that august body has not yet been re-organized, although there are possibilities that it will get under way in the near future, this year's champions from the 10 districts in the province will go without the annual two weeks summer tuition.

In brand-new post-war garb, the Canadian Secondary Schools Association, has been resurrected from its wartime dormancy under new management, it was learned from a highly authoritative source today.

Alex. Dewar, former secretary of the association, has been appointed head of the new Department of Physical Education at Western University, and the secretarial reins will be handled in the future by Dalton White.

• • •

Mr. J. Lyman Murray, principal of Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute has been named the new president of the CASA, and many new wrinkles have been introduced into the set-up.

• • •

For the first time in its history the Association will welcome into its fold Hamilton and Toronto secondary schools. Included will be the regulars, Toronto Suburban, the COSSA; WOSSA; NOSSA and EOSSA. A highlight of the new CASA regulations is that for the first time in its history it will organize Ontario playdowns for hockey, basketball and gymnastics. Rugby playdowns will be operated on an invitation basis.

• • •

Kingston Ponies got "gypped" so to speak out of their exhibition tilt on Sunday, but according to the Limestone City reports they saw a lot of 'beautiful scenery' and got in a strenuous workout at Loweville. Scheduled to play against the Watertown Athletics, the latter's manager ruled the ground was too rough, and the ex. joust was called off.

According to Senor Miguel Rodden of Kingston, Allan Kelleher, 17-year-old southpaw of this city, who is in training with the Ponies has something on the pellet. Writing in the Loweville workout, Miguel pens:

"Loweville fans were startled when they saw—or thought they saw—those speed balls hurled by Allan Kelleher and Frank Dyer, two of the youngest members of the Kingston team. Kelleher, who is just 17 but weighs 190 pounds, was "fogging" the horse-hide past bewildered batsmen and performing the feat with the greatest of ease.

Manager Lady is well fortified with baseball material, according to Rodden, but "is striving to strengthen the machine in various departments. Eighteen of the candidates have lived up to expectations, but who these athletes are is a secret known only to the wily pilot."

• • •

"Lefty" Whitman's Stewart Warners and "Moose" Matthews Trenton Flyers mingle in an exhibition tilt at the Alemite field tomorrow night. The first meeting between these squads was an eye-opener to early season railbirds, ending in a one-all tie after seven innings. The game starts at 6 bells and both managers will likely send all their available material into the fray in order to size up potential starters on the all-important opening date on May 24.

Monty Stratton Making Good On Comeback

Sherman, Tex., May 15 — (AP) — No one expects the big league clubs to send scouts down but for the information of the baseball public Monty Stratton is making good in his return to the game.

Monty is the former star pitcher of Chicago White Sox whose major league career was blasted on a day in 1938 when a hunting accident cost him his right leg.

The gangling Stratton has done some pitching since then but it wasn't until this year, when the class C East Texas League revived, that he entered professional ranks once more with Sherman.

Monty has won three and lost one. He has worked 36 innings—in other words, going the route in all games — given up 32 hits, struck out 25 and been touched for 10 earned runs. He pitched a one-hitter against Greenville.

FREDERICK VON SCHACT

WLADYSLAW TALUN

If you hear frenzied cries of "Timber" followed by a resounding crash like three tons of the coal you can't get, landing on the roof of a boiler factory, emanating from the Hume Arena on Friday night, don't think a battalion of inebriated lumberjacks have taken over the city. It will merely be one of those playful little cusses, Wladyslaw Talun, the Pestiferous Pole, or Frederick Von Schact, the Milwaukeean Mangler, tossing one another about the ring, or gently dangling the opposition from the pigeons' summer eyries in the rafters. Appropriately dubbed the "Battle of the Giants", the bout is just that in the literal sense of the word. "Vody" measures 6 feet 8 inches in his moccasins while Frederick stands 6: 5 in his bare tootsies. Their idea of victory is via the sharp, short route of villainous strategy. Patrons in the ringside seats will have to be on their toes, in every sense of the word, because when one of these elongated pachyderms assumes a horizontal position he stretches from the Arena doors to the "bull-pen" near Dundas Street. There won't be any bedtime stories exchanged between the two, and the faithful should come prepared to see one of the roughest, toughest exhibitions of their sight-seeing careers. In the semi-final Pat Sharpe, one of two up-and-coming wrestling brothers, will meet Jan Gotch, while Brother Pat Sharpe will try to induce that old perennial, Bunny Dunlop, to say "uncle" in the preliminary. Tickets are on sale at Cook's Tobacco Store. First bout at 8.45 D.S.T.

HORSE TO WATCH IN KING'S PLATE IS BLUE SWEEP

Owned by Late Harry Hatch and Wintered in Florida and Kentucky

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, May 15. (CP)—The horse to watch in the King's Plate ten days hence, so they'll tell you in the chill halflight of these early mornings out at old Woodbine Park on Toronto's lakeshore, is the Hatch Stable's Blue Sweep, brown son of Sweepster.

Not only that, but the double-blue of the late Harry C. Hatch could, as it has done before, finish one-two in this richest of Canadian horse races because there is the maiden Hatch colt, Palermo, to be considered well up in the lists.

They are half-brothers, both brown, both fast and both by the same daddy, a great sire for the Hatch stable—Uttermost—which won the 86th Plate renewal one year ago in the record time of 1.52 4-5.

Palermo did a mile in 1.42 2-5 in his latest workout.

He led Blue Sweep by three lengths at the end of the swing of Woodbine track and set railbirds to thinking even though most horsemen agree that Blue Sweep, of the two, is much the more improved three-year-old. The two went the plate distance of a mile and a furlong in 1.58 2-5.

This was Blue Sweep's first workout over Woodbine this year after a good winter in Florida and some fine work at Churchill Downs. From the barns came the word, "Blue Sweep looks good."

Arrival of Charlie Turner's David T which wintered in Florida brought King's Plate candidates to full strength at Woodbine —26, considerably fewer than the 49 eligibles as at last Nov. 15 and a number that probably will be further reduced when it comes time to lay the $100 starting fee on the line.

The King's Plate trial Saturday—opening day—at six furlongs is open to all plate eligibles and should give some indication of those horses with fast early foot.

New York, May 15. U.S. WILL TRY TO RECAPTURE THE DAVIS CUP

Tennis Trophy Has Not Been in Possession of U. S. Since 1939

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

New York, May 15 — (AP) — A Davis Cup team composed of Frank Parker, Ted Schroeder, Billy Talbert and Gardnar Mulloy will carry the hopes of the United States into the drive to recapture the International tennis trophy, lost to Australia in 1939.

Headed by non-playing Captain Walter L. Pate, this quartet was selected to meet a squad from the Philippine Islands on the Triple A Club courts at St. Louis, June 14-16, in the first round of play in the North American Zone.

A notable absentee in this 1st-round lineup is Jack Kramer, member of the 1939 squad, who played in the all-England championships at Wimbledon June 26-July 7 and won't be around for Davis Cup competition until after the opening match.

His departure leaves Parker as the only player with Davis Cup experience on the team for the Philippine tie. The California ex-sergeant No. 1 in the present National rankings and holder of the National singles crown, was a member of the team which wrested the trophy from Great Britain in 1937 and the one which lost it to Australia in 1939.

While the United States and Philippines clash at St. Louis, Canada and Mexico will meet at Montreal in the other first round match of North American play and the winners will meet early in July for the right to play New Zealand, lone entrant from the Pacific zone.

Pate said that if Canada and the United States win their opening matches, the second round would be played in Montreal "because the Canadians want us to come up there."

If Mexico and the United States win, they probably will play their second round match at the Allegheny Country Club at Sewickley, Pa., a suburb of Pittsburgh, Pate said.

Buying Spree Not Yet Over For the Phillies

Philadelphia, May 15 — (AP)—The buying spree of Philadelphia Phillies is not over, says owner-president Robert M. Carpenter, "as long as we're still in the cellar."

Carpenter told a reporter he is convinced the Blue Jays need only good pitching to climb out of last place in the National League.

"We have gone a long way and I think we have put together a pretty good club. The pitching has been a disappointment. Now we must strengthen that department. It isn't going to be easy. Pitchers don't grow on bushes — but we are going to keep on trying to get some consistent hurlers.

"Our hitting is okay and our fielding is pretty good too. We make enough runs to win 50 per cent of our games if our pitchers would do their part."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

LESSON NO. 987
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

every happy life, some rain fall. With every good bridge a few spots may not be fully ed. Expect this with the 12,599,600 different hands in k of cards.

ke it a rule that a singleton is undesirable. It may be when no better lead is able. A better lead is a top om a long suit unhampered don't.

ainst a suit contrast, a long is stymied if it contains an ace or a king. A long is fettered by a don't if it been bid by the opponents. en then a singleton lead is o hot without the trump ace ne or two more. Or without rump king and two more. is in case declarer takes the ton and starts pumping ps.

a singleton lead is bad, what about the lead of a singleton ace? The lead of an ace is in the group known as tops, the first choice of leads. So, it is one of the preferred leads.

There also comes a time when you have no choice that seems to be permissible by rule. I am speaking of a hand in which there is no lead that seems even remotely choosey.

Take the case where opponents have reached a contract of four spades and it is your lead from this hand:

♠ 8 5 3
♦ 8 5 3 2
♣ 8 6 5 3 2

You may be called upon to lead from such a hand about once in a lifetime. With your holding, others will no doubt bid all suits before deciding on trumps. Must you have a rule for such a lead?

You shuffle the cards and lead them in song. Or you could throw rules and caution to the wind and lead your singleton. In any case, it is a desperation lead.

When you lead in desperation, be prepared for what may come. If it wins, you are a hero. If it fails, you are a bum.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, May 15 (AP)—If you think the United Nations has international complications, you should know Carmen Miranda.

For the first time in six years, the little gal with the fruit salad on top is going back to Rio De Janeiro next February. She is wondering what the outcome will be.

"I was born in Portugal," she said on the "You're For Me" set, "but the people in Brazil say I belong to them."

"And even though I leave Portugal when I am three months old, the Portuguese love me too. I love them both but I would rather live here in California."

Carmen has been trying to get to Brazil for two years. "Once I even have the tickets," she said. "Then my agents, he tells me a wonderful trip to New York. Wonderful trip! I do five shows a day and seven on the week-end. Then I get ready to leave again and he says I must come to California—my house is in troubles. So I come home and what do I find?—a sensational script. So I make another picture."

Hollywood is coming to your town. At least Hollywood in miniature. That's the name of a $250,000 exhibit which will open in New York and later tour U. S. cities. For the first time, non-visitors will be able to see what the town is really like.

An organization headed by producer Don Hartman employed 50 technicians, engineers, artists and workmen for 3 1-2 years to create the six miniatures. The scenes depict Malibu Beach, Hollywood Bowl, Brown Derby, Grauman's Chinese, a typical studio and Central Hollywood.

Thousands of photographs were taken to reproduce the scenes precisely. Every tree, lamppost and sign is shown.

Alan Mowbray confessed on the "My Darling Clementine" set he hasn't seen himself on the screen in 12 years. "I gave it up," he said, "because I'd feel so bad about my performance that I'd go home and get drunk. Then I'd get morose. Why should I go to see if I have a double chin or bags under my eyes? The only time I want to look at myself is when I shave."

ALEX CAMPANIS HITS HOMER TO DEFEAT CHIEFS

Montreal Royals All Alone at Top of International League by Victory

(By The Associated Press)

Because Alex Campanis chose an opportune moment to belt his first home run of the year, Montreal Royals are alone in first place in the International League standings today.

Campanis cracked southpaw Jim Prendergast of Syracuse Chiefs for a four-run homer in the fourth inning yesterday to account for all of Montreal's markers in a 4-1 triumph. The victory moved the Royals one game ahead of the Chiefs who dropped to second.

Cy Buker went the distance for Montreal and gave up only four hits but was in trouble a number of times, issuing seven walks.

Rain caused the postponement of the Jersey City - Buffalo and the Baltimore - Toronto games. Rochester Red Wings and Newark Bears played their scheduled contest with the Wings nosing out the Bears, 3-2.

Newark jumped into the lead with two runs in the initial stanza but the Wings came back with three in the third to gain the decision. Bud Byerly went the route for Rochester, allowing only five hits and Duane Pillette hurled the complete game for the Bears, giving up seven safeties and passing nine batters.

Eddie Joost, Rochester shortstop and the loop's individual leading batter at the beginning of the week, had his consecutive game hitting streak of 15 stopped by Pillette. Joost failed to hit in three official trips to the plate.

Sports Roundup

(By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.)

New York, May 14. (AP)—Bob Feller is just one of the no-hit pitchers this season. . .For example:. . .Bill Fuchs, manager of Deland in the Florida State League tossed a no-hitter against St. Augustine recently and lost it 6-5. Fuchs usually plays the outfield and his wildness, plus errors, gave the Saints their runs. . . Earlier the same evening Ketterlinus High School of St. Augustine didn't get a hit but whipped Bolles Military School of Jacksonville, 3-0. . . In Boston Don Tomsick pitched no-hit ball for 8 2-3 innings and had a 3-2 count on the last man. Then he blew and lost the game 5-4 in the 11th. . . In the opening game of the North Carolina State League Ray Lindsey of Lexington retired 26 men without a hit and had two strikes on the 27th before Thomasville's Tom Feola cracked a single. Lindsey was luckier. He won 6-0.

New York, May 13. (AP)—If Britain's Bruce Woodcock should whip "His Lordship Tami Mauriello"—title invented by manager "Sir Lefty" Remini—next Friday, you can look for a flood of British boxing importations under the guidance of Tom Hurst.

It took Woodcock just 21 pro fights to win the British and Empire heavyweight titles and immediately Manager Hurst was besieged by aspiring amateurs who wanted to do the same thing. . . Tom accepted only a few because, he explains, "In England if an amateur even talks to a professional manager he goes on a blacklist and doesn't get a chance to fight."

Another drawback Hurst has found is that after Bruce became champion, the British Boxing Board of Control began ruling out proposed fights as being too uneven . . . "What would they say if the boy came over here and lost because he didn't know something he might have learned in one of those fights?" Tom demands . . .Heck what would they say if Bruce should knock Tami stiff?

I'LL WAIT FOR YOU

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

Chapter 26

Turning down a dark street, she thought: There's one other person I know who is alone as I am tonight and probably talking to himself, reasoning with himself...Alan...Had he looked into himself? Where was he? Dick had been furtive about Alan's plans. He had said, "He wants to go away and try to forget the whole thing." Alan, so young once, the Alan who had worn a shabby sweater to school, who had danced badly and whose goal, he had thought then, could be reached by the clear, certain line of hard work and honesty...

She circled the apartment hotel twice before she went in, blinking a little at the lights after the darkness, and walked straight to the empty elevator. But when she heard a voice calling her name, she stepped off and look wonderingly about the lobby. Then Alan was hurrying across to her, oblivious of the stares of passing people. He wore a dark suit and a rather rumpled white shirt, and was carrying his hat. The sun of some tropical place had burned his face to a deep brown which accentuated the intense blueness of his eyes and his fair hair. Realizing that his voice had broken in on the discreet murmurs of those in the lobby, he smiled self-consciously when he reached her.

She did not know what had brought him but she knew now that he was here he was embarrassed and that probably he was asking himself why he had come. To thank her, or because in all of New York he knew no one else who would see him tonight? She knew, too, that in one swift glance he had seen that she was changed, that her boyish black felt hat and tailored black coat were not the sort of clothes with which, if he thought of her at all, he would associate her.

She said pleasantly, "Alan — you're back! Let me guess.... Was it Florida or Cuba or...."

"Cuba. Havana is quite a place, isn't it?"

"Quite. There's a sitting room on the next floor. Shall we...."

They walked up to the sitting room, a large room unoccupied except for an elderly lady speaking softly but rapidly to a young girl. Edwina sat on the red sofa and Alan sat beside her, and when he held a match for her cigarette and she looked at him, she saw that craftiness and scheming had gone from his face. He had suffered, he had probably cried as men cry alone, and he looked older.

As she pulled off the tight hat and shook her hair loose, she thought: We meet as equals for the first time, Alan. Like people who are cold and come together for warmth, or just as two lonely human beings....

"Have you heard from Carol, Edwina?"

"Several times. She and Norman are in Hawaii. They were married here."

He glanced away and said, "You don't have to be gentle about it. I'd be lying if I said I didn't care but I'd also be lying if I tried to give a picture of myself as a brokenhearted suitor. I'm not. The repair job on me was big I haven't thought of much else. What about you?"

She shrugged and smiled. "This is it. I have a job and a home. What have I to complain about?"

He looked at her steadily. "A lot. You haven't much of a job and not much money, and this red plush doesn't make much of a home."

"Sympathizing with me, Alan?"

"No. Understanding you. We're both in the same spot, aren't we? I came back from Havana about a week ago and then went west to see a former classmate. I have a job out there. It isn't much but it's a job with possibilities. I'm on my way back to Newton to close my office there and have the furniture in the apartment shipped. I wanted to see you before I left because....well, to make sure I wasn't leaving an enemy...."

She smiled. "We're not insulting each other as we usually do, are we?" She shook her head. "I'm not your enemy, Alan. I never have been. I tried to tell you that this summer and you wouldn't listen. I'm the girl who broke the straight line of your life. I got between you and the goal post. And now you're breaking the line more by running away from Newton and from everything you've worked for. You're running away! Don't you know that?"

He looked down and nodded. "I can't go back. I'd -- I'd feel that every one knew."

Edwina was silent for a moment; her eyes were misty with tears. When she looked again at Alan, his eyes were still lowered.

"You're throwing away good years and good work and opportunity, Alan," she said. "And now you want to hide. Don't do it, Alan. Suppose you do have to grit your teeth to get back your confidence and face the people in Newton again. Do it! Don't run to the easiest job in a place where nobody knows you. You can't runaway from shame. You have to live with it and fight with it until you live it down. It's like paying off a big debt.

"You have friends in Newton— Amy and Dr. Tallant and Mr. Hartley. They didn't let you down. And you're still the young hopeful. Make the line straight again, Alan. Get back on it."

"You think I'm a coward?" Alan looked straight at her now. "Don't you think I've thought of all those things? Newton is my town and I've forfeited the right to live there and work there and watch it grow and be a part of its growth. I'd never cheat it again. It's a homely little town, the place your father settled in when he came from Ireland. It's a town where you know the first name of the boy who puts gas in your car and the man who delivers your mail, the man on the street."

He closed his eyes and bit into his lips. After a second he glanced up and said with a smile, "I haven't had any dinner. Do you know a place...."

Edwina smiled. "I know a place where there's good wine and music and spaghetti and where everybody calls the proprietor Poppa...."

"Then let's go. I haven't much time. I want to get the train to Newton tonight. I have my baggage checked at the station." His sudden laugh, rich, warm and sincere, seemed to fill the room. "I've never taken a girl out to dinner in New York, Edwina.."

"Odd that you should be taking me," she thought. "Odd that I should be going with you and glad to be with you and anticipating it as if it were a really important occasion...."

The portly Italian proprietor recognized her and bowed her and Alan to a table covered with a red and white checkered cloth. On it was a decanter of wine. The place was most deserted at this hour and the three musicians seemed to be playing exclusively for her and Alan. Presently the smoke from their cigarettes hovered about them as if to hear what they were saying....

Holding her small, still tanned hands on the table, Edwina said, "If you'll go back to Newton to stay, Alan, I'll go back with you...."

The words surprised her although the moment they were said they released a flood of thoughts.... "Now I know! That's what I really want — to go back with Alan, to help him, to go home where I belong....."

His eyes narrowed. "You mean......"

"Yes." She grinnned her gamin grin and suddenly felt absurdly young and shy. "It's leap year, you know." And because all at once this had become the most important thing in the world, she leaned forward and continued, "Don't you see? It's the 'right' thing for both of us to do! Maybe we can't be romantic like Carol and Norman but we're two of a kind, Alan. We've made mistakes and we're sorry and there's a job to do in Newton, your job, and I'd like to help..... You can't run away. I won't let you. We won't speak of love....."

His voice was low. "And why shouldn't we, Edwina? You never knew how crazy I was about you five years ago, how scared and angry. The minute I'd admit it, I'd deny it. There were so many good reasons for not loving you -- your money the principal reason."

"You'e getting me all mixed up."

His eyes were steady. "I'm not mixed up now. I know how wonderful you are, and now I don't feel good enough for you. I want to go home and I'll grit my teeth to get back my self-confidence, and work hard and honestly. And someday we'll probably both realize that we've been in love for five years and it's influenced everything we've done. A psychologist could explain it to us but I don't think we need him, do you?"

"We don't need anybody, Alan." The wine made her feel light-headed and sentimental and the music quietly plucked the strings of her heart. She thought: I'm going to cry like a schoolgirl any mintute. Edwina Burke, who has done everything and seen everything, is going to cry because she's safe and happy at last and she isn't going to be alone. Jock Aldridge would say I'd gone soft, but I like the feeling. It's warm and confortable, like coming in to a fire after the cold. And Alan, so serious still, who looks at me as if I can answer all his questions....

His smile was excited. "Well! We....What do you want to do, Edwina?"

They were like shy children, she thought. "You might ask me to marry you this time...."

"Will you marry me? Sorry there are no roses and moonlight, but it doesn't matter to me. I can't think of a cozier place, place, and we couldn't wish for better music for the occasion." His large hand, browner than hers, covered her tightly clasped hands. "I'll never let you down.. And if I seem to hesitate for nice things to say, it's because, well.... I've said most of them to Carol and I don't want any second-hand words for you — they'd sound hollow now. Besides, I can't express my feelings very well. It's difficult to explain happiness. You're just happy, that's all....."

She drew in her lips, "I'll marry you, Alan, and I—Isee Poppa coming with your spagehitti and my coffee. You must be starving. you eat and I'll listen to the music...."

When Poppa left, she said, "Let's not be sensible for a couple of days. Let's go some place where we can be married tomorrow. I know a hotel in New England on a lake. It's beautiful there at this time of the year and there are not many people there. Let's go there before we go home. Shall I go on?"

Alan nodded happily.

"Well....I'd like a house. I detest apartments. I'd like a small white house with a garden. I want children. And since I'm in such good favor in Newton now, I'll be qute an asset to you if you go into politics. I'll join clubs and make campaign speeches. A very busy little wife....We'll swim at the quarry and dance at the club and let everybody see us and talk about us until they find somebody else to talk about. I don't think Amy will be at all surprised....My life will be full and useful. I'll be needed and loved. And perhaps someday after we've worked very hard and we've done a good job, we'll buy back the big house, and dad's picture will be above the fireplace in the drawing room again. Outline of life, Alan. Do I sound sensible and reasonable?"

"Very. And about the few days in New England, too. I've never been there. You'll have to tell me about the places you've visited. But now...I'll get my baggage from the station and go to a hotel and call for you at daybreak..."

"And neither of us will sleep. And tomorrow I'll send a telegram to my office telling I'm resigning to take a better position. And we'll send a telegram to Amy and maybe we'll be extravagant and send a cable to Carol and Norman. I though they had everything, and I was glad for them. But they haven't. We have it, too, Alan. Shall we go? Let's walk until we're tired. I was out walking tonight and I was lonely. I was talking to myself and trying not to be sorry for myself. Now I can talk t oyou and you to me. Let's not have any secrets. Let's share good and bad. Let's work hard and play hard and...."

"And when we're in New York always come here...."

On the street, she put her arm through his and knew by the look he gave her that her gesture of intimacy so touched him htat for a time he couldn't say anything. But as they walked, looked ahead, she felt that their thoughts were in harmony, that his hopes, his gratitude and his excitement equalled hers, and that her words had pictured for him a life for which he was as eager as she. They looked like small-town honeymoooners, the fair, strongly-made, sunburned boy, and the girl dressed plainly, her arm possessively through his. But you could not help a strong desire to possess, she thought. The lonely human heart cried for something or someone to love and the framework around which to build a solid life structure.

Quite without realizing it, they walked to the station.

Pausing on the sidewalk, Edwina said, "I'll wait for you," and without a word he took her arms and kissed her mouth hard and left her and went inside.

"I'll wait for you," she had said....That's what women always said. No matter how tired or how busy or how hurt or how ill, they always said. "I'll wait for you," and from that promise came patience and courage. Smiling, she thought; It's all so simple when you know. But you are not born knowing and you won't listen to the people who have learned....

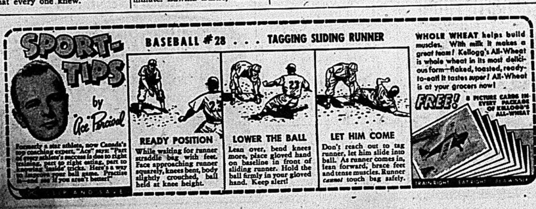
Miss Katherine Crawford of Peterborough, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Crawford.

A combined choir of the senior and junior choirs of St. Andrew's United Church functioned at the morning service at that place of worship on Sunday. An appropriate Mother's Day service was carried out and a special message was given by Rev. E. M. Cadigan.



SPORT-TIPS by "Ace" Percival

Formerly a star athlete, now Canada's top coaching expert, "Ace" says: "Part of every athlete's success is due to right training, part to right eating, part to knowing 'inside' tricks. Here's a way to improve your ball game. Practise it—and see if you aren't better!"

BASEBALL #28 . . . TAGGING SLIDING RUNNER

READY POSITION
While waiting for runner straddle bag with feet. Face approaching runner squarely, knees bent, body slightly crouched, ball held at knee height.

LOWER THE BALL
Lean over, bend knees more, place gloved hand on baseline in front of sliding runner. Hold the ball firmly in your gloved hand. Keep alert!

LET HIM COME
Don't reach out to tag runner, let him slide into ball. As runner comes in, lean forward, brace feet and tense muscles. Runner cannot touch bag safely.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, May 15. (CP)—Cattle trade was very dull up to mid-session on the livestock market here today with sales too few to establish a market trend. Veal calves were firm, hogs and sheep steady. A few spring lambs brought $18 cwt.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle, 150, calves 400, hogs 300, sheep and lambs 30.

Unsold from yesterday were 780 head of cattle.

Prices in the trade included: Cattle:—A few weighty steers $11.75 to $12.75, butcher steers and heifers $11.50 to $12, butcher cows $8 to $10.50, bulls $8.50 to $10.50, bulls $8.50 to $11, fed yearlings $11.50 to $13.

Calves—$16 to $16.50 choice, plain light vealers downward to $10.

Sheep—$4 to $16.

Hogs—Dressed, Grade A $20.15 to $20.25, Grade B1 $10.75 to $19.85, sows mostly $17.

NEW YORK STOCK

New York, May 15. (AP)—Stock Market pivotals generally turned lower today for the third consecutive session.

Despite slightly brighter prospects for settling the railroad controversy, carriers joined the group of retreaters after early steadiness. Plus marks were mainly in a minority although pleasing profits and dividends helped out in some cases.

On the big board at noon Hiram Walker was up 1 1-2 at 128 1-2, Canadian Pacific off 1-8 at 18 5-8, International Nickel down 1-2 at 39 1-4 while Distillers Seagram at 110 and Dome Mines 63 1-2 were unchanged.

HOGS

Toronto, May 15. (CP)—Grade A, dressed, bacon-hogs, were up 25 cents cwt, at Peterborough $18.40 plus transportation; up 25 cents at Barrie $20 delivered; up 15 cents at Brantford $19.65 plus transportation, in markets reporting early today. Stratford reported the market unsettled with no quotations established.

3 New Members Initiated Into Kiwanis Club

Three new members, Robert Chadwick, Everett Fairman and George Barnes all veterans of the Second Great War were initiated into Kiwanis at the weekly luncheon held on Tuesday at the Quinte Hotel. The three were introduced respectively by Aubrey Coe, Taylor Franklin and Lorne McDougall and were initiated by Cliff Baragar in his usual capable manner. The members were also treated to a splendid address by Walter J. Evans, superintendent of the G. H. Woods Company on the subject "You Can if You Think You Can." He was introduced by Leonard Reid and Kiwanis appreciation was expressed by Norman Edwards.

Mr. Evans in opening his address asked the question "where are we going?" and stated he believed we were following the line of least resistance but the darkest hour was always before dawn but he was sure there would be leaders and these leaders come to the top because a leader never quits but a quitter never leads. He showed why one man was more successful than another because the speaker said "he begins" and quoted an old axiom: Begin and the job is half done; begin again and the job is done. Mr. Evans believes that everyone should have an objective and do all the little jobs well and we must sell ourselves to all with whom we come in contact.

The speaker gave three means by which a man could succeed, first by the presentation of his subject, second by the enthusiasm shown and thirdly by the promise. In the presentation of the subject it is only marketing the goods that you have to offer and enthusiasm is shown in the tone of voice used. Some very graphic descriptions were given to bring out the point enunciated and the address was most inspiring and instructive.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

Toronto, May 15.. (CP)— The Mining groups and the Industrials were narrowly higher on the stock exchange at noon and the Western Oils weakened .14. Volume was comparatively small at 643,000 shares for the first three hours.

Sherritt-Gordon provided the fireworks around mid-day as it climbed about 25 cents or more to $2.39 on a report that International Nickel had made an offer for Sherritt's Copper properties as well as for claims held by God's Lake. God's Lake moved up to 79 cents in active trading.

The Papers, and Foods were lower generally.

MONTREAL LIVESTOCK EXCHANGE

Montreal, May 15. (CP)—Prices were steady today on the Livestock markets. Receipts: Cattle 29, hogs 29, calves 59.

Heifers raged from $7.50 to $12. Good butcher cows were $9.75 to $10.50. Medium kinds were $8.50 to $9.50 and common were $7 up. Canners and cutters were $6.75 down. Good bulls were $10-$11 and bologna bulls $8 up.

Better quality veal calves were $15. Bulk of the calves ranged between $13 to $14 for mixed lots of common to just fair quality. Hogs were $20.25 to $20.75 for Grade "A". Sows were $18.50 to $19 dressed.

BILL TO GUARANTEE

Superceded Act.

Arthur Smith (PC-Calgary West) said the re-instatement regulations outlined in the order-in-council superceded the 1942 act, yet the bill was making them part of the act. This made interpretation practically impossible. Among those supporting his arguments were some of his party colleagues, David Croll (L-Toronto Spadina) and Clarence Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South).

The Citizenship Bill, subject of debate during more than a dozen sittings of the House, still has to be given third reading by the Commons before it is sent to the Senate for three readings and royal assent.

Once the clause-by-clause study was completed, the Commons:—

1. Heard Reconstruction Minister Howe state that the government plans to operate indefinitely Polymer Corporation, the Crown-owned synthetic rubber plant, Canadian Arsenals Limited, and the Eldorado Mining and Refining Company, source of one of the world's largest supplies of uranium.

2. Gave third reading to a bill giving government approval to certain works constructed on navigable waters.

3. Gave third reading to a bill making it compulsory for weight to be shown on bags containing feed for livestock.

4. Gave third reading to a bill permitting more than one racing association to hold trotting and pacing meetings at the same race track.

Can Take Game Home

5. Gave third reading to the Export Act to permit non-resident sportsmen to take home wild turkeys, quail, partridge, prairie fowl and woodcock.

6. Gave third reading to an Act to amend the Yukon Quartz Mining Act to increase the number of claims any one miner may stake.

7. Gave second reading to a bill to amend the Yukon Placer Mining Act to protect servicemen from forfeiture for non-performance of work on mining claims and to strengthen controls against smuggling of gold out of the Yukon Territory.

8. Second reading was given a bill redefining the boundaries of the Banff and Kootenay parks in the Rockies, the Riding Mountain Park in Manitoba, the Point Pelee Park in Ontario, the Georgian Bay Island Park and some of the St. Lawrence River island parks.

In the Senate, Senator J. W. Farris (L — British Columbia) appealed to the Upper House to kill a bill which would change Dominion Day to Canada Day.

The Citizenship bill, withdrawn at the last session, will when proclaimed:—

1. Establish and recognize Canadian citizenship. Formerly, the only definition of citizenship was found in the Immigration Act. In future all Canadian passports will carry the words 'Canadian Citizen.'

Can Decide Own Nationality.

2. Women will be given the right to decide their own nationality. Previously, women have automatically assumed the nationality of their husbands. A Canadian woman who marries a man of another nationality now will be able to retain Canadian citizenship if she wishes.

3. Women who marry Canadians will qualify for Canadian citizenship one year after establishing residence.

4. A native-born Canadian, a British subject domiciled in Canada, brides of Canadian servicemen and all those now who possess naturalization certificates will be declared Canadian citizens immediately upon proclamation.

5. Non-Canadians who have served in the Canadian armed forces outside Canada will qualify for citizenship after one year of such service.

6. The bill will maintain the status of British subject, with the advantage that Canadian citizenship papers will be supplied upon request after the legal period of residence — five years. Once in possession of citizenship papers, they will have the right of entry into Canada and the right of Canadian diplomatic protection.

7. Naturalized Canadians will lose their citizenship if they remain out of the Dominion for six years or more without declaring intention to remain Canadians by an official endorsement on a passport or certificate of citizenship.

Operate Three Companies.

Mr. Howe, speaking on a resolution to a bill to provide for the normal business incorporation of Crown companies, said the government planned to operate three companies indefinitely and two others for a period of three or four years.

Wartime Housing Limited and Park Steamships Company would wind up operations within the next three or four years. The Polymer Corporation, Canadian Arsenals Limited, and the Eldorado Mine would be operated indefinitely as Crown companies.

The government had no intention of going into business "unnecessarily."

SNOW WHITE AND HER TAR BABY

It happens pretty frequently in the equine world, but it is still a source of wonder to the layman when a snow white mare gives birth to a coal black baby. This one was born in Toledo to the white mare owned by Dr. and Mrs. Murray Goodrich. Seeking a name for the youngster, the Goodrichs discarded "Black Beauty" and "Coal-dust" as too obvious. They finally decided on "Paytax" to commemorate a history-making vote in Toledo.

LITTLE USE CALLING EXPERTS

Ottawa, May 15 —(CP)— Senator Rupert Davies, (L-Ontario) told the flag committee yesterday there was little use in calling in experts to decide on a design for a distinctive Canadian flag when some members already had expressed their choice.

Walter Harris (L-Grey said he didn't think any arising in the committee in any way be made to caucus approval. He thou committee should cut it tion before asking expert press opinions.

27 KILLED IN PLANE CRASH AT RICHMOND, VA.

Russ Agents Tried To Get Information From Two Colonels

Former Russian Ambassador Not Member of the Network

Ottawa, May 16 — (CP)—Russian agents tried to get information from two colonels at National Defence Headquarters, it was indicated today in the Ontario Supreme Court trial of Edward Mazerall, 30, former National Research Council engineer on a charge of conspiracy.

Igor Gouzenko, former cipher clerk at the Russian Embassy, testified that the cover names 'Jack' and 'Dick' on Russian documents in court represented two colonels. They were not named.

A document indicated they were given cover names in a stage of trying to develop them as agents but Gouzenko indicated there was nothing to show they had given any information or that they went beyond the "development" stage.

Gouzenko said former Russian Ambassador Zaroubin — whose code name was "master of metro" — was not a member of the Russian network or military agents that worked under Col. Nicolai Zabotin, former military attache at the Embassy.

The former cipher clerk for Zabotin said Zaroubin might have been an agent under another system of agents working for N. K. V. D., the Russian secret service police, with the Embassy as headquarters. He again mentioned Pavlov, second secretary, as head of this second network.

Agent in Montreal.

Received Report

Gouzenko said he had taken a telegram from the Embassy last Sept. 5 which showed that Zaroubin received from Zabotin a report concerning Canadian-British relations. Kathleen Willsher, now in prison, gave it to the Zabotin network from the office of the British High Commissioner where she was deputy registrar.

Defence lawyer R. A. Hughes asked the witness if he knew the men whose cover names were "Jack" and "Dick" — two new ones.

Gouzenko said he didn't know whether they were agents. In a stage of developing contacts with prospective agents, cover names were generally given. That had happened in this case.

Mr. Hughes showed him a document dated 5-11-45. It was a request for information about "Dick" and "Jack."

It asked for such information as their attitude towards "the politics of King," towards Russia, towards future Canadian relations with Britain and America, their temperament, the political views and the attitudes of their wives.

Filled in Questionnaire

T. Col. Motinov, former assistant military attache, filling in this questionnaire for Moscow, has replied that one of them was French and one English. The latter was married to a French girl and did not want to offend her in talking about certain religious matters, apparently with a Russian contact agent.

Both held "responsible jobs," the document said and Gouzenko said they worked at "general headquarters" in Ottawa. They had not wanted to divulge military secrets so, Motinov had reported, conversations had to be on general topics.

Mr. Hughes: "Dick and Jack held the rank of colonel at headquarters?"

Gouzenko: "Yes."

Mr. Hughes: "Who is 'Gini?' "

"He is an agent who worked in Montreal."

"What's his name?"

"I don't know. There were no documents in which his real and cover name were together."

Earlier, Gouzenko had said his own cover name was "Klark." All members of the military attache's staff had cover names as a matter of course."

"Who is Galya?" Hughes asked.

EARTHQUAKE REGISTERED

Seattle, May 16 —(CP)— Seismologists were working today in an attempt to find the epicentre of a "fairly heavy" earthquake which registered on University of Washington instruments here late yesterday.

Origin of the quake was not immediately determined but university scientists said they believed it was centred far out in the Pacific.

Scotland Yard Inspector Flies To Canada

London, May 16 — (CP Cable) — Scotland Yard announced today that Inspector W. Whitehead of the social branch left by air for Canada yesterday.

The London Evening Telegraph reported earlier that the inspector, who arrested Dr. Alan Nunn May, British physicist recently convicted of violating the Official Secrets Act, would hand over to Dominion authorities details of his investigations of activities in Britain of a secret agent "thought to be a woman."

In Canada he would work with R.C.M.P. "in their investigations into alleged leakages of atomic secrets to a foreign power," the newspaper reported.

Ottawa, May 16 — (CP)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police officials here said today that Inspector W. Whitehead of Scotland Yard had arrived in Canada to appear as a witness at the Montreal trial of Fred Rose, Labor Progressive Member of Parliament for Montreal Cartier charged with espionage activities.

Inspector Whitehead was described as "shy of the press" and no indication was given as to whether he was here or in Montreal today. It was understood however that Inspector Whitehead, who arrested Dr. Alan Nunn May, British scientist recently convicted in London of violating the Official Secrets Act, would appear as a witness in Montreal Monday.

An official said that Inspector Whitehead had no other purpose than to appear as a witness and when he had given his testimony he would return to London.

Foreign Minister, Shigeru Yashida, Named Premier

Tokyo, May 16 (AP)—Foreign Minister Shigeru Yoshida, old-school Conservative once imprisoned as a peace-monger in war-bent Japan, today was named premier to succeed another Conservative, Baron Shidehara. He began at once to select his cabinet.

He had withheld acceptance of the post throughout several days' negotiations, while soliciting cooperation in the new, many-party Diet which today took its first half-step toward organization.

Despite specific clearance from Gen. MacArthur, and a record of wartime confinement by Japanese militarists, Yoshida has "black clouds" in his past, Communist Diet representative Sanni Nozaka asserted. Several hundred union laborers demonstrated today against a "Shidehara - Yoshida" coalition.

APPEASING RUSSIA DANGER TO PEACE SAYS PREM. DREW

Asserts Red Aggression Following the Same Methods Formerly Used by Nazis

Cleveland, May 16 —(CP)— Premier Drew of Ontario said today that appeasement of Russia is leading to a war more destructive than ever before and called on the United States and Great Britain to take a firm stand for the principles of freedom which are their common heritage so "the whole world, including the people of Russia, can live in peace and freedom."

In an address prepared for delivery to the National Credit Association of the U. S., the Ontario Premier asserted that appeasement of Japan, Italy and Germany led to the Second Great War and added:—

"The one sure way to bring war again is to permit aggression to advance unchecked until the aggressor finally carries his aggressions to a nation so large and of so much concern to the rest of the world that war comes from the compelling necessity of self-preservation. . . . We know that appeasement has gone far past the point of Munich. We know that Russian aggression is following precisely the same methods which were employed by Germany before the outbreak of war."

Speaks as Citizen.

The Ontario Premier, emphasizing that he spoke only as an individual Canadian and not in any official capacity, said: "War can still be avoided. The issue is still in the hands of the people themselves in those lands where freedom of speech makes it possible for the warnings of free people to be heard. No other subject calls for discussion so much as this basic question upon which all security rests."

Before the outbreak of war in 1939 the issue of peace or war rested with seven great powers. It was simpler today as it rested with three — Russia, Britain and the United States. If historians were wrong and appeasement had nothing to do with the causes of the last war "then we have no reason for concern."

"But if our historians were right . . . then every man, woman and child throughout the world should be deeply concerned about Russian aggression and should urge that action be taken now to prevent a repetition of those dreadful days when each one of us was glued to the radio waiting to be told by the hysterical voice of Hitler whether there was to be peace or war.

Situation Being Repeated

"How definitely we all said then that it would never happen to us again while memory taught the lesson of those shameless days and yet in May, 1946, there are those who seem to think it is a terrible thing if a voice is raised to suggest that the right of national self-determination is a right of self-determination which should be assured to Finland, Poland, Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania, Rumania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Persia, and every other country whose freedom has been lost or whose freedom of action is threatened."

The war was fought to establish the principle that nations had the right to determine their own domestic course so long as it did not threaten peace and freedom elsewhere.

Rhyming Editor, Will A. Wells, Writes Last Headline After 66 Years at Trade

By HARL ANDERSON

Webster, S.D., May 16 (AP)—Will A. Wells wrote his last rhyming headline the other day, ending 66 years in which he fought for the underdog in half-a-dozen midwest states.

Now 83, Wells remembers more than one occasion when someone came a-gunning because of something he had written in his weekly paper. He was scared just once —"at Bedford, Ia., where a gang nearly got me."

His rhyming headlines won wide note in the 20 years he edited the Webster Journal, now sold to Harold Card of the rival Reporter and Farmer for a merger. There was one headline folks liked that went:

"Some got ducks and got them easy—some returned with stories breezy. Average flight of birds was high, cost of shells made many sigh."

Wells, a native of Columbia City, Ind., got his hands in printers' ink at 17. He and a friend obtained a hand press and set up in the latter's barn at Laketon, Ind.

One day Bill published a joke about "a stuffy prominent citizen." The latter angrily informed Bill's father. The elder Wells stormed into the barn and, says the son, "threw every damned bit of type and the press right into the alley and told me to get for home."

Narcotics Charge Against E. M. Carefoot Dismissed

Ernest M. Carefoot, MacDonald Ave., who last March was charged with illegal possession of drugs under the Narcotic Drugs Act, had the charge dismissed by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in county police court this morning when he gave judgment on the trial heard two weeks ago.

The court room was filled almost to capacity as interested persons waited expectantly for the opening of court and the hearing of judgment from Magistrate Wills.

With the narcotics charge dismissed, Mr. Carefoot still stands charged with false pretences involving alleged illegal medical practice and the case is scheduled to be heard on May 30.

Judgment given by Magistrate Wills on the narcotic charge against Mr. Carefoot was as follows:

The accused is charged with the illegal possession of drugs contrary to Sec. 4 (d) of the Opium and Narcotic Drugs Act, 1929, a Dominion Statute. The evidence is that during a search of the premises in which the accused lived on the evening of 19 March carried out by Constable J. E. Keays of the Ontario Provincial Police under the authority of a search warrant issued in respect of a charge under the Criminal Code, the constable discovered five small bottles which appeared to contain narcotic drug within the meaning of the Act in a small bag in a room used by the accused as an office or treatment room. These bottles were carefully secured by Constable Keays and were on 29 March turned over by him to Sgt. Styran of the R.C.M.P., and on analysis, the contents were determined to be morphine sulphate, a narcotic drug within the meaning of the Act.

Much evidence was brought out which appeared to be irrelevant to the mere possession of the drug, but it appears from parts of such evidence that the accused was treating persons for ailments although he was not on the rolls of the College of Physicians and Surgeons. While there was very little direct evidence of the normal or frequent use of the bag by the accused, its location in the treatment room and its other contents would indicate that the accused should be aware of any contents of such an important nature as drugs.

It may be noted that there is a direct conflict of evidence between Constable Keays and the accused over the location of a certain bundle of papers including farm leases, the property of the accused which Constable Keays states he found in the bag and the accused states were located in one or other of two desks.

LUMBER INDUSTRY PARALYZED AS STRIKE CONTINUES

Operators and Workers Await Possible New Moves by Ottawa

Vancouver, May 16 —(CP)— British Columbia's sprawling vital lumber industry which during an average day produces an approximate 8,000,000 board feet of lumber was virtually paralyzed as the strike of 37,000 logging and sawmill workers continued into its second day.

Both the operators and International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) awaited word of possible new moves by Ottawa to effect a settlement in the deadlock over union demands.

Pickets are maintaining 24-hour vigil at all logging camps and sawmills throughout the province with the exception of a few that have accepted union demands and those in the Prince George District.

There the Northern Interior Lumbermen's Association will meet with I.W.A. representatives in discussion of union demands. The strike has been postponed 24 hours to allow for further negotiations.

Employees Ready to Act.

At today's meeting the employers will, they say, accept any reasonable proposal which they can meet while continuing to operate financially.

The Prince George area produces about six per cent of the total B. C. output.

While the widespread effects of the crippling strike begin to assert themselves, union officers have stated that they are prepared to meet government or employer representatives at any time to bring about an amicable settlement in the dispute.

However, the I.W.A. is opposed to proceeding under P. C. 1003. Harold Pritchett, I.W.A. district president, said in a radio address last night that the union does not want P. C. 1003 invoked because the award of any conciliation board is not binding on either party.

Demands Are Cut.

The workers' demands, originally calling for 25 cents an hour wage increase and a 40-hour week, were cut to 18-cent raise at

8 OUT OF 9 VETS GET JOBS

St. Louis, May 16 —(AP)— Eight of nine United States war veterans have found jobs, census figures show.

Robert C. Goodwin, director of the United States employment service, told an employment conference the Bureau of Census had just informed him that of 9,110,000 veterans returned, 8,120,000 are employed.

MURDER TRIAL OF FOUR YOUTHS MAY END TODAY

Crown Prosecutor and Presiding Judge Yet to Address Jury

Toronto, May 16. (CP)—Crown Prosecutor W. O. Gibson today told an Assize Court jury trying four Toronto youths on charges of the murder of a storekeeper that the definition of murder provides 'that in the case of robbery the killing is murder whether the persons mean death to ensue. . . .or not."

Mr. Gibson presented the Crown's case as the trial entered its 10th and probably last day. The case will go to the jury after Mr. Justice Keiller MacKay sums up.

The defence throughout the trial has been that the shooting was not premeditated and came as a result of accidental discharge of guns carried by the youths when they fatally shot 55-year-old Meyer Tobias during a hold-up attempt in his North Toronto store last Dec. 26. The four were arrested two days later after an intense manhunt.

"Questions are reduced to two, whether they are guilty of murder or manslaughter, and who of the accused, are guilty of the offence," the prosecutor said."

The prisoners are William Mullen, 20; Howard Urquhart, 19; Edward Martin, 18, and Donald Warner, 17. They listened with silent composure yesterday as their counsel pleaded at the end o fnine days of testimony. Mothers of two of the defendants—Mullen and Urquhart—were in the courtroom which has been crowded at every session.

Perry Ryan, counsel for Mullen, told the jury that the community as a whole was to blame by permitting gangster movies and cheap literature. He described the prisoners as 'victims of the weed-sowers of life, the inhabitants of pool-rooms. These boys have never been encouraged to plan wholesome lives. They have always lived on the threshold of insecurity."

Counsel Asks Question

And Ryan continued: "Who are these people in our midst who sell cheap literature, who flash gangster movies on our screens or show cheap, plastic, realistic guns in the stores? Surely these people have some responsibility."

Ryan pleaded that capital punishment in this case "would be a fearful indictment of this city and of our whole way of life."

Corti Boland, counsel for Martin, asked for a verdict of manslaughter. He said Martin should be punished for his actions, but that Martin was not a murderer. He said that Martin and Mullen each carried a gun when the store was entered.

OPPOSITION GUNS AT PRICE CEILING POLICY OF GOVT.

Non-confidence Motion For Allowing Increases In Steel and Farm Machinery Introduced

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, May 16 (CP)—Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. members of the Commons lined up opposite Liberal spokesmen yesterday in a renewed argument on the government's price ceiling policy.

The argument brought on a new development in the form of C.C.F. motion of non-confidence in the government because of its action in allowing increases in the basic price of steel and in the price of farm implements. The motion, moved by Mrs. Gladys Strum (C.C.F.-Qu'Appelle) would replace a non-confidence motion moved May 6 by John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader.

The argument also brought from Robert Mayhew (L-Victoria), parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Ilsley, the statement that the recent increase of 12 1-2 per cent in the cost of farm machinery was allowed after "exhaustive" study. There was evidence that increase in production costs were "substantially in excess" of the 12 1-2 per cent increase.

Among participants in the debate were Clarence Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South); Hughes Cleaver (L-Halton), and Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary East).

Keeping in Close Touch

After the House opened, Labor Minister Mitchell announced his department was keeping in close touch with the strike of British Columbia workers and "no possible solution will be overlooked."

Reconstruction Minister Howe said Canada's coal supply situation was "deteriorating rapidly" and that the banning of coal heating in public buildings was only the first of a series of similar measures aimed at conserving supplies. As a result of the soft coal strike in the United States no coal had reached Canada from there for the last five weeks and none might be received for another month.

Strengthen Controls

Third reading was given to a bill, amending the Yukon Placer Mining Act, to protect servicemen from forfeiture of mining claims for non-performance of work and will strengthen controls against smuggling of gold out of the Yukon territory.

With the debate on the non-confidence motions adjourned by Mr. Harkness, the Commons today is scheduled to give third reading to the Canadian citizenship bill and resume study of Agriculture Department estimates.

The Progressive Conservative want of confidence motion asked the House to express the opinion that the government's price ceiling policy was discouraging food production and was placing on the food producer too great a share of the cost of maintaining price stabilization.

BABE ESCAPES INJURY

Baltimore, May 16 —(AP)— An 18-month-old baby fell 40 feet from a third-storey fire escape Tuesday — and suffered slight laceration of the gums. The baby, son of Patrolman Charles Valenti, of the Baltimore police force, was "more frightened than hurt," physicians said.

Airliner Plunges Into Woods Soon After the Takeoff

On Chartered Run Between Miami, Florida and Canada

Richmond, Va., May 16. (AP.— Twenty-seven persons were killed today in the crash of a south-bound chartered airliner which ran into trouble a few minutes after its takeoff from Byrd airport near Richmond and plunged into a rain-drenched stand of pine woods in a vain attempt to return to the field.

The twin-engine Viking airliner came to grief in the heavy overcast about 1.10 a.m., plowed through the trees and burned on the soggy banks of Doran creek, little more than a mile from the airport.

The airliner left Newark, N.J., early last night for Alanta, Ga. It put into Richmond and took off again about 12.30 a.m., in heavy weather. The ceiling at the airport was fluctuating between zero and 200 feet and visibility was one mile when the aircraft took off.

The civil aeronautics administration said the plane carried 24 passengers in addition to the pilot and co-pilot but 27 bodies were brought out of the woods from the crash scene. Identification was difficult but it appeared the victims were 21 men, three women and three children.

Bodies of the victims were being brought out by horse and wagon and sent to Richmond funeral homes.

The Byrd airport reported that the weather for the station was an indefinite 200-foot ceiling with visibility one mile. Planes of eastern airlines, which use Byrd airport as a regular stop on the New York-Miami run, were bypassing Richmond during the night, an airline spokesman said, because of the weather conditions.

$1,400 is Discovered By Three Schoolboys

Fort Frances, Ont., May 16 — (CP)— It isn't every day you find $1,400 but that's just what three young schoolboys did here it was learned Wednesday.

Donald Bird, George Melnychuk and Donald Lee, whose ages range from 12 to 14, found the treasure while rummaging in a vacant lot behind a pool room last week.

After spending a small portion on incidentals such as sodas and a rifle, they turned the money over to the police.

Police said that if the rightful owner is not found in six months the money will go to the boys.

ACQUITTED OF ILLEGAL PRACTICE

Halifax, May 16 —(CP)— Wm. P. Young, vice-president and manager of the Ideal Maternity Home and Sanitarium, East Chester, N.S., was acquitted by Magistrate R. J. Flinn in county court here yesterday on a charge of practising medicine without being registered, contrary to the Provincial Medical Act.

Decision on a similar charge against Young's wife, Lili Young, was adjourned until June 5. Five other charges involving violation of the Maternity Boarding House Act against the Ideal Maternity Home and Sanitarium were also adjourned until June 5.

Clandestine Shipments to Germany Of Rare Chemicals by Spain Bared

By GODFREY ANDERSON.

Asperg, Germany, May 16 (AP) —How Spanish sailors used to make clandestine shipments to the German war machine of rare chemicals brought from South America, is told by high-ranking diplomats of the former German Embassy in Madrid, now undergoing interrogation here.

Such transactions, the diplomats claimed, were made through German "businessmen" specially sent into Spain by Berlin and generally neither the embassy Sofindus (the big holding company for German interests in Spain) was informed of their activities.

The agents received the chemicals, which always were in small quantities and often packed in suitcases, and took care of forwarding them to Germany. The diplomats professed not to know they were paid for.

They did know, however, that Germany was able even in the middle of war, to continue to pour quantities of armaments (including captured Russian material) into Spain in order to get raw materials so urgently needed.

"But Franco was a hard bargainer," they complained, "and, as Germany became weaker towards the end of the war, he steadily raised his price."

In the spring of 1940, the diplomats disclosed, a secret protocol was signed in Berlin fixing Franco's civil war debt to Germany at 370,000,000 marks. This sum included interest up to that

Several Centres Disregard Order On School Heating

(By The Canadian Press)

The Toronto Board of Education meets tonight to decide what to do about the federal order conserving coal in Ontario and Quebec which bans use of coal for heating in public schools, among other public buildings.

So far Toronto schools and those in Kingston, London and Windsor are still being heated. Education board heads of some municipalities have termed the Ottawa restrictions "silly" as applied to schools and Toronto at least has definitely disregarded the order.

Schools in Ottawa definitely will comply with the order, Public School Board Chairman Charles Hulse announced. "We realize that this is an emergency and even if the weather gets colder, I cannot see why the public schools in Ottawa cannot function without coal."

Montreal's schools are also unheated at the present time and Alfred Larose, chairman of the Montreal Catholic School Commission, said last night that the federal order "doesn't affect us at all."

But over the two provinces operators of large public buildings —including the parliament buildings themselves at Ottawa — and owners of theatres and stores, with operators of large private buildings and churches generally complied with the order banning the use of soft coal for heating.

Difficulties Presented

There were snags here and there, a survey by The Canadian Press showed. At London, Ont., for instance, the only firm of its kind in Eastern Canada pipes steam heat to large blocks of buildings, and it can't separate the essential institutions from those coming under the heating ban. So far this supplier is standing pat in hopes it will be declared a public utility and hence exempt.

A number of institutions at Toronto and elsewhere are heated from plants that also supply power to the buildings, and here again the furnaces are being kept going. The coal was being burned at Toronto's old Don Jail yesterday — it was bath day at the jail, and officials figure this is essential business. But in most office buildings, theatres and such, the heat was turned off.

W. R. Cockburn, chairman of the Toronto Board of Education who said on Tuesday night that the heat would be kept on in Toronto schools regardless, says a number of parents, physicians and trustees have supported his stand.

He has appealed to Reconstruction Minister Howe to remove schools from the no-coal edict: "I think they simply overlooked the need for heat in schools to safeguard the health of our children," Cockburn said. He emphasized that it was only in respect to school heating that the order was disregarded. In many other ways steps have been taken to conserve coal.

Signs Not Encouraging

Washington, (AP)—President Truman called two men back to the White House today to learn whether they will give enough ground to keep the coal mines working.

The signs were hardly encouraging for the 11 a.m. E.D.T. conference which was bringing John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers (A.F.L.) and Charles O'Neill, representing the operators, to the executive offices for another session. The head-on collision of these two over the miners' demand for a welfare fund already has threatened the whole future of the negotiations.

With the present strike truce due to expire May 25, only eight working days remain before the menace of another shutdown — after 42 days' idleness.

NO ACTION TAKEN BY SIDNEY COUNCIL

No action was taken by members of the Sidney township council when during their May meeting a deputation from the Chatterton Women's Institute was heard requesting the council to take steps to put the roadway leading from the main highway into the Griffin cemetery into a more passable condition.

No work has been put on the road for several years and the action of rain has washed ruts into the roadway making it practically impassable for motorized vehicular traffic.

In answer to the deputation, Reeve Sam Nicolson explained it was doubtful if the highway department would consent to bear part of the expense of any construction work on roads, but promised the council would use every influence to obtain government aid for this project.

KINGSTON SALVATION ARMY BAND WILL VISIT CITY

The Salvation Army bands of Kingston and Belleville, will unite here for the Sunday services. On Sunday morning the United Bands will hold two short open-air services, at 10 o'clock, the first at the home of Mrs. Geo. Reid, Queen and Charles Streets, the second on the spacious lawn of Mr. Arthur Sills, Bridge and George Streets.

On Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m., the United Bands will play at the Belleville General Hospital.

Sunday evening an open-air service will be held at the corner of Bridge and Front Streets, at 8.30 p.m.

MEMBERS OF DEPT. ATTEND COURSE

Two junior officers of the Belleville Fire Department, Lieut. Stanley Waddell and Lieut. Frank Post are in Toronto attending the special fire-fighters' course at the University of Toronto which commences this morning and continues through Saturday. Attendance of two members of the local department at the Toronto course was recommended by council on condition that the information gained be passed on to other members of the department upon their return to the city.

BARBARA BEWS WINS SCHOLARSHIP

Among those receiving awards and scholarships in the Faculty of Arts at Queen's University, were the following students from Belleville and district:

R. A. Bradley, B.A., Wellington, Arts Research Travelling Fellowship; G. L. Fairholm, Bancroft, Adam Shortt Scholarship in Political Science; Barbara L. M. Bews, Dufferin Ave., Belleville, shares Isaac Cohen Scholarship in Philosophy with Ottawa student.

NEW FARADAY TWP. REEVE TO ATTEND JUNE COUNCIL SESSION

A more or less unusual incident in county council annals will take place on June 11th., opening day of the summer session of the county fathers, when a new figure will take his seat in the chamber.

He is Reeve Jack McKenzie, of Faraday, who was named head of his township in a recent election, called after W. E. McLuskie, elected reeve in the regular municipal elections in January, was unseated after disqualification action was taken by Faraday residents.

Due to the fact that Reeve-elect McLuskie had been disqualified, the township was not represented in the January sessions of the county body. Failure to select a reeve resulted in a new election being ordered, and Reeve McKenzie won a majority over McLuskie to gain the seat.

He is a son of a former reeve of Faraday, Mr. B. McKenzie.

Royal Commission Told Meat Black Market Operating

Toronto, May 16 —(CP)— Assertions that Toronto meat suppliers operated a black market in meat by collecting over-ceiling prices through separate sales slips and tags were made by a witness yesterday at opening of inquiry by a royal commission into the local meat shortage and alleged black market activities.

The witness was Michael Stepanov, driver for small meat suppliers, who gave the commissioner, J. D. McNish, a story of regular "pay-offs" for over-ceiling meat by Toronto retail establishments. Stepanov's recital of collections from various stores and the method of payment was interrupted twice by cries of "liar" from Izzy Politsky and Sydney Brussky, meat dealers who were in the courtroom.

Counsel for Politsky and Brussky, who appeared just as Stepanov left the witness stand, was expected to cross-examine Stepanov today.

Commissioner McNish was appointed to investigate all aspects of distribution and sale of meat and meat products in the Toronto area. He has called on all those familiar with the trade to appear before the commission, and has issued a warning against any intimidation of possible witnesses.

Warned Against Outbursts.

When testimony of Stepanov was interrupted yesterday by cries of "liar" from the body of the courtroom, Commissioner McNish warned against any outbursts and there was no further interruption.

Describing the method of collection he alleged was used by Politsky, Stepanov said he was given two slips of paper and the customer signed one slip and gave it back to him with the money—a cash-on-delivery transaction. "What was over the ceiling price, I had to collect later," he said.

Before he worked for Politsky, he said, he had been employed by Dominion Dressed Meat, Brussky's firm, for approximately a year. All that time he claimed he had been given invoices and "little tag tickets" marking the "over" price.

"When they sold something over the ceiling price they gave me the tickets and said "if somebody stops you throw the tickets away so they won't find them in your pocket," he said.

Attractive Tourist Booklet off Press

A new and attractive tourist booklet displaying in picture and story the holiday attractions of Hastings county, is off the press and is now in the hands of Chamber of Commerce secretary, Miss Helen Fraleck.

The booklet is a result of the joint efforts of the Tourist and Publicity Committees of the City of Belleville and the County of Hastings.

Distribution will include all boundary points between the United States and Canada, many places south of the border and all principal places in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

MAYOR FOLLWELL SUPPORTS MOVE

The movement for the removal of the excise tax on soft drinks which during recent months has been gaining ground across the province, has the support of Mayor Frank S. Follwell who has made representations to the riding representative in Ottawa.

In answer to the Mayor's communication, Mr. George H. Stokes writes that he will be pleased to lay the matter before the Minister of Finance. Removal of the excise tax on soft drinks was pressed last year, according to Mr. Stokes who felt that the presentations this year would be still greater.

Southampton, England, May 16 —(CP Cable)— The liner Aquitania sailed for Halifax with 900 wives and 200 children of Canadian servicemen. Also aboard were 300 troops of all ranks.

Ladies' Night At Moira Lodge Enjoyable Affair

Moira Lodge, A.F. & A.M., No. 11 held its annual Ladies' Night Banquet Wednesday night at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church with about 250 in attendance. After the banquet, the gathering moved to the Masonic Club Rooms on Front Street for an evening of dancing, euchre and bridge.

Special speaker of the evening was Rt. Wor. Bro. the Rev. W. J. Johnston, Grand Chaplain, and Past Lt. Governor of Kiwanis, minister of Eglinton United Church, Toronto.

The speaker mentioned that his first pastorate was in Moira, Ireland, and related several stories of his travels throughout the British Isles and Palestine. He spoke also of the Jewels of Masonry.

The speaker was introduced by Wor. Bro. G. C. Baragar and thanked by Wor. Bro. Dr. J. W. Kinnear.

The chairman, Wor. Bro. P. C. Calnan, W.M. of Moira Lodge, welcomed the guests. Grace was asked by Bro. Rev. F. A. Smith, District Chaplain, and Rector of St. Thomas Anglican Church. A toast to the Grand Lodge was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. Wm. Coulby, P.D.D.G.M., and responded to by Rt. Wor. Bro. O. M. Newton, D.D.G.M., Prince Edward District.

Mrs. Marsh Responds.

The toast to the ladies was proposed by Very Wor. Bro. A. E. Barlow, and responded to by Mrs. Jack Marsh.

During the course of the evening the gathered was favored by several delightful vocal renditions, by a male quartet, consisting of James Bankier, Alfred Evans, Jack Thomson and Harry Moorman; and solos by Miss Helen Cook; Miss Leona Riggs played the accompaniment.

Other distinguished guests at the dinner were: Wor. Bro. V. P. Carswell, District Secretary, and Mrs. Carswell, Trenton; Wor. Bro. Gordon Anderson, Master of The Belleville Lodge, and Mrs. Anderson; Wor. Bro. Joyce, Master of Trent Lodge, and Mrs. Joyce.

After dinner the guests were taken on a tour of the Chapter and Blue Lodge rooms.

The dance was under the direction of Alfred Evans and the prize winners were Mrs. G. Stackhouse and Mrs. Don Way.

Chas. Barnett was in charge of the euchre and the prize winners were E. E. Burns and Mrs. E. Dunn. J. R. McCullough arranged the bridge tables and the winners were Mrs. Wm. Coulby and Mrs. J. L. Lawrence.

A vote of thanks to the ladies of the church who served the dinner was moved by G. Stackhouse and replied to by Mrs. H. Elvidge.

Paper Company May Resume Cutting Pulpwood On Anticosti Island

Quebec, May 16. (CP)— Because of an increase of $9 a ton in the price of newsprint, the Canadian Consolidated Paper Company is contemplating resumption of cutting pulpwood on the company-owned Anticosti Island, Gulf of St. Lawrence, it was learned here today.

The company purchased the large island from the French chocolate maker Meunier several years ago and conducted forestry operations until 1939. Those were discontinued with the war because of the "prohibitive cost" for the floating of pulpwood around the island to Ellis Bay.

Resumption of operations this year would include construction of a highway across the island. It would be 100 miles long and would enable trucks to carry wood down to Ellis Bay from where it would be dragged by boats to the company's mills at Port Alfred and Three Rivers. The company could cut 200,000 cords yearly subject to the new 15 per cent tax enacted during the session of the Quebec Legislature for a special educational fund.

The company paid $6,000,000 to the Meunier estate for the island, which is larger than Prince Edward Island.

21 Wolves Bagged in County During Past Year

Sandford Laurence, Marmora trapper and hunter, heads the "hit parade" insofar as bagging cattle and sheep-raiding wolves in Hastings county is concerned. The veteran hunter, by virtue of his four kills thus far, three of them coming at the same time when he hit the bounty jackpot, also leads the county hunters in financial returns.

Today the 1946 aggregate bag in the county is twenty-one wolves killed in various parts of the district. Ross Palmateer, Tweed, is second in the parade of successful hunters with three to his credit.

According to County Treasurer Ross Bailey a considerable amount of bounty money has been garnered by hunters, especially those who bagged their wolves in Rawdon township which pays a $50 bounty over and above that paid by the county and the government.

The wolves, which were reported to be fairly numerous in the early spring, have not been so plentiful lately in the middle and lower sections of Hastings, due, it is believed, to the fact that food is becoming more accessible in their natural habitats in the northern sections.

Broke Into Summer Cottage, 2 Men Sentenced

"This is a very serious charge. There is altogether too much of this breaking into summer cottages and the public who are entitled to protection feel offenders should not be dealt with lightly."

Thus stated Magistrate T. Y. Wills to Glenn Davis, 36, Montreal, in county police court Thursday morning as he sentenced the accused to six months in the Ontario Reformatory for breaking and entering a Toronto-owned summer cottage in Sidney township. R. C. Gill, 21, also of Montreal, jointly charged with the same offence as Davis, was sentenced to three months in jail. Both pleaded guilty to the charges.

Investigating officer, Provincial Constable Charles Siple, told the court that on May 7th., the two accused had entered the summer cottage owned by Mrs. Adele Tims of Toronto. Nothing had been taken as the two accused had been surprised while in the cottage. They had been arrested a short distance from the scene of the break-in.

Charges of vagrancy against the two accused were withdrawn at the request of the Crown.

SNOW AT KENORA

Fort William, May 15 — (CP) —Fort William and lakehead residents were fortunate yesterday as far as weather was concerned. While the thermometer rose to 63 degrees at noon here, freezing temperatures ruled to the north and west. Snow fell until early afternoon in Kenora 240 miles west, with the temperature at 32 degrees.

FAMOUS NAMES IN DUPLICATE

Denver, May 16 —(AP)— Buckley Field flushed a private named Saint Peter working in the post chaplain's office. Now the public relations office has come up with: Ptes. Frank Sinatra and Tommy Dorsey, who cannot sing or play a trombone, respectively; Pte. Harold Lloyd and Pte. James Byrnes, basic trainees; Lou Boudreau, who is not on Buckley's baseball team, and Pte. Lloyd Douglas, too busy to write books. And, in the hospital, a Sgt. Chronic.

District Farmers Planting More Corn This Year

Apparently the result of considerable winter killing of old meadows and the fact that cold weather of past weeks has retarded normal development of pastures and meadows, district farmers this season will be planting more than the usual acreage of corn, it is reported.

Some old meadows are reported being worked up to be seeded with temporary hay and pasture mixtures.

Rain during the past week has been very welcome but pastures are still backward and the milk going to cheese factories is below that of the same time last year.

Interest of American buyers in Canadian cattle still continues with several car loads of dairy cows from the Quinte district being shipped to the United States last week.

Local Fishing Parties Not Too Successful Getting Early Pickerel

The fickle pickerel, according to reports from many parts of the district, distinctly favored the Peterborough Izaak Waltons over those of Hastings and Prince Edward county on opening day.

In fact the southern section of the district produced only a few of the finny dinners, with one Belleville party fishing for hours in West Lake with only one specimen to bring home for their trouble. Another local trio got their quota in Moira Lake, but on the whole, general reports intimated a disappointment in opening day bags.

Up around Peterborough and the Kawartha Lakes, however, it was a different story.

C. A. Hough, a war veteran, proved the ace of the angler parade when he landed an nine-pounder on a plug near Burleigh Falls. His partner, C. V. Goodfellow, brother of Welfare Minister, W. A. Goodfellow, got a five-pounder and a two-pounder with first two casts.

Crowds of fishermen awaited the midnight deadline up around Campbellford way, and reports from that district intimate that meat-shortage worries are over, temporarily at least.

At Young's Point near Peterborough, a local bus driver snared a nice seven-pounder, while Jack Holland ski instructor at Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, caught four, the largest, five pounds at the same place.

'Disease Detectives' Will Study Causes of Troops' Illness

Washington, May 16 — (AP)— The War Department announced it will send a score of "disease detectives" to ferret out causes of illness among United States Army men in Korea, Japan, Germany and the United States.

The "detectives" will be medical officers who have just completed 32-week courses in preventive medicine at Harvard and Johns Hopkins Universities.

FATHERS INFORMED

Los Angeles, May 16 — (AP) — To future prospective fathers, there's relief in sight for those hours of anxious pacing. In hospitals of tomorrow, a broadcasting system will be hooked up from delivery to waiting room and as soon as your baby is born, it'll be announced to you promptly.

"What's more, we'll let the baby cry right into the microphone," Ritz E. Heerman, superintendent of California Hospital here, said.

Soochow, Venice of the Far East, City of Impoverished Thousands

By JOHN RODERICK

Soochow, China, May 16—(AP) — Rumors, factional disputes and national instability have turned once prosperous Soochow — the Venice of the Far East — into a city of impoverished thousands.

The winds of civil war hundreds of miles away in Manchuria stir up the leaves of monetary speculation, and every report from the Northeast Territory is accompanied by a corresponding change in the value of the Chinese dollar. Wild stories, often deliberately circulated, add to the monetary uncertainty.

Famed for its silk and as a rice centre, Soochow's picturesque junks still ply the calm canal waters to Shanghai. But the trade no longer is rich and farmers get less for their goods than they did under the puppet government of the Japanese occupation.

The mayor, or city magistrate as he generally is called, arrived from Chungking last September. A Kuomintang (National Party) appointee, he was a stranger to the city. (The Chinese work on the theory that a newcomer will be less corrupt, more loyal to the central government than a hometowner.) What annoyed Soochowites, however, was that he spoke a dialect few of them understood.

Two Factions Spring Up

Soon two factions sprang up, one composed of native Soochowites, the other of officials and new arrivals from the interior. The natives thought the people from Free China were too aggressive, and set out to balk them. Tons of United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration supplies — flour, medicines and clothing — arrived in Soochow two months ago but a deadlock between the two groups delayed their distribution to the city's poor.

There appears to be no organization in the military and civil government. Eight months after war's end half-a-dozen government agencies and military units are at cross purposes. Discipline is lacking. Robbery has become so prevalent a thief was executed in the public square recently before 180,000 spectators as an example.

Yet Soochow was little touched by the war. Its magnificent bridges and ancient pagodas, most famous of which is the leaning tower pagoda, are intact. Its hospitals and schools, including the American Methodist University, have suffered only from Japanese occupation.

Before the war its population was about 600,000. It was built about the time of Socrates and Confucius on what once was terrifying jungle and swampland, by Prince Ho Lu, who is buried on Tiger Hill near the city.

NARCOTICS

The accused relies entirely upon Sec. 17 of the Act and states that the drugs were there without his knowledge. In support of this, he says that he has not bought any drugs for 15 years, and has not given any prescription to a patient for 23 or 24 years. Much emphasis was given by the defence to an incident in or about the month of September, 1945, in which the accused, his wife and son, state that he found a drug in the bag previously referred to and destroyed it by burning in their presence. If this incident is to be accepted as a fact, I can see no other alternatives than that either he must have known of the presence of the drugs found by Constable Keays, or they were placed there by some person or persons without his knowledge.

The first of these alternatives is hardly consistent with the evidence of the accused, and while there is no direct evidence of the second, if the accused's evidence is not to be totally rejected, it must be considered as a reasonable possibility.

A number of witnesses were called by the defence to give evidence of the good character of the accused and were objected to by the prosecution. I admitted their evidence subject to the objection, and on examining the authority to which I was referred for such admissibility, (4 C.E.D., pp471, 472), I am of the opinion that such evidence is only admissible if it is as to good character with respect to the species of offence charged. The important question asked each of such witnesses was whether they thought the accused should be believed upon oath. I do not think such evidence comes within the rule and I accordingly sustain the objection and totally disregard such evidence.

In my opinion, the decision in this case depends entirely upon the onus of proof and I accept the law as laid down in Rex v Lee Fong Shee, 60 C.C.C. 73 at p.77 where Mr. Justice Martin, referring to the defence of lack of authority, knowledge, or consent, says,- "if the accused advances that defence to the state that it is shown there is a reasonable doubt upon that crucial fact, then he is entitled to the benefit of that doubt as in any other criminal charge, though he would not be so entitled had it been a civil action."

I am not prepared upon the evidence to discredit the accused, and in so doing, I do not consider that I must disbelieve the evidence of Constable Keays. As to this view of the accused's evidence, I refer to the statement of Chief Justice Mulock in Rex v Cun Ying, 65, O.L.R. at p 371, where he says, "Evidence under oath, until shaken, is entitled to some weight, and it cannot be swept away simply by the trial Judge saying he disbelieves a witness," Accepting the evidence of Constable Keays, there is still a reasonable doubt in my mind and the accused is entitled to it. The charge is therefore dismissed.

RUSSIAN AGENT

"He is an agent in Montreal."

Gouzenko said "Galya" had lived next door in a Montreal apartment to Maj. Sokolov, a Russian contact agent but ostensibly an engineer on the Russian commercial consul's staff. In 1943 Sokolov came to Ottawa.

"Galya" a Housewife.

"Galya" was a "housewife." Gouzenko said he was "surprised" that "Galya" hadn't been detained.

He did not know her name. Several telegrams at the embassy concerned her.

He said "Freda" was a girl friend of "The Professor," who has been identified as Prof. Raymond Boyer of McGill University, now an accused. She worked in Montreal with the International Labor Bureau.

A document said the "Professor" gave information on the super-explosive RDX and on poison gas.

Mr. Hughes showed a document which disclosed that Zabotin had reported in August, 1945, that Gouzenko and his wife and child were due to return to Russia. Zabotin, too, was going to leave.

MRS. MARGARET FEENEY
(Madoc)

Madoc, May 16 (Special)—Mrs. Margaret Feeney, widow of Frederick Feeney, died at her home here on Wednesday, May 15th. She was in failing health for some time.

The late Mrs. Feeney was born in Belleville seventy-three years ago and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Callery. Practically all her life was passed in Madoc and she was well known and highly esteemed by many friends. In religion she was a faithful members of the Sacred Heart of Mary Church.

Surviving her are three sons, Joseph of Belleville; Francis of Madoc, and Frederick of Aylmer; four daughters, Mrs. Kathleen Merran of Toronto; Mrs. E. J. (Marguerite) Merran of Sudbury; Mrs. C. J. (Mary) Rooney of Brantford, and Mrs. James (Jean) Golan of Toronto; one brother, Thomas Callery of Madoc, and one sister, Mrs. Robert Langley, Duluth, Mich. Her husband died in 1940, and a son, Thomas, died in 1932.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

REPORTS EXAGGERATED SLIGHTLY SAYS BARBER

Cochrane, Ont., May 16 —(CP) —Fred Christiansen, 60-year-old Guelph barber who was said to have quit Southern Ontario for good last week because a youth walked into his shop and asked for a permanent wave, has arrived in the more rugged northland with the news that the reports were slightly exaggerated.

He came here, he said, at the invitation of his brother to recuperate from an accident. He's not sure whether he's going to stay — but he has given up barbering for life.

"Escape Charts" on Fine Silk

Atlantic City, N. J., May 16 — (AP) — Maps lithographed on silk so fine a complete map could be secreted in a button on a soldier's uniform were described. Known as "escape charts," the maps are designed to aid escaped prisoners of war in finding their way out of enemy country. The soldier unscrews the button to disclose the map, which can be swallowed and digested if recapture appears imminent.

BIRTHS

LOFT — Mr. and Mrs. Phil Loft are happy to announce the birth of a son, on May 9th., 1946, at the Belleville General Hospital — a brother for Donna.

BALLINGER — Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Ballinger (nee Elinor Lambert) are happy to announce the arrival of their daughter, Gail Sue, on Wednesday, May 8th., 1946, in the Belleville General Hospital.

DEATHS

FEENEY — In Madoc Village on Wednesday, May 15th., Mrs. Margaret (Callery) Feeney, widow of Frederick Feeney, age 73 years.

The funeral will take place from her late residence on Friday morning, May 17th., to the Church of the Sacred Heart of Mary for Requiem Mass at ten o'clock.

Interment Sacred Heart Cemetery.

Grounded Barge Carries Large Cargo Gasoline

Point Traverse, May 16 —(CP) —Two tugs stood by a 235-foot steel barge hard aground on Gull Bar Shoal in Lake Ontario today, awaiting a lighter from Oswego, N.Y., to take off the barge's cargo of 800,000 gallons of gasoline. The barge went aground early Tuesday, efforts to dislodge it have been unsuccessful and it is feared that if the lake roughens before arrival of the lighter, the barge may break up.

Russell No. 19, the towing tug with a crew of 10, has been standing by since the barge went aground in nine feet of water. She has a large hole in her bow and her forward compartment is flooded. Tug and barge were 20 miles off course at the time and a faulty tug compass is blamed. Another tug arrived at the scene last night.

The Russell, of United States registry, was making her way from Oswego to Ogdensburg at the time of the grounding.

Point Traverse is some 60 miles southeast of Belleville.

SECURITY POLICE RAIDS

Warsaw, May 16 — (AP) — Security police raided district organizations of Vice-Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk's peasant party yesterday as the government stepped up its drive to rid Poland of what it described as anti-democratic Fascist elements.

escribes Canada s a Completely ocialized State herbrooke, Que., May 16—(CP) John T. Hackett (PC — Stan-ead), speaking at a Progressive onservative rally in this eastern wnships centre last night, in hich he describes Canada as "a mpletely socialized state," ad-cated the immediate lifting of rtime controls and the rescind-g of Orders-in-council adopted war measures.

Addressing some 300 persons, r. Hackett said the controls ust be lifted "because the perils ceed the inconvenience that ould result from abandoning ese repressive measures . . . here would be some turbulence but any inconvenience would be petty when compared to the less of liberty and the abuses which have grown up under one-party government."

Stating that Canada would become a battleground if Russia should go to war with the United States or with any country in Europe, he said "we must have allies and make common cause with someone," advocating Canada should maintain its alliance with Great Britain.

Speaking in both French and English, Mr. Hackett, who said every Canadian should take an interest in party government, added that a multiplicity of parties was "as dangerous to our system of government" as a single party, which seemed to be the aim of the party now in power.

E. David Fulton, Kamloops, B. C., representative in the House of Commons, spoke of the "two failures" of the Liberal government —"allowing the Communist threat to endanger this country," and the government's extravagance.

300-Ft. Elevator Loader Burned At Peterborough

Peterboro, May 16 — (CP) — Fire early today destroyed the 300-foot elevator loader of the Dewart Milling Company. Damage was estimated at $30,000.

Starting in the first floor the fire spread quickly through the wooden structure.

Sparks from the fire set the adjoining Whitaker building ablaze but the firemen were able to control the blaze.

PROBABLY SAVED HIS LIFE AT COST OF BROKEN ARM

Stratford, May 16 —(CP)— Gilbert McClurg, Canadian National Railways section man at nearby Shakespeare, probably saved his own life at the cost of a broken arm. Working on a C.N.R. line, he saw a huge lump of coal tumble from the tender of a passing train. The coal was flying directly for his head. He managed to get his left arm up in time to protect his head but the arm was broken.

Tourists Expected To Spend 4 Million In Saskatchewan

By NORMAN ALSTEDTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Regina, May 16 — (CP)—Saskatchewan is sprucing up — hoping for the good opinion of some 2,000,000 United States citizens who are expected here this summer to angle for perch, pickerel and pike and in the fall to shoot the prized Canada geese.

With the opening of the fishing season today, officials at Waskesiu Lake in Prince Albert National Park are preparing fishing tackle for use of visitors who are expected to spend about $4,000,000 in the province this year.

The tourist industry brought about $1,000,000 to Saskatchewan in 1939 and W. A. S. Tegart, tourist director, says there should be a large increase this season.

Inquiries from the U. S. concerning fishing prospects are being received in the tourist office at about 20 a day. U. S. anglers will have to pay a $5 license fee in comparison to the $1 fee for residents. A special license is needed for trout.

The goal for many visitors will be the National Park, about 40 miles north of Prince Albert. The Park — one of the gateways to the north — contains nearly 2,000 square miles dotted with lakes and rivers bearing Indian names such as Wabena (Morning Light) and Tibiski (Night).

The gullet-pouched pelican and the fishing-expert cormorant are expected to be a centre of interest in rookeries at Lavallee Lake in the park.

Offering the diversity of the waving wheat fields of the south and the lakes and forests of the north, Saskatchewan's tourist industry has enlarged its accommodations in preparation for the invasion that all Canada hopes for this summer.

RHYMING EDITOR

Instead, Bill ran away to Utica, Ill., where he talked a stranger into lending him $1,000 to start a paper. He paid the debt within a year, sold the paper at a profit and returned home.

"'Spose you're home like the prodigal son," said his father. "Nope," Bill replied, "I'm the fatted calf"—and proceeded to toss $20 bills on his father's desk.

Bill's restless feet took him to Richmond, Ind., where he got another newspaper job on condition he turn out six columns of copy each day.

The Bedford incident, only one to shake the editor began with "sting" stories he wrote about political matters. For weeks Bill was arrested regularly after his paper appeared. Then threats to kill him developed. "That outfit really meant it," he says.

Finally, libel action was started against him .Wells defended himself in a case which drew reporters from distant cities. The case was dismissed.

At 2 a.m. the following morning, Wells and a Chicago reporter rooming with him heard a ladder scrape against the window sill. As a hand came over the sill, Wells gave a vigorous push.

Bill and the Chicago reporter waited until near dawn, then sneaked from the hotel, darted down backstairs, waded water-filled railroad tracks, and swam a swollen river to get out of town.

In the next 20 years, Wells worked on newspapers in Waupon, Wis., Litchfield, N.D., Ottertail Lake, Minn., and Sisseton, S.D. He came to Webster in 1926. When he retired, he signed off as his last paragraph:

"It's been nice to live here—my lady and I expect to stay right here, whether you like it or not—it's been the happiest days of my life to have lived with you—".

He looked the paragraph over a second time. Then put a "(30)" at the end.

12-Mile-Hour Speed in 1846

Peterboro, May 16 — (CP) — Local residents complaining of poor train services north into Haliburton read with interest an article withal in 1846 a train travelled from Toronto to Montreal at the then unheard-of speed of 12 miles an hour. They say that's still better than the alleged nine miles an hour of the Haliburton local.

a meeting with operators presided over by Chief Justice Gordon Sloan. The union agreed to abandon the strike on these terms but the operators rejected the demands and refused to negotiate while the strike threat was pending.

That led to breakup of negotiations and both parties continue to hold the same stand.

As the strike continues its effects are due to spread progressively to other industries. Construction will be among the first to feel the effects as lumber for local consumption and export dwindles.

If the strike lasts three weeks an estimated third of the province's 250,000 workers will be idle with tieup even forecast in remote industries like fishing.

The pulp and paper industry employing about 5,000 workers will come to a halt when approximately three weeks supply of pulp logs is exhausted.

The fishing industry's unfilled need for 3,500,000 boxes would leave 10,000 workers idle, nearly 20,000 construction workers would be forced to lay down their tools, and such daily needs as wrapping paper would become scarce.

This Land and Its Appeal

Glance at the Weekly Road Bulletin of Ontario is interesting at this season of the year. It marks out the condition of the highways and roads, measures the distances from place to place and illustrates this Province's appeal as in the Bulletin No. 2 of May 9th, on angler's paradise in Quetico Park, the Queen Elizabeth Highway at Jordan Harbor and Magpie Falls on the Michipicoton River in Algoma District.

It makes the reader want to take full advantage of the great many places of interest as summer camps and resorts, fishing grounds and to use the great network of roads and highways to learn more of the Province and Dominion. It serves to bring more close to the people of Ontario the beauties of their province.

The highways are claimed to be the most modern network in Canada and are defined as those "on which no tolls are charged; highways built for the comfort and convenience, not only for ourselves, but for use of our visitors as well."

These bulletins appeal to the people of Ontario and other provinces and to the people of the United States.

For Ontario people it means that those of this province have to go a long way in their travels in Ontario to get to know all that there is in appeal to the motorist and fisherman and others. Ontario residents can well look upon their own province as one of irresistible appeal and as one which they should come to know as thoroughly as possible. And at the same time they should come to know the other parts of Canada. In all, in this country they will find an appeal that will satisfy every yearning.

To the people of the United States, this country has a powerful attraction as the holiday season draws near. This year looks as if it will exceed the highest records of the past. Ontario and every community in Ontario will get its share of the United States visitors who will flock into all sections of Canada in this year of especial significance, the year when motoring is unrestricted.

It was for this Country, the Provinces of this Country, the thousands of communities in this land, the institutions of this land, and the people, the mothers, fathers, brothers and sisters, and sons and daughters and others that so many thousands of young Canadians went to other parts of the world to defend what Canadians enjoy here in our democratic way of life and in this lovely country that is home to twelve million people. These things that Canadians admire are the things that Young Canada fought for, the things that many died for or suffered for. The greater therefore should be the love and admiration for what Canada is and for what she inspires. This is the heritage of Canadians.

The Ontario Bulletins suggest many of these attractions which can be made part of our individual lives as they were so much a part of the lives of those who served in the recent struggle against tyranny. It suggests the freedom and beneficence which in this vast land we enjoy.

Britain's "New Towns"

Interest beyond Britain where the experiment is being tried will attract people in many lands as to the planning of new towns in the British Isles. Up to the present and no doubt at the present time towns have grown or are growing up without the exercise of any control beyond that of natural trends. The growth of towns is always an attractive study in finding out why they developed in some places and in some directions and not in others.

What has given an impetus to the development of new towns and satellite towns is of course the damage which came by bombs during the recent war. Damage has to be repaired in settled communities and in these where trends have become known by past developments, there can be found what will suggest planning in a real sense as seeing ahead and improving.

Now Britain projects an unspecified number of new towns as "self-contained and balanced communities" either as entirely new towns built where population has hitherto been scattered and rural or expanded from a small community. The British committee points out that a new town must furnish facilities for shopping, recreation, education and business for its residents and for inhabitants of the environs. The program is an experiment in city planning, a practical scheme for designing and executing spacious, balanced communities, it is called.

According to the British bill an advance of up y million pounds will be requeste the first five years of the program, the tentative capital cost of a new to 50,000 population estimated at roug nsteen million pounds spread over ten

The co such an undertaking or experiment e followed by great numbers of people will be of great interest to municipal ders and to communities which are tious to expand and would like to kno some assurance how to go with certai bout it.

Need More Strawberries

Once luscious-looking, plump strawberries at the shopper and tug at his purse-s. Thus arise perennial issues of mo which have puzzled enthusiasts of G Fragaria from time immemorial.

Should straw es be rinsed to remove stray grains of or served unwashed to bring out thei eet fragrance? How elusive and flee that fragrance?

Which is the ate: strawberries in shortcake, or with ice cream, or simply with suga cream? Or in solitary grandeur? those choosing the latter comes the llary question: Are strawberries supe eaten whole or crushed?

These are piqua estions. Nevertheless, it is better fo m to remain questions than to stir erious polemics or controversy. On thing the whole world surely will : there certainly ought to be a big inc in the strawberry output on this plan one but those in the upper brackets afford them very often at their presen ce level.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is pinchbeck?

The original pinchbeck was a copper and zinc alloy having the appearance and lustre of gold.

It received its name from its inventor, Christopher Pinchbeck (1670?-1732), a famous clock, watch and toy maker on Fleet Street in London, who first made cheap jewelry from such alloy.

An ordinary person could distinguish the imitation from gold only by its lightness and lack of resonance.

Cheap jewelry is still made of pinchbeck, which generally contains from ten to twenty percent zinc, the remainder being copper, although tin and other elements are sometimes added.

No contemporary record has been found showing just when Pinchbeck invented the metal that bears his name. Dictionaries and reference books, without sufficient reasons, give 1732, the year of his death, as the date. On November 27 of that year the London "Daily Post" contained an advertisement announcing "that the toys made of the late ingenious Mr. Pinchbeck's curious metal . . . are now sold by his son and sole executor, Mr. Edward Pinchbeck."

Although "pinchbeck" is still employed in the sense of cheap jewelry, the term is now more often applied figuratively to anything that is counterfeit or spurious. "Where in these pinchbeck days," asked Anthony Trollope in "Framley Parsonage" (1861), "can we hope to find the old agricultural virtue in all its purity?"

"Brummagem" is used in a somewhat similar sense. The term is a town in England formerly noted for the manufacture of cheap jewelry, imitation gems and gilt toys. Hence "brummagem" signifies literally cheap or worthless metal articles made in imitation of better ones, and figuratively anything flimsy, worthless, gaudy, counterfeit, spurious or sham. Burmingham is still sometimes referred to in England as "Brum."

Vets Hospital Requires Wheel Chairs, Chess Sets

Editor,
The Ontario Intelligencer,

In February of this year, the Belleville Chapter of the I.O.D.E. donated seven radios to the Kingston Veterans' Hospital. Since then these radios have been in constant use and are greatly appreciated by the patients. We hope this organization realizes the value of their services and will accept our thanks.

Kingston Veterans' Hospital being in your district, many Belleville boys are reporting here for medical treatment. At present there are fifteen Belleville patients in the hospital, as well as a large number from the immediate district surrounding.

Like any hospital of its kind there are always shortages, despite the official allotment. It is in the allaying of these shortages that donations will be most appropriate and serviceable.

Because the hospital is mainly convalescent, necessitating rest cures, wheel chairs are among the most needed items. If the patients are to take fullest advantage of all the opportunities offered for educational advancement and entertainment during this enforced period of inactivity they must have transportation about the hospital. Again, many men are interested in chess, but owing to the shortage of chess sets, this activity has been curtailed.

These items are amongst the most needed at present. Any donations; either personal or through a club would be only too welcome.

Yours truly,
J. F. Scott,
N. A. Smith,
Occupational Therapists.

WHATEVER IT IS I'M AGAINST IT

Was it the laconic Cal Coolidge who inferred from a long sermon that the preacher was against sin?

Some readers may have inferred from casual remarks in this column that I am against alcohol. If so, I'm sorry, for that is not at all the way I would have it. I want every reader to know that I am against alcohol. That is to say I am against all indulgence in alcoholic beverage or liquor, and particularly against such indulgence in childhood and youth.

Now you may recall that some months ago. I approved of "A Glass of Wine for Granma." In that article I advised elderly folk to take a glass of ale, beer or wine once or twice a day, to make life pleasanter for themselves and for those who have to live with them, I added that I cannot tell you how old one should be before one begins to take ale, wine or beer—fifty, sixty, seventy, my playmate, Dr. ———, in his 88th year is not old enough yet to take it, but no doubt many individuals are old enough at fifty or sixty to need it. If I must state the minimum chronological age at which, in my judgment, a man or woman may safely begin taking one or two glasses of beer, ale or wine daily, I'll say age fifty.

Let me remind you right here that alcohol is never a stimulant but always a narcotic.

It is the narcotic effect that I believe may be desirable for the elderly individual. I believe the narcotic action of the quantity of alcohol in a glass of beer, ale or wine, is all the elderly individual gets from it, and he or she can get only the toxic, poisonous, injurious effect—intoxication—if he or she takes more than this limited quantity.

No one who respects the truth can possibly twist my recommendation of beer, ale or wine for the old folks into an excuse for a child, youth or young adult indulging in alcohol in any circumstance.

I must admit I am prejudiced against alcohol beverage and liquor and I wish to heaven I could destroy the business the wor over. (I say this with apologies my friend DeB—but he can't s I didn't warn him.)

Please understand clearly th I recommend this daily consum tion of beer, ale or wine f elderly folk solely because it narcotic. I am confident that medical or scientific authori will dispute the statement th alcoholic beverage or liquor not tonic in any state of ill heal or illness, nor is it a cure f anything.

Shall we consider why the o folks need a narcotic? Well, ma be the day after tomorrow.

Construction Put On Rewarks Not Intended

Ottawa, May 16. (CP)—Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court said on Wednesday he had not intended certain remarks made yesterday to "reflect on the integrity" of defence counsel in four espionage cases before him.

At the afternoon opening of the case of E. W. Mazerall, he said a "construction has been put on my remarks that was quite unintended by me."

The chief justice yesterday said defence counsel had acted in a "highly improper" manner in sending "two parties" to interview potential jurymen. I specifically mentioned R. A Hughes, Mazerall's lawyer.

Today, the chief justice said t "construction" had been "qui unfair to defence counsel a particularly to Mr. Hughes."

According to his informati and the assurances of Mr. Hugh —which he accepted "unreserve ly"—the information sought w such that it could have been o tained from an assessment roll other official documents.

However, this had been l sight of, and the chief justi said he had no intention of r motely suggesting that defen counsel were in any sense "gui of impropriety". There w nothing that reflected on th "as honorable gentleman law".

Quite unwittingly, the ch justice said, the defence lawy had taken a course of which disapproved and which "sho not be followed."

"IT'S BRISK THE WHOLE WORLD OVER!"

"Harry's been around . . . he says he's had tea in every port but has never yet met anything to beat brisk tasting Lipton's Tea!"

It's that brisk flavour that makes Lipton's the most popular tea in the world. Ordinary teas seem dull and flat-tasting, once you've tried the lively, refreshing, full-bodied flavour of Lipton's, always so tangy and spirited, never flat or insipid. Change to Lipton's the tea with that lively, brisk flavour.

Living Memorials Greatly Favored In Universities Expansion Program

By FRED KERNER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

High on the agenda of expansion of facilities, the question of war memorials is still to be considered by many Canadian universities. Topic of much debate at students' administrative council meetings during the past academic year, students, faculty and graduates alike have agreed that memorials to commemorate the sacrifice of their students and graduates in the Second Great War must be of the functional type rather than of the traditional cenotaph variety of the previous war.

A survey by The Canadian Press today showed that half-dozen major universities already have started their memorials, ranging from students' residences to stadia to scholarship funds. The others have made plans though many of these are in the formative stage.

Ideas for "living memorials" were many — students' union buildings; gymnasia; scholarship, bursary and loan funds; professorships in peace; stadia; recreation buildings; auditoria and residences. Funds for these have been raised by subscription, in some cases with the help of government grants.

Some Programs Completed.

Three Maritime Provinces' institutions have almost completed their memorials. At St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish, N.S., a football stadium is expected to be ready for autumn use this year. It will be the university's second "living memorial." First Great War dead having been honored when an artificial ice rink was built.

A $300,000 men's residence is under construction at Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S. Built to accommodate 150 students more than 130 — mostly veterans —used its unfinished rooms to help alleviate the housing shortage during the past year. A four-storey residence for men is almost completed, too, at Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B.

Addition to Gymnasium.

McGill University plans call for an addition to the Sir Arthur Currie memorial gymnasium and building will get under way as soon as materials are available. The new section — a memorial hall and swimming pool — will be added to in the future years with construction of an auditorium and hockey rink.

McGill also has announced institution of a bursary to commemorate the death of some 250 members of the officers' training course killed in action. The bursary was provided by veterans who took their training in the C.O.T.C.

A student union building is to be added to the University of Saskatchewan's sprawling campus at Saskatoon. At the University of Alberta, a scholarship fund to assist needy students has been instituted as a memorial.

A $500,000 gymnasium is planned for the University of British Columbia while the same amount is to be spent on a stadium and physical education building at the University of Manitoba.

Queen's Favors Campus Building

At Queen's, where no official plans have been made, consensus favors erection of a new campus building. Dalhousie University students want a new men's residence, while at the University of Toronto no plan has been approved though a memorial hall scheme is gaining favor. At a recent meeting McMaster University, Hamilton, Ont., decided to build a $200,000 recreation centre as a memorial.

University of New Brunswick students are supporting a skating rink project and serious consideration is being given the plan since such a building is needed by the city of Fredericton.

Sir George Williams College at Montreal, University of Montreal, University of Bishop's College, Lennoxville, Que., and Laval University, Quebec City, have not yet considered anything definite.

BATH DAY IN DON JAIL

Toronto, May 16 —(CP)— It was bath day in Toronto's Don Jail Wednesday so the heat was on despite the federal order forbidding use of soft coal to heat public buildings.

Officials said further that the jail is a damp building and it would be a hardship on its 300 prisoners to have to get along without heat. Boilers have to be operated to provide hot water for laundry, dish washing and bathing.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. A. Duffy, Toronto, returned home after spending a week with Mr. O. Brickman, Rossmore.

Mrs. John O'Connor, Port Colborne, has returned home after visiting her sister, Miss J. Buchanan, of this city.

Mrs. W. J. McMurran, (nee Doris Laubman), and son, Gary, of Toronto, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. MacDonald, Geddes St.

Dr. and Mrs. Roger Myers and children, Kathie and Doug, are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Salisbury, Bleecker Avenue.

On Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. John Bush, Dundas St., held a reception in honor of their daughter, Neta, and her husband, Dr. Angus Roberts, prior to their departure for Campbellford. About 50 guests were present. During the evening cards and other games were played and Dr. and Mrs. Roberts received many beautiful gifts. The rooms were beautifully decorated with Spring flowers. Later in the evening refreshments were served.

JOURNEY TIRES YOUNGSTER

Cambridge, Mass., May 16 — (AP)— The sandman caught up with four-year-old Joseph McElroy after he walked a mile from home. Joseph went to sleep on the sidewalk. A patrolman awakened the tot, who gave him the heavy eye and went back to sleep. Taken to hospital, Joseph awakened long enough to have his picture taken. Seven hours later, his parents found him in hospital still "sleeping it off."

WEDDINGS

KING—JARDINE

On May 11, at 2 p.m., Helen Eva, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Jardine, and Robert Leslie King, Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. George King, Tweed, were joined in marriage by the Rev. Eric Larsen, at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Tweed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of powder blue crepe with corded peplum, blue flowered hat and veil, and matching gloves, and a corsage of red roses. She was attended by Miss Ruth Woods, Tweed, who wore pink crepe with matching flowered hat and a corsage of embroidered pastel roses.

The groom was attended by Mr. Joseph Courneyea, Kingston.

The bride's gift to her attendant was a pair of silver clips. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold bracelet.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's mother receiving in a beige ensemble with matching accessories and a corsage of roses. The groom's mother who assisted her, wore black with fuchsia accessories and a corsage of white and fuchsia sweetpeas.

For the wedding trip to Toronto, where they will take up residence the bride chose an icicle blue suit with matching hat and black accessories. The groom, who was a lieutenant, served for six years with the armed forces.

HUFFMAN—O'BRIEN

Helen Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen O'Brien and John Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Huffman, were joined in marriage by the Rev. Father O'Donnell, in St. Michael's Church, on May 11, at 2 o'clock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a powder blue frock with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Thelma O'Brien, who wore a rose dress with brown accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. George Huffman, Toronto.

For the reception at the Olde Tavern Bar-B-Q the bride's mother received in a mauve ensemble with a corsage of Talisman roses, assisted by the groom's mother, who wore navy blue with corsage of red roses.

The groom's gift to the bride was a compact; to the bridesmaid, a set of gold earrings, and to the groomsman, a cocktail set.

Following the reception the young couple left for eastern points, the bride wearing a grey suit with black accessories. On their return they will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. G. Huffman, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bradshaw, Mr. P. Cavanagh, Mrs. B. Asseltine, Mrs. W. Shannon all of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. A. Reid, Port Credit, Mrs. Jack F. Martin, Napanee.

Parochial Guild Of St. Thomas' Holds Tea, Sale

On Wednesday afternoon, the Evening and "B" groups of the Parochial Guild of St. Thomas' Church held a delightful tea and sale of fancy work and home cooking at the home of Mrs. F. S. Wilson, George St. The home was beautifully decorated with Spring flowers and blossoms. Receiving the guests were Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. J. W. Howard.

The tea table, which held a beautiful centrepiece of hyacinths, forget-me-nots and red tulips, was presided over by Mesdames J. R. Abrams, A. E. Purdy, C. F. Lyall, and F. Macoun, while members of the groups served.

Articles on the home cooking table and fancy work table were quickly sold, and the treasurer for the afternoon reported the tea to be a success from every standpoint.

Exhibit of Paintings on View Widely Representative Of Many Phases Canadian Art

An exhibit of paintings from the Dominion Art Gallery, sponsored by the University Women's Club is being shown in the Collegiate today and Friday. The collection, widely representative of different phases in Canadian Art has caused much controversy and opinions are widely varied. In a talk on Wednesday afternoon, Miss Nugent, head of the Art Department at the Collegiate pointed out that our Canadian art has shown a 'vigorous' development, and has aroused much interest abroad. She added that to reach its fullest development, greater interest, appreciation, and support must be manifested by Canadians themselves.

Several Abstract Paintings

Included in the collection were still life, landscape, scenes from Canadian life and several abstract paintings. Although not necessarily a permanent factor in Canadian art, the latter are worthy of consideration. They show the trend toward lyricism, and the emphasis on mood rather than narrative in painting. Mrs. Edna Tacon's "Tonal Poem", with its subtle shading is an excellent example. Two paintings in the abstract by the eminent Canadian artist, Lauren Harris, exemplifying a definite phase in his career, drew much comment.

More familiar to Canadian art lovers and therefore more widely appreciated, were the two compositions by Arthur Lismer and A. Y. Jackson, both members of the Group of Seven. Mr. Lismer's "Sea Stuff", strong, delightfully colored, pleasantly interpreted the freshness of the sea air, moist and salty with spray. "Early Spring, L'Islet," with its subdued and subtle coloring, and the rhythm of the rolling hills, is typical of the work of Jackson, who abandoned attempts at literal representation, treating subjects from their decorative value.

Something Different in Art

"The Hunt", by Andre Bieler represented something different in Canadian art. Its powerful rhythm, vigorous movement, and liquid flow of line is typically Canadian. An European influence, descending from the old Italian masters is felt, however, in the soft and mellow coloring, and an added touch of individuality is found in his medium, a mixture of oil and tempera. The same power and vigor in the figures of Mr. Bieler, showing a Mexican touch, is seen in "Ditch Diggers", by Jack Bush. These two artists show a greater attempt in skilfull arrangement of color and line than any among the collection.

Two Strong Paintings

Two strong paintings by W. A. Winter, "Dogfight" and "Midnight at Charlie's" are outstanding. The latter is more of a suggestion of mood than a descriptive picture. The impenetrable and slightly bored expression on the face of Charlie, combined with amusing detail, adds to the atmosphere. In "The Dogfight", a startling contrast of color, of light and shade, together with an intriguing brush stroke, makes this one of the most arresting members of the group.

"Cape Breton House", by Peter Haworth, and "Ontario Gothic", by his wife, B. Coghill Haworth, make an interesting pair. The latter is perhaps the more outstanding of the two. Modern in treatment, Victorian in spirit and attention to detail, it is fascinating in its very contradiction. By contrast, the "Cape Breton House" is criticized for its caution, and undue regard for the rules.

Should Be Observed

"Rocks and Birch Tree" by Henri Masson, should be singularly observed and remembered. He is coming to be considered one of Canada's most promising young artists, following in mass of color, bold lines, but more subtle coloring, the tradition of Thom Thomson.

It must be noted that it is not necessary to like these paintings. They are representative of Canadian art as it is being expressed today, not essentially of what is of permanent value. Paintings do not try to tell us anything, but our interest may help us to understand life. The variety of modern art reflects the complexity of modern life.

Green Onions, Radishes and Lettuce

Green onions, radishes and lettuce are the fresh vegetables most plentiful these days in the backyard garden and on the market. People who are lucky enough to have a garden, even a small one, are anxiously watching for the first vegetables which will reward their efforts.

The patriotic homemaker wants to use all food, whether bought or grown, in a way that will reduce waste to a minimum. The world need for food is great and Canadians are asked to avoid waste by all possible means. Green onions for instance are good all the way up, the white and the green parts are both edible. They can be used in salads, soups, etc., just like other varieties of onions. Instead of serving the green onions with all the green part and having most of it left in the plate, the green portion may be cut off and used to give a delicate flavor of onion to a soup, salad, cream sauce or gravy. Besides adding flavor it gives a gay colorful touch.

A salad dressing to which chopped green onions and sliced radishes are added, served on plain lettuce leaves make a very attractive and quickly prepared salad. Green onions may also be cooked whole and served like asparagus with a cheese or tangy sauce. Radishes need not be used only as a garnish to be eaten raw, they are delicious when cooked and served as creamed radishes or in soup.

The home economists of the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture offer recipes which will prevent unnecessary waste of these vegetabls. A recipe uses macaroni but with it there will be no need to serve bread.

MACARONI SPRING SALAD

2 cups cooked cooled elbow macaroni
1-2 cup chopped green onions
1 cup sliced or shredded raw carrots
1 bunch radishes, about 3-4 c. sliced
2 cups lettuce cut in pieces
1-3 cup boiled dressing.

To cooked macaroni add green onions and boiled dressing and mix thoroughly. Cool and chill for at least 1-2 hour. Add carrots, radishes and lettuce. Toss lightly but thoroughly. Serve on whole lettuce leaves. Six servings.

SAVOURY GREENS

3 cups cooked greens (about 2 lbs. beet tops, lettuce, spinach, swiss chard, etc.)
3 strips bacon, chopped.
1-4 cup chopped green onions
Salt and pepper.

Mash and cook greens. Meanwhile partially fry out bacon add green onions and cook 2 to 3 minutes. Add to hot cooked greens, season with salt and pepper and serve at once. Six servings.

GREEN AND RED SALAD

1 tablespoon gelatine
1-4 cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
1-4 cup sugar
1-2 teasp. salt
1-4 cup mild vinegar
3 cups finely shredded leaf lettuce
1-2 cup sliced radishes
1-2 cup chopped green onions

Soak gelatine in cold water. Add boiling water, sugar, salt and vinegar. Stir until gelatine is dissolved and cool. Lightly grease six individual moulds and pour a little of the mixture into each. Combine lettuce, radishes and green onions and arrange on mixture; cover with remaining liquid. Chill until firm. Unmould on whole lettuce leaves and serve with boiled dressing. Six servings.

EVENING AUXILIARY TABERNACLE CHURCH

The Evening Auxiliary of Tabernacle United Church met at the home of Mrs. Arnold Wessels, Station Street, on Friday evening, for its monthly meeting, with the President, Mrs. Edith Stanton, presiding. During the business period folders of greeting cards were distributed to members to sell.

Miss Ethel Horton was in charge of the devotional period.

Miss Delia Johnston was in charge of the study period which pertained to the Anglo Mission in Africa. Other members taking part were Rachel Fox, Lou Dougherty, Clara Matthews, Leona Bailey and Dorcas Cowles.

During the evening the president paid tribute to the memory of Miss Jessie Smith, who was a valued and faithful member of the Auxiliary and who recently was called to her Eternal Home.

An invitation from Christ Church Auxiliary to meet with them on the evening of June 3, was read and it was decided to accept this kind invitation.

Leona Bailey extended an invitation to the Auxiliary to meet at her home for the June meeting. Refreshments were served by Dorcas Cowles and Clara Matthews.

The meeting was brought to a close and the hostess thanked for her hospitality.

CHARCOAL PLANT BURNS

South River, May 16 — (CP)— The factory department of the Standard Chemical Company in this North Bay district municipality was swept by fire overnight. No estimate of the loss was available immediately.

Located here for 30 years, the plant employs 85 men who carbonized 75 cords of hardwood daily in the huge ovens. President of the Company is E. P. Taylor, prominent Canadian businessman.

This morning firemen still battled flames but the fire was under control.

Questions and Answers

Readers may direct their questions, giving their name and address to Information Branch, WPTB, 490 Sussex St., Ottawa.

Q. I often notice that butchers in my neighborhood detach more meat coupons than necessary from ration books, and they say it is against regulations if I take out the proper coupons myself. Is this correct?

A. When you purchase a rationed food, you may detach the necessary coupons yourself, as long as the retailer is a witness of this action or you may require that the retailer detach the coupons in your presence. Charts showing the coupons values for various cuts of meat are posted in butcher shops and you may check from these.

Q. I rented a three roomed flat about six months ago. Now the landlady wants one of the rooms. Can she claim this room and am I supposed to pay the same amount for two rooms? When you rent a flat of this kind are your small children allowed to play on the porch or in the yard?

A. You seem to have a lot of rentals problems..first, the landlady cannot claim one of your rooms without securing permission from the Rentals Administration..she would have to make application on the proper forms and the reason would have to be a very strong one before such permission would be granted. Naturally you would not be expected to pay the same rent for two rooms as was charged for three. Whether or not the children are allowed to play on the porch or in the yard is a matter which must be settled between you and your landlady.

Q. A grocer would only give me one quarter of a pound of butter because he said he didn't have very much. However, he took a coupon. Is he allowed to take one butter coupon for only a quarter of a pound?

A. No..definitely not. Under Prices Board regulations, retailers resorting to this practice are liable to prosecution. If you would send us the name of this grocer we will have our investigation division check on him immediately.

Q. I rent a cottage which is badly in need of repairs. I think the rent charged is too high. How can I find out if I am paying more than the proper rental?

A. Apply to the nearest Rentals office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board if your landlord cannot give you definite information as to the ceiling price of the cottage.

Kitchen Shower Held For Miss Kilpatrick

On Tuesday evening, a very lovely kitchen shower was held at the home of Mrs. K. Onderdonk, Geddes Street, in honor of Miss Donaline Kilpatrick.

The evening was spent playing bingo. The bride-elect received many useful gifts of white enamelware presented to her by Mrs. A. Sager in a prettily decorated basket for which she thanked her friends.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, after which the friends departed wishing Donaline best wishes for the future.

RAWDON

Burnbrae Entertains Mount Pleasant Young People's Union

Rawdon.—On Monday evening, May 13, Burnbrae folk entertained Mount Pleasant Young People's Union and Two-by-Two Club and about forty of the Mount Pleasant folk took advantage of the invitation.

Mr. Charles Carter opened with a hymn and prayer and welcomed the guests.

Rev. F. F. Townsend then took charge of the program and responded to the welcome.

The worship service was based on "Who is Thy Neighbor" with Mrs. Kenneth Weaver giving a paper on that theme.

Mrs. Marguerite McMullen sang a vocal selection and Mrs. Irvin Reid read the Bible lesson.

Miss Betty McConnell rendered a musical number and Mr. O. Sharp read a selection.

Miss Lois Weaver contributed a piano solo and Mrs. Herb Smith gave a reading.

Mrs. John Mulheron delighted with a musical number and Mrs. M. McMullen sang a selection.

Miss Audrey Robson gave a paper on the subject "Learning How to Live".

Mrs. Carleton Potts and Mrs. Burton Sharp sang a vocal duet.

Mr. John Coggins staged a couple of games and Miss Clara Thain conducted a contest.

The Burnbrae folk served a repast of sandwiches and cake.

Mr. & Mrs. J. Huffman Honored by Friends

On Monday evening, a surprise shower was very much enjoyed by about forty friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Huffman, (nee Helen O'Brien), at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Spencer, North Charles Street. Cards were played early in the evening, then the guests of honor were presented with a basket full of enamelware and kitchen utensils. The Modern Cleaners, where the groom is employed, also presented them with a lovely walnut end table. Refreshments were served.

POSSE ROUTS ROBBERS

Orono, Ont., May 16 —(CP)— A posse of eight business men from this Clarke township community, armed with rifles and shotguns, routed four robbers who broke into the Orono creameries early Wednesday.

HOLLOWAY STREET Y.P.U.

About one hundred young people gathered at Holloway Street Church on Monday evening, for a missionary program, under the direction of Ray Gunsolus. The Young People of Frankford and Stirling were guests of Holloway Street Union.

After a sing-song led by Norma Arkles, the President, Miss Maude Burke, conducted the business period. The Tennis Club is resuming its activities for the summer season, beginning with a pot-luck supper on June 3rd.

Congratulations were tendered Doris Scott, Maude Burke, R. Gunsolus, and Harry Denton, who were appointed to the executive of Belleville Presbytery at the convention in Trenton, May eleventh.

During the worship hour, Shirley Hitchon, Alice Heasman, Dorothy Seal, Dorothy Mitts, Mary Payne, Jean Holden and Ray Gunsolus presented a suitable and inspiring missionary service.

Doris Thrasher rendered a solo "Teach Us To Pray".

The Young People were privileged to have as their guest speaker, Rev. Andrew McLauchlin, who held the keen interest of his audience as he told of some of the interviews he has had with such great personalities as the late Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill and Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain.

Mr. N. A. (Pete) Beach, of Albert College staff, led the entire group in some very enjoyable games and stunts.

After refreshments a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. McLauchlin and Mr. Beach.

The singing of "Blest Be The Tie that Binds", in the friendship circle, closed the meeting.

ke the following letter, for nce, in which a man com-ns that he can't figure out t the girl he wants is trying o.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been going with a girl
a year now. She is a very e girl, the kind of a girl a ow dreams of settling down
h. I love her very much,
she said she liked me, and at I was a swell fellow and f any girl would be glad to me. She would always say
t I would meet some nice
, and that would burn me up, when I only wanted her.

"It seems she met a fellow a couple of years ago. He was in the armed forces and she liked him very much. Just before he came home, we had a tiff and broke up. It seemed to me that she just used that as an excuse so that she could be with this fellow. Well, when he came home they want around together, but things didn't work out and they broke up.

"So I called her up, with the idea of going out with her again, but she seems to keep stalling me off, so that I don't know what she is trying to do. I ask her if she wants to go out with me any more and she says yes, but she keeps putting it off. She keeps telling me what she did this night and where she went and what she intends to do the following night, but there seems to be no free night for me.

"As for me, I'm not much of a guy. I haven't got a car or a bank book. I have a steady job, but I did take a lot of time off, and she resents this bitterly as she is a very industrious person. I understand all this and try to do my best, but I can't seem to keep my mind on my work when things are not going right between us. I love her so much there isn't anything in this world I wouldn't do for her. I feel she is trying to break off with me and is trying to be gentle about it, but this way hurts me, for I feel I still have a chance with her.

"E. C."

If you feel as you say, that this girl is trying to break off with you, and is trying to do it in a nice way, why don't you accept that fact, and not worry her to the point where she may have to say some really harsh things before you will let her alone? It seems to me as though you were just kidding yourself along when you say you feel you still have a chance with her.

If there really is a chance for you, she won't leave you in doubt about it. She'll make it perfectly clear by accepting your invitations instead of continually declining them. And if she does keep on declining them, then, no matter what else she may say, you ought to take it as a purposeful hint that she would rather you didn't pursue her. It's a hard thing to do, when you're in love with a girl, but you ought to have too much masculine pride to do anything else.

Attempt Birth Control Long-Range Seagulls

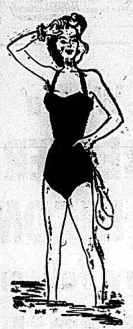
Portland, Me., May 16. (AP) — Birth control of long-range seagulls which have been damaging crops 100 miles inland will be attempted again this year by egg-seeking United States game management agents.

The agents will launch their drive May 30 on Islands between Jonesport and the Isle of Shoals off New Hampshire's coast, spraying nests with a water soluble, oil emulsion which seals egg pores and prevents development of the embryo.

Herring gulls, protected by State and Federal laws, have increased so greatly that there isn't enough beach refuse to provide their food needs and they've turned to blue berrying and sampling of other crops, says Lee F. Brackett, game management agent for Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Seagulls live to a "ripe old age", complicating birth-control problems, Mr. Brackett said.

Sleek and Svelt Swim Suit



Well-cut bathing suit

By VERA WINSTON

SLEEK, form-fitting and black, this swim suit is the perfect foil for a glorious tan. It answers all the questions, since it is not only slim, and black and form-fitting, but is of wool jersey and meticulously cut. It is horizontally draped from front centre to side seams, and the back is the same, with a slide fastening. A cuff of the material turns down over the camisole top.

Chic Polished Patten

Here is an off-the-face scoop of lacquered straw with a true patent gleam . . . a most beguiling topper for spring woollens, apt ensembler with other patent acessories. The bonnet has a scalloped brim and a band and upstanding bow loops of dull black taffeta ribbon in good contrast.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

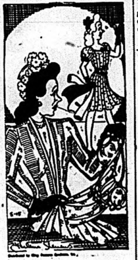
Live Gallantly. That is the Answer.

"It seems to me," remarked the Social Philosopher," that many women are chasing beauty rainbows, who are never to find the pot of gold at the rainbow's end. It is a pity. They fling money recklessly, sometimes getting returns, sometimes not. They seek the illusion of youth when youth has long since been lost to them. They do this by imitating the hairdress of sweet sixteen and by wearing juvenile clothes. In many cases, the more they try to look young, the older they seem, because dressing out of one's age bracket calls attention to defects that, otherwise, would not be noticed.

"If they would only endeavor to learn something about the art of living," she continued. "Life should be a zestful experience, despite cares and disappointments. The beautiful moment intensifies life, yet many of us make no effort to enjoy it. A kindly act, tender words, the pressure of a hand will impart a radiance to the countenance that can never be acquired by plying the rouge pad and the lipstick. Think what a mean spirit does to the human face! It distorts it, gives it an appalling appearance. Truly, the greatest cosmetic in the world is purity of spirit. It gives one ease, graciousness, loveliness.

"The thing to do," went on the Social Philosopher, "is to begin the day with the determination that you are going to live it splendidly. You will not harbor unpleasant memories. You will nurse no fears of any kind. You will give speech to no quick words. You'll be sweet, no matter what happens.

"You will bear with the stupidities of those with whom you come in contact. After all, you will tell yourself, you are not always wise. Remember about the mote and the beam. You will not assume affectations, but will be natural, your real self. Affectations are obvious to every one. You will tell the truth, even about little things. Lies catch up with one. Only the dumb ones among us are afraid to tell the truth.



They seek the illusion of youth

"To be beautiful, one must know definitely what beauty is. It is not merely a pair of sparkling eyes or a lovely canopy of ambrosial locks. It is character, vitality, the thoughts inside the head. It is health, poise, gracefulness, gentleness of voice, intelligence. Beauty is a formula of many component parts.

"External loveliness is a priceless blessing. It is right and proper that every woman should call to her aid all the beauty helps of our modern time. She should keep her weight down, and her spirits up. But she makes a grave mistake if she believes that to please the eye is all there is to the pulchritude campaign."

Margaret Truman To be No.1U. S. Girl Graduate

Washington, May 16. (AP) — On a quiet college campus, just a short stroll from the White House, they're laying claim to the No. 1 girl graduate in America's Class of '46.

Because her name begins with "T", she'll be almost the last of 400 classmates to parade by for a diploma and handshake from Dr. C. H. Marvin, president of George Washington University.

But because her home is the nearby White House, 22-year-old Margaret Truman's A.B. degree, with history major and high B average, is more than just a family event.

Graduation day—May 29—will be a double diploma occasion for the Trumans. Margaret's father, not a college graduate himself, will head his daughter's academic procession to add another doctor of laws to his growing collection of honorary degrees.

Though Margaret has sometimes wanted to put aside college classes for voice lessons, the President has stood firm that her academic degree must come first.

The graduation exercises promise to be a special occasion in more respects than one, for Margaret's 93-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Martha Truman, is expected from Grandview, Mo.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMA

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What can be done about a friend whom I've tried to tell, as subtly as possible, that it isn't good taste to ask personal questions, 'How much did your coat cost?" "How much of a tip do you give to your permanent wave operator?" etc. I think such inquisitiveness is bad manners, don't you?

H. S.

Inquisitiveness is indeed bad manners, and Polly Pry and Peter Pry should realize that if they persist in asking questions that are too personal, questions that others resent and may not want to answer, they'll be avoided by people who don't want to take the trouble to struggle with such rudeness.

To know how to side-step answering the questions of these inquisitive people is quite a problem. It's not pleasant to return rudeness for rudeness; a lie, even a white lie, isn't the solution. But an evasive answer, repeated once or twice if necessary, usually makes the inquisitive person realize his or her rudeness: For example, "I wouldn't dare tell you how much I paid for my coat. . . I'm sure you wouldn't approve (or "that you wouldn't believe me")", or "I'm sure I tipped too much so I won't confess to you how much." In other words, try to make some quick comment on the circumstance of the question, but don't answer the question!

Unusual, Wedding Problems

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it ever permissible for some of the ushers to be seated at a table other than the wedding party table?

2. If the ushers are married, must their wives be invited to sit at the wedding party table?

3. Is it permissible for the groom, best man, and bride's father to wear white double-breasted jackets at a June wedding?

4. Does the bride lift the veil from her face (1) hen she kisses her father befo oining the bridegroom (2) bu the ceremony, or (3) aft he and the groom are pronou man and wife?

I. A. F.

1. No. It woul e extremely discourteous to th hers not invited to sit at th ride's table. If it is not possib include all the ushers at br s table, buffet service should substituted for sit-down servi or the members of the wedd party.

2. No. Unless, course, they are members of t bridal party.

3. This depends n the weather . . . but us such attire is appropriate for midsummer weddin

4. When the ide wears a face-veil, her m of honor lifts it and puts it ck from her face after the remony. (The face-veil, somes called the "blusher", is propriate only for a very you demure bride, the tradition b that the bride of this type is o timid to face a congregato ithout wearing a veil over face, and that she reveals h face only when she is a marri woman.)

Fashio Flashes

DRIZZLE ZLE is our own particular na for the grand array of rainr now available in all sorts fabrics, plastics, and colors. ht red processed fabric is used r a fine coat with an attached e hood. Another nice numbe a smart shortie with matchi wraparound skirt.

Never at loss for good appearance w a nice little dinner suit is ie wardrobe. Good for all and r many seasons is a short-ski dinner suit of black silk ta faille. The snug jacket, ed with tiny jet buttons, intricately-draped pannier p ts at the hipline.

Just lik ollecting paintings is what some print enthusiasts say about their penchant for buying print frocks. Especially lovely is a white crepe frock printed all over in brown ranging from ginger to dark leaf tones. The pattern is one of flowers and ribbon garlands interspersed with leaves. Simple bodice; skirt draped with harem folds on either side.

Pretty practical, we think, is an umbrella with a square lucite handle. Top lifts off to disclose a compact complete with mirror and generous powder compartment. Compact has a lace pattern top.

Hands out for beautiful gloves. Pale pink or pale blue suede with a deep, scalloped inset of matching satin on the long, flared cuff, makes a beautiful and dressy summer glove.

The biggest season ever for costume jewelry say the manufacturers and the stores. Made to top a high, rounded neckline is a three-strand choker necklace with large pink and blue beads alternating with small gold and silver ones. Finished with a large rhinestone clasp that is worn to one side in front.

DALMAS - KNAPP

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Knapp was the scene of a very pretty wedding at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon when their only daughter, Ada, was married to Mr. Clifford Dalmas, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Dalmas, Rev. Zurbrigg, of Toronto, being the officiating clergyman. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Saddler of Toronto.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin and lace with a finger-tip veil held with a Mary Queen of Scots head-dress. Her white hose were 125 years old and had been worn by a great, great aunt. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and baby breath.

The attendants were Miss Doris Saddler of Toronto and Miss Neta Smith. The former wore a pale blue sheer floor-length gown and blue shoulder length veil, while the latter was gowned in a matching frock of pale pink. Both carried bouquets of red roses and white baby breath.

Mr. Everett Bryant was best man.

The bride's mother received in a blue sheer gown with a corsage of pink carnations.

Owing to the illness of the groom's father, his mother was unable to be present. Mrs. G. Langdon of Brighton, eldest sister of the groom, received with Mrs. Knapp. She wore a frock of violet crepe and corsage of pink and white carnations.

Following a buffet lunche the bride and groom left on motor trip to New York, the bri travelling in a wine colored ve vet dress and hat and biege co

The gifts were beautiful a useful and showed the high e teem in which the young coup are held.

Why a STILL GREATER SHARE OF THE INCOME TAX may fall on INDIVIDUALS

There is a very grave danger that a higher percentage of the country's revenue than at present may have to come in the future from your personal income tax.

Tax-free co-operatives, crown companies, government and municipally owned corporations are rapidly expanding in numbers and scope. Because of the fact that they escape paying income tax, the government is already losing 125 millions of dollars of potential revenue annually (Estimate of Professor J. L. McDougall presented to a special committee of the Senate).

That means that all individual tax payers in Canada pay an extra $50.00 each, on the average, in income tax, so that these corporations may be tax-free.

4500 tax-free co-operatives

Some 4500 co-operatives in this country have been escaping income tax because they claimed that co-operatives make no profits.

A Royal Commission on Co-operatives has declared that co-operatives do make profits, and has recommended that their profits be taxed. But it has also recommended that profits paid out to customers in the form of "patronage dividends" should be treated as an expense in computing taxable income.

If this latter recommendation of the Royal Commission becomes law, co-operatives and other businesses will be at liberty to pay out all their earnings as patronage dividends, leaving nothing to tax.

Co-operatives and privately owned businesses would be entirely free to decide whether or not they chose to pay income tax.

All profits must be taxed equally

If this country is going to have an income tax law, then all profits must be taxed, and taxed fairly. We do not object to the payment of "patronage dividends" out of profits after income tax has been paid. But we do object to the recommendation that patronage dividends be classed as an ordinary expense of doing business. "Patronage dividends" must be placed in the same category as the dividends from any privately owned business.

Revision of The Income War Tax Act, insofar as it concerns Co-operatives, will come before the current Session of Parliament. It is of utmost importance that such revisions shall bring tax equality to all groups. We urge that the income tax payers of Canada insist that their elected representatives in the House of Commons see that the heavy burden of income tax is shared fairly by all.

The Income Tax Payers Association has no objection to the principles of co-operative trading. It should be the right of every Canadian to trade as he desires. Our objective is to ensure that no section of business unloads its share of income taxation and cost of the war on other business or on individual income tax payers.

WRITE OTTAWA

You can assist in correcting this unfair tax situation by writing immediately to the Government urging equitable application of Income Taxation to all forms of business.

Fill out and mail the attached form. No postage is required.

Hon. J. L. Ilsley,
Minister of Finance,
Ottawa, Canada.

I respectfully urge

1. That the Government apply income taxation on exactly the same basis on all forms of commercial enterprise, including co-operatives, Crown companies, municipal and governmental enterprises and mutual concerns.
2. That patronage dividends, and like payments, be disallowed as an expense before arriving at taxable income.

Seeding of New Crops in Canada Ahead of Same Time Last Year Except in Maritime Provinces

(By The Canadian Press)

Seeding of the new crops across the country is well ahead of this time last year except in the Maritimes, a survey by The Canadian Press showed today. And farmers are planting more wheat than last year.

In Manitoba is 90 per cent seeded already, and in all three Prairie provinces more wheat acreage is being sown than last year. But oats acreage is lower.

Barley is increased in Manitoba, but lower in Saskatchewan and Alberta. Rye acreage is the same as last year in Manitoba but higher in Saskatchewan and Alberta. And flax is increased in Manitoba, but lower in the two other provinces.

Ontario and Quebec Ahead

Ontario and Quebec are also well ahead of last year with seeding and planting. But wet, chilly weather has resulted in very little planting being done in the Maritimes so far.

In British Columbia prospects appear excellent, tree and small fruits having wintered well and crop and pasture conditions being favorable.

Alberta last year had 5,824,000 acres in wheat and this year the acreage will be 14 per cent higher.

In Saskatchewan there were 13,610,000 acres of wheat last year. This year it's estimated there will be 15,500,000.

In Manitoba early sown grain is already two or three inches high in some districts, with wheat seeding 90 per cent complete and coarse grains about half finished. Manitoba last year had 2,132,000 acres of wheat; this year the province should have 2,537,000 acres.

Most of Acreage Seeded

Farmers in Central and Western Ontario had most of their acreage seeded early in May and these districts now are sowing corn, early tomatoes, soy and dry beans, and coarse grains. Cool wet weather in Eastern Ontario slowed up Spring operations. In Northern Ontario seeding should be completed in the next week or so.

With the exception of a few eastern and northern counties Ontario weather has been unusually dry with the result the soil worked easily into an excellent seed bed. But good rains and warm weather are badly needed for germination.

Winter killing of Fall wheat, hay and clover crops was considerable in central and eastern Ontario. The weather so far has been unfavorable for growth of these crops and of course for pastures too, with most milking herds still stabled.

Higher Acreage in Ontario

Ontario is expected to seed a somewhat higher acreage of Spring grains, and a considerable increase in acreage of tobacco, soy beans, corn, early potatoes, field peas, and sugar beets. Last official estimate of sugar beet acreage gave a total of 26,020 compared with 19,905 acres on the same date last year. About 70 per cent of the sugar beet acreage was seeded by May 10.

Ontario expects the biggest tobacco crops in history, with a 20 per cent increase in all types. The plants will be set out around May 24. The tobacco growers are anxious for ample rainfall right now, however.

Wintered Well, but Frost Damage

Western Ontario reports that all tree, vine, bush and small fruit plantations wintered very well but sharp frosts in recent weeks caused extensive damage to blossom of sweet and sour cherries, Japanese plums and some varieties of pears and peaches. Apples were also adversely affected in Western Ontario and the Georgian Bay area. In the Niagara Peninsula and around Burlington apples however were practically undamaged.

All vegetable growing districts in Ontario expect increased acreages this year in practically all vegetables. Transplanting and seeding is up to normal in most places and well ahead of normal in others.

Ontario imported 5,406 carloads of potatoes last year to bolster its own supply and additional supplies will be needed again this year before the province's crop is available. Some growers are increasing potato acreage where they have suitable land, labor and machinery. Others are reducing their acreage. Farms in Ontario long have regarded potatoes as a specialized crop.

Based on Uses Claim

Mrs. Strum said the increase in farm machinery was based on established abuses. The implement firms were attempting to see how much profit they could make and how far they could go in defying the government.

While the labor and material costs of the company may have gone up other costs had dropped. The companies no longer needed travelling salesmen or advertising to sell their products. Farmers bought for cash and paid prices which covered any loss the companies might suffer from time payments.

Mr. Mayhew said he had, at the request of Finance Minister Ilsley, sat in with Prices Board officials to study the farm implement situation. It had been estimated that some companies would have had to go out of business while others would have lost large sums of money had not the increase been granted.

Farmers Benefit by Controls.

He was not arguing the case of the farm machinery companies and was sure the Prices Board was not doing so. It would appear, he said, that the Canadian farmer had benefitted from a better system of price control.

Mr. Gillis said the price ceiling policy of the government was out of line. Industries and manufacturers were being granted increases, but other sections of the population were not.

He feared industrial upheaval if something was not done soon to meet the "conservative" demands of labor. The government figures showing the rise in the cost of living were not representative of the true situation. Prices had gone up all across the board except as far as wages were concerned.

Mr. Cleaver said it was estimated $34,000,000 worth of farm implements would be produced by Canadian firms this year. The 12½ per cent increase represented $4,250,000 of the gross amount. Life of the implements would average about 10 years, making the increase small if spread over that period.

Receiving Fair Share.

All groups in Canada were receiving their fair share of the national income insofar as it was humanly possible to apportion that income. The share of one group could not be increased without considering the other.

No one liked price control or wage control but they were necessities which would have to be retained as long as there was a need for them.

Mr. Harkness said Western farmers were dissatisfied. They were selling export wheat at $1.55 a bushel while the same wheat sold in Chicago for $2.18 a bushel. The differential in the prices of oats and barley was about the same. Meantime, Western farmers, as taxpayers, were bearing their share of the cost of subsidies paid under the price stabilization policy.

Beef cattle producers, because of the small increase allowed on their product compared with the retail price for meat, felt they were subsidizing the meat consumers.

6 GERMAN P.O.W. FOR WORK

Stratford, May 16 —(CP)— R. N. Watt, manager of the National Employment Service office Tuesday said six German prisoners of war from the Chatham camp were on their way here for summer work on district farms. The farmers who will employ them went Monday to bring them from a war prisoner pool at Fingal, Ont.

"The purpose was for show or effect," he said. "They were young and didn't think anyone would hand over money if they didn't have some pretense of power. Before entering the store all had shown, I submit, some interest that the guns be not fired. There were the words that there was to be no shooting regardless of what happened."

H. M. McMaster, counsel for Donald Warner, in asking for acquittal of the youngest of the accused said that Warner never had been party to an agreement that contemplated more than a non-violent robbery.

A. O'Mara, counsel for Urquhart, also asking acquittal, said Urquhart was the driver of the stolen car, the one who remained in the car outside the dress shop. Urquhart was "guilty of something," he said, but not of the murder of a man whom he had never seen.

HOME OF SLOTH BEAR

The common black bear or sloth bear is found throughout India wherever rocky hills and forests occur. Its food consists of ants, honey and fruit but when disturbed it will attack man.

White's District

White's District—Mother's Day service was observed at White's Church on Sunday evening May 12th., with the superintendent of the Sunday School, Mrs. W. A. Jeffery in charge, assisted by the pastor, the Rev. A. C. McCallum. The theme of the service was "We All Share in Making the Home." The pianist, Mrs. W. A. Jeffery, played a soft musical prelude and appropriate hymns were sung throughout the service. The junior choir sang, "Father We Thank Thee," while the adult choir rendered "The Safest Way" a Mother's Day anthem. Miss Sheila Moore favored with two violin solos. The offering was taken by Messrs. Garnet Reid and Donald Sandercock. Mr. McCallum delivered a fine address in which he said that the originator of Mother's Day was Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia. She thought "mothers" should be honored and it has been observed ever since by churches in United States, Canada, Great Britain and other Christian nations.

Mr. and Mrs. A. McGee of Stirling were Friday guests of Mr. J. Megginson.

Several of the residents of the community spent Mother's Day with their families.

The recent rains have helped the crops and pastures as well as the garden plots. Rhubarb is very plentiful now and early onions are making a good showing. Herds of cattle are again out on pasture and the farmers' wives are busy with their flocks of baby chicks.

Counsel Outlines Appeal Argument In Nashkawa Case

Toronto, May 16. (CP)—P. S. MacKenzie, of Walkerton, Wednesday told Ontario Court of Appeals he intended to argue that Pte. Walter Lavallee was not sitting in an overstuffed armchair rocker in which the Crown said he was sitting when shot and killed on the Saugeen Indian Reserve near Southampton last Jan. sixth.

Mr. MacKenzie made his statement as he continued his submission on behalf of Neil Nashkawa, 23-year-old Indian convicted at Walkerton of shooting Lavallee. The appeal started Tuesday at Osgoode Hall.

Mr. MacKenzie also said he would submit that Lavallee was not shot with a .43 calibre rifle, as the Crown contended, and that the type of wound was not consistent with that kind of weapon.

The chair in which Crown witnesses said Lavalee sat when he was shot was produced in court. Mr. MacKenzie showed the court a large hole in the back of the faded green rocker and said there were no blood stains on the chair.

Contention for Defence

In his introductory remarks, Mr. MacKenzie said he would contend that the evidence was circumstantial and as consistent with innocence as with guilt; that there was misdirection of the jury with regard to certain tests; that the trial judge did not sum up fairly and in a manner required by law and did not analyze such evidence as was favorabel to the defence.

The bullet entered Lavalle's chest and came out at the back of his neck, Mr. MacKenzie said. He said this would be inconsistent with the position of the hole in the chair back.

"Certain footprints were discovered near the house in which Lavallee was killed but no mention was made at the trial of when they were made, or by whom they were made," said Mr. MacKenzie. "There was nothing whatever in the evidence produced to establish that they were made by the overshoes alleged to have been worn by Nashkawa. In fact, evidence was introduced to show they couldn't have been made by the accused."

Discussion of Chair

Returning to discussion of the chair, Mr. MacKenzie said a ballistics expert, Inspector J. A. Churchman of Ottawa, said after exhaustive tests he could only say that a bullet found in the back of the chair was a .43 Mauser bullet. He could not state from what gun it was fired. No expended cartridge was found in the vicinity of the house where Lavallee was killed, Mr. MacKenzie said.

Footprints found near the house showed a clear heel mark, Mr. MacKenzie said. He showed the court the accused's overshoes which, he said, had no distinct heel. The overshoes had been found on a roadside, he said, and identified as those of Nashkawa.

"Were the overshoes found on the side of the road taken and fitted into these prints near the house?" the court asked.

"There was no evidence of that, my Lord," replied Mr. MacKenzie. "Nor was any effort made to make a cast of the prints."

"There's no evidence that these were the accused's prints?" the court pursued.

"No, my Lord."

Mr. MacKenzie said evidence was that when the overshoes were found on the roadside, they were wet but clean. If they had been worn by the person who made the footprints, they would have been muddy, he said.

Hearing the appeal are Chief Justice R. S. Robertson and Justices W. T. Henderson, R. E. Laidlaw, W. D. Coach and F. D. Hogg.

At lunch hour adjournment Mr. MacKenkie told The Canadian Press he did not expect to complete his submission within the two hours remaining in today's session.

Multi - Millionaire Given 4 Years

Paris, May 16 — (Reuters) — Found guilty of murder in a midnight shooting in the gardens of a magnificent chateau, 73-year-Dr. Gaston Ducatte, French multi - millionaire, was sentenced to four years' imprisonment for killing his gardener, Alphonse Albert, alleged lover of his 16-year-old daughter Jacqueline.

Dr. Ducatte, telling the court of the shooting and his daughter's love affair with Albert, said:

"After a farewell dinner April 4 for my daughter who was returning to Paris to sit for her matriculation examination, my wife told me Albert had entered Jacqueline's bedroom.

"For more than an hour he threatened her and tried to persuade her to steal the key to my safe. He said unless he got the key he would kill someone in the family.

"Next night my son and I lay in wait for Albert with shotguns. At 11:30 we saw a shadow in the castle grounds. My son fired in the air. The shadow turned towards me and I fired at it. Albert lay dead at my feet."

Jacqueline Ducatte, in evidence, said she realized too late that Albert just wanted money. "He threatened to kill me," she told the court.

Ducatte's son, a 23-year-old medical student, accused of complicity, received a three-year suspended sentence.

BEAVERS "PAIN IN NECK"

Lindsay, May 16 —(CP)— Beavers, building dams in Eldon township, are just "a pain in the neck" to members of the township council. TRENTON

Official Visit D. D. G. M. Made To Trent Lodge

Trenton—The official visit of Rt. Wor. Bro. O. M. Newton was made to Trent Lodge No. 38, Trenton, on Tuesday evening last. Over 200 members from Trent Lodge and sister lodges of the district were present to do honor to the representative of the Grand Master.

After the regular lodge work was completed the members gathered in the banquet hall where the ladies of King Street United Church Women's Auxiliary served a sumptuous banquet.

The program was in charge of Wor. Bro. B. F. Joyce. Several fine musical numbers were rendered by Joe Fleming and Robert Blakely. Wor. Bro. E. A. Simmons expressed thanks on behalf of all present to the ladies for the excellent banquet. Mrs. F. W. Sherbert responded for the ladies.

The toast to the Grand Master was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. W. B. McClung who paid tribute to Rt. Wor. Bro. Newton for the work he had done during the past year. He also called attention to the very excellent report on Benevolence and the large amount distributed for benevolence.

Toast to Grand Lodge

The toast to Grand Lodge was responded to by Rt. Wor. Bro. Newton who expressed his appreciation of the wonderful support given him in his work. Tribute was paid to Rt. Wor. Bro. W. J. Potts who for many years was secretary of Trent Lodge. Wor. Bro. Carswell was thanked for his service as District Secretary.

The subject of Rehabilitation of members discharged from His Majesty's Armed Forces received attention and the committees of each lodge were asked to continue their efforts and that every member do all possible to get Bros. rehabilitated again.

Advocates Visits

Rt. Wor. Bro. Newton emphasized the importance of interchange of visits between the different lodges as a means of broadening scope of friends.

He gave a brief outline of the foundation of Grand Lodge and its history up to the present time giving particular reference to the position Trent Lodge held in the early history of the Grand Lodge.

Wor. Bro. V. P. Carswell proposed the toast to the visitors, which was responded to by several sitting Masters of the district.

Rt. Worship Bro. Newton was presented with a beautiful pen and pencil set.

Executive Editor Free Press Resigns

Winnipeg, May 16 (CP)—Victor Sifton, publisher of the Winnipeg Free Press, yesterday announced the resignation of George V. Ferguson, as executive editor and the appointment of Grant Dexter as his successor.

Mr. Sifton said the resignation of Mr. Ferguson, member of the Free Press editorial staff for 21 years, last 2 1-2 of which he has been executive editor, had been accepted with regret.

Mr. Dexter, who has been with the Free Press 33 years, has been its Ottawa correspondent for years. He was appointed associate editor on the death of J. W. Dafoe in January, 1944.

James H. Gray, for the last five years an editorial writer on the Free Press staff at Winnipeg, will replace Mr. Dexter at Ottawa.

There was no immediate announcement of Mr. Ferguson's future plans.

MASS MEETING OF DAIRY FARMERS

Woodstock, Ont., May 16 (CP) —A mass meeting of dairy farmers will be held in Toronto, May 23, if the federal cabinet's proposals for dairy industry subsidies are not considered satisfactory, Harry H. Scott, president of the Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers, said.

Whitehall Notebook

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

London, May 16. (CP)—A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Alfred Barnes, Minister of Transport, are among 23 members of parliament sitting on the labor side who are likely to find decisions harder to make in the future.

They are members who were sponsored in the general election by the co-operative party which has worked in association with the Labor Party but has avoided direct affiliation.

Thus far Labor and co-operative views usually have been close to each other and their dual loyalty has no trouble co-operators who are elected as Labor men.

But a co-operative party conference in April showed concern about the future of the great co-operative wholesale society and its branches if the nationalization policies of the Labor government are carried much further. The co-operators who are members of parliament will be informed of the conference's opposition to any state monopoly plan which might inpinge on the business of the society whose interests now include hotels, theatres, farming and cremation in addition to more usual co-operative activities known in Canada, where major co-operatives have steered clear of political party associations in recent years.

Co-operative societies in the United Kingdom have about 10,000,000 members.

Shut-out?: The Labor party executive has prepared for the approval of a party convention an amendment to the constitution which would slam the door forever on the Communist Party, which continues to ask for affiliation.

The amendment, if passed, would bar from the Labor organization other groups with separate constitutions and leadership. This would bring under question the status of five societies now affiliated—Fabian Society, 2,700 members; Socialist Medical Association, 1,800; Jewish Socialist Labor Party; 1,500; Haldane Society, 300 and Nationalist Association of Labor Teachers, 200.

Expectation was the amendment would make clear only new applications would be governed by its terms and there would be no shut-out of old friends.

Guarded Optimism Over U. S. Rail Strike Threat

Washington, May 16. (AP)—Government hopes picked up slightly Wednesday for a settlement of the threatened United States railroad strike before Saturday's walkout deadline.

President Truman's personal intervention, followed by resumption of negotiations at his request and reports of "some progress", did much to bolster the guarded optimism, but officials still waited anxiously for more positive encouragement from the actual bargaining sessions.

Pending hoped-for favorable news, administration fingers were kept tightly crossed. There was frank apprehension over the effects of any country-wide strike by 250,000 engineers and trainmen. With the country still hard hit by the soft coal stoppage, the impact of a general rail tie-up could be incalculable.

Mr. Truman sent representatives of the unions and railroads back to their negotiating after a series of White House conferences yesterday. The disputants met until nearly midnight last night, reported some progress, and scheduled another session for today. The White House has asked him to report back on Friday.

In getting negotiations resumed, Mr. Truman held three separate conferences. First he saw A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and Alvanley Johnston, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

These two were followed by representatives of the Switchmen, Firemen and Conductors Unions. Finally came President J. J. Pelley and other officials of the Association of American Railroads.

Prior to the conferences, Martin Miller, legislative representative of the "Big Five" Railroad Brotherhoods, said presidential intervention was the only possibility of averting a rail strike Saturday over issues of pay and other conditions.

"Government seizure of the railroads won't stop us," he asserted. "The only thing left that might prevent it is an order from President Truman telling the railroads and the Brotherhoods to get together and settle their wage troubles and the dispute over rules. That might bring results."

Predict U.S. Loan To Great Britain Will Pass House

Washington, May 16 —(AP)— Support for the $3,750,000,000 British loan showed Wednesday in Republican as well as Democratic ranks.

Rep. Claire Boothe Luce (Rep.-Conn.) told newspapermen "I am for it," and predicted the loan legislation would pass the House of Representatives by "a narrow margin." Mrs. Luce was one of the first House Republicans to announce publicly for the legislation.

Meanwhile, Rep. J. J. Sparkman of Alabama, the Democratic Whip, said partial returns from a poll among House Democrats indicated two-thirds would vote for the loan, and he estimated that one-third of Republican members also would support it.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (Dem.-Tex.) flatly predicted victory for the legislation.

Yesterday, the House defeated a resolution by Rep. Harold Knutson (Rep.-Minn.) which would have had the effects of cancelling Senate approval of the credit.

Admiral Raeder Opens Defence Before Tribunal

Nuernberg, May 16. (AP)— Grand Admiral Erich Raeder testified Wednesday that before the last war Germany "faced an attack by Poland on East Prussia and our efforts therefore were aimed at organizing to oppose such an invasion."

Admiral Raeder, who guided reconstruction of the German Navy, opened his defence before the international military tribunal. He was succeeded in command of the navy by Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, whose defence has just been concluded, Jan. 30, 1943.

Admiral Raeder testified he rebuilt the navy "within the framework of the Versailles Treaty" and emphasized that all work was subject to approval of President von Hindenberg and later, Adolf Hitler.

He said the German navy had men "who were respected at home and abroad because they fought in an exemplary manner and participated in no atrocities."

Permit Rationed Foods Cross Border

Ottawa, May 16.—As the Summer holiday season draws near, countless Canadian and American tourists are looking happily ahead to their first complete post war holiday. With gas ration gone, tire ration lifted, all travel restrictions removed and new cars gradually coming back on the market, both Canada and the United States are predicting the heaviest tourist travel in years.

Many of these tourists who cross the border are wondering whether they will be allowed to carry rationed goods on their holiday. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board reiterates a number of important regulations concerning Canadian tourists who visit the United States to bring certain amounts of butter, meat, preserves and sugar with them.

Butter, meat and preserves up to the value of $5.00 may be taken into the United States by Canadian tourists. Export permits are required for quantities exceeding $5.00 in value on these rationed goods and for any amount of sugar over five pounds. Canadians wishing to take dressed poultry out of Canada must first obtain an export permit regardless of the quantity. U.S. tourist returning to their country will not be permitted to take any dressed poultry out of Canada.

As sugar is the only rationed commodity in the United States, Canadians visiting there may apply to the nearest office of the O.P.A. where they will receive ration points for sugar depending on the length of stay.

Residents of the United States, including Canadians living there, who on their return to the U.S. take sugar with them will be required by U.S. Customs officials to give up U.S. ration points for it. However, U.S. tourists or Canadians entering Canada with U.S. sugar ration will not be restricted by border regulations, either U.S. or Canadian.

These regulations do not cover the ordinary customs regulations regarding duties and taxes, which both countries have imposed relating to goods of all types, including rationed goods.

Strikes Bedevil Steel Industry

New York, May 16 (AP)—The coal mine truce has done little to stay the approach of paralysis to the steel industry, Iron Age, national metal-working paper, said today.

If the truce does not result in a settlement, the steel industry will find itself almost completely shut down, the paper said.

"The uncertainty which prevails over the possible outcome of current coal negotiations has forced many steel firms to continue shutdowns and to further curtail output this week," Iron Age said.

"One startling fact emerging from the recent series of strikes is that the putting on and taking off of equipment concurrent with complex adjustments involved causes almost as much loss in steel output as do actual shutdowns.

"By the end of this week the coal strike alone will have cost the industry more than 2,400,000 tons of ingots."

The paper estimated the steel backlog of orders at a half-year's output. Meanwhile, steel ingot output this week dropped nine points to 49 per cent of capacity.

Iron Age said the rapid rate of scrap consumption foreshadowed a new scrap crisis of unparalleled severity after the end of the coal strike, and has caused some customers to offer to trade scrap for a place on steel mill schedules.

Solution of Left-handed Hurling Lifts Washington To 500 Mark in Standing

In Last Seven Games Senators Face Four Lefties and Send Them All to Cover

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

Rival managers, who have been left-handing Washington since the start of the season, have overdone a good thing.

Realizing the Senators had a lineup of seven left-handed swingers, not including the pitcher, opposing mentors saved their southpaw hurlers for Washington, with excellent results in the first two weeks attesting to their good judgment.

In the club's first 14 games, opposing managers shot portsiders at Washington nine times with six of them gaining decisions over the Senators.

Then, almost overnight, the Senators solved those troublesome southpaw slants. In their last seven games, the Senators have faced four lefties and have sent them all scurrying for cover. They added another southpaw scalp yesterday when they kayoed young Ted Gray, Detroit's rookie left-hander, in the second inning and went on to win 6-3.

The victory gave them a .500 percentage for the first time this season, with a fourth-place record of 12-12.

A Wise Choice

A lefthander proved a wise choice for St. Louis Cardinals' manager Eddie Dyer. With Lefty Howie Pollet holding Brooklyn to five scattered singles, the Redbirds shaded the Dodgers 1-0, to displace the Flatbush favorites as the National League leaders.

Boston Red Sox dropped their second game in the last 19 and their fifth in 28 games this season when they bowed to Chicago White Sox 3-2, but did not lose any of their 5½-game cushion, as the second-place New York Yankees also were beaten, 8-2, by St. Louis Browns.

Cleveland came up with some grade-A pitching to gain a double shutout over the Athletics, 3-0 and 5-0. Mel Harder, making his initial start of the season, scattered six hits in the opener to register the 213th victory of his major league career. Steve Gromek allowed four hits in the nightcap.

Chicago Cubs got off on the right foot in their eastern invasion by whipping Philadelphia Phils, 6-4, in a 13-inning contest.

Another fine pitching exhibition by Joe Beggs, who notched his fourth triumph without a defeat, enabled Cincinnati's rising Reds to edge New York Giants 2-1 in a 10-inning thriller under the arclights at the Polo Grounds.

The Pittsburgh-Boston National League clash was postponed by rain.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

"Surely" mused big "Jumbo" Geyer, taking time out from coaching his junior softball squad on the Collegiate campus the other gloaming, "there is a first baseman and a catcher, who is yet to reach the voting age, doesn't grow a beard, and wants to play softball somewhere in this man's town."

"If there is, this squad of Goodman's Juniors will extend not only welcome arms but a couple of resounding kisses on both cheeks, if that is any inducement," went on the 236-pound coach.

"We need a first baseman and catcher and could use other players as well," Vern said. "This story going the rounds that the junior softball ranks are filled is so much eyewash. No player has been selected for any permanent position as yet and one boy's chances are as good as the other fellow's"

"I'm not doing any fooling with these kids," he went on. "They have got to show me they have got the stuff; can do what they are told and play ball as if they meant it, if they expect to make the squad. I've got a lot of good prospects out here, but we can stand more. Any kid of junior age, especially if he can cavort around the initial sack, or squat on his haunches behind a batter and do a job of receiving will be welcome. Tell 'em we practice every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday on the campus, starting six o'clock.

The Lady axe fell on the necks of 11 unsuspecting potential professional baseballers down Kingston way the other day, five of them being pitchers. Included was Bert "Lefty" Noakes of this city, and who, it is stated, will throw in his hurling lot with the Kingston Locos entry in the Ontario-Quebec League.

• • •

Further information from the Ponies camp has it that Allan Kelleher, whose work to date has made a hit with the Pony management has been signed to a contract. It seems as though the self-imposed baseball work of late winter and early Spring has done the seventeen-year-old southpaw some good and is beginning to pay dividends. There are some critics around this hamlet who have severely castigated the kid for making the jump to Kingston, coming up with the ancient tripe that he is "too young; will be ruined in the company that is apparent in professional baseball circles; that the best will be taken out of him and he will be cast off like an old shoe later on."

• • •

Kelleher went to the Ponies on the strength of an invitation of the Pony management exclusively; although, being an ambitious youngster, he often expressed the wish that he would like to try out with a team of the Ponies calibre if only to find out just what his baseball abilities were.

• • •

Under the training and supervision of experienced baseball hands like Manager Ben Lady and his staff, Kelleher will either make the grade this year, or be seasoned in preparation for another attempt at the pro ranks next year. After all he is only seventeen. But at the time of writing, it appears that the Pony management thinks highly enough of his possibilities to sign him to a contract.

• • •

There is a possibility that Kelleher won't make the grade permanently, this year. After all he lacks experience in organized baseball and it is a long hop from junior ranks to the professional circuit, especially when one considers the fact that he played but one year on the lower bracket. Personally, and these wishes are those of a host of people with whom we have talked, we hope the kid makes good, if not this year, then in the future. If professional coaches and trainers believe in him, and his baseball potentialities, the best his home town can do is wish him luck, and not detract from the youngster who had the nerve and guts to get out and find out for himself just what his baseball make-up consists of.

The City Baseball League will officially open at the Alemite Field (if you want to go ritzy, you can tab it the "Stewart Warner Alemite Recreational Park") on Friday May 24, it was decided at a special conclave of the loop moguls held the other evening. Time of the game depends on whether the date will be declared a Civic Holiday. If so, the tussle which brings together Belleville Juniors and Stewart-Warner, will be an afternoon affair, if not, it will likely be carded as a twilight game starting probably at six o'clock.

Six teams have officially entered the league and these include Juniors, Stewart Warner Alemite, Trenton RCAF, Batawa, Latta and Napanee. The latter sent in its entry to Prexy Don Thomas and signified its intention of co-operating with loop officials. Each other team of the loop will play one game with Napanee on its home diamond.

An admission fee of 25c, straight will be charged at both the Alemite Field and the Exhibition Ground. The league will undertake in the immediate future to erect greater seating capacity at Alemite and also erect fencing around the bleachers to facilitate the collection of admission fees.

• • •

Lorne McDougall member of the executive, generously donated the premium of an insurance policy covering property damage, public liability etc., while admission-charged games are in the progress at Alemite. Nice goin' m'lad, and very thoughtful of you.

• • •

A double schedule for the league has been drawn up and will be published tomorrow or the next day. The schedule should end somewhere around the 3rd week in August. Play-offs will see the teams finishing first and third, and second and fourth battle in the semi-finals. In case of a third game in the two-of-three series, the team finishing with the highest standing in the league will be considered the home team. The final series was set at two-of-three games, but there is a strong possibility of it being extended to four-of-seven.

Ben Sharpe, six foot sixer, who with his brother Mike recently came in from his paratrooping job in England will wrestle here Friday night. The Sharpe boys are two of the best built and finest - looking young Canadian athletes we have ever taken a gander at. Mike will take on Jan Gotch who stirred up many a temperature around here two years ago. Big Ben tackles Bunny Dunlop whom he bested in a Toronto ring some weeks back and the Bunny man is howling of what he will do to "that panty-waist" when he gets him in his rugged grip. Of course the main spotlight for Friday's mat program will be mostly on the main bout. Wladyslaw "Blockbuster" Talun is more than prepared for Friday's battle of giants and Fred Von Schact claims that he has never been in better condition in his life. Von Schact is obviously the smarter but can that wrestling ability of his off-set the great weight, strength and reach of the Pole?

• • •

The Belleville Softball Association is holding a special meeting in the City Hall tomorrow (Friday) night at 7:30. A full representation is requested by President Al Hitchon.

JUMP INJURES FIREMAN

Brockton, Mass., May 16 (AP)—Fireman James Skinner's 15-foot plunge into a fire net was too realistic. He jumped from a drill tower to test the net, injured both legs and went to hospital.

TORONTO LEAFS WINS AND LOSE WITH BALTIMORE

I. L. Moundsmen Hit Mid-Season Form and Batting Averages Shrink

(By The Associated Press)

The inflated batting averages possessed by numerous International League hitters are beginning to shrink sharply as the circuit's moundsmen start showing signs of mid-season form.

Belted almost at will since the start of the campaign, the hurlers served up an ill omen for the batters yesterday by coming up with three shutouts.

Steve Nagy, of the pace-setting Montreal Royals tossed a 2-hit 2-0 whitewash against Syracuse Chiefs and Harry Jordan of Toronto Maple Leafs dished out two safeties in blanking Baltimore Orioles 2-0, in the first half of a doubleheader. Al Barillari of Baltimore spaced four hits in annexing a 4-0 triumph over Toronto in the nightcap.

At Rochester, a trio of Newark and Red Wing box artists yielded only eight hits among them as the Bears nosed out the Wings, 3-2.

Buffalo's Offerman Stadium was the only ball park where the fences still rattled as the Bisons edged Jersey City Giants, 7-6. At that, Pete Appleton, 41-year-old relief pitcher, stole the show. Appleton came on the turbulent scene in the ninth with two Giants on base and none out and promptly retired three batters, two on strikes.

Babe Ruth Leaves On Trip to Visit Mexican League

(By The Canadian Press)

Herman (Babe) Ruth, former swat king of the diamond, left New York yesterday for Mexico City on what he called a pleasure trip as the guest of President Jorge Pasquel of the Mexican League. At Washington, en route, Ruth qualified the pleasure angle by declaring he might have a statement to make on his return to Gotham.

Asked if he was considering an offer of $100,000 to head the Mexican circuit, Ruth replied indirectly that he had received no offer.

The touring Liverpool soccer team outclassed the Baltimore Americans last night at Baltimore when the visitors registered a 9-0 triumph in an exhibition witnessed by 5,801 fans.

Coming out of his victory in London over Freddie Mills with a broken nose and cue eyes, Gus Lesnevich said he was returning to the States but would fight again in Britain this summer.

In the last important game of the soccer season, Scotland last night gained a 3-1 victory over Switzerland at Glasgow. In a British Rugby League fixture Widnes swamped York 36-5 at London.

A combined British Services soccer team applied a 5-1 defeat to Sheffield United, English League North champions, in an exhibition yesterday at the Olympic Stadium in Berlin.

Kaola, winner of Saturday's $50,000 Grant Trot at Santa Anita, set a mile track record of 2:03.5 yesterday in capturing the $5,000 Arion Free-for-all Stake Trot, finishing a length ahead of Doctor Spencer.

YOUTHS REINFLATE TIRES

Oshkosh, Wis., May 16—(AP)—Three youths who admitted to police they deflated tires on a string of parked automobiles, learned the folly of their prank the hard way. With policeman Walter Loppnow supervising, the three boys, each manning a hand pump, restored the tires to normal pressure.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By MEL SUFRIN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, May 16 — (CP) — It's too early to say definitely, but present indications suggest the possibility of Vancouver being the weak sister in Western Canada's new football family next fall.

Sounds of feverish activity spring from every front in the revived and revamped Western Interprovincial Rugby Union while all is more or less quiet on the far western front.

As far as organization is concerned, the Vancouver body is somewhat slow in rounding the end of the Dominion's longest extension play, the 1,200-mile combination that starts in Winnipeg and includes Regina, Calgary and Edmonton on the way to the coast.

The cause is not beyond hope, however. A few things might happen which would save the situation and plunge Vancouver into a contending spot in the western setup.

First, some party or parties with an interest in football for the sake of the game could throw a bit of money around, say to the tune of $20,000, which would set the team up nicely from a financial standpoint.

Some lend-lease in talent from the United States would help considerably, and teaming up 3 or four good American footballers with a few of the hometown veterans and a number of worthwhile prospects among the youngsters would pave the way for a respectable showing.

Birthday Party

Vancouver will celebrate its diamond jubilee with a round of sports that should suit every taste. Starting June 30, the folks will have a chance to see a yachting regatta, the Jubilee Handicap at Lansdowne race track, the Diamond Gloves amateur boxing show, the $2,500 pro golf tourney at Capilano, and other sports like weight lifting, swimming, soccer, lacrosse and wrestling. Sounds like a strenuous way to celebrate a 60th birthday.

MAYOR FIRST OFFENDER

Livingstone, Mont., May 16 — (AP) — Two hours after parking meters began operating here, the first offender appeared in police court for overtime parking and paid his $1 fine. The culprit was Mayor Walter C. House.

Method Predicts Adult Height of Children

Berkeley, Calif., May 16 (AP)—A table said to predict with "amazing accuracy" the adult height of growing children has been developed by Dr. Nancy Bayley, research associate in the University of California's Child Welfare Institute.

The forecasting method utilizes X-ray pictures of the joints in combination with sets of figures based on examination of many growing children. It was devised not so much to predict the height of normal individuals as to aid surgeons in bone operations to equalize leg lengths, and to guide physicians in treating glands which may influence height.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

LESSON NO. 388
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A rule lead from partner tells you all it can. Not only does it give you as much information as possible. It tries to tell it to you as quickly as possible.

Sometimes you discover its meanings at once. Sometimes you fail to find out in time. But when you know what the lead is supposed to show, you know what to look for.

The lead rule is: Follow the order of choice in tops, longies, shorts; don't lead a suit bid by opponents; against a suit contract, don't lead away from an ace or a king.

Thus, if partner has an honor top, he leads that first. If he leads a long suit, he denies a top. His lead of a short suit denies a top and an unhampered long suit.

His short suit may also be stymied by a don't. In that case, he leads a trump. So, his trump lead denies a top and unhampered long or short suit.

Among shorts is a singleton lead. Therefore, a singleton is in the third (least desirable) group in the choice of leads. It denies a top or unhampered long suit, the same as any other short suit lead.

Even with no desirable top or long suit, a singleton lead needs arresting trump help. When a singleton is led, the hand should also contain in trumps the A X or A X X or K X X.

Against a four spade contract, lead from this hand:

♠K 7 3
♥A 6 4 3 2
♦K 8 6 3

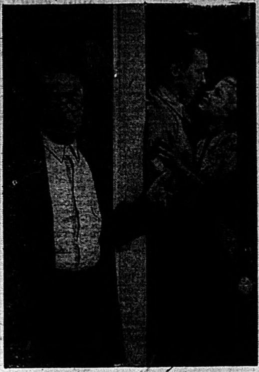
Lead the club six. It says you have no honor top lead. It also says you have an ace or a king in each (unbid) red suit. It also says you have trump king with two more or ace with one or two.

I'm telling you what a good partner has a right to expect. You may like a singleton lead regardless of what it shows. Many do. Whenever you do lead a singleton, brace yourself.

AT THE BELLE — Sydney Greenstreet, Geraldine Fitzgerald and Peter Lorre in a tense moment from Warner Bros. exciting new melodrama, "Three Strangers," which comes to the Belle today.



AT THE CAPITOL — Victor Moore is somewhat surprised to see Barry Sullivan and Marjorie Reynolds in a "clinch." All three stars are involved in "Duffy's Tavern," Paramount film bowing in tonight at the Capitol and featuring thirty-two Paramount stars. On the same program Jimmy Wakely in "Lonesome Trail."

AT THE McCARTHY — Rosalind Russell is cast as a brilliant psychoanalyst in Columbia Pictures' "She Wouldn't Say Yes," which stars her with Lee Bowman coming next to the McCarthy Theatre. It's a racy, embracy story of a hard-to-please guy and a girl who lived and yearned.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, May 16 (AP)—If Joel McCrea ever writes the story of his life, it should be called "How to be Happy Though a Movie Star."

Joel seems to be the happiest actor I have encountered. He has reason enough to be—a loving wife, Frances Dee, two blonde boys, a thriving ranch and a fortune. But more than that, he appears free from the neuroses that plague the acting profession. He explained how he got that way:

"Arthur Brisbane once told me that he and other rich men failed happiness because they became slaves of their own wealth. Instead of being satisfied with what they had, they wanted more. 'Never lose your sense of proportion,' he said."

Since then Joel has never over-estimated his own importance. "If I got shot tomorrow, they could get Henry Fonda to play my role," he said. "And he'd do a much better job."

Joel is limiting his film activities to about one a year. Last year it was "The Virginian," and now he is preparing for "Ramrod." "This stuff about having to make several a year to remain popular is nonsense," he said, "If I can make one picture like "More the Merrier" every five year, I can stay in the chips."

Joel made one picture last year at $100,000, while another star made three at $150,000. Joel figures he netted $6,000 less than the hard worker after taxes were deducted. "So why should I work so hard?" he reasoned.

Ever heard of a "ham patrol?" They've got one on the set of "Bel Ami". The picture is being filmed with a full focus, which means that everyone in the scene can be clearly viewed, whereas in most pictures background crowds become a blur.

The extras found this out and ruined the first few scenes by waving arms and other scene-stealing tricks. So now the company has a ham patrol of three assistant directors to prevent such tactics.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was taking a walk with pop to celebrate the swell weather, and Glasses Magee went passed and we didn't even wave at each other on account of us not speeking since Glasses gave his other inner tube to Puds Simkins after he promised it to me, and I said, Darn that guy, I'm going to play a mean trick on him before I leave him talk to me again.

Come come, what kind of a sentiment is that for the ferst day of Spring? pop said, and I said, This aint the ferst day of Spring, pop, that was a long while ago.

It was, according to man-made callenders, but today is the ferst day of Spring according to Nature, pop said. Do you hear those berds twittering? Do you hear that gentle wind caressing the ferst shy green leaves? Do you hear the sap rising musically in the trees? That's Nature laughing at callenders, he said, and I said, I've got it all made up what I'm going to do to that darn guy. I'm going to stick a false invitation under his front door to make him think I'm going to have a berthday party and he's invited, and when he finds out different, oh boy, revenge, I said.

Revenge is sweet, but not as sweet as the spirit of Spring, pop said. Let your thoughts dwell on bewtiful butterflies fluttering over brite flowers, and handsome young men hovering over brilliant displays of diamond rings, and you'll forget about revenge, he said, and I said, Well, G, pop, then I'll do him a favor instead of a mean trick.

The spirit of Spring has spoken, pop said, and I said, Sure, pop, I'll stick an invitation under his door for a real party, only then ma will really have to let me have a party, and you'll have to help me influence her, pop.

Yee gods, we'll see what can be done, pop said.

Making me feel lucky and proving Spring is wonderfill.

MOONHOLLOW

By Maurice Dekobra and Jessie Ernst

CHAPTER 1

Gordon Blake listened as he pressed the pearl button. From inside, the chime was mellow, as though he had struck a golden gong. Before him, the ivory entrance was changing into gold as late sunlight glinted on the polished surface of the door.

He stood stiffly as though readying himself to meet the shock of a miracle. He mused: "Gordon Blake, my lad, entering the front door to your earthly paradise. Behind that door waits Audrey. Add modesty to her many virtues. She never told you about this palace of hers. She's like Alice — she's leading you into wonderland."

The door opened slowly and revealed what was almost a Cheshire Cat. But it wasn't, that is, except for the grin, a rather fixed grin, in a stiff face.

Gordon Blake tried to return the smile, failed and attempted to cover up with, "Why hello, I'm - "

"Yes, I know that. You're Mr. Blake. Mrs. Morley's new husband. Come in. I am Oliver, I'll tell Madame you have arrived."

Gordon handed him a weather-beaten Borsalino and a tweed topcoat; and the formal, slow-stepping butler took them as though doing a minor favor.

"And now, sir, perhaps you would rest a moment while I call Madam."

The butler stood aside as he said this; lips pursed, the smile gone. The ice-blue eyes stared through Gordon Blake vacantly. But the new master of Moonhollow felt their slight chill following him as he trod a soft silk Kirmanshan. The stiff figure followed him, moving in an odd way, as though pulled or jerked by wires.

The fellow's old and stuffy. But probably a true blue family —— detainer. Let's hope, anyway," thought Gordon as he faced the servant in the darkening living-room.

"A moment, sir. There's a glass here." The figure bent methodically over a silver Tantalus - lifted a cut glass stopper from a decanter, opened a silver cigarette box, bowed half-heartedly and murmured.

"Now I will call Madam," As he reached the panelled walnut door, he flicked on bracket lights, then turned to Gordon Blake saying, "I hope you like your new home," and bowed out.

"Well, I don't know whether you'll help me like it, you old icicle," Gordon was ready to answer, but pressed a lean finger to firm lips and began counting to ten silently. "Mustn't start off left-footed Lady Buck. This is your future-no missteps-though," and at that point he thought of Oliver and the lettuce - cool reception.

"I don't like his mention of me as 'Mrs. Morley's new husband.' And he had to add that I had arrived, just as though he were saying I was her new hat from Fifth avenue. Well I have arrived, Oliver, and I aim to stay, with my wife Audrey - because I love her."

He offered her a silent toast, and then wandered, giving his feet and eyes their first touch of his new home. It was the master model of what he had seen from time to time in slick magazines. The living-room was contemporary color-schemed; white, pale green and blue, with a turbaned, flamboyant blackamoor presiding over all. Gordon touched the blackamoor's turban, saying, "Nice to see you here, dark boy. I remember you. Audrey and I dug you up at that wharf antique shop at Charleston. She has a taste for oddities." A set grin was on the blackmoor's wooden face.

Modern and period pieces were blended to modern conclusion in the long panelled room. All of it showed the touch of the Audrey he knew. At his end of the living room were prints of cavalry riders, splendid in busbies. There were chairs, slip-covered in deep pink cloth that was rough to his touch as sail cloth. A sofa, covered with antique beige, invited him, he rested his glass on a cocktail table of gold and mirror and smiled at his image.

It was a face you would remember — one which men would respect and women admire - a face seen occasionally in magazines, literary and economic, perhaps of a good-neighbor group in Mexico City. He had been there - and at Rio de Janeiro. They had been his two biggest assignments; had brought him an accolade from the Pan-American Press Club; had produced material for ten magazine articles and follow-up assignments, mostly rewriting in some editor's office. A hard worker - a young man of promise.

His reflection revealed wide, full lips over a cleft chin, cheeks hollowed; dark, steady eyes, burning bright beneath the long-lashed lids and heavy eyebrows, the left one scarred at the corner, a mole on his left cheek; long, brown hair. He smiled, the image smiled back. "You've been smiling that way for over thirty years. Too serious. Too much thought - from work. Some morning I'm going to come down here I want you to smile, a big and generous smile. Maybe some morning you'll even let the smile grow to a 100 percent laugh."

There was another face in the mirror watching him. Gordon turned to the wall behind him, searching. It was a man's face in a portrait. The portrait hung above the dark Regency mantel. The wall lights cast shadows across it. And still the face burned through the shadows - almost alive. The eyes were dark, the nose thin, the forehead, narrow, the chin and ears pointed.

Gordon looked for the artist's name. There was none. The portrait was modern, whereas he had thought it might have been a painting of one of the imperious lords of the Inquisition; implacable eyes set - one hand showing a glittering signet, "C."

"A handsome guy," Gordon thought. "Handsome - and dangerous." He tried vainly to recall whether Audrey had ever mentioned the man to him. She had told him little of her few family friends. There had been so little time at Sun Valley. She had told him something of her father - the dried-up multi-millionaire harrier of Wall Street wolves. He and Audrey's mother had travelled down together, in a transatlantic clipper off the Bahamas, leaving Audrey to private schools, governesses and business managers.

Too much money - fast friends and rich; teas, charities, polo, the social page were her world - all rich cream. Then one day it began to sour. So she left her whirligig world for quietness, the aloneness of brooding, snowy mountains.

He had met her on "Heartbreak Slope," a 3,000 foot ski-course with an 800 foot drop. It was a planned job. She spilled on the straight-down pattern and he spilled with her. They came up together, twisted and spitting snow.

That was the beginning. Then breakfast together, fluffy eggs, and hearty buckwheats. Steaming punch by a midnight fireplace. Pine trees in the crystal air. Stars so big that it seemed they could touch them. He had asked the question that had kept him burning since they met. The answer was a soft "yes" that led to an invitation to the bell and the book that same week.

He remembered how she looked that memorable day in a brown lightweight wool suit artfully tailored to look like a two-piece dress, set off with a lapel pin of white and red, a Persian lamb hat and suede pumps with cartridge bows for those slim feet of hers.

Then the search for a home. And all the strange homes they had seen on their short honeymoon! Poe's hotel, near the Charleston docks where the great dreamer had died - the colonial houses in Williamsburg where they saw America in rebirth. All those vivid places they had visited on his slim earnings as writer, and now this - Audrey's home, a palace he never had dreamed about. Almost like moving into Buckingham.

Suddenly he was awfully glad about that honeymoon, on his money. And glad that he had married her, believing she lived in a wee cottage that would be much too small for lusty babies.

"Mrs. Morley - pardon Mrs. Blake, sir, will be right down."

"Oh, yes, thank you, yes. I was dreaming for a moment -- didn't hear you come in."

"Anything else you would like?" added Oliver.

"Why no - that is - yes. I'm curious about this portrait. Who's the gentleman in the picture frame?"

Gordon asked the question laughingly. The answer came seriously. "That, sir, is Madam's first husband, Mr. Morley!" The butler walked toward the door, his left arm crooked stiffly. Gordon walked to the picture, set his glass on the mantel, stared back at the portrait. Then the room lit up, as though the sun were looking in.

He spun around. Audrey was calling, "Gordon! Gordon!" from the doorway. She rushed across the room into his waiting arms.

"Hello, princess," he murmured, looking down at her. "Lift up that strong little chin." She did; her eyelids dropped. He kissed her full and hot, holding her hard against him.

She shook him by the lapels, "I've been lonely at Moonhollow without you. Don't spend any more of your time in stuffy old Washington offices. And darling, don't ever be a Washinton correspondent. Keep writing more of those beautiful poems and articles that are like an inspiration. I love them so. What was it this time - not another tirade on lack of American unity?"

"Yes it was. But tell me. Moonhollow! The name of this place? What does it mean?"

"Clifford Morley said it meant Enchantment!" She lifted her lips.

Gordon set her off for admiration. She stood like a cadet - head thrown back, shiny coppery hair falling to her square shoulders.

"Lordamighty man, don't hold me so far away." She slipped quickly under both arms and came up close, blue eyes full and soft gazing into his.

"Don't, you'll almost knock me over. All right, there —" and she pushed him into the sofa, thrusting lithe tanned fingers at his nose when he tried to kiss her. But she let him win out.

"Audrey - it's all new to me," Gordon said, "I was born poor. Remember my telling you about my father's pants that I had to wear, working my way through Northeastern University, college paper editor, my free lance jobs."

"That was worth a lot more to me than if you had said you owned a block of Standard Oil Shares."

"You never told me about all this. Look." He clinked the cigarette box. "Silver!" Flicked his forefinger against the table edge, "Gold leaf! You've brought me into a palace!"

"REALLY SURPRISED HOW MUCH SYNTONA HAS HELPED ME"

Had Stomach Trouble 2 Years. "Often Couldn't Keep Any Food on my Stomach," Says This Man. Got Frequent Headaches, Sleep Restless. Tells how Syntona Gave Him First Real Relief.

"I suffered with stomach disorders for the past two years and after trying many things without benefit, I'm really surprised how much Syntona has helped me," said Mr. Douglas McPhee, 66 Connaught Ave., London, Ont., in a recent report.

"I was subject to attacks of indigestion with heartburn and hot, sour liquids rising in my throat. Many days I couldn't keep any food on my stomach. It was often very bad after lying down at night. I would have so much gas that it gave me a distressed, bloated feeling that nothing would relieve. I would get throbbing headaches and my nerves were all on edge.

"I read many times about Syntona helping other people, but it wasn't until a friend advised me to try this medicine that I decided to get some and my digestion has improved so much in the short time I've been taking it that I only wish I had tried it sooner. The gas and indigestion is relieved and I have no trouble now with heartburn or sour acid risings although I am eating and enjoying heartier meals. Also my nerves are calmed down allowing me to get more sound, restful sleep, so I feel more fully rested in the mornings and I have more energy to do my work."

MR. DOUGLAS McPHEE

If you, who read this, suffer as Mc McPhee did, why not give this grand mixture of Nature's Herbs and Roots a chance to help you, too? Syntona acts on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels .. aids in the elimination of excess acids and poisonous waste matter from the system and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. Find out how it can help you, too.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, May 16 — (CP) — The mining groups were lower and other groups were narrowly higher on the stock exchange at noon while trading proceeded in comparatively light volume. Beaulieu accounted for turnover of about 175,000 shares of the 803,000 traded in the first three hours.

Trade steamed up in the liquor group and Hiram Walker advanced nearly seven points to 150. The food issues were up narrowly and lower prices ruled for the paper and steel stocks.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE

New York, May 16 — (AP) — Buying of special issues kept the stock market fairly well balanced today although many leaders continued to suffer from light liquidation.

Dealings slackened after an active opening but large blocks of low-quoted utilities aided volume. Assorted steels, motors and rails stiffened around mid-day. The direction still was a trifle cloudy near the fourth hour.

Hiram Walker registered a jump of 7 1/2 points at 138 on the big board at noon. Distillers Seagram was up 3/4 at 110, Canadian Pacific down 1/8 at 18 3/4, Dome Mines unchanged at 23 3/4 and International Nickel down 3/8 at 38 1/4.

HOGS

Toronto, May 16 (CP)—Grade A, dressed, bacon-hogs, were up 15 cents cwt. at Stratford $19.85 to farmers, $20 to truckers, delivered, and unchanged at Barrie and Hull $20 delivered, unchanged at Brantford $19.65 plus transportation, in markets reporting early today.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, May 16—(CP)—Cattle trade was slow on the livestock market here today with only a few small buyers present. A few light butcher steers sold at $11-$12.40, good to choice fed yearlings $12-$13 with common down to $11 and a few heifers $12 down. Unsold from yesterday were 400 head of cattle and fresh receipts today totalled 15. The unsold included fed yearlings and good butcher cattle. Butcher cows and bulls were fairly well cleared. No price was established for hogs which closed previously at, dressed, A $20.15-$20.25, B1 $19.75-$19.85. Receipts included 20 hogs. No veal calves, sheep or lambs were offered.

PUBLICATION SUSPENDED

Seoul, May 15 — (AP) — Lt.-Gen. John R. Hodge today suspended the Dai Dong press from publication for three weeks. The American occupation commander told the daily that "in spite of repeated specific warnings over a period of several weeks" it had "signally failed to show an understanding of its responsibilities as a member of the fraternity of the press."

Raeder Concedes Germany Evaded Versailles Treaty

Nuernberg, May 16. (AP) — Grand Admiral Erich Raeder today conceded to the International Military Tribunal that Germany evaded the VersaillesTreaty ban against a German naval air force by permitting pilots to resign and assume civilian status during manoeuvres.

Forbidden to train pilots, the navy inducted some men with years of civilian air training, the admiral testified in his second day on the witness stand in his own defence. He declared yesterday that he rebuilt the German navy "within the framework of the Versaillles Treaty."

Some old planes, allowed for anti-aircraft practice, were used to train naval vessels in proper conduct under air attack and, Raeder added, "when we used young navy fliers they were discharged for the period of manoeuvres."

In 1928, theyear Raeder became commander-in-chief of the German navy, the Reich War Ministry organized a company for experiments with naval aircraft against the day Germany would be permitted arms expansion, the 70-year-old admiral testified, and a number of types were developed for eventual production.

Accused of building up the navy for aggressive war, Raeder reiterated that his conduct through the years was based entirely on a desire to create an adequate defence.

Admiral Raeder is the 13th of the 22 defendants on trial to present his defence.

LITTLE GRATITUDE

Seattle, May 16 —(AP)— Omar C. Bjornlie is gambling nickels to test human gratitude. He deposits nickels in parking meters for overdue car owners with notes pointing out: "I deposited a nickel to protect you against a police fine. If you appreciate this favor please mail it to me." So far, says Bjornlie sadly, only one response has come from six nickels. But that grateful soul sent a quarter.

NAME RHINE BRIDGE AFTER PATTON

Herford, Germany, May 16 — (AP)— The new 1,480-foot British-built bridge over the Rhine at Cologne will be named "Patton Bridge" in memory of the late Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., and "in fitting recognition of his brilliant dash to the Rhine," the British Military Government said today.

India is Canada's 3rd Best Customer

Toronto, May 16. (CP)—India is Canada's third best customer, it was shown today in the report of the Indian Trade Commissioner in Canada, M. R. Ahuja.

The report showed Canadian exports to India in 1945 reached $307,461,000, compared with $174,794,000 in 1944 and only $5,166,000 in 1939. Canadian imports from India last year totalled $30,568,000, against $27,878,000 in 1944 and $9,808,000 in 1939.

Since the outbreak of war India has passed seven other countries in total trade with Canada and now ranks third to the United States and Britain in trade with the Dominion.

Principal exports to India were food and food products, animals and animal products, motorcars, locomotives, railway cars, ships, guns, rifles, ammunition, batteries and radios; newsprint and textile products.

Chief Canadian imports from India were tea, jute and juted products, furs, hides and leather; carpets and rugs, wool and nuts.

Mr. Ahuja's report noted that the figures of the past two or three years were artificial and temporary due to the war "but there is sufficient evidence to show that post-war exports will be heavier than before the war, and in all likelihood will grow with time."

India desperately needs such goods as food products, agricultural implements, electrical appliances, newsprint, motorcars, capital goods, machinery and consumer goods for which demands will be made on Canada for several years to come, the report said.

Bonarlaw

Bonarlaw, Ont., May 16 — Mrs. W. J. Barlow has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Russell Rowe in Hamilton for the past ten days.

Mr. W. J. Barlow motored to Hamilton Sunday last where he will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rowe for a few days.

Mrs. T. H. Prest is visiting her daughter Miss Ruth Prest in Hamilton for a few days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bell of Toronto, have been holidaying at their Bonarlaw home for several days last week. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Chester (Mrs. Bell's parents) also of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Baker and daughter Judy of Stirling, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Baker on Sunday last.

On Sunday last St. Mark's Sunday school was presented with the Archdeacon Dodds silver cup, being the Anglican Sunday school in the Deanery having the largest increase in membership during the year 1945. In making the presentation Rev. J. M. Brownlie, rector of the parish, complimented the officers and teachers and also made mention of the fact that St. Mark's S. S. was noted for the large percentage of its members who regularly attend the church services.

On Friday evening of last week a large number of workers from St. Paul's Church, Marmora, met with the St. Mark's congregation in the Sunday School rooms of St. Mark's Church and thoroughly organized the Anglican Advance Appeal campaign. Rev. J. M. Brownlie acted as chairman. Rev. C. C. Brazill of Stirling was the guest speaker and his remarks were very instructive. Mr. C. R. Whittemore of Deloro also gave some helpful advice. The following canvassers were appointed for the St. Mark's portion: Mrs. J. E. Brown, Messrs. Chas. Lough, Allan McComb, J. M. Barlow, Chas. Wellman and W. J. Barlow.

Consecon

Consecon — On Sunday night, the impressive Mother's Day service by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Bartlett, was largely attended and four children were christened, parents were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McConkey, Mr. and Mrs. Samuels.

Beautiful snapdragons on the altar were in memory of Mrs. Mary Ward, placed there by her son, Arthur J. Ward. On each side were pink palagonias and hyderangeas from the community, making a pretty setting.

Mrs. Monte Stapleton spent the dinner hour on Sunday with Miss Cassie Fox, also Dorothy Garattsee and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wannamaker and Marilyn of Salem were visitors at the same home.

Mrs. Elson James and daughter Barbara were dinner guests of Mrs. Lindsay Irwin on Sunday.

Mrs. Wes. Kaiser entertained Group 3 of the W.A. on Wednesday evening and Mrs. Carter entertained Salem W. A. on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carter and family moved to Trenton airport on Monday.

Marilyn Wannamaker, age 8 years, was struck and killed by a truck in front of Salem school house on Monday morning.

Mrs. Earl Walt, the teacher of Salem school, had just rung the recess bell, calling the children in from play, when Marilyn ran across the road in front of a truck which apparently she did not see.

She was an only child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Wannamaker and grand daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wannamaker of Salem.

Foxboro

Foxboro — Mrs. J. G. Sills and Mrs. George Hicks spent last week with friends and relatives in Toronto.

Mrs. C. Shorey's group of W. A. ladies met on Wednesday at Mrs. E. Tummon's. Mrs. G. Hicks' group met at Mrs. C. Wilson's on Tuesday and Mrs. S. Sherry's group met in the S. S. rooms on Thursday.

Mr. Glenn Priest returned home from the hospital on Sunday.

Mrs. Lorne Brough is visiting relatives in St. Thomas.

Among those who attended the shower at the home of Mr. Jarrell were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hayton and Mr. Ed. Montgomery.

Mrs. I. Snell of Toronto is visiting at the home of Mrs. J. G. Sills.

Friends and neighbors extend sympathy to Mrs. Harold Stewart who had an operation in the Belleville hospital on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boomhour and Miss Hazel Dafoe were Sunday evening guests at Mr. Ed. Wellman's, Sidney.

Miss Phyllis Dafoe, Kingston, spent Sunday at her home here.

Mr. Garth Sine of Toronto spent Mother's Day at his home here and Miss Marion Daniels of Toronto spent Sunday with her parents.

Mrs. H. P. King of Harriston spent some time with her mother Mrs. C. C. Hetherington.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Sherry of Shannonville were Sunday evening guests at Mr. George Hicks' and attended church service in the evening.

Callers at the home of Mr. I. Chappelle during the week included Mr. and Hrs. Harry Rollins, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Murney Reynolds, Mrs. Robt. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ketcheson, Mrs. Shorten and Mr. and Mrs. G. Emerson.

Mother's Day service was observed on Sunday when the program on the leaflet was followed with Mr. S. C. Gay and Mr. Clifford Wilson as leaders and Mrs. S. C. Gay as pianist. Pretty potted plants and cut flowers surrounded the altar. The story of "The Chinese Home" was well given by Mrs. S. Hayton. A large number attended worship service on Sunday evening and a baptismal service was conducted as the following were baptized:

William Robert, son of Mr. a Mrs. Evan Tummon; Patric Ann, infant daughter of Mr. a Mrs. Frank Tummon and Lo Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mr Bill Rombough. Rev. L. Short gave a most interesting addre on "The homes of today and th foundation upon which the par ents should build." Special num bers by the choir also added t the service.

Toronto Board Education Decides To Maintain Heat

Awaits Reply to Protest On Ban From Hon. C. Howe

Toronto, May 17 (P)—Without passing any formal resolution, Board of Education decided Thursday night to maintain heat in city schools until specific word is received from Ottawa an its plea that schools be exempt from the Federal order banning use of soft coal in schools and other public institutions in Ontario and Quebec.

The board chairman, W. R. Cockburn, had announced immediately on word of the Federal order Tuesday that the ban on coal was "silly" as it applied to schools and that the order would be ignored so far as schools are concerned.

The meeting of the full board decided that school caretakers will be permitted to maintain heat—but at as low a temperature as possible without jeopardizing the health of some 90,000 pupils.

Mr. Cockburn said he has not yet received a reply to his appeal to Reconstruction Minister Howe to take schools off the no-coal list. If there is no reply within the next few days a special meeting of the board will be called.

"In refusing to obey this order I conscientiously believed I was doing the right thing," Mr. Cockburn said last night. "It was simply a question of safeguarding the health of our children. This board has been most co-operative with Ottawa because for some weeks now we have placed restrictions on the amount of fuel to be used. We cut off heat to swimming pools more than a month ago and as a conservation measure we bank the fires at night and again in the mornings after the class-rooms are heated."

Trustee Mrs. Donald Ryerson moved that the board endorse the chairman's decision, but a majority refused to vote on any official motion because it would be "in direct defiance of a government ruling," as one put it.

Trustee Loftus Reid said: "I refuse to agree that we have to be in accord with every law that a government sees fit to impose on us. But in this case I can't see that we need a formal resolution. We can just simply carry on as we have been doing for the past few days."

Says Hitler Warned He'd Destroy Any Opposing Him

Nuernberg, May 17 —(AP)— Grand Admiral Erich Raeder told the International Military Tribunal today that Adolf Hitler warned his commanders soon after the outbreak of war he would destroy any who stood in the way of his own military judgment.

The declaration that "I shall destroy everyone who is against me," was delivered to the German military leaders by Hitler on Nov. 27, 1939, when the army command opposed his plan for an autumn invasion of France, the defendant testified. Actually, the weather prevented the thrust until the following May.

Nearing the end of his direct defence testimony, Raeder said Hitler repeatedly assured him Germany would avoid war with Britain. In the face of subsequent developments, he said, Hitler betrayed "such embarrassment as I had never seen in him."

The Admiral said he never was a member of the Nazi party but got along reasonably well with the party except for difficulties with Reinhard (The Hangman) Heydrich, "whom I removed from the navy in 1928 after a court sentenced him for bad treatment of a young girl. Heydrich tried several times to denounce me."

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, May 17 — (CP)—Synopsis at 7:30 a.m.—An area of high pressure is centred over James Bay and northeast winds are bringing clear cool weather to most of Quebec and Ontario. The trough of low pressure which caused rain in southern Ontario has moved south. Cool weather prevails over the prairie provinces.

Retail Butchers Deny Alleged Black Market

Toronto, May 17 (CP)—Various Toronto retail butchers united in denials yesterday before J. D. McNish, Royal Commissioner investigating alleged black markets in meat, that they had made payments on special "tags" and "white slips" for meat purchased at prices over the ceiling rates.

The assertions of regular "payoffs" through special slips were made Wednesday by Mike Stepanov, a former truck-driver and collector for two Toronto meat suppliers. Stepanov on cross-examination yesterday stuck to his story that he collected money from retailers which represented the surplus charged above ceiling prices.

Stepanov had named two former employers, Izzy Politsky and another firm operated by Charles, Sidney and Leonard Prussky, as recipients of the special collections. E. J. Murphy, K.C., counsel for Politsky and Prussky brothers, cross-examined Stepanov yesterday and at one point asked him how he got his "high religious attitude" of going to the Prices Board with his story of black market collections.

"I saw a lot in the paper about the black market and that the Prices Board was asking for help," Stepanov replied.

A number of the butchers alleged by Stepanov to have paid him extra amounts for over-ceiling prices, amounts that were not shown on the regular invoices, had been subpoenaed to testify before the commissioner today, but they happened to be in the courtroom yesterday afternoon and Mr. Murphy called them to testify. Among those denying making any special payments were Mike Patrick, from whom Stepanov had alleged he had collected surplus prices "eight or nine times." Patrick swore that he had never paid over-ceiling prices for meat.

Matthew Cherry, Mike Remesch, Sig Chroma, Henry Huelsurch, Lewis Milan and Imitre Traikovitch were other dealers denying making any over-ceiling payments.

GOVERNMENT CRITICIZED

Tokyo, May 17 — (AP)—Premier Shigeru Yoshida, faced with demands of two supporting parties for more representation, tonight revamped his prospective cabinet line-up. He hoped to complete the job by tomorrow with a minimu mof friction.

Both the Liberal and Progressive parties openly criticized the politically-inexperienced Yoshida for ignoring them in his preliminary cabinet draft. They said his original list was "too bureaucratic" and included too few regular party men.

MAY SEIZE COAL MINES BY MIDDLE OF NEXT WEEK

Truman Rebuffed In Effort to Have Miners And Operators Submit Issue to Arbitration

Washington, May 17. (AP)—President Truman, rebuffed in his attempt to persuade John L. Lewis and bituminous operators to submit their deadlock to arbitration, today turned momentarily away from the recurring coal crisis.

Instead he devoted full attention to the more pressing threat of a country-wide railroad strike tomorrow — a tieup that would make the second week of the coal truce an empty gesture. There would be no way to get the coal moved from the mines.

But Mr. Truman kept the White House door ajar for either Mr. Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers or Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the operators, cancelling his planned weekend flight to Missouri to be on hand.

And despite the generally gloomy outlook, Labor Secretary Schwellenbach said he found grounds — "very intangible" though they might be — for believing negotiations might be resumed.

These came to an abrupt halt over the barrier raised by Mr. Lewis' demand for a seven-percent payroll levy to finance a miners' health and welfare fund.

Mr. Truman's arbitration suggestion followed, but Mr. Lewis turned it down. The operators rejected the proposal on all of the non-wage issues raised by Lewis, but acceded on the question of wages and hours. They have offered Mr. Lewis the equivalent of 18½ cents an hour in a wage increase to match post-war boosts in comparable industries.

Industry Must Make Decision.

But on the health and welfare demand, the controversy over unionization of foremen, the acceptance of federal mine inspectors' safety recommendations, and minor demands "going to the betterment of local living conditions, maintenance of property and settlement of community affairs, the operators said:

"If these demands continue to be pressed, the industry, and it alone, must take the decision in each case as to how far it can go in the surrender of its hitherto unchallenged functions. The industry cannot delegate that authority to anyone else."

At the moment, presidential advisers appeared at a loss for a solution acceptable to all sides.

This left the possibility of government seizure of the mines—perhaps by the middle of next week — as the most likely step.

On the question of seizure, Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday he would cross that bridge when it is reached.

Later, after Mr. Lewis and Mr. O'Neill handed their arbitration turn-downs to the President, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach referred to that step as the "only legal power the government has" in the event of a complete breakdown. He added, however, that "we haven't yet reached a point of decision on seizure."

Oceanic Layer Suspended Between Surface and Floor of Pacific Found

By FRANK CAREY

Washington, May 17 — (AP)— A new secret of the deep — a hitherto-unknown oceanic layer suspended between the surface and floor of the Pacific — has been discovered by the United States Navy.

Discovery of the layer of water, apparently containing suspended material which renders it denser than water immediately above and below it, has raised the possibility that similar phenomena may exist in other oceans.

The significance of such a new feature in oceanography is not yet clear, because the layer's characteristics have not been fully determined. But studies are planned to determine whether there is any military significance.

Existence of the layer, 300 miles wide and found from 1,000 to 1,500 feet below the Pacific surface off the California coast, was detected by navy scientists while testing special "sonar" equipment during the war.

"Sonar" is a technique designed to detect and locate distant objects through the use of sound waves beamed out to be "echoed" back by the obstruction they may encounter.

Research men found that the oceanic layer returned an underwater echo similar to, but not so strong as, that received from the ocean floor.

Speculation has been advanced that the echoes may be reflected by colloidal material suspended within the layer, or by minute marine life, such as plankton, a food of certain fish. Still another theory is that gas bubbles from marine life within the layer may cause the reflection.

One characteristic of the new layer is that it changes its depth every 24 hours. It rises several hundred feet toward the surface each evening and sinks to greater depths in the morning.

German Officers Say Spain Served Germany As Economic Base

—Izvestia

By REMBERT JAMES

Moscow, May 17 — (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia today devoted two pages to a 10,000-word statement, attributing to two German officers who served in Spanish cities as military attaches, which charged that the Franco regime, "under a mask of neutrality, actually participated in the war on the side of Germany."

The officers, now prisoners in the Soviet Union, were described as Lt.-Gen. Gunther Krappe, former military attache in Madrid, and Col. Hans Remer, attache in Tangier.

The statement said Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Col.-Gen. Gustav Jodl — both on trial in Nuernberg on war crimes charges — were active in arranging Spanish collaboration.

The officers were quoted as saying that after the Spanish Civil War the German and Spanish general staffs, under the direction of Keitel and Jodl, collaborated in drawing up a secret "Isabella Felix" plan for seizing Gibraltar and widening Spanish possessions in Africa.

During the war, the German officers declared, Spain served Germany as an economic base and her military attache in London supplied Germany with military information.

"The position occupied by Germany toward Spain — the use of Spain as a war economic base for accomplishing the plans of aggression and cloaking Spain under a mask of neutrality — had for Germany very much more meaning than openly bringing Spain into the war in the capacity of another ally," the statement said.

"In this case the defensive ability of Germany would have been appreciably reduced and Germany would have experienced a lack of modern armaments, foodstuffs and fuel, inasmuch as Germany would have had to take upon herself to supply all of this to Spain."

Krappe and Remer said the "Isabella Felix" plan was supposed to have been carried out in conjunction with a "Sea Lion" plan for the capture of the British Isles. The leading Spanish formulator was given as Col. Barosso, chief of operations of the general staff of the Spanish army.

The Franco-appointed General Arsensio, who commanded a division in southern Spain, was quoted as telling Krappe's assistant that he could take the Rock of Gibraltar from the British forces in 20 minutes.

NEGRO SOLDIER CONFESSES FIRING OF THREE SHOTS

Aimed at "Civilian" but Jeep Got in Way and Two Sergeants Were Slain

Frankfurt, Germany, May 17—(AP) — An American Negro private signed a confession today that he fired three shots — "at a civilian going up the road" — which resulted in the deaths of two American sergeants last Friday, army authorities announced today.

The Negro was identified as Pte. James C. Devone, 28, of North Carolina.

Officials said the Negro asserted that the jeep in which the sergeants were riding "got in the way" of the last bullet he fired.

The bare outline of the statement released at headquarters of the theatre provost marshal did not identify the civilian or explain why Devone fired at him.

Authorities said the Negro confessed after ballistics tests showed the fatal shots were fired from an army carbine traced to him.

The victims were Sgt. Paul R. Skelton of McKinney, Tex., and S/Sgt. William R. Timmons, of West Haven, Conn., both 21 and assigned to the fiscal department of "Stars and Stripes."

They were slain from ambush while riding in a jeep with another soldier and three young Allied women, on the way home from a night club.

Authorities said both men were killed by that same bullet, which went entirely through the body of one and penetrated six inches into the body of the other.

Several hundred carbines were seized from troops and test fired. Eighty-six were examined before the right one turned up.

Charges Panzer Regt. Murdered U. S. Prisoners

Dachau, Germany, May 17 — (AP) — The prosecution charged today that the 1st S. S. Panzer Regiment, acting on direct orders from Adolf Hitler to "show no humane inhibitions," murdered between 538 and 749 American prisoners during the Battle of the Bulge in December, 1944.

Lt.-Col. Burton Ellis of New York City, trial Judge Advocate, presented these figures in his opening statement to the war crimes court trying 74 officers and men of the 6th SS Panzer Army.

He said he would prove that Hitler held a meeting of his army commanders shortly before the German drive started and as a result, Gen. Sepl Dietrich, one of the accused, ordered his troops to avenge "terror bombing" and shoot prisoners when combat conditions required.

CITIZENSHIP BILL PASSES IN HOUSE WITHOUT VOTE

Will Draft Declaration of Rights and Privileges of Canadian Citizenship

Ottawa, May 17 (CP)—Without a recorded vote, the Canadian citizenship bill was given third reading in the Commons yesterday and now will be passed on to the Senate.

Passage of the bill came after Veterans Minister Mackenzie government house leader, gave assurances that the government will "definitely" consider opposition proposals that a committee be established, possibly at the next session of parliament, to draft a declaration of the rights and privileges of Canadian citizenship.

Mr. Mackenzie gave the assurances shortly after John Diefenbager (PC—Lake Centre) saw the Commons reject his second attempt to have the bill contain a bill of rights or at least a commitment that a bill of rights would be drafted in the near future.

Speaker Gaspard Fauteux ruled out of order an amendment in which Mr. Diefenbaker sought to have the commitment inserted in the citizenship bill. Dr. Fauteux' decision was upheld 125-38. Earlier, the Commons rejected without a recorded vote, a bill of rights which Mr. Difenbaker sought to have inserted.

Accepted Statement

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said his party was "most anxious" that the bill not pass without some understanding being reached on the bill of rights question. He accepted Mr. Mackenzie's statement that the government would consider such legislation.

Only opposition to the bill in principle as the debate concluded came from M Raymond (BP—Beaucharnos-Laprairie), who said the legislation did not establish a distinctive Canadian citizenship. As in previous laws a Canadian citizen was still described as a British subject.

Poetic Will Is Probated

Paris, Ill., May 17—(AP)—A poetic will executed 24 years ago by the late John W. Maulhmer has been admitted to probate in Edgar County Court. It reads:

"All my worldly goods
"To my dear wife
"I leave for evermore.
"I free give,
"No limit do I fix—
"This is my will
"And she the executrix."

Maulhmer, a watch repairman who died six weeks, ago, left an estate estimated at $12,000 to his widow.

CONSUMERS PAY 2 CENTS MORE QT. FOR MILK JUNE 1

Subsidy To be Removed, Control Over Prices, Distribution Returned To Milk Boards

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, May 17 —(CP)— Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced in the Commons yesterday that the two-cents-a-quart consumer subsidy on milk will be removed June 1 — a move which will mean an increase in the price of milk to consumers across the country this summer.

When the House turned its attention to agriculture estimates Mr. Gardiner made these points:

1. The consumer subsidy on milk will be removed June 1 and control over prices and distribution will be returned to provincial milk boards.

2. The federal government will boost the producers subsidy from 35 to 55 cents a 100 pounds for the period May 1 to Sept. 30 to allow the provincial boards "an adequate period within which to make necessary price adjustments." The producer subsidy will be discontinued after Sept. 30.

3. Further consideration is being given to subsidies on milk entering into cheese and processed milk and understanding was that any adjustments made would be upward.

4. No further action was considered necessary for the present subsidy on butterfat in view of the recent price increase allowed in the retail price of butter.

During the debate which developed following the announcement, Finance Minister Ilsley said:

Likely Another Raise in Fall.

"The situation on June 1 will be that the maximum, the price ceiling, will be established—that is, two cents higher than the consumer is paying at the present time. That will be established by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, but thereafter the matter of adjustments in prices will be in the hands of the milk boards."

It would be substantially correct, he said, to state that consumers would have to pay two cents a quart more for their milk after June 1.

(Sources close to the Prices Board said that in addition to the two-cent boost there likely would be another increase in the fall when the producers subsidy is removed.)

The consumer subsidy cost the government from $20,000,000 to $22,000,000 annually and the producer subsidy $12,000,000.

SEND NEW COMMISSION

Teheran, May 17 —(AP)— An Iranian government source said yesterday Premier Ahmed Qavam was sending a commission to the Azerbaijan capital of Tabriz "to resume negotiations with Jafar Pishevari," head of the semi-autonomous state.

The Premier's office disclosed also that one military and one civilian observer would go to Tabriz today to investigate the status of the Russian evacuation.

Mullen and Martin 20 Years; Warner, Urquhart 15 Years

Convicted of Manslaughter In Slaying of Meyer Tobias

Toronto, May 17 — (CP) — William Mullen, 20, and Edward Martin, 19, today were sentenced to 20 years in penitentiary and Howard Urquhart, 18, and Donald Warner, 17, each was given 15 years. All four were convicted late yesterday of manslaughter in the revolver slaying of Meyer Tobias, 53, Toronto storekeeper, last Dec. 26.

Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay imposed sentence after counsel for the youths had urged imposition of light sentences.

The jury yesterday acquitted the youths of a murder charge laid after the dress shop proprietor was shot and killed in his North Toronto shop, but found them guilty of manslaughter.

The jury received the case at 3.30 p.m., on the 10th day of the trial yesterday, and took 2 1-2 hours to reach its verdict. The court clerk read the names of the accused to the jury foreman, starting with Warner, and the foreman answered: "Not guilty". The clerk quickly named Howard Urquhart while the foreman fidgeted. Crown Prosecutor W. O. Gibson came to his rescue.

"I think the foreman has something else to say," he interrupted.

The clerk thereupon called Warner's name again. This time the foreman replied: "Not guilty of murder; guilty of manslaughter." He answered in the same fashion to the names of the other defendants.

Scattering of Applause

Then the tense, silent courtroom, which has been packed every day of the trial, broke into a scattering of applause. A woman cried out nervously.

His Lordship issued a stern rebuke to the spectators and a sheriff's officer led out of the courtroom a young man in the front row who apparently had started the clapping.

His Lordship then addressed the jury, thanking them. "I have no doubt that you had some real difficulty in arriving at your verdict," he said. "It was not an easy task. I fancy that you are only too happy to hear that your duties are now completed."

He also commented on the fairness with which Mr. Gibson had conducted the prosecution and said the four young defence lawyers also deserved the gratitude of the court. "In this long trial not a harsh word has been uttered by counsel to the bench, or to other counsel," His Lordship added. "I am happy to be able to say there was no harsh word from the bench, and I hope there never will be."

Appear Unmoved

The four prisoners appeared unmoved as the verdicts were being delivered. But they were all smiles as Sheriff's officers led them back to the cells to await today's sentences. Mullen's moth-

Anti-trust Charge Denied by Inco

New York, May 17 (CP)—The new offices of the International Nickel Company of Canada, Ltd., said the following statement was issued yesterday at Copper Cliff, Ont., by R. L. Beattie, Vice-President and General Manager, in connection with civil anti-trust proceedings in New York City against the company announced by the United States Department of Justice:

We have not been served with a complaint in the proceedings against the company, but from the reports we have it appears that the United States Department of Justice is attempting to deprive the International Nickel Company of Canada, Limited, of its United States subsidiary.

The complaint seems to be that because the nickel we mine in the Dominion is purchased by a large percentage of United States nickel users, our company is to be classed as a monopoly illegal under United States law.

Our nickel is in active competition with the production of other producers, including that of the United States government itself from the Cuban deposits, and also it is in competition with many other alloying elements. The prices we have charged in the United States have been so low as to require the United States government to give during the war substantial subsidies to our competitors. Our nickel all comes from a small area in Ontario, next door to the United States market; but there are vast nickel deposits owned by others in many parts of the world.

Has No Agreement

The company has no agreement with any of its competitors which prevents their competing with it in the sale of nickel in the United States market or elsewhere. The facts are simply that we have produced better nickel and have better served United States users. The company's position in the industry is the result of engineering and metallurgical leadership and of unceasing research over more than half a century to create new alloys of nickel and to expand uses for them.

Our plant property in the United States consists almost entirely of our rolling mill at Huntington, W. Va., and represents barely four per cent of the company's total plant property. Although it accounts for only a small percentage of world nickel sales; it has promoted the production, export and usefulness of Canadian nickel by serving over the past quarter-century as the mainspring in the development of high nickel alloys.

This is a service to industry and to the United States government which only a producer of the raw material could have the incentive to render. This pioneering has helped American industry to make better products for many thousands of industrial and household applications.

We are confident that, upon our record, the United States courts will vindicate us completely.

New Type of Nuclear War Using Invisible Atomic Rays Forecast

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

New York, May 17 — (AP) — A new type of nuclear war, using invisible atomic rays so secret that man might know nothing of its start, is forecast by Frederic Joliot, France's foremost physicist.

Dr. Joliot is one of the first of two or three scientists to discover that a chain reaction could be produced in uranium. This discovery, rather than that of splitting atoms, led to bombs, atomic power and radioactive ray production. His forecast appears in the current issue of the Bulletin of the atomic scientists, Chicago, and is from a talk he made in London.

"In the future," Dr. Joliot said, "a country feeling secure through having in its possession a hundred atomic bombs would one day be warned by its statisticians: 'For five years now' they will say, 'the number of abortions (miscarriages) in the central districts has grown to such proportions that there is not one normal birth in six; in the coastal ports fires are destroying the harvests, the drought in the north has deprived the country of a quarter of its electrical energy.'

"Official headquarters and parliamentarians will pore over these figures and will find one explanation only — for several years war has been waged against their country with immense destruction and a considerable number of victims. Yet no one had known that hostilities had broken out."

The sterility that Dr. Joliot mentions would come from x-rays of radioactive atomic materials, secretly spread about by enemy agents. He does not mention that there also would be other human injuries, nor explain how a country might fail to recognize the signs.

Dr. Joliot does not tell how hostile fires would be started or the weather controlled. But he declares that "one day the Pacific applications of this bomb doubtless could be used to transform the surface of large portions of the earth, to make clouds and to bring down rain over huge areas."

WINS $1,000 FOR HIKE

Prides Crossing, Mass., May 17 —(AP)— Mrs. Orson Adams of Boston was $1,000 richer today for having walked 28 miles from Boston to this community in six hours, 36 minutes. The sum was paid by Eleanor Sears, widely-known sportswoman and a former championship walker, who contended Mrs. Adams couldn't cover the ground in seven hours.

City and District News

DISTRICT OFFICERS RECEIVE DISCHARGE

City and district soldiers recently discharged from the service, as announced by military district headquarters, Kingston, include Major Percy Gray, Marmora; Lieut.-Col. J. W. Howard, Belleville; Captain Arthur Cole, and Major Farley Faulkner, Belleville; Major Wilfred Scott, and Lieut. Gordon Dainard, Picton; Captain Robert Scott, Marmora, and Lieut. David Rowe, Consecon.

POT-GROWN TOMATO YIELDS RIPE FRUIT

Early harbingers of spring, long noted in song and story, can bow gracefully out of the news picture and take a seat in the back until next year when robins appear in January; caterpillars in February, and pussy willows in March.

For up bobs a harbinger of the cool months of September, one that is as much out of season as a brown trout at Christmas.

This herald of the warmer months to come, is just a common ordinary ripe tomato, not the hothouse variety, but picked from a pot-grown plant by Ray German of Cherry Valley.

The plant was grown from seed planted in a flower pot and transplanted during the winter season. At present there are several green tomatoes on the vine which are rapidly ripening.

A. & T. APPOINTMENTS IN DISTRICT UNITS

Corporal Harry Kleinsteuber, West Lake, Prince Edward County who has been stationed at Kingston since his return from overseas, has been transferred to Belleville with the rank of sergeant where he will assume the duties of that rank with the administrative and training staff of the Argyll Light Infantry. His duties commence on June 1.

Sergeant Jack Garvin, five year veteran and now of the Canadian Interim Force, is slated for a posting to the A and T. staff of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Picton.

CQMS Arthur Storms, Picton, who has re-enlisted in the Interim Army will be promoted to the rank of RQMS and a posting to the A and T Staff of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, Cornwall, Ont.

POLICE COURT

Toronto Man Given 30 Days

Pleading guilty to a charge of stealing merchandise from a local department store, Allan Bartlett of Toronto was sentenced to one month in jail when he appeared in city police court Friday morning before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Having a considerable police record, Bartlett pleaded for clemency and the opportunity to return to Toronto to his wife and son and "to turn over a new leaf."

"You will be afforded that opportunity after a reasonable period," stated the Magistrate as he sentenced the accused to 30 days in jail.

Belleville Bridge Club Concludes Successful Season

The Belleville Bridge Club concluded another successful year on Thursday evening when the members gathered at the Belleville Club to elect officers and enjoy a round of bridge and a delicious lunch served by the steward of the club. Jack Lawrence, president of the club, presided at the meeting until the new officers were elected and then turned the meeting over to the new president, Ted Hughes.

The outgoing president expressed his thanks for the honor conferred on him and for the able assistance given him by the secretary, W. B. "Skit" Vandervoort. Mr. Hughes was also thanked for his work in connection with Ladies' Night held last summer and hope that a similar meeting would be held this year. At the election of officers Lorne McDougall was named vice president, W. B. Vandervoort secretary treasurer. The directors will be J. K. Carroll, J. Kelleher, J. V. White and George O'Brien. It was moved and unanimously adopted that no one team could win more than one sectional prize during the year.

For Highest Single Game.

It was also adopted that the sectional prize be for the highest single game in the period instead of the gross score for the period. This, the members claimed, would create more interest in the league. The league will be composed of 24 teams, the same as last year, with the same draw prevailing. At this point the new president took the chair and a presentation was made to Mr. Vandervoort for his handling of the league's business during the year. The president also announced that a Ladies' Night would be held and R. F. Hart, James Walker and Frank Domenico were named on the committee to complete arrangements.

Prize Winners for Year.

Three rubbers of bridge were played with Jack Lawrence and Jack White having the largest scores. At this point the president presented the prize money for the year, Walter Belair and R. F. Hart winning first, Ted Hughes and Frank Martin second, Harley Wray and Edgar Vermilyea third, and who also won the low penalty prize, Frank Domenico and George O'Brien fourth, and Johnny Hibbard and Bill Tate fifth. The members then enjoyed a social hour before closing a most successful season of bridge.

BENCHES PLACED IN PANTER'S PARK

After weeks of comparatively chilly weather the local parks board has apparently decided that summer is at last on the way and are accordingly distributing seats to the various city parks. This morning a local department truck was seen as city employees placed benches in Panter's Park for the convenience of citizens.

"HOT" GEMS

It was once believed that rubies contained an internal fire which could bring water to a boil.

John B. Badgley is Appointed Mgr. Chamber of Commerce, Sec. Industrial Commission

Joint Salary Agreement is Arranged Between the Governing Bodies

Former R. C. A. F. squadron leader instructor and resident of Montreal, but now of this city, John H. Badgley was appointed manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and secretary of the City Industrial Commission at a joint meeting of the chamber directorate, Mayor Frank Follwell and Industrial Commission chairman, R. A. Pringle, held here on Thursday.

The new manager-secretary was engaged under a joint salary agreement between the Chamber and the Industrial Commission, and will assume his new duties on June 1st.

Miss Helen Fraleck, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce for the past twenty-four years, will be retained in that capacity. Miss Fraleck has been acting as secretary-manager of the Chamber since the passing of the late J. Owen Herity.

Engaged on Monthly Basis

The new official, who has been engaged on a monthly basis will accompany President Lorne McDougall of the Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Commission chairman Pringle to Toronto next week, where he will study the methods and procedure of the Toronto Board of Trade with a view to introducing similar procedure here.

Mr. Badgley was born in Montreal 47 years ago, a son of the late G. W. Badgley, president of the Montreal Freehold Company. He was educated at Lower Canada College, Montreal and left that institution to join the R.C.A.F. in the First Great War. He again joined the air service of Canada at the outbreak of the Second World War in 1939, and held various positions as an instructor in Canada and overseas. He is married and is a son-in-law of Major General J. A. Gunn, CBE., DSO., of Toronto.

The duties of a Chamber of Commerce manager, it was pointed out in a discussion previous to the motion by Mayor Follwell and Director Jamieson Bone recommending the engaging of Mr. Badgley's services in that capacity, would be to endeavor to secure new industries by personal and other contacts; and assist in the securing of new members for the Chamber. His secretarial job will be to do important work for the Industrial Commission.

Industrial Commission Chairman Pringle told the meeting that his commission felt it needed a secretary to do special work, and the cost could be financed from the commission's budget.

Speaking of finance, Director Jack McIntosh felt that the Chamber revenue could be increased if manufacturers took out two or more memberships in the Chamber. "At the present," he said, "some manufacturers are paying the same as the little man with the small cigar store on the corner."

Concurred in Statement.

Mr. Jack Deacon, chairman of the Manufacturer's Section of the Chamber, who was a special guest at the luncheon, concurred in the statement. "I feel, generally speaking," he said "that most manufacturers will agree to that."

In a brief address to the meeting Mr. Deacon stated that manufacturers of this city were fully in accord with bringing in outside industries, contrary to prevalent street rumors.

"Years ago," he said; "when 46 industries were nere, producing 13 million dollars worth of goods annually, a lot of money was spent in the city through food, supplies, etc. The only way to make Belleville prosperous is to bring in industries which will benefit merchants, manufacturers, and all other phases of city life.

On Right Track

"The manufacturers section of the Chamber of Commerce," Mr. Deacon went on, "felt that the Chamber of Commerce was proceeding in the right direction with a full-time representative engaged in bringing industries here."

Competition is the life of trade, he said, and competitive industries brought to Belleville would mean more wages, production and more prosperity. "We in our industry, are of that opinion, and I feel, sure that other manufacturers feel like we, that competitive industry would have no detrimental effect on this city."

"The manufacturers section of the Chamber," he said, "would welcome discussion of any problems relating to industry with Mr. Badgley, or any group interested.

Mr. Pringle in his early remarks suggested that the Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Board of Trade meet together to discuss industrial and other problems. He suggested a joint meeting of the two organizations with the Industrial Commission in the near future for such a purpose.

Getting Together again.

Mayor Frank Follwell said that although the "Chamber had divorced the City Council earlier in the year, I feel they are getting together once more. There has always been fine co-operation between the two organizations and I feel it will continue."

Referring to the recent announcement that the Ontario Department of Highways had allocated a large sum of money for Hastings County roads the mayor felt that the recent delegation comprised of city, county, and other officials which waited on the Minister of Highways, had had something to do with the decision to spend money on the roads project.

Factories Must Board all Cheese At Next Meeting

A total of fourteen buyers, four of them new to the Belleville board, were in attendance at the Belleville Cheese Board Thursday evening at the initial meeting of the season. The board was adjourned until June 6th without cheese being offered on the board.

No indication of the number of cheese salesmen had to offer was given at the meeting with factory representatives bargaining individually with the buyers. All factories must board their cheese at the June 6th meeting, which is the board's annual conclave.

No action was taken by board's members on a suggestion from William McCreary, local cheese buyer, that the board pass a resolution requesting the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association to make representation to the government for cheese factories to be designated as the shipping point. Factories in Eastern Ontario which ship cheese by truck were enjoying this privilege legally as they had no transportation charges to pay, according to Mr. McCreary.

Mr. McCreary also voiced an objection to new buyers appearing on the Belleville board, claiming that it seemed unfair that local salesmen should attempt to distribute available cheese among so many buyers. One of the new buyers appearing on the board came from Brantford, two were from Peterborough, one from Kingston, and one from Campbellford.

Notice of motion was given by Mr. Jack Cook for a recommendation that board fees be raised from two to three dollars. According to Secretary Fred Mallory, the increase in fees was necessary if the board was to continue giving grants to the annual cheese show held in Belleville. The Cheese Producers' Association, pays the board fees for the factories.

Phalanx Fraternity Elects Officers For Coming Year

The local (Alpha) Chapter of the Phalanx Fraternity of Belleville elected new officers at their meeting on Wednesday evening. Annual elections are held, the new officials taking office on the first of June.

Gordon Mifflin succeeds Ray Hall as Primus, other new office holders are, Pro-Primus, Jim Rapino; Tribune, Jack Hegan; Quaestor, Cam. Snell. Four councillors were also elected as committee chairman for a program committee, finance committee, membership committee and service committee. Those elected were Dick Kirby, Andy Thompson, Ronald Walmsley and Bill Gilbert.

Assisting the new board of officers are Y.M.C.A. Secretary Ed. Shortt as program secretary and the Rev. Mr. J. W. Houston of the Tabernacle United Church as mentor.

This recently formed organization has had, up to the present, a temporary committee and is glad to announce that it has accomplished in the past few months a well prepared groundwork for a successful future under a regularly elected executive.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were enjoyed by all members.

Garage Operators Discuss Hours Of Sale for Gas

Hours of sale during which gasoline service stations may conduct business was the topic of considerable discussion at the regular monthly meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward Garage Operators Association held at the Quinte Thursday evening.

By a previous mutual agreement gasoline service station operators in the city had agreed that hours of sale would be from seven in the morning until seven in the evening with stations to alternate in remaining open on Sunday. Within recent weeks, however, several stations have been remaining open until nine in the evening and have also remained open on Sunday.

Executive secretary of the provincial council of the association, Mr. Ed. Wadham spoke briefly during the meeting telling of the agreement of Toronto gasoline dealers regarding hours of sale. No definite decision was made on the part of the local association regarding disposition of the gasoline question.

Apprenticeships were also referred to briefly by the speaker who stated that after October of this year, mechanics will be called upon to take five years' training before being granted a certificate.

Past President Kenneth Vivian occupied the chair for the evening's program in the absence of president William Hopkins. John Lloyd won the door prize of a box of spark plugs donated by Jack Windsor.

Heavy Rain Will Greatly Benefit Berries, Crops

Farmers and market gardeners of the city and district wore broad beaming smiles today.

For the warm growth-producing rain of yesterday valued by one farmer at "a dollar a drop" was just what a near-parched earth needed, and arrived in time to bring new life to crops that were beginning to feel the pinch of lack of moisture.

Approximately 1.60 inches of rain fell over the district during Thursday's downpour, according to figures released today by officials of the Belleville Purification Plant.

And according to an unofficial "weather man" who keeps weather records just for the fun of it, yesterday was the first all-day rain experienced since early February.

Furthermore, it was but the fifth day that rain has fallen since the first of that abbreviated month.

Large Berry Crop Expected.

With a follow-up of not too warm weather, farmers stated today, the strawberry and raspberry crops, barring unforeseen weather incidents later in the season, should be one of the best in years, with such an auspicious start as was afforded the plants by the rain.

"Barring late frost, and not too hot weather in the immediate future, the berries should do exceptionally well this year," one grower said.

Spring grain, to quote one rural optimist, showed new growth practically overnight. Pastures received added momentum to already lush growths in parts of the district that presage plenty of green fodder for livestock.

Old Mother Earth, which had "cracked" slightly under the strain of continued dry weather, received a new lease of life especially in those districts where farmers are readying ground for plant crops. All in all it was a "million dollar" rain.

IN MEMORIAM

PASCOE — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Harold Edward (Slim) Pascoe, whose death came as a great shock two years ago today, May 17th., 1944.

Two years have passed since that sad day,
God called the one we loved away.
Forget him, no, we never will,
For in our hearts he liveth still.
The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought his death so near,
And only those who have lost
Can tell the pain that parting cost.
—Sadly missed by Father, Mother, Sisters and Brothers.

GRAVES —In loving memory of Lance Corporal Thomas A. Graves, killed in Italy May 17th., 1944.

They say time heals all sorrows,
And helps me to forget.
The time so far has only proved
How much I miss him yet.
God gave me strength to fight it
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose you, Tommy,
No one will ever know.
—Ever remembered by Mom, Mrs. M. Davison, 108 Cannifton Road.

Barge Released From Lake Shoal Off Point Traverse

The tow barge owned by the Russell Bros. Towing Company of New York City which ran aground on Gull Bar Shoal near Point Traverse Tuesday, was released this morning by the Salvage Prince of Kingston, the tug Russell No. 19 and another tug.

The cargo of gas and oil was removed from the grounded barge during the night and so little or no difficulty was experienced in removing it from the shoal.

The barge suffered a hole in the forward compartment near the bow. It is believed that workmen are now engaged in reloading the barge.

Lake is Calm.

The lake has been calm since the barge went aground and was placid all day yesterday during the heavy rainstorm. Late last night, it was reported, there was no sign of a break in the weather. Officials, however, were said to be rushing arrangements for release and cargo removal operations, as rough weather and pounding seas might cause considerable damage to the beached craft, if not cause it to break up entirely.

Tug officials said that they felt confident the large barge could be safely removed from her position on the shoal if the cargo is removed.

The chief engineer of the tug Russell 19 said that a faulty compass and the fact that the wireless was out of commission caused the tug and its convoy to go off course.

MANSLAUGHTER

er was in the front row of spectators and burst into tears of joy. Urquhart's mother and Warner's parents were also present.

Mr. Justice Mackey had spent two hours and 20 minutes on his closing address to the jury. He said that if they found that Tobias was shot accidentally then there could be no intent to murder. But it was also the law that where an offender pursued a course of conduct likely to induce a struggle—as was alleged in this case—and if the offender knew, or ought to know, that death would result, that would be murder.

Hope for Peace

"You will note that there is an extraordinary unanimity of evidence as to the common intention," he said. He referred to Martin's statement that Martin and Mullen carried guns to persuade Tobias to hand over his money "peacefully," and said: "It may occur to you that there was hope for peace on one side if there wasn't very much on the other."

As to the defence plea that the shooting was accidental or involuntary, His Lordship said: "It is true that if a gun is cocked, it takes very little pressure to fire it. It may also be that your inquiring minds will ask: why was it cocked?"

He stressed that the onus was on the crown to prove its case up to the hilt. There were three possible verdicts—guilty of murder, guilty of manslaughter, and acquittal. He thought there was "an extraordinary shortage or absence of evidence" to warrant an acquittal for Mullen and Martin. These two were with Tobias when he was slain.

"And there could be something to be said as far as Urquhart was waiting outside in a stolen car. "I am submitting to you that Warner may be the least culpable of them all," he said in reference to youngest of the accused, who was in the front of the store when the shooting occurred in the rear.

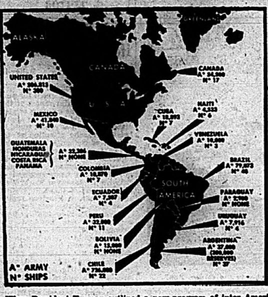
PLAN FOR DEFENCE OF AMERICAS



When President Truman outlined a new program of inter-American military collaboration, he proposed that the United States standardize hemispheric defences as well as the training and equipping of armed forces in the Americas. The military and naval strength of these American states, as shown here, is based on figures made public before the outbreak of World War II. On map, "A" refers to the army, while "N" indicates only large warships.

CONSUMERS PAY

moving the subsidy drew support from Progressive Conservative members, who urged that the price ceiling also be lifted. The action was criticized by Social Credit and C.C.F. members.

All Join in Debate

Farmer members of the Commons from all sections of the country joined in the debate on the subsidy announcement. Mr. Gardiner, replying to Percy Wright (CCF — Melfort), said the government, on the basis of what happens between now and September, will decide whether it will be necessary to enforce the Agriculture Floor Prices Act as far as dairy products are concerned.

William Bryce (CCF — Selkirk) pleaded that the two-cent subsidy be not removed all at once. The action was going to take milk away from the family of the working man.

Mr. Ilsley said that while the consumer would be paying more he still would be paying less than his counterpart in the United States.

Mark Senn (PC — Haldimand) said he agreed with Mr. Gardiner that the government should relinquish control over milk and added that he also would like to see the price ceilings removed to enable farmers to have a better margin of profit.

John Blackmore (SC — Lethbridge) felt the discussion had indicated most were in favor of retention of the subsidy. The day of the payment of subsidies had come to stay and the country's financial system should be altered to meet that fact.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Moore and Joyce of Madoc were recent guests at Mr. and Mrs. Milton Reid's.

MOTHER'S DAY SERVICE

On Sunday afternoon the Sunday School and Church held a combined Service for Mother's Day at Eggleton Church.

The Sunday School superintendent, Mrs. Warren Harlow presided. After the worship period 14 members of the Primary class sang a Mother's Day song with Miss Rosella Fitchett playing the accompaniment.

Mrs. C. Fitchett gave a reading describing the blackboard drawing.

David Madill, Carl Reid and Mr. Bert Reide read portions of Scripture.

10 members of the Girls' class sang "My Mother's Bible" with Mrs. Bruce Stapley playing the accompaniment. Ross Bridges read a poem. Offering taken up by Vernon Clarke and Glen Clarke.

A duet was sung by Olive and Donald Mintz. Mr. Stewart gave a splendid address on "Parents and the Home."

A Great Tradition

Six divisions will comprise the Canadian Army (Reserve) upon completion of reorganization of the heretofore-designated militia.

An interesting fact, one which should command the attention of residents, and especially former members of the overseas unit, is the allocation to this city of a company of the 2nd (R) Battalion, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

This immediate district raised, and to a large extent kept reinforced, a regiment that distinguished itself not only in the First Canadian Division and Corps, but in the immortal Eighth Army as well. The regiment, the First Battalion, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, in the selection of its commanders and the spirit of its rank and file, rated second to none in the Canadian infantry.

A battalion of the First Brigade, it was associated with such well-known and deservedly famous units as the 48th Highlanders of Canada and the Royal Canadian Regiment, in many a bloody operation in Sicily and Italy. The "Hasty Pees" were not often in reserve.

Distinguished soldiers commanded the regiment, among them Lt.-Col. (later Major-General Salmon, killed in an air crash), the late Lt.-Col. Bruce Sutcliffe, Brigadier Howard Graham, D.S.O. and bar, now Deputy Chief of the General Staff, Ottawa, and Lord Tweedsmuir, son of Canada's late former Governor-General. Lord Tweedsmuir still wears the badge of the regiment when in uniform, and has stated his intention of writing a biography of the regiment's role in the Mediterranean theatre of operations.

Toronto, Montreal and other metropolitan centres as well as other communities of the Dominion, support in many ways the reserve battalions of their fighting regiments. This city and immediate district should foster the tradition handed down by its fighting sons of the last two Great Wars through co-operation in the establishment of a company in this city worthy of the First Battalion, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Safe Driving

All over the North American Continent at this time there is a concerted campaign aimed to make driving safer on the streets of villages, towns and cities and on the highways for the opening of what will be the heaviest driving season since before the recent war. To make driving safe for all is the duty of all.

The civilized world is thoroughly aware of the tragic and deplorable number of accidents which have marred the summer season even in the war years when there was less pleasure driving owing to restrictions on rubber and gasoline. Now free from these, the highways and roads will see a great flood of drivers, new drivers who will have to drive with exceptional care, drivers who have driven in war years but under the conditions of limitation of traffic because of wartime bans, and who will come again into their place in the great crowd of cars which will swell the traffic everywhere. It is not to be forgotten too that some cars in use are old and require every attention of the owners and drivers to make sure that brakes and tires fill requirements of safety.

Going on the basis of past records, it is being drummed into the thoughts of motorists that the motorcar when used as it should be used can be a great source of pleasure and instruction in the great outdoors of which Canada is so proud and also that any faults in driving and any carelessness can raise the toll to shocking heights. The motorcar can be easily driven for it is one of the most perfect products of the ingenuity of man's mind and yet it is sometimes driven as if the driver believed he could neglect any of the rules of driving. But this latter must not be.

Other drivers have a right to expect that every driver on the road drives with full sense and appreciation of his responsibilities as to keeping his car mechanically perfect and of driving according to the standards of driving required by law and common sense.

The human element is the factor that enters into the question of the safety of driving and of dangerous driving. A great responsibility therefore rests upon those who drive.

There is another responsibility, that is on the part of the person who crosses roads or highways or walks along the highway's edge to make sure that the way is clear and to do nothing that will add to the dangers of use of the highways. A pedestrian may be the cause of an accident either to himself or to others in cars.

Eternal vigilance of everyone using the motorways is required to make the use of these roads and highways safe for everyone.

Wild Cherry Blossoms

"Along country roads, in brushy field corners and among the birches, beeches, oaks and maples on rocky hills the wild cherry is holding its blossomed branches to welcome the advancing spring. Among northern hills and valleys spring comes slowly; it makes many tentative sallies and then withdraws again while the rear guard of winter's forces hurls cold rains and flurries of snow at the stirring world. Brown blankets of fields and meadows change haltingly to green-tinged coverlets. Red maples flaunt bright-blossomed bouquets among bare, gray limbs.

"But when the wild red cherry decides it's time to toss white blooms on May's warming breezes the countryman knows that trees and shrubs are ready to break the stitching of their buds. Many a farmer who enjoys jousting with unpredictable weather takes the cherry blossom as a signal to try a first small planting of sweet corn. The red cherry is not a pretentious member of the woodland family. It has folklore names — bird cherry or pin cherry. Its bark is a glossy ruddy brown, smooth in texture, with many horizontal tan-colored lines. In mid-spring country boys chew the bark of tender twigs for the tangy, bitter-sweet flavor. When August comes the birds harvest the clusters of ruby-red, small, translucent fruits.

"Now the wild cherries are in bloom again. The lovely, fragile white clusters make bouquets on the countryside. The leaves, just beginning to swell from their buds, give a touch of green against the whiteness. Soon the blooms fall and for a brief time the creamy-white petals are a pattern on the brown floor of the woodland. But for a fortnight now the wild cherry blossoms are white banners to welcome the deepening season."

"Night Flying" by Daylight

During the war, Britain's Royal Air Force developed an ingenious method of training young pilots for the dangers of night flying. The method proved so successful that it is being adopted in peacetime. The training "night flights" take place in broad daylight so that the instructor can see everything clearly. But for the pupil everything is as black as night — a synthetic night produced by means of blue goggles and amber-colored cockpit windows, through which he can see nothing but the sodium-lit flare path on the airfield and the aircraft instrument panel illuminated by sodium lighting. The instructor sitting beside him without goggles can see everything by daylight and can correct his pupil's errors without danger. The filter goggles are the invention of a British photographer and his brother, a squadron leader in the R.A.F., who perfected them for the specific purpose of "night-flying" by day.

Canadian Unions Pay High Tribute To Justice Gillanders

Toronto, May 17 — (CP)—Canadian labor unions paid tribute yesterday to Mr. Justice John G. Gillanders of the Ontario Court of Appeal, who died here Wednesday, as a "man of constructive understanding of employer and employee relations."

"Mr. Justice Gillanders provided in his many decisions affecting labor a firm basis for closer industrial harmony," several unions said in a joint statement. "Labor appreciates his untiring efforts and his high sense of civil duty. His interest in labor-management relations during the wartime period of industrial development resulted in many constructive precedents."

Among unions joining in the tribute were the United Automobile Workers of America, the United Steel Workers, the United Electrical Workers and the United Packinghouse Workers.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Final Report On Housing Situation

Belleville

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Thank you very much for publishing the interim report of this committee in the columns of your paper. It would indeed be appreciated if this final report could be brought to the attention of the citizens of Belleville and district.

The tabulating of the replies received may be given in a cold, statistical manner. Sixty-nine questionnaires were received — fifty from veterans of World Wars I and II and of these thirty-four served overseas. Nineteen replies came from civilian families.

These sixty-nine families have a total of one hundred and twenty-two children — forty-five families would like to live in the city, nine would live on the outskirts and the remaining fifteen families would just like a place in which to live. The average size house required runs to 5-6 rooms and the amount they can pay in rent averages $27.00 per month. A further interesting part is that the fifty veteran families have a total of only sixty nine children, or an average of 1.38 per family.

Your chairman has made personal calls on twenty-six of these families and acknowledged seventeen questionnaires by letter. It is hoped that it will be possible to contact everyone personally, failing this a letter acknowledging your interest will be written.

It was very gratifying indeed to find that our efforts are sincerely appreciated. There is still much to be done and if there is to be adequate housing there can be no relaxing of the effort which is apparently necessary to obtain any organized low-rent housing.

In our interim report, mention was made of a family threatened with eviction as their abode has been condemned by the city health authorities. It is with regret that I report that four families in this house have been forced to live for the past week or more without light or water. If there is any accommodation in Belleville for these unfortunate people please let us know of it. There is a young veteran in one family — he says that there was light and water on H.M.C. ships!

A resolution was prepared, approved by the members of the Canadian Legion, and passed to the city council for their action. This resolution requested the council to restrict temporarily the granting of building permits to those projects which could be termed essential building. The council apparently is not aware of the serious situation at hand and took no action on this resolution. During the months of March and April a total of 87 building permits were issued, of these only 32 were for new residences.

That members of the local industrial commission are only now aware of the possible loss of business to this city as a result of the housing shortage, was evident from the press report of their recent meeting. Housing Enterprizes of Canada can do a big job for Belleville. Better get started late than not at all!

This Committee can quote personal stories of families living in the most miserable of situations—people who are taking it on the chin with a smile. But it appears that the smile is now getting worn and rather threadbare. Man and wife should be entitled to privacy and a semblance of human dignity.

Can you, for instance, imagine how these can be maintained if you were man and wife living in one small room with a six-year-old daughter? This couple were perhaps fortunate as they were able to get a place even if they have committed the crime of having reared a child.

Why is the average size of fifty veterans' families only 1.38? These people must have homes before they can rear happy, healthy families. Landlords who prefer cats, dogs or canaries to a child made this imperative.

Let us all pull together—producers of raw materials, dealers, contractors, financiers, labor and municipal authorities. By the time the first snow falls there can be a big improvement.

Yours truly,
Charles D. Lundy,
Chairman.
Rehabilitation Committee,
Canadian Legion (B.E.S.L.),
(Branch 99).

WHY THE OLD FOLKS NEED A GOOD NARCOTIC

So far my efforts to learn the secret have not been fruitful but like all my predecessors in the search for the secret of longevity—most of them have died young—I do not give up hope.

One of the youngest chaps on I say the bowling green — and when I say young I mean young—is the most youthful 87-year-old man I have ever known, and you have got yourself a real game when you have him for an oponent. Now if I were in his place, boy, I'd tell 'em. But the man is so modest that it is difficult to get even a suggestion from him. When I caught him in his usual happy mood one day I begged him to tell me to what he ascribed...he looked at me quizzically for a moment and said: "My dear sir, that's one thing that never harmed me!"—and I almost dropped my pipe on the green before I realized what he meant.

Now I'm sure my esteemed bowling crony needs no narcotic. Unlike most people who are anywhere near his age, even many who have ten or twenty years to go, my friend has what it takes, and I call it vite.

It is the elderly folk who are shy on vite that need a narcotic to make life pleasanter for themselves and for those who have to live with them. Of course the narcotic to which I refer is alcohol—a glass of ale, beer or wine once or twice a day.

Mind, I said the elderly people who lack vite. Can't stop here to tell how one knows when one is elderly. My bowling crony, despite what the Blue Book says about him, is certainly not elderly; on the contrary as I have already said, he is youthful. He has vite.

People of any age, children, youths, young adults, mature adults, who are lacking in vite do not feel as good as those who have vite. One who has vite feels just fine and dandy. One who hasn't it is quite likely to feel "the need of a stimulant"—that's how one misguided young man explained his drinking to excess.

Elderly persons who are shy on vite have a good many little complaints or feelings of uneasiness, anxiety, weakness and these constant difficulties, annoyances or frustrations, make them irritable, peevish or difficult to live with. It is a bit late in the game to try to restore vite, but that's precisely where alcohol comes in—a glass of beer, ale or wine once or twice a day dulls their consciousness of all these frailties, symptoms, discomforts and they find life pleasanter and they become so much more agreeable to live with.

There you have it. Whether you are old enough to begin taking your daily glass or two of beer, ale or wine, I can't tell you. My bowling crony, at 87, certainly isn't.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Hard Pan

What to do for goitre. It started in the last year, since we came here (Michigan) to live. The water is very hard and from hard pan earth. (Mrs. B. L. D.)

Answer—There is a deficiency of iodine in soil and water and animal and vegetable food grown in all that are, and iodine deficiency is the usual cause of goitre. Consult your physician. I cannot suggest remedies or treatment. I do advise every man, woman and child in that area particularly to take a suitable ration of iodine in one form or another daily. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing (not with a clipping) or pamphlet "Instructions for Taking an Iodin Ration" (I spell it Iodin to indicate that it is nutritional iodine, not medicinal.)

Well Merited Rebuke

Please give the directions for exercises to correct head noises. Also, may I humbly beg you not to use the words d——n and h——l. They are very unbecoming to a man of your usefulness and standing and we don't want our children to learn and use them...I am sure you will understand. (D. W. B.)

Answer—Instructions for the exercises are given in the pamphlet "Deafness and Tinnitus (head noises)" — mailed on request if you provide stamped self addressed envelope—remember, I do not reply to clippings. I am ashamed to say I do understand and offer my sincere apology. I am keeping your plea right over my desk and I hope it will never happen again.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How do fish swim up waterfalls?

Most fishes do not readily ascend waterfalls and other obstructions in streams, although such fishes as salmon, alewives, and a few species of trout will ascend waterfalls of considerable height.

The distance that a salmon can leap straight upward has often been exaggerated by popular writers. In Astoria" (1836) Washington Irving wrote that a Mr. Miller "declared that he had seen a salmon leap a distance of about thirty feet from the commencement of the foam at the foot of the fall (Salmon Falls in Idaho), completely to the top.

Salmon have been known to make vertical leaps of five or six feet in going up falls. They usually ascend only waterfalls that have pockets or back eddies and leap from one to another, or force their way through the swift current.

In attempting to ascend an absolutely perpendicular fall a salmon will leap at the fall at a decided angle. If the fall is not too high the fish can often hit the falling water part way up and reach the top by swimming energetically.

Experts doubt whether any salmon is able to ascend a 15-foot fall all the way from the bottom. If the water at the bottom of such a fall were deep enough to give the salmon a good start it might succeed in reaching the top.

"Salmon" is derived from Latin "salmo," which in turn is supposed to be from "salire," to leap.

Alewives, trout and a few other fishes will pass up waterfalls or low obstructions if an efficient ladder or fishway is provided. Shad and many other species will not pass up any form of fishway so far devised.

A fall of any size, therefore, is a barrier to their farther progress up a stream.

No species of fish is known to be able to swim up a high steep waterfall. The popular notion that fish swim up the falls at Niagara is erroneous.

Properly Executed Will Important Underwriters Told

"Technically, no man can die without a will, for if he does not bother making one himself, the law will do it for him, and such a will may be in complete variance with what he wished to do with his money. In fact any will a person makes is better than no will at all," stated Mr. A. R. Fairbairn, Estates Officer of the Brockville Trust and Loan Company, who was guest speaker at the regular luncheon meeting of the Belleville Life Underwriters' Association on Thursday. Mr. Fairbairn from his experience in estate analysis gave a most interesting and informative address on the subject of "Wills and Estates."

The meeting was held in the lecture room of the Y.M.C.A. and was presided over by the president, Mr. A. G. Stackhouse. The program was in charge of the Mutual Life Assurance Company, with Mr. P. C. McGuire as chairman. Mr. Jack Murphy acted as sergeant-at-arms and the secretary, Mr. Don Williams, was song leader with Mrs. J. J. Hibbard presiding at the piano. Guests at the meeting were Mr. E. J. Muir, Head Office, Canada Life Assurance Company, and Mr. Bob Taber, formerly with the Manufacturers' Life who is in Belleville as organizer for the Optimists' Club.

Trust Functions Explained.

The guest speaker was introduced by Mr. McGuire who spoke of Mr. Fairbairn's association with the Brockville Trust and Loan Company for the past fourteen years, three of which had been spent with the R.C.A.F.

The functions of life underwriters and a trust company, Mr. Fairbairn said in his opening remarks, were somewhat similar. Life underwriters sold security and peace of mind to a man through helping him provide for a comfortable old age by building up a retirement income, while at the same time ensuring that his family would be cared for in case of his death. The trust company's function was to conserve the man's assets after his death so that the security of his family would be maintained as he desired.

Should a man die without making a will his estate comes under the laws of intestacy which provide that if there are no children, his widow would receive five thousand dollars and two-thirds of the estate, the other third going to nearest relatives or to the state if there are no other heirs. If there are children, the widow would receive five thousand dollars, and one-third of the estate, while two thirds would go to the children, to be administered by the official guardian.

Women Lack Training.

Two important requirements attend the making of a will — the person must be of a sound and disposing mind and he must appoint executors. In some cases the wife is left as executrix but it has been found that very few women are prepared to administer efficiently an estate of a large sum of money and scattered assets. Often, in an individual is named as an executor, there is the possibility of his death and while he might have the experience required to take care of an estate, his executors, to whom these duties would automatically fall, might not prove capable. The third type of executors, trust companies, could best administer an estate of continuing trust over future years in the exact fulfilment of the wishes of the testator. In many cases where a trust company is so named, the man makes his wife a co-executor.

Usually estates are made of the man's house, business, stocks and bonds and insurance. To a large extent insurance proves to be the best asset the estate will have since, as a liquid asset, it will safeguard the other forms the estate takes, providing especially of the succession duties.

Criss-Cross Wills a Danger.

Mr. Fairbairn showed the disposition of an estate as handled by a trust company when the legatee is a widow or a child. The danger of "criss-cross" wills where the husband makes a will leaving all to his wife and his wife makes a later will, is that double succession duties follow. For this reason the trust company stresses the proper arrangement of wills to conserve the estate.

The speaker discussed the part insurance and trust companjes take in assisting partnership business and family corporations to operate in the best interests of those making up such firms, and he pointed out many interesting and important phases of the Succession Duties Act. His ready wit added greatly to the enjoyment of his hearers and in concluding, his parting message was:

"This is a good business that you are in and a good country in which to work. It is a favored country where so much can be spread among so many. Out of this great country came billions of dollars for the Mother Country in the last great conflict to augment the efforts of the thousands of men and women in her service. Anyone bearing the name of "Canadian" can wear that title as a badge of honor and in any country under God's sun can say with pride and thankfulness 'I am a Canadian.'"

In expressing sincere appreciation to Mr. Fairbairn for one of the outstanding addresses of the association's series, Mr. R. B. Morden referred to the close connection between a well set up insurance program and a trust company, and how the functions of a trust company can be utilized in service to the underwriter's clients, as so ably outlined by the guest speaker.

TRENTON

Jury to Inquire Into Death Of Oliva A. Poulin

Trenton — Coroner Dr. E. A. McQuade on Monday afternoon empannelled a jury to make a preliminary enquiry in the circumstances surrounding the sudden death of Olive Aurore Poulin, age 24, of Warren, near Sudbury, in a light housekeeping room which she occupied on Queen Street.

Jury Named

Members of the jury are Vic Auger, Chalmers Alyea, Gordon Bristow, Fraser Fairman and Claude V. Graham. After viewing the body at the Weaver Funeral Home, the inquest was adjourned until Thursday, May 23rd in the town hall at which several witnesses have been called to testify. The young woman, according to police, took her own life under tragic circumstances.

The tragedy occurred on Sunday night and an investigation was conducted by Sergeant F. J. Taylor and Constable George Crawford of the Trenton police, and Inspector C. Hayes of the Belleville police department. Coroner Dr. E. A. McQuade was called.

Served With R.C.A.F.

The deceased young woman served with the Army Medical Corps in the R.C.A.F. and was honorably discharged on the 9th of March 1946, at which time she was commended for her service. She obtained a civilian position at No. 6 R.D.

A widowed mother lives at Warren, in the Sudbury district, and having been ill for several months was unable to come to Trenton when notified of her daughter's death. She has several brothers and sisters.

The young woman was well thought of by many who knew her, and she was very popular in the R.C.A.F. ranks. Her landlady said of her that she was a wonderful little girl, nice, clean and honest.

Libera Was Sung

The body rested at the Weaver Funeral Home and on Thursday afternoon last, cortege moved to the Church of St. Peter-in-Chains at 2 o'clock where Libera was sung. Interment was made in Mount Calvary cemetery, and the bearers were three members of the Legion and three of the Air Force. Members of the Legion accorded the deceased military honors.

May Have Rations Cut to 500 Cal. Or Lower in Zone

Herford, Germany, May 17 — (AP) — British military food administrators today warned 9,000,000 persons in the British occupation zone in Germany may be placed on starvation rations of 500 calories or less daily unless there are substantial grain imports within the next few weeks.

German food rations in the British zone now are at the near-starvation level of 1,050 a day.

The administrators told a press conference the further reduction might be necessary unless additional food is imported between now and this year's harvest. A military government health officer said the present ration scale is not sufficient to maintain health over a period of time.

He said it was expected that the over-all death rate, which rose sharply in April from 12 per 1,000 per annum to 14 per 1,000 per annum, would show further severe increases during the summer.

THEY'RE ON THEIR WAY

Wilton Grove, May 17 — (CP) — Clothes hungry citizens, faced with all sorts of shortages in woolen goods, may take comfort in the following Western Ontario fashion note: Warm weather has permitted breeders to share the matted coats from their sheep and though the sheep stand about, shivering in their nakedness, that new tweed suit, the warm knitted sweater or the gay wool blanket is on its way to you.

Six-Point Plan For Indian Union Is Announced

London, May 17—(CP)—A six-point plan for a federal union of India was announced in the House of Commons today by Prime Minister Attlee.

Published as a Government White Paper, the plan was drawn up by a three-man cabinet mission to India following its unsuccessful negotiations for Indian leaders themselves to formulate a plan for Indian independence and an interim government to rule while the new constitution was being drafted and adopted.

The plan set forth these six points:

1. Establishment of a federal union of India embracing both what is known as British India and the 600 princely states of India; the union government to have control of foreign affairs, defence and communications and the power to raise money for those purposes.

2. A central executive branch and an All-India legislature. Any major question before the legislature would have to have a majority of the whole legislature for passage and also a majority of each of the two major parties in the legislature — the predominately Hindu Congress party and the Moslem League.

3. All other subjects of government — the residuary power — to be vested in the provinces.

4. The princely states also to retain all powers not ceded to the union.

5. Permission for the provinces to form regional groups which likewise would have executive branches and legislatures. Each regional government would determine the subjects of its common administration.

6. Inclusion in both the union and regional constitutions provisions under which any provincial legislature could, by majority vote, call for reconsideration of the constitution after the first 10 years and at intervals of 10 years afterward.

You MAY NEVER SELL GAS TO U. S. TOURISTS
but... CANADA'S TOURIST BUSINESS IS Your BUSINESS TOO...
THE MONEY SPENT by American tourists flows to you—to every Canadian. Last year alone the revenue from the tourist traffic amounted to more than one hundred and sixty million dollars. Think of what that extra income meant—filtering directly or indirectly into every community. Think, too, to what proportions this tourist industry will grow in the years to come if this summer, in spite of prevailing difficulties, we make our American guests truly welcome. Let's send them home singing the praises of Canada as a holiday land and of us as a friendly, neighbourly people.
Here's what we're telling OUR GOOD NEIGHBOURS: Your Canadian Travel Bureau, formed to protect and promote your interests in Canada's tourist industry, is running advertising in leading U.S. newspapers reminding American readers of the beauty and diversity of Canada's tourist attractions. At the same time it is tactfully reminding them that in view of travel and accommodation difficulties this summer, they will be wise to make reservations ahead.
Give them a friendly CANADIAN welcome!

History of Christ Church Given At Jr. AYPA Meeting

The history of Christ Church and the parish was the subject of an address by Rev. Everett P. Smith at the Wednesday meeting of Christ Church Junior A.Y.P.A. The lecture, which was illustrated by slides, covered the history of the church from 1865 to the present time.

In the early 1860's, the only Anglican church in Belleville was St. Thomas (which is celebrating its 125th anniversary in June) on the east hill. Through the work of an active young curate, Rev. Septimus Jones, the congregation of that church became so large that it was necessary to split the parish. It was decided to build another church on the west side of the river, and the first Christ Church was built on West Moira Street, just north of the present Corrigan-O'Brien Funeral Home. Mr. Jones became the first minister when the church was completed in 1865. The building was almost as large as the present one, seating 500 persons. It was the first church in the diocese of Ontario to have all pews rent-free, a practice that has continued to the present day. Mr. Jones left in 1869, and was followed by the Revs. H. Caulfield (an elderly gentleman with a very weak voice) and R. S. Forneri.

Two Parishes Set Up

It was during the incumbency of Canon Forneri that the parishes of St. John and St. George were established. St. John's Church was built at the corner of West Bridge and Yeomans, where the entrance to the Fair Grounds is presently located. Later moved to Isabel and W. Bridge, it was finally torn down and rebuilt in Point Anne. St. Georges was built at the corners of Emily, Albion and Station Streets in 1875, with Rev. Mr. Mockbridge as minister. It was similar in appearance to the building of today, except for a foundation having been added.

In 1880, during the ministry of Rev. W. C. Clarke, Christ Church was burned to the ground, shortly after the installation of a new pipe organ. The present building was completed within a year at the cost of $20,000 and was dedicated on Easter Sunday, 1881. The hand-pumped organ was situated (with the choir) in the upper loft to the rear of the church. Mr. Clarke, worn by his strenuous activities connected with the building of the new church, took ill in 1882, and died a year later at the age of 57.

Several ministers followed Mr. Clarke: Revs. Mr. Sybil, Samuel Dawes (whose ministry was marked by the quality of the music, including a male choir of 40 voices), Hutton and W. B. Heatty.

Rev. Blagrave Here 13 Years.

The longest ministry was that of Rev. R. C. Blagrave, an active rector who more than doubled the number of names on the parish roll. When he arrived in 1905, there were 160 families registered in the parish: when he left thirteen years later, there were 350. There are now over 600 families on the register. In 1910 the Parish Hall was built, and the church itself was renovated in 1914. After the war (during the tenure of Rev. W. G. Swayne), a new rectory was purchased. A hand-carved oak altar was built in memory of the dead of the war, which was dedicated in 1919. With the Rev. C. E. Clarke as rector in the late 'twenties, one of the largest A.Y.P.A.'s was functioning. Mr. Clarke was followed by Mr. Wright, who (despite the depression) eliminated the heavy debts, and left the church beautifully redecorated. Mr. Wright, the twelfth minister to the congregation, became the second to die in office. Mr. Smith closed his lecture with the work of the present rector, Mr. J. G. Sparling.

Historic Views Presented.

Several interesting historic views of Belleville were presented, the most interesting, perhaps, being those that showed the present site of the church (like most of the West Hill, an open field); Front Street, with horse-car lines visible; the old Collegiate; and South Front Street, showing Victoria Park as an island.

Mr. Smith, who is curate of Christ Church, was introduced by Mr. Sparling, and thanked by the president, Ed. Waterhouse. The program included several notices, including those announcing a costume ball next Wednesday and the A.Y.P.A. district rally in Picton the following week.

Women's Activities

ALBERT COLLEGE WOMAN'S GUILD

The regular meeting of the Albert College Woman's Guild was held Wednesday afternoon in the Manor with the President, Mrs. E. N. Baker in the chair and conducting the devotional period. Following the business period the slate of officers for 1946-47 was presented by the head of the nominating committee, Miss E. Corbett.

The speaker for the afternoon, was Mrs. H. E. Fairfield, who gave a very humorous recitation on bringing up of several children by a rather uneducated father. Two musical numbers, "La Serenata" and "When the Roses Bloom" were presented by Mrs. G. E. Currie, violinist; Mrs. H. S. Robbins, soprano, and Mrs. M. P. Duff, pianist. At the close of the meeting tea was served.

The following is the slate of officers for the coming year.

President, Mrs. E. N. Baker.

Vice President, Mrs. B. Howard.

Secretary, Mrs. Clinton MacDonald

Assist. Secretary, Mrs. A. H. Fisher.

Treasurer, Mrs. S. J. Hibbard

Assist. Treasurer, Mrs. R. A. Elliott.

Pianist, Mrs. M. P. Duff

Assist. Pianist, Mrs. T. K. Franklin.

Bridge Street Church Representatives: Mrs. H. W. Ackerman, Mrs. W. H. Lattimer.

Holloway Street Church Representatives: Mrs. E. M. Hubbs, Mrs. A. C. Campbell.

Tabernacle Church Representatives: Mrs. C. O. Greenleaf, Mrs. L. Hicks.

Program Committee: Mrs. W. S. Northcott, Mrs. H. M. Francis, Mrs. G. E. Currie, Mrs. H. S. Robbins, Mrs B. Howard, Mrs. H. B. Fetterly, Mrs. C. L. Hyde.

Refreshment Committee: Mrs. F. Moon, Mrs. E. Corbett, Mrs. F. B. Foley, Mrs. F. Countryman, Mrs. W. J. McMillan, Mrs. G. A. Bonisteel.

Representative Albert College Alumni—Mrs. A. R. Schryver.

ROSLIN W.I.

Roslin.—The May meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. Meeks with eleven ladies and five children present.

The President, Mrs. H. Chisholm, presided.

Mrs. W. White, district director, reporter on the executive meeting she attended in Belleville recently where plans were made for the Annual which is to be held in Plainfield the latter part of May. Some discussion followed re Daylight Saving Time and it was decided to hold the meetings at 2.30 Daylight Saving Time.

The leader, Mrs. F. Gray, gave a very interesting paper on the motto, "Is their a difference between housekeeping and homemaking?" Miss A. Wilson read a paper on "The duties of a Farmer's Wife".

The leader conducted a musical quiz. The singing of God Save The King, brought the meeting to a close after which the hostess and her assistants served refreshments.

YOUNG WOMEN'S GUILD

The Young Women's Guild of Emmanuel Church held a bazaar and tea, Thursday afternoon in the Bible School rooms.

The fancy-work and home-cooking table was very pretty in its yellow and green streamers and was under the supervision of Mrs. W. Wright.

Receiving the guests and inviting them into the tea room was Mrs. T. S. Russell.

The tea room was very attractive with the head table presenting a pretty picture with its ivory lace cloth centred with a white crocheted basket with pink and white snapdragons. Grouped around were smaller tables with dainty white cloths centred with vases of snapdragons.

Presiding at the tea table was Mrs. W. Dennis.

Serving the guests was Mrs. F. Clarke. Replenishing the tables was Mrs. J. Gannon.

In spite of the inclement weather the affair was declared to have been a pleasant one with gratifying results.

HOLLOWAY ST. W.A.

In spite of inclement weather the ladies of Holloway Street Church turned out in goodly numbers on Thursday afternoon for their regular meeting. Mrs. M. B. Weese, 59 Cedar Street, kindly opened her home to the ladies for the meeting which was very much appreciated. Mrs. J. E. Shortt, the president was in charge of the business period. Mrs. B. M. Moorman and Mrs. L. Buck were chosen as delegates for the W.A. Convention to be held at Albury on May 23. The group leaders, Mrs. L. Buck and Mrs. O. Denyes, then took charge. Mrs. S. Lloyd and Mrs. A. M. Leavens conducted the devotional period during which Mrs. S. P. Hagerman delighted all with two solos, "You Can Smile", and "Serving My King".

Mrs. G. Dobbs introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. W. P. Youdale, who interested all with two lovely stories, "The White Flower of Happiness", which showed that money and wealth alone cannot buy happiness and poverty does not bar one from gaining it. The second story was taken from facts and was about the Church of the Redeemer and how a Negro painter was given a church window to make and because he had so much hatred in his heart toward the white people, thinking he could show revenge, he made the Madonna and Babe with black faces, but on the day of dedication the sun shone through the window and lighted up the face of the Madonna and Babe with such brilliancy that the Negro was sorry and ashamed and showed to all that Jesus came into the world to save everyone no matter what the color of his skin. A vote of thanks was extended to the speaker by Mrs. Chas. Perkins. Dainty refreshments were served by the members of the group.

TABERNACLE W.M.S.

On Tuesday afternoon, in the ladies' parlor of Tabernacle United Church, the members of the W.M.S. were hostesses to a delegation from the Foxboro Auxiliary, when more than forty ladies gathered to enjoy a program on the subject of Community Friendship.

Mrs. J. Ross, president of Tabernacle Auxiliary, was in charge.

During the business period 22 members responded to the Roll Call, and the Treasurer reported $94.75 raised since the beginning of 1946. Mesdames W. B. May and F. Jarrell gave interesting report from the Presbyterial held in Trenton churches recently, after which Mrs. J. Houston on behalf of the Tabernacle Auxiliary cordially welcomed the Foxboro ladies.

During a devotional period presented by the Foxboro Auxiliary, Mrs. W. Simmons recited a short poem, "The Lord Needs Me", as the Call to Worship; and on behalf of the visitors voiced their gratitude for the privilege of accepting Tabernacle hospitality, saying that in this post-war time she hoped the visiting practice would be revived and thus extend community friendship among the churches.

Mrs. Shorten led in prayer; Mrs. G. C. Shorey read a Psalm and Mrs. W. Rombough delighted all present by singing with guitar accompaniment.

Mrs. Simmons closed the period with another poem, "Spring, Summer, Autumn, Winter".

Mrs. Kilbank, of Holloway Street Auxiliary, ably introduced Mrs. Perkins, who spoke on "Friendship". She said: "Some things never are out of date. Friendship is one of them. It is the crucial need among nations and societies today. 'Loneliness is the darkest sorrow, Friendship the brightest blessing.' A friend is the first person who comes in when the whole world gets out. Jesus Christ was the world's ideal Friend. His Friendship was intimate, universal, redemptive. As His followers, we fail immeasurably in producing anything remotely resembling His example."

Mrs. E. Tummon feeling rendered the solo "My Task", which was much enjoyed by all.

Appreciation of the fine program presented by the Foxboro ladies and of the thought-provoking address by Mrs. Perkins was expressed by Mrs. H. Froats.

Delicious refreshments were served bringing to a close a very profitable and enjoyable afternoon.

HOME OF MRS. KELLEY SCENE OF MEETING

The joint meeting of the Centenary W.A. and W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Judson Kelley on Thursday last instead of Mrs. Kells as reported in Wednesday's issue.

STIRLING

W. M. S. Hears Rev. A. Laverty

Stirling.—The members of St. Paul's W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. P. V. Helliwell on Tuesday, with Mrs. H. David presiding.

Following the opening exercises, plans were made for the June Mother and Baby meeting. Miss D. Caldwell read the correspondence and the Community Friendship group reported 25 calls made. Mrs. A. Armstrong gave a paper on 'Building Temperance in the Home", and said the barriers which used to prevent young people from getting strong drink have been swept away. Most parents are aware that the former methods of Temperance instruction will not work today. The larger way in which we approach this problem, the more permanent will be the results which we achieve.

The treasurer reported over $50 as the month's collection. Reporting on Peace, the Secretary of this department said when the peoples of the world can accept Jesus Christ as their Guide, then and then only will we have hope of lasting peace. We have seen what hate can do, let us see what love and consideration for others will do.

Rev. A. M. Laverty addressed the group, on Dr. A. Schweitzer of Africa.

The W.M.S. appreciate the time taken by Mr. Laverty to prepare and deliver this outstanding address.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. J. L. Good, Mrs. Maynes and Mrs. Yateman and was centred around the theme of "Mothers". A duet, "Jesus Took My Burden", sung by Mrs. H. West and Mrs. B. Miller was thoroughly enjoyed.

Following the closing exercises lunch was served and a vote of thanks to the hostess, the guest speaker and program committee was proposed by Mrs. A. Armstrong.

Mr. Gordon Barclay Addresses Stirling Young Married Group

Stirling.—St. Paul's Young Married's Club met at the parsonage Wednesday evening at 8.15. Devotions were conducted by the minister and general business discussed. X. P. Mayhew delighted the group with two songs accompanying himself on the guitar. The speaker of the evening, J. Gordon Barclay, administrator of the Belleville General Hospital delivered a most interesting and instructive talk on the Blue Cross Plan for Hospital care which captured the full attention of all present and evoked numerous questions and general discussion. It was unanimously agreed that the group should seek the benefits of the Plan as a group and the secretary was instructed to communicate with the director of the plan immediately in order that those members of the group wishing to enroll in the plan might do so by 15th of June.

A hearty vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Mrs. Walter-Elliott and seconded by Mrs. Harry Vandervoort and enthusiastically carried.

Refreshments, which had been prepared by the committee under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yateman were served, and a vote of thanks to the hostess was expressed by Mrs. Perrin Statia.

STIRLING

Music Recital Given by Pupils

Stirling, May 17 (Special) — A very interesting music recital by the pupils of the Mrs. T. F. Townsend was given at "Elmcourt", the home of Dr. and Mrs. P. V. Helliwell, Stirling on Wednesday evening with Mrs. T. F. Townsend and Mrs. P. V. Helliwell acting as joint hostesses to the parents and pupils.

Piano solos were given by Carolyn Rollins, Rodney Brazill, June Dunham, E. Graham, Isobel Brazill, Ruth Welbourn, Helen Stapley, Vivial Welbourn, Mae Sarles, Patsy Ayrhart, Barbara Brazill, and Helen Johnstone while June Dunham and Mrs. Townsend, R. Welbourn and H. Stapley, E. Graham and Mrs. Townsend rendered delightful piano duets.

Vocal solos were taken by Carolyn Rollins and Patsy Ayrhart and readings were given by Isobel Brazill.

Following the musical, the pupils enjoyed a contest and the hostesses served dainty refreshments.

TRENTON

Parochial Guild Of St. George's Holds Tea, Sale

Trenton—Group A, St. George's Parochial Guild held a very enjoyable and successful Spring tea and sale on Wednesday afternoon last at the home of Mrs. J. H. Kinney, 203 Victoria Ave.

Bowls of apple blossoms added charm and fragrance to the spacious living room.

In the tearoom, the table was spread with a cutwork table cloth and held a lovely centrepiece of white Spring blossoms. Flanking the flowers were crystal holders holding tall pink tapers.

Receiving with the hostess, Mrs. J. H. Kinney, were Mrs. A. S. McConnell, and Mrs. William White, president of Group A.

Pouring tea were Mrs. R. Taylor, Mrs. Claude Graham, Mrs. G. Bonter, Miss B. Armstrong. Serving were: Mrs. Don Brick, Mrs. Chivas, Mrs. A. Johnson, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. McColl, Mrs. Bates. Replenishing were: Mrs. Jack Ahearn, Mrs. Harold Weller, Mrs. Francis Little.

At the apron and novelty table were: Mrs. J. Knapton, Mrs. E. Bartlett, Mrs. Ernest Almey, Mrs. P. Riley.

Home-cooking table: Mrs. J. Uttley, Mrs. Jack Davis, Mrs. Harold Meyers, Mrs. Gerwood, Mrs. Learmouth.

The "Corner Store" was in charge of Mrs. Ross Hardcastle.

Assisting in the kitchen were: Mrs. Bob McFaul, Mrs. Omer Smith, Mrs. Lloyd Weese.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

"Tipping" Hospital Nurses?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please advise me about tipping the nurses in a maternity hospital?

A. B.

It's impossible to give any general rules about giving presents, ("giving presents" is, in these circumstances, a more graciously suitable expression than "tipping") to nurses, because hospital authorities have varying viewpoints, and even rules, about this. In some hospitals there is an adamant rule against nurses accepting any kind of presents, and if a patient doesn't know or does not respect this rule, the nurse is required to turn in the present to the hospital office and the present is returned to the patient. In other hospitals, nurses are forbidden to accept a money-gift, but are permitted to accept the quite customary gifts of a purse, lingerie, handkerchiefs, gloves, and so forth. In other hospitals there is no attempt at supervision about this. So the only thing for a patient to do is to inquire about this present-procedure, or determine the custom or rule by trial.

A Guest at Wedding Breakfast

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A dear friend of mine is to be married very soon, and she has told me that I am to be invited to the wedding breakfast after the church ceremony. Now I've never been to a wedding breakfast, and I wish you would tell me just what it is, and just what is expected of a guest on such an occasion. (It has not yet been decided whether the breakfast is to be held in a hotel or at the bride's home.)

What is the correct thing for me to say to the bride and groom? To the bride's parents and to the groom's parents? Do I kiss the bride only, or is it permissible to kiss the groom also?

C. N.

The typical wedding breakfast is really a luncheon, the meal served at the reception following a noon wedding. The service may be "sit-down", with all the guests seated at small tables and served with a luncheon in courses. Or if space is limited, it may be a special table for the bridal party and for the parents and relatives.

When you arrive, you will be directed where to leave your wrap. Then you take your place in the line of guests waiting to be received. First you will be greeted by the bride's mother, who is the hostess of the occasion, and perhaps also by the bride's father, the host (although the bride's father may prefer to circulate among the guests, rather than be in the receiving-line); the father and mother of the groom may be next in line; then the groom, and on his right, the bride; on the bride's right the maid of honor, and last the bridesmaids. (There are several variations of the receiving-line, so of course I can't be sure what your friend is planning.) As you pass along the receiving-line, you shake hands cordially with each member of the line. To the parents you make some gracious and appreciative comment about the wedding. As an intimate friend of the bride you naturally would kiss her affectionately and say something like this, "You look lovely, Polly dear, and I hope you will always be as happy as you are today!" A woman who is a relative or really close friend of the groom may kiss him and and say, "Congratulations, Bob. . . you've won a lovely bride, and I'm wishing every happiness for you both!" You greet the maid of honor and then the bridesmaids, and probably there will be time for only a few words. Your greetings completed, you proceed to an adjoining room where the wedding breakfast is being served. After the breakfast, the bride throws her bouquet among the bridesmaids, the bride and groom leave to change to travelling clothes, and the reception guests usually do not leave until the bride and groom have left for their honeymoon.

A Baby Thanks a Little Girl For Her Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A very dear friend of mine has just sent my new baby (a daughter) a lovely gift. She sent the gift in the name of her little girl, who is about two years old, and I wish you would please suggest how my thank-you note to her daughter should be written.

Helena.

Since the gift was sent in the name of her little girl, you might write the thank-you note in the name of your new daughter:

Dear Cynthia:

How kind you were to send me such a beautiful gift! The sacque you sent me is just what a baby like me wants. . .it's so comfy and snuggly and soft. And of course your experience told you that pink is my favorite color . . .my mother says it's my most becoming color, but you know how mothers are about such things! However, between you and me, I feel very proud as well as comfortable when I wear it.

I hope we're going to meet soon. . . even if I'm "just a baby" to you, I'm sure we're going to have fun growing up together.

My dearest love and thanks to you and your mother and father, and my mother and father join me in this.

Affectionately,

Nancy

Six O'Clock Earliest Hour For Wearing Tuxedo

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it correct to wear a tuxedo only in the evening? And if so, what is the earliest hour when it may properly be worn?

Bob

A tuxedo is informal evening wear. . .and it is not correct to wear it before six o'clock in the evening, at the earliest.

She Should Rise When Introduced

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me if a girl should rise when she is being introduced to another girl. I am a student in grammar school.

J. E.

Yes, a young girl should rise when she is being introduced to another girl.

How to Play "Dictionary"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Can you tell me how to play a paper-and-pencil game called "Dictionary?" From time to time in your column you have suggested various paper-and-pencil games, and so I thought you might know this one. I heard it mentioned some time ago, but haven't been able to find out how it's played. But since I have a special interest in words, the name "Dictionary" intrigued me.

Peter

"Dictionary" can be great fun, particularly if the players have word-imagination and ingenuity. Each player "makes up" an absurd word, the more ridiculous the better. The player writes it on a sheet of paper which he hands to the person sitting next to him (to right or left, as directed). This neighbor player makes up a definition for the word, invents a derivation for it, and concocts a psuedo-quotation containing the word. At the end of a specified time, the papers are collected and read aloud.

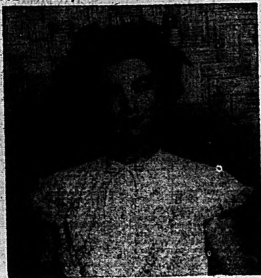
Vivid Personality Chases That Pale, Listless Feeling



Myrna Loy is as viva cious as she is Lovely

By HELEN FOLLETT

There are women who live in an atmosphere of splendid vitality. They get from life the full measure of zest and enjoyment. They are highly energized, find interesting work to do; that keeps them young through the years. They have charm and personality and, blessed with intelligence, they present a picture that is pleasing to the eye.

The secret of all this is courage, plus a mind that is not only alert and healthy, but which is constantly learning, learning how to get along happily with one's family, one's friends, the clerks at the store, the woman next door.

Vigorous Type

The vigorous type of woman never feels sorry for herself, no matter what happens. She does not demand attention. If her old man sits all evening with his nose in a book, she reads, too. She carries on gallantly. She is a good soldier.

It is a pity that more women do not realize how important it is to direct their emotional lives, to direct their thoughts along pleasant lines.

Morbidity Destructive

A morbid state of mind is an agent that destroys good looks, has a devastating effect upon the organs of the body. Many young women suffer from this affliction. They are listless, their eyes are dull, complexions pale.

It should be the ambition of every women to have a vivid personality. That can't be done if one whines and complains. Troubles and disappointments come into everyone's life. They have to be endured. Give way to them, brood about them, and you might as well give up the good-looks fight.

Some women enjoy nothing so much as dragging out sorrows of many years past, going over them, talking about them. It is sheer madness. Forget the yesterdays, unless they were pleasant ones. Live today. Live splendidly.

A smart slacks suit

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

HERE IS A smart slacks suit designed for pleasant lounging. The slacks are of black faille and disdain any fancy capers, for they are straight and slim, without harem drape or any of the fancy lines that mark so many lounging trousers. The jacket blouse is of music-print aqua faille. It has a simple turn-down collar, full sleeves with tight wrists and a surplice closing that ties in a softly knotted sash to one side.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Arms and the Woman

Now that the short sleeve period is approaching, we should take a look-see at arms. Those who possess graceful, shapely arms, with softly rounded elbows, are lucky. Even those may have their defects, since "goose flesh" is a common trouble. Arms of all conditions are subject to freckles, but we no longer consider these polka dots to be disfiguring. Sun worshipping goes on apace, year after year. It is better to have pep in your system, and a few freckles here and there, than to look pale and wan and have a lily-white skin.

Ideally formed arms are comparatively rare. Much can be done with those that do not qualify. Awkward arms can be made graceful; fat arms, slender; scrawny ones, plumpened. Improving the condition of the skin is merely a matter of scrubbing, massaging, oiling.

Angular arms, like thin legs, are not always ugly. Scrawny ones indicate malnutrition, and no amount of external treatment will create a more pleasing contour; adipose tissue must form a thicker upholstery. That is possible only by adding to the diet more fat-building food elements—starches, sweets and fats.

Deep breathing—with a view to expanding the chest and increasing circulation—combined with arm-swinging movements, will help if the arms are not downright bony. Stand tall, breath down into your tummy, swing the folded hands—one at a time—high, wide and handsome.

To reduce over-developed arms, exercise must be vigorous enough to produce perspiration. Swinging Indian clubs is recommended by gym instructors. Chinning the bar will make arm muscles work hard. On hard-working muscles fat cells will not abide.

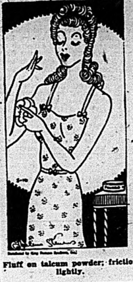
Massage will aid the good work. Results come slowly, so one must persevere. Scrub the arms vigorously with soap and water; rinse with warm water and dry. Anoint the hands with cocoa-butter.

Stretch the arm full length. Then, with fingers and thumb of the other hand, twist and turn the flesh gently in all directions, meanwhile moving the arm around its axis at the shoulder joint. Pinch and pat to bring the blood streams to the surface. Finish with an up and down stroking with flattened fingers.

Dip large turkish towels in hot water, wring out slightly, wrap around the arms. This heating treatment will help the elimination of fat. Follow with ice-cold compresses to give firmness to the flesh. Fluff on talcum, friction lightly, go to bed with a feeling that you have done your beauty duties.

This treatment will improve the condition of the skin if it has taken on tiny red points. It will also refine and beautify the skin generally.

Don't overlook elbows, the most neglected part of the feminine frame. Give them plenty of cream and a brisk thumbing.



Fluff on talcum powder; friction lightly.

The DOW AWARD

PRESENTED TO

Mrs. O. Huneault

WHOSE COOL BRAVERY SAVED SIX YOUNG LIVES

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Victory Bond. Winners are selected by The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Montreal daily papers.

IN her farm home, seven miles from North Bay Ontario, Mrs. Huneault was cooking dinner. Suddenly, she smelled smoke . . . smoke that quickly became flames sweeping through the frame house. Six of her children were in bed with measles . . . yet the mother, quickly and coolly, tackled the difficult job of getting the frightened youngsters outside.

Repeatedly she braved the flames and suffocating smoke. It was no easy task, for the children kept trying to follow her back into the blazing house. Less than two minutes after the last child was rescued, the roof crashed down. The house was gone, but the children were safe — thanks to the efforts of this brave Canadian mother.

We are proud to pay tribute to Mrs. O. Huneault through the presentation of The Dow Award.

HERE COMES QUAKER
WITH A BANG! BANG!

Breakfast is perfect with "WHEAT SHOT FROM GUNS" says Joan Leslie starring in "Janie Gets Married" A Warner Bros. Picture

JOAN: Hello there, Mr. Quaker! They tell me your wheat shot from guns is the pick of the breakfast table everywhere.

QUAKER MAN: Well Joan, it's true that popularity polls report Quaker Puffed Wheat "Sparkies" are a bigger favorite today than ever before. Good reason, too—because when we explode choice sun-ripened wheat from our giant guns—BANG! BANG! out come delicious breakfast grains 8 times normal size, so tender and crisp everyone loves them.

JOAN: They're the most appetizing breakfast grains to look at I ever saw.

QUAKER MAN: Yes Joan, Quaker Puffed Wheat "Sparkies" with some milk and fruit makes a breakfast de luxe. So easily digested, too, and gives quick food energy! No other breakfast of whole wheat nourishment is nearly so delicious!

15 Million Dollar Sport City Is Planned for Mexico City

Mexico, May 17 — (CP) — A $15,000,000 "sport city" — including a hockey rink where Canadian and United States teams may play exhibition games — forms a pretentious plank in Mexico's bid for post-war sports recognition.

Now in the process of construction, the diversified playground covering 10 square blocks includes such wrinkles as a giant swimming pool with artificial beach and machine-made waves, the world's largest bull-fighting arena and facilities for football, jai-alai, boxing, wrestling, basketball, track, bowling and tennis.

Carlos Sayden, general manager, says 42,000,000 pesos (about $8,400,000) has been spent on the city, which will stress the international aspects of sport. The bull-ring is capable of seating 47,000 — several thousand more than the famous bull plazas at Madrid and Barcelona.

Mexico's first ice hockey arena, seating 3,500 is expected to be ready next fall. It will be inaugurated with ice shows, a new departure for Mexico, possible exhibition matches involving Canadian teams and it is expected experts from Canada and the United States will be asked to teach Mexicans hockey fundamentals.

Leading British, Spanish, Russian and Argentine soccer teams will be invited on competition of the soccer bowl, also to be used for rugby and track and field. Soccer is Mexico's No. 1 competitive sport.

Plans for the swimming pool, still in the blueprint stage, call for a 100-acre layout, partly financed by a club with accommodation for 50,000 dues-paying members.

Baseball will not be included. Jorge Pasquel, Mexican League president, plans a separate 'baseball city,' including a stadium seating 50,000.

22 CANDIDATES FOR KING'S PLATE ENTER FOR TRIAL

Race Will be Prelude to King's Plate to be Run May 25th

Toronto, May 16. (CP)—Barring late scratches the King's Plate trial on Saturday at Woodbine Park will be a two-section event, split to accommodate 22 hopefuls.

This became apparent today when of the 26 hopefuls eligible for His Majesty's 50 guineas wit $10,000 added in the King's Plate proper the following Saturday only four had not been entered for the trial.

All Plate candidates conceded a change for any part of the King's Plate money have been nominated for Saturday's prelude to the 87th renewal of the Dominion's most famous horse race.

So for the first time the customers will have a chance to see their Plate choices in racing action even though the trial distance, at six furlongs, is three furlongs less than the big closing-day event at the Woodbine Spring meeting.

A split event is the usual thing in the King's Plate trial ever since it was inaugurated three years ago and the Ontario Jockey Club puts up $2,500 in purse money for each section.

Topping trial entries is the Parkwood Stable's Kingarvie, Winterbrook favorite to take the Plate on the strength of his great 1945 form when he was the two-year-old champion. Prepping for the trial sprint he turned a handy four furlong in 48 3-5 seconds.

Entered with the chestnut champion of a year ago is his stablemate, the bay filly, Zabolya.

The Hatch estate named two also, highly-touted Bluesweep and Palmero while the Halton Brooke stable entered Noddy's Number and Ninaki. Mrs. F. Merrill has two in Washington Sky and Princess Nell.

The Medway stable named Khabula and Fast Ice and trainer R. K. Hodgson will decide today whether to leave Mrs. Irene Webster's Double Briar in the trial.

The west is represented by the Filly Sioris, owned by Dr. F. G. Salisbury, and Quebec has Gallant VI another filly owned and bred by C. H. Conyers.

Country Club Golfers Open Season Sunday

With the course rounding into excellent shape, a large number of members turned out over the weekend at the Quinte Country Club to tune up their game.

The men's section will have its official send-off on Sunday, May 19th., when the President vs. Vice-President match will be played. President Clare Morgan is quite confident that he can repeat his win of last year over the team captained by Vice-President Ted Hughes.

The first foursome will tee off at 9:30 a.m. sharp. The draw will appear in tomorrow's issue of the Ontario Intelligencer, and post entries will be received. As an incentive to good scores, a ball sweepstake will be run off in conjunction with the event.

Club activities this year will comprise the usual club competitions, weekly sweepstake competitions, inter-club friendly matches (of which a number will be held this year), team competitions with other clubs, and in addition an annual field day will be instituted which will be open to members of other golf clubs in this district which are members of the Canadian Golf Association.

SPORT SHORTS FROM BRITAIN

By JACK SULLIVAN
